NEW LINES PLANNED

Railway Man Announces That He Will Connect Toronto and Ottawa, and Will Put In a Steam Road From Toronto to Niagara Falls—May Use Electricity Later On—Work to Commence Soon.

Toronto, July 19.—Mr. William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway, and the dominating figure in the electrical situation in Ontario, returned home yesterday. During the past two months Mr. Mackenzie has been in the old country money markets, and has sold debenture stocks for two portions of the Canadian Northern Railway system. The first was an offering of £1,200,000 of four per cent. debenture stock, guaranteed by the two western provinces which the new lines are designed to benefit. These were sold at 97 1-2. The second was an issue of £800,000 four per cent. debenture stock, which sold at 92, and it is in this last issue that public interest in this province was centered. The prospectus of the loan stated that the proceeds of the issue would be applied towards the construction of a line from Toronto to Niagara Falls, with an extension from Toronto to Port Hope, Belleville and Smith's Falls, to Ottawa to join existing lines in Montreal and Quebec via Hawkesbury.

At his home last evening Mr. Mackenzie said that work upon the line to Niagara Falls would be commenced in the near future. Mr. Mackenzie said it was to be expected that the new line would be a steam railway at first, and that a part of the Electrical Development Co.'s right of way would be used.

SAFEGUARD THE LINES

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Ottawa, July 19.—The Railway Commission has issued an order directing railways before Jan. 1, 1911, to fence both sides of all right of way to the height of four feet six inches, with swing gates at crossing and cattle guards at each side of all highway crossings. This time limit applies to remote districts. Through settled localities the precautions must be taken by Oct. 15 next.

FOWLER'S TORIC LENSES

My! How the orders did come in as soon as we told you that we were in a position to grind these lenses, at a reasonable cost. They came in almost faster than we could handle them, but we don't believe at that that any customer was kept waiting as long as if we had to send out of the city for them. We are making about the prettiest lenses that can be imagined, and making them right, and we appreciate very much the unanimity with which our customers all over the country started to send in their order for this new style of Toric Lenses. # TEN PEOPLE DROWNED BY UPSET OF SAILBOAT

Sloop Capsized in a Sudden Squall and Passengers Lost Their Lives---Drowning Accidents in Elk Lake and Toronto--Three Are Victims of Disaster in Rochester---Other Drownings.

New York, July 19.—Ten persons were drowned yesterday afternoon when the excursion sloop Roxana, carrying 23 passengers capsized by a sudden squall in lower New York Bay, midway between Coney Island and Hoffman Island.

The captain and the twelve survivors were picked up under great difficulties in a rough and choppy sea.

The tug Lamont, which happened at the time to be the only other vessel within sight in waters usually crowded with pleasure craft and motor-boats, performed the rescue.

The Roxana, with her skipper, Captain Samuelson, was chartered at Ulmer Beach, Long Island, yesterday afternoon, by a party of Swedes from Brooklyn for a sail across the bay to Midland Beach, Staten Island, and back. The first leg of the voyage was made without mishap, and all hands pil'd ashore to make merry. Beer was served, and some of the survivors could give but a hazy account of the accident.

Drowning at Toronto.

Toronto, July 19.—In trying to recover his hat, after he had tumbled out of punt on the Don River near Water street, Frank ("Curly") Toms, was drowned at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Although several employes of the Grand Trunk were called quickly to the spot, and one of his companions could swim adeptly, no practical effort was made to rescue him, and he was not taken from the water for nearly half an hour, when two men, John Parker, 41 Cherry street, and Fred Hardy, 97 Cherry street dived for him.

The Grand Trunk men tried to fish him out with a pole and the companion that could swim and who had fallen from the same boat, crawled out on the bank and remained watching proceedings.

Drowned In Elk Lake.

Toronto, July 19.—"Hector Mason, 28 Edward street, Toronto, drowned last night in Elk Lake. Body not recovered." (Signed) H. N. Cockburn.

The above telegram was received in Toronto at noon yesterday. The police were notified and on going to the address mentioned, were informed that no person of that name had been residing there. Investigations by the police as to where Mason's friends reside have so far been fruitless.

It is believed that the deceased was J. Hector Mason, a mechanic who for some time was connected with gasoline engine works in the city and who lived on Trinity square and Jarvis street. His wife died some three years ago, but he leaves a child.

A Brave Rescue.

Kingston, July 19.—William Gowan, the 8-year-old son of James Gowan of the Montreal Transportation Co., was sitting on the pier of Cataraqui Bridge fishing, when he fell into the river. He was disappearing for the third time when Ernest Stanridge, an employe of the military college, sprang over the railing of the bridge into the water and got him.

Three Men Drown.

Rochester, N.Y., July 19.—Three Rochester men of the Holland settlement in Brighton, were drowned Saturday night in Sodus Bay, off Sodus Point. They are Abram and John De Bruyan and Jacob Dewindt. The three men went to the bay Saturday night to fish

PETERBOROUGH GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED IN OTTAWA

Annie Coughlin, of This City, Left Her Home in Ottawa and There Is No Trace of Her---Her Trunk and Property Were Left Behind---No Reason For Her Departure.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Ottawa, Ont., July 19.—Annie Coughlin, domestic, who belongs to Peterborough, is missing from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Phillips, Rochester street, where she has worked and lived since July, 1908.

While it is said she is in the city, she disappeared from the Phillips' residence rather strangely. A week ago yesterday she told Mrs. Phillips she was going for a walk and did so. She has not returned since and has not sent for her trunk and belongings which are at Phillips. The girl got part of her pay, a small amount in advance, but there has been no trouble and there is nothing to indicate why she left so hurriedly and without any explanation.

Friends say she came from Peterborough, Ontario, that her mother is dead, but that she has a brother there. It is stated that she was seen in the business part of the city on Wednesday last.

PAY DAY AT GLACE BAY PASSED VERY QUIETLY

Glace Bay, N.S., July 19.—James Simpson, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, considers it of vital importance that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, should be in the strike district and the following message was forwarded last evening to P. M. Draper, secretary of Trades and Labor Congress, Ottawa: "Minister of Labor should hasten to scene of strike, not to interfere, but to merely observe. Military accepting favors from company and exceeding their duties in the interests of the company. Strikers are provoked, but remain peaceful."

A manoeuvre of the military Saturday night brought forth adverse criticism of Chief of Police McIsaac and hundreds of citizens. It was about 11 o'clock when men, women, and children were preparing to make their way homeward, that an armed picket of forty men from the R.C.R. marched down upon the town and, with glittering bayonets attached to rifles, made their way through the crowded streets to the business section of the town. The pickets only remained a few minutes, but feeling ran high and had they stayed there might have been trouble.

A report had reached the officers of the coal company during the day that an attempt was going to be made to blow up the company's offices, but there was not the slightest trouble.

Chief McIsaac said he never remembered as quiet a pay-night, and not to make an arrest broke all records. This was due to the saloons being closed at the request of the U.M.W. Over 7,000 men, both U.M.W. and P.W.A., received their wages for two week's work. Over $300,000 was paid out and the tour of pay clerks was carried out with all the pomp of a military review.

At 2 p.m. from fifteen to twenty pay clerks left the company's office in Glace Bay with their heavily-laden tin boxes, and accompanied by a squad of the company's police and a bodyguard of soldiers proceeded to the station, where a special train was waiting. The money was disposed of in less than two hours.

The offices were not only guarded by special police, but at every door a soldier was on guard, while walking up and down the sidewalk were soldiers armed with rifles and bayonets.

The only incident that caused the gathering of a crowd was the arrival of seven colored would-be miners from Barbados. The pickets of the U.M.W. after a little persuasion induced them to go to strike headquarters to register. The colored men said they were not aware there was a strike, and were willing to leave town.

There was a lively scene at the police station Saturday night when 24 strikers, mostly Belgians, were arrested by the company and landed in jail. The men went to the office for pay and writs of capias were served on them for alleged non-payment of passage money. The U.M.W. went bonds for the men.

Good Output at Inverness.

Montreal, July 19.—A despatch received here Saturday by W. D. Barclay, general manager of Mackenzie and Mann, eastern lines, states that on Saturday at the Inverness mines they secured on output equalling 75 per cent. of the normal quantity before the strike. He takes this to indicate that the strike at that point at least is as good as broken.

Barber Fined $28.05 For Shaving A Man After Prohibited Hours

Twenty-eight dollars and five cents was the fine imposed by Magistrate Dumble this morning upon Mr. David Hall, barber, for having shaven a man on Friday night after eight o'clock contrary to the by-law. Mr. Hall will appeal the magistrate's judgment.

Geo. Campbell, a barber with Mr. Irwin on Charlotte street, said he knew a man named G. H. Hill. He travelled for the Bell Telephone Co. He called at Irwin's barber shop on Friday night at 8:15 o'clock, and then went to Mr. Hall's shop. There were two men ahead of him and he sat down to wait. Witness saw him coming out about nine o'clock and Hill was then clean shaved.

"When he called at our shop I told him that it was too late to have any work done. He replied that it was a strange fact that he could not get cleaned up in the town and went up to Mr. Hall's. I saw him reading a paper waiting his turn. I called up the secretary of the Barbers' Union, and he came down. We saw Hill coming out of Hall's shop and it must have been after nine o'clock."

To Mr. Hall, Mr. Campbell stated that he was positive that Hill was shaved in that shop after eight o'clock. He had a good beard before he went in and on coming out he was clean shaved. Witness did not know whether Mr. Hall had, himself, performed the operation. The rule in a barber shop is to close the door at eight o'clock.

Mr. Hall stated his door was not locked at eight o'clock. Not a shop in town does that. There were five men to be shaved when the clock struck. A young fellow came in after eight o'clock to wait for a friend but he did not get shaved. We were through with the men at twenty minutes after eight. Witness denied Mr. Campbell's story of a man coming in at 8:15 o'clock.

Another barber said: "I met Geo. Campbell on Charlotte street on Friday night about twenty minutes to nine o'clock. I saw a man who gave his name as Hill coming out shortly afterwards. I thought he was freshly shaved. When Campbell telephoned me I was still working. I went as soon as I was through. It was about 8:25 when I received the message. I shaved a man and then went down to Charlotte street."

"Well Mr. Hall I think the evidence is against you," the magistrate remarked when the chief stated the case was all in. The law had been made by the barbers for their own protection and it should not be broken. "Twenty-five dollars and costs and I hope the barbers will take a lesson from this." The total was $28.05. Mr. Hall asked if he could bring an appeal against the decision and was told that he could. He said that such was his intention.

A DOUBLE—A TRIPLE—VICTORY

In the session of Parliament before the last general election and during he campaign the smooth-bore politicians of the Conservative party and the pop-gun-party journals were eloquent and persistent in denouncing the Ross Rifle. The Liberal Government had encouraged the establishment of a rifle factory in Canada—the first of its kind—to manufacture Canadian arms for Canadian soldiers. Most determined efforts were made to prove that the Ross Rifle was a failure and no good. Never has any attack been more completely discredited as it should have been, for the Ross Rifle is the service arm of the Canadian militia. This rifle has been declared to be the best in the world and it needs only its own record to establish such a claim for a purely Canadian rifle. At the Bisley rifle meeting of 1907, the Ross Rifle broke all records and created enthusiasm among riflemen. This year and only within the past few days it has added to its triumphs. In the hands of Canadian sharp-shooters it has carried off the two great prizes, involving a third, at the great rifle meet at Bisley. In competition with the crack shots of the Motherland and the Dominions beyond the seas, the Canadian contingent, armed with the Canadian rifle, have captured the McKinnon cup, a competition conducted under, practically, actual service conditions and at long ranges—800, 900 and 1,000 yards; and also the Kolapore cup, which is shot for at shorter ranges—300, 500 and 600 yards. Thus it is seen that the Ross Rifle at close or long range, showed itself as the best arm for general service at the great shooting tournament of the Empire. It has showed itself capable of taking a foremost place and helping the sturdy steadiness of Canadian marksmen to gather the greenest and largest of the laurels won and conferred at Bisley. This double victory from the double victors—the Canadian marksmen and the Canadian rifle carries with it a third triumph. By compiling the highest aggregate scores in the McKinnon and Kolapore cup contests, the Canadian team wins the Jubilee Challenge Cup. This is a new cup specially donated by the National Rifle Association to commemorate the jubilee of the Association, and Canadians have reason to be proud of being first winners of the trophy that celebrates fifty years of Imperial rifle shooting. Every Canadian will be delighted with the great success of Canadian marksmen and their Canadian rifles—made in Canada and made good in the Empire.

FALSIFYING THE RECORD

The Mail and Empire must think that Canadians have short memories. A few days ago it made this astounding assertive compound of audacity and mendacity: "Until Sir Wilfrid Laurier became Premier of Canada, graft was regarded as a sin peculiar to our neighbours." Only those who have not lived long enough or have not read enough can be unsurprised at such an out-and-out whopper. Does the Mail expect that we have forgotten history or that the Conservative record has been wiped off the slate? Some of us and all of us who have read have some recollection of the bartering and huckstering in connection with the first Canadian Pacific Railway contract, a very polite form of expression for the Pacific scandal, a deal in which graft mounted into the millions. Was anything like graft associated with the name of a Conservative Cabinet Minister, Sir Hector Langevin? Was it not "graft" that drove this Conservative Cabinet Minister out of office and out of public life? Was it not "graft" that landed a prominent Conservative member of Parliament in jail? Was not the "graft" of that rotten regime the thing that brought upon us the condemnation of Canada in the eyes of the Mother Land? It led the London Despatch to say: "Even Tammany Hall smells sweet and clear in comparison with the huge stinkpot of the Conservative Government"; and another London paper, the Echo, said: "No country can prosper when public departments are in league with fraudulest contractors and where ministers are open to offers." The change of government came and the causes removed, the country began to prosper and has never prospered as it has done since the Liberal Government came into power and created a period of clean, capable and energetic administration. Yet there are bat-blind partisans who in the face of the facts of history believe or affect to believe the monstrous mendacities of the Mail and Empire, which compel the above reminders.

Engineers Pay Visit To The Trent Waterways

Had Their Annual Outing Saturday and Were Entertained by Mr. J. H. McClellan, the Superintendent—Description of Upper Part of Canal—Started Trip at Bobcaygeon.

The Toronto Globe says:

Englishmen are said to take their pleasures seriously, and it may have been the considerable leavening of that nationality in the Engineer's Club in Toronto that made their annual summer outing on Saturday so serene and decorous an affair. But a solid sub-stratum of fellowship and cordiality left nothing lacking from the human point of view. The trip began at Bobcaygeon, where the party arrived the night before over the C. P. R.

The Government steamer Bessie Butler took them over the 68 miles of lake, river, and canal on the Trent Valley system from that point to Lake Simcoe, and over the lake to Beaverton and to Jackson's Point; from the latter they took the electric home.

The members of the club who were along, together with a few friends, were: C. H. Rust, City Engineer; J. G. Sing, Government Engineer, both of whom are past Presidents of the club; John Tolmie, M.P.; J. H. McGregor, C. J. Prints, W. A. Johnson, John Scott, W. G. Bligh, E. A. Collyer; E. A. James, editor Canadian Engineer; A. T. Malone, resident engineer, Newmarket Canal; O. N. Scott, J. A. Richardson, W. A. Bucke, B. C. McBurney, T. C. Irving, jr., R. Home Smith, C. B. Hamilton, A. F. McCallum, W. C. Brennan; R. A. Baldwin, Chairman Executive; T. L. Somerville, D. D. James C. W. Dill, E. H. Keating, T. J. McConkey, R. Southam, J. S. Fielding, and L. J. Street, the Treasurer of the club, and who capably managed the expedition.

On the boat the party were the guests of Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and in the hands of Mr. J. Harris McClellan, Superintendent Trent Valley Canal, who was not only an ideal host but a veritable cyclopedia of information as well.

The trip was really the second chapter of last year's outing, which was over the eastern end of the canal. The day was spent aboard, with intervals for examining the engineering works along the route.

The expressions of approval were very general among the visitors at finding the work done along the whole route of so substantial and permanent a character. The new steel lift lock at Kirkfield naturally drew the closest attention, and the ease and precision with which these immense steel tanks lowered the boat from the level of Balsam Lake, the highest of the system, to the reach forty-eight feet below, as well as the massive and finely-finished character of the whole lockage work, was the subject of much favourable comment.

Boats can now travel on the canal from Lake Simcoe to Healy's Falls, a distance of 165 miles. Between Simcoe and the high level at Balsam the rise is 122 feet, this being overcome by six locks, one of eleven feet, three of fourteen feet each, one of twenty-two feet, and the Kirkton lift of 48 feet. There will be eight feet and four inches of water over the sill, and the locks will accommodate vessels 140 feet long by 34 feet beam. A barge this size will hold 25,000 bushels of grain. The total length from Lake Simcoe to Trenton will be 210 miles, or, when the Severn works are completed from Georgian Bay to Trenton, it will be 272 miles. The supplementary canal from Cooke's Bay on Lake Simcoe to New market is 17½ miles in length. On the main canal there are great contributory lake and river waters, which are controlled by dams and weirs, while there is a drainage area of over one hundred square miles contributory to the Newmarket system, over which the water can easily be controlled, thus assuring abundance of water for operating at all times of the year, and furnishing as well very large quantities of valuable water power.

Before parting, Mr. Rust, on behalf of the club, expressed to Mr. McClellan their appreciation of the most hospitable entertainment provided. They were delighted to see the country and the work that was being done. In his reply Mr. McClellan spoke of the scope of the work and the good progress that was being made, especially since the Deputy Minister, Mr. Butler, had taken it in charge. He honed to see it opened all the way from Midland to the Thousand Islands. In New Jersey alone, he said, there were $50,000,000 spent annually in the tourist trade, and the large and increasing tourist traffic in the waters served by this canal would soon make this alone a very important source of revenue, in addition to the local and through commodity trade. The character of the work showed for itself, and he was delighted to have the Toronto engineers with him to inspect it.

Tree Blown Across The Road Falls On 'Bus Load Of Men With Rather Serious Results

Bus Swept of Its Top, Occupants and Driver on Lakefield Road —Horses Run Away, Finally Falling Into Sewer Trench in East City.

ONE MAN IN HOSPITAL

A tree falling across the Lakefield road on the east side of the river on Saturday night struck a passing bus, injuring several of the occupants severely, tearing off the top and causing the horses to run away with results which might easily have been disastrous to them. The party was composed of men of the Brinton Carpet Works, who had spent the afternoon in Lakefield, and were returning home after a very pleasant outing. They had made nearly half of the journey when the accident occurred just as the party were beginning the chorus of one of their songs.

Without any warning a tree blown over by the strong wind crashed upon the bus. The horses were not caught by it but the driver and the occupants were brushed off their seats as easily as dust off polished marble. The top was gathered in by the limbs and the horses crazed by the strange happening started away with the bus and its empty seats.

Leg Broken

While practically all the men were more or less hurt, Herbert Bourne met with a very painful accident. His left leg sustained a compound fracture above the knee, the jagged bone lacerating the flesh with a resultant loss of considerable blood. His companions did all in their power to relieve him until assistance arrived about eleven o'clock when he was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where Dr. McPherson attended him.

The team which belonged to Mr. R. Gibbs ran south until they struck Douro street, continuing to Roger, where they came to grief after circling a barricade which had been built on the road side of an excavation for a sewer. One horse slipped in after going a short distance and pulled the other with him. Chief Howard chanced to be near at hand fixing an alarm box and immediately with another man began to relieve the horses which were one on top of the other at the bottom of the sewer. Mr. Gibbs was informed of the accident and hurried to the scene. After considerable difficulty the horses were extricated and were fortunately without any serious hurt. Chief Howard did excellent work in engineering the rescue party. The team was hitched again to the bus and driven back to the place where the fallen tree blocked the road. The top of the bus was picked up and excepting the regrettable accident Mr. Bourne suffered, the party was most fortunate in their escaping more serious injuries.

VALUABLE HORSE WAS KILLED BY LIGHTNING

The electrical storm which passed over the vicinity early yesterday morning was the cause of considerable loss to Mr. William Brumwell, of the 8th line of Smith. A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Brumwell was in a field, when it was struck by lightning and instantly killed. The animal was valued at $200. Fortunately it was insured, but its owner will still be a heavy loser.

Steerage Passenger Alarmed Whole Ship By His Cry For Help

The passengers of the C.P.R. liner, Lake Erie, which arrived at Montreal last night at seven o'clock, were thrown into consternation on Friday evening when about twilight as the passengers were enjoying a stroll on deck, a loud cry of "help! help!" was heard, apparently from a man overboard. Women shrieked, one going into hysterics and several fainting. Men became excited and those who had retired appeared in pyjamas to find out what the noise was about. A life boat was lowered and an attempt made to find the man but without success. Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse, who arrived home this morning after two months and a half in England, stated that he thought that one of the steerage passengers put his head out a port hole and cried out as persons possessing that peculiar sense of humour are wont to do. Examination of the register proved that no one was missing and the owner of the voice could not be found.

WHY HE DID NOT ASK

HIS FATHER FOR THE INHERITANCE OF THE HEATHEN.

He Knew His Heavenly Father's Plan and Therefore Has Been Content to Wait and Place That Request in Due Time—The Selection of the Church, the Bride of Christ, the Members of His Body.

Oakland, Cal., July 18.—The Bible Students' Convention of Believers in the Atonement by the Precious Blood opened here yesterday. Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, New York, was the principal speaker on the programme to-day. He spoke from the text (Ps. ii. 8) "Ask of me, and I shall give thee the heathen for thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for thy possessions."

Our text is from one of the Messianic Psalms. It represents our Lord as making known to his people the Heavenly Father's decree rewarding him for his faithfulness as our Redeemer, assuring him of his exaltation to the Kingdom, and that with this will come the inheritance of all the earth, with power to fully subject all things to the Heavenly Father's will. He was to have it for the mere request—"Ask for it." As a matter of fact, this world-wide dominion has not yet come to Messiah; the heathen are not yet his inheritance; the uttermost parts of the earth are not yet his possession. Indeed, as the Prophet declares, "Darkness covers the earth, and gross darkness the heathen."

When we remember our Redeemer's love for the race, the love which led him to lay down his life "to seek and to recover that which was lost," we are inclined to amazement that he has not yet asked the Father for his inheritance of the heathen—we are astonished that he has permitted "the prince of darkness" and the "reign of sin and death" for more than eighteen centuries since he suffered, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God. Our perplexity in the matter might well be answered by our Lord's words to the Sadducees, "Ye do err, not knowing the Scriptures nor the power of God." As we come to understand the Scriptures more fully, and to appreciate how the power of God will be exercised in bringing the heathen under the domination of the Redeemer, the eyes of our understanding open and we are enabled to rejoice accordingly.

Our Lord did not ask for his great power to reign at an earlier date because he knew the Father's plan, and was well contented with the Divine times and seasons; he had no wish of change in this. He did not ask to receive the heathen for an inheritance at the beginning of this Gospel Age, but had been content to wait and place that request in its due time in harmony with another feature of the Divine programme which must first be fulfilled. That other feature is the selection of the Church, the Bride of Christ, the members of His Body. It pleased the Father to make our Lord not only the world's Redeemer, and the world's King, but also to make him the High Priest of an Under-priesthood, the Bridegroom of the Church, his Bride; the Elder Brother of these saints of glory whom the Father is pleased to have developed during this Gospel Age as "New Creatures in Christ Jesus"—sharers of his sufferings, and of his glory to follow.

Meantime the heathen have been suffering no damage. Born in sin, shapen in iniquity, condemned to death, they were having experiences with sin and death, and going down to the great prison-house for periods of unconsciousness—until the Redeemer at his second advent shall call them and all mankind from the great prison-house, the tomb. This he foretold saying, "All that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth." This will include not only the Church of the First-Born ones, who have been approved of God, and who, passing trial now, will come forth unto life eternal, but it will include also all the remainder of mankind, those who have not had God's approval, all of whom, because redeemed, shall come forth unto judgment—trial. A fair trial will be theirs, to determine their worthiness or unworthiness of life eternal by the manner in which they will receive or reject The Christ of God when, during the Millennium, the same shall be made fully known to them.

It is part of the Divine purpose also that the whole earth should be filled with people, and hence the bringing forth of a progeny is a part of the Divine will. The few short years of the present life, with experience of sin and death conditions, will in due time be supplemented by the glorious period of the Millennium, and its grand opportunities for lessons of righteousness and obedience and rewards. Its corrective "stripes," or punishments, to the careless will be to the intent that so many as possible may ultimately be entirely recovered from death conditions and brought into full accord with God in Christ. And others, demonstrating their unwillingness to come into heart sympathy with righteousness, will be utterly destroyed from amongst the people (Acts iii., 23).

So, then, our Lord's reason for not asking sooner for the heathen as his inheritance, and the remotest parts of the earth for his possession, was because he knew the Father's plan to be a different plan, and that it was the more excellent way, and he delighted to do the Father's will. And so with all the followers of Christ: So soon as they ascertain the Father's glorious plan of salvation, they find it to be soul-satisfying, and greatly prefer it to any plan of their own. It is the undeveloped Christians, whom the Apostle designates "babies in Christ," who are continually praying to the Heavenly Father for a change of the Divine programme, imagining that their wisdom and their love in respect to the heathen are superior to those of the infinite Creator. Nearly all Christian people have had their experience with such ignorance, and we are glad to suppose that the Heavenly Father laid not the sin of such presumption to our charge, but rather sympathetically appreciated our interest in the heathen, although he must have depreciated our lack of reverence, our headiness, our high-minded assumptions of more than infinite wisdom.

We are not saying a word against missions—home and foreign. Quite to the contrary; we believe that every Christian should labor with heart and hand to do all in his power to glorify the Father and the Redeemer, and to enlighten his fellowmen respecting the cross of Christ, and the blessings and privileges which it secures. But while gladly, willingly, serving the divine cause, "instant in season and out of season," we should learn to labor and to wait. We should learn that the laboring under present conditions is chiefly arranged for our benefit—for the development in the minds of the Royal Priesthood of the sacrificing qualities, and the graces of the holy Spirit—meekness, gentleness, patience, faith, long-suffering, brotherly kindness, love.

Let us be sure, dear friends, that any theory of ours respecting the heathen, or any other feature of the Divine programme, which in any degree implies superior wisdom, or superior energy, or superior love, on our part, as compared with that of our Heavenly Father and our Redeemer, must be wrong. The sooner we learn to pray from the heart, "Thy will be done," the better it will be for us, the more will we be able to get into harmony with our Lord, and the more will we be used as his ambassadors and representatives. The wisdom of man is foolishness with God, and the wisdom of God is foolishness with man, hence we must not take the human standpoint in investigating or reasoning upon the Divine purposes and programme. Rather, we must go direct to the Word of God, that we may be taught of God, that we may discern the beauty, the harmony of his plans.

It is written that obedience is better than sacrifice, and this being recognized, how careful it should make us to inquire what the will of the Lord is; to search the Scriptures, that we may there ascertain the Divine programme, and be found in harmony therewith. There we find that the Lord's present work is the completing of the Royal Priesthood, the Royal Judge, the Royal Prophet, the Royal Mediator, the Great King, for the world of mankind—for the world's deliverance from the bondage of sin and death, and their assistance back to harmony with God. Thus seeing, we will have patience in respect to the heathen, and strive now to make our own calling and election sure, and lay down our lives for the brethren in assisting to build them up in the most holy faith, "until we all come to the measure of the stature of a man in Christ"—the great Mediator of the New Covenant, of which Jesus is the Head.

When will the world be converted? When will Christ ask for the heathen? When will the Father give them to him? How long, O Lord? The Scriptural answer, dear friends, is, that it has pleased the Father to select the "jewel" class during this Gospel Age by means which the world would think foolish—by means of the preaching of the good tidings. But his programme for the future age is different. There are millions who have no ear to hear the preaching of the cross of Christ. There are millions who have no eye of faith to see the glorious things of God. In fact, according to the Scriptures, only a "little flock," comparatively, can be brought into accord with the Lord under the conditions of the present time, because sin abounds, because death reigns, because Satan, the prince of this world, now works antagonistically in the hearts of the children of disobedience.

Hence it has pleased God to have a different method of dealing with the world of mankind in general from that which he adopted for dealing with the Church in this Age. In the next age force will be used, and not merely moral suasion. Force will be employed in putting down the reign of evil. Satan will not merely be requested to desist from deceiving the world, but will be bound for a thousand years, and be unable to deceive the nations. Likewise, mankind will no longer be invited to accept Christ, and to give their hearts in obedience to him, but, on the contrary, they will be compelled to be obedient. As it is written, "Unto him every knee shall bow and every tongue confess, to the glory of God." Offers of grace will no longer be held out, with reward for faith attached; instead, knowledge shall fill the whole earth as the waters cover the great deep (Philippians ii, 10, 11; Isaiah xi, 9). As a result, no one shall then say to his neighbor, or to his brother, Know thou the Lord! for they all shall know him, from the least unto the greatest of them (Jeremiah xxxi, 34).

Another Psalm describes Messiah's triumph in the Millennial Age, saying, "Gird thy sword upon thy thigh, O most Mighty, with thy glory and thy majesty. And in thy majesty ride prosperously in the cause of Truth and Meekness and Righteousness; and thy right hand shall teach [illegible]. Thine arrows are sharp in the heart of the king's enemies, whereby the people fall under thee" (Psalm xlv, 3-5). Instead of the word "people" here, read the word "heathen" as in the original, and we have a picture of the conversion of the heathen as it will shortly be accomplished. We are not to suppose the Lord will ride upon a horse, nor that literal arrows will literally pierce the hearts of his enemies. We are to understand this picture to signify our Lord's triumphal conquering of the world, and that the arrows of truth which will go forth unto the whole world will reach the hearts of men, and smite them down. Even so we read that when St. Peter preached at Pentecost that the Jews had taken and crucified the Son of God, the hearers were cut to the heart with the lance of truth. Thank God for such arrows from the quiver of Divine wisdom, justice, love. We rejoice that the heathen will thus be conquered for the Lord, and thus eventually every knee bow and every tongue confess. This work of dealing with the heathen, with the world, with all except the Church, will begin with the generation living at the time of the establishment of the Lord's Kingdom. In due time it will proceed and ultimately include all that are in their graves, in the reverse order from that which they entered, and the last shall be the first to come forth—"every man in his own order" or class.

Too frequently do Bible students neglect to see whether or not their interpretations are in harmony with the context of the passages under discussion. Let us not make this mistake. Turning to the second Psalm, we find that, following our text and a part with it, is the declaration, "Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron; thou shalt dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel" (verse 9). The application of this evidently is to the time for our Lord's second advent, when the selection of the Church shall be completed, and she shall have entered into his glory as the Bride, the Lamb's Wife, symbolically pictured in the New Jerusalem from God out of heaven. From that New Jerusalem we are told that the river of the water of life shall flow freely, and that whosoever will may partake of it freely—all that are athirst. On either bank will grow the trees of life, whose leaves are for the healing of the nations. And the Spirit and the Bride will say Come, and whosoever will may come and take of the water of life freely. But meantime, before the nations, the world, will be ready for that blessing from the New Jerusalem, they must needs pass through a period of very deep humiliation—"a time of trouble such as never was since there was a nation."

As for the nations of that time, the extent to which they will suffer destruction will depend largely on their own attitude, as is intimated by the verses following our text. Those of the nations who freely and heartily accept of Messiah's rule will be correspondingly saved from the breaking process. Hence it is urged, "Kiss the Son, O ye kings of the earth; kiss the Son lest he be angry with you and ye perish from the way, when his wrath is kindled but a little." But while this seems to offer leniency, mercy, these favors are conditional on the manner in which the Messianic Kingdom shall be received. Other Scriptures seem to intimate that all the nations, not only heathen but civilized, will be found in violent opposition to the heavenly Kingdom, and hence that all together they will be crushed as the vessels of a potter.

The Lord tells us that as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are his ways higher than man's ways, and his plans higher than man's plans. And this we find true as we come to better understand the Scriptures. Who ever dreamed of such lengths and breadths and heights and depths of love divine, all love excelling, as are implied and included in God's great plan of selecting, first the Christ—Jesus the Head and the Church, His Body—and then through these blessing all the families of the earth with a knowledge of Himself and the glorious opportunities for life eternal? We make no claims of universal salvation, because the Scriptures do not authorize this, but distinctly speak of those who die the Second Death, proving themselves not sufficiently in harmony with righteousness to be worthy of eternal life—even after being brought to a knowledge of the Truth. But the Scriptures do show us that when all the unwilling and disobedient shall have been cut off in the Second Death, then the whole earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of God, and every creature in heaven, and in earth, and under the earth, shall be heard acclaiming praise, honor, glory, dominion, and might, to him that sitteth upon the throne, and to the Lamb forever. And he upon the throne declares, Behold, I make all things new. And there shall be no more sighing, and no more crying, and no more dying, for the former things shall have passed away (Revelation xxi, 1-5).

ADMIRAL BERESFORD

Hero of Alexandria Will Open Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, who has accepted an invitation to visit Canada to open the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto, is known to fame as the great leader in the national defence movement now agitating the whole empire.

Lord Charles, who is the second son of the Marquis of Waterford, first became known to fame at the bombardment of Alexandria when he sailed the little Condor into water too shallow for the big battleships and silenced a battery that was doing great damage to the British fleets. "Well done, Condor" was the signal that floated from the flag-ship after the battle, and the young Lord was known as "Condor Charlie," till more dignified titles crowded the name into comparative obscurity. Admiral Beresford can do other things besides fight. He has tree medals for life-saving, has written a Life of Nelson and several treatises on naval matters, is an all-round sporting man, and is known all over Britain as a warm-hearted Irishman.

Description Of The Fine New Church At Gore's Landing

Overlooks the Lake From Delightful Position—Charming Little House of Worship Recently Opened—News From Rice Lake's Resorts—Gossip Here and There

WITH THE FISHERMEN

Examiner Special.

Rice Lake, July 19.—St. George's Church, the new house of worship for the Anglican people of Rice Lake seems to possess a peculiar charm that is in keeping with the village and its picturesque neighbourhood. The naturalness of its walls of field stone, its quaint style of architecture, the beauty of the background of maple and pine trees completely surrounding the rough grounds on which the building has been erected, the quietness that is only broken by the wind sighing through the pines, the hum of an automobile on the road beneath or the rapid and persistent tug-tug-tug of a launch beating against the west wind, added to this the grand prospect from the summit of the hill as far as the eye can reach up and down the lake and the reader may grasp an idea of the picture.

The church is situated on the brow of the upland which rises to the west from the main road through the village ending at the water's edge. One can not see it from the wharf nor from the highway owing to the fringe of trees. It is only after climbing the sharp ascent that the opening is reached and the pretty little church is seen. The first impression is one of solidity and compactness. The walls are entirely of stone, those used in the foundation being hewn and the rest just as they were taken from the fields. One would expect the same characteristics in an old church in England but for the cement steps instead of the usual stone slabs. There is a front and side entrance and over the former a square tower that greatly enhances the rugged beauty of the building. The effect aimed at has been obtained in every detail even to the stone posts at the foot of the steps that lead to the entrances.

The interior is as one would expect after examining the exterior. Strong beams support the roof and the colour of the wood staining is similar to mission finished quartered oak. The side windows are all coloured and at the rear of the chancel there is a large decorative window illustrating the words written at the bottom, "He is not here, He is risen." At the opening of the church on Thursday last, it is stated that there were 260 people present and that is certainly the limit of its seating capacity. During winter there are nine or ten families who compose the congregation and the average attendance is between twenty-five and thirty, but during the summer months this number is largely supplemented by visitors. Rev. O. E. Newton, of Chicago, is the pastor in charge. The first regular services were conducted yesterday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The church cost $4,000, all of which has been paid for.

The old building was a clapboard structure and had suffered severely from the ravages of time. The only remembrance of the former church is the burying ground which extended around it. The same old tombstones of course remain and seem to verify your fancy that an old English Church and plot had been transported to the shores of Rice Lake. St. George's Church is well worth a visit by those who find themselves at Gore's Landing.

Summer Activity

The summer visitor owns the place at present and his (and hers too) presence makes the place lively and like old times. The hotels are nearly filled to their capacity and the private houses receiving boarders have all a number of visitors. Auto parties from Cobourg are becoming common and the Joy car is now as common on the streets as the village cow which should have been pounded weeks ago. The young people make things lively and the season is reaching its zenith.

Fishing during the past week has not ben as good as usual. The regulars state that the fish are losing their teeth and will bite stronger when they get their new sets of incisors and grinders. Billy Naugon is the authority and he ought to know.

A party of eight young ladies are expected at Jubilee this week. They are from Peterborough and should make the primeval pines ring with their merry shrieks.

An interesting discussion between several boatmen as to the shortest time made between Jubilee and the Otonabee boat house was overheard one day last week. Each had a particular case to cite but they seemed so exaggerated that witnesses were considered necessary. If they are secured and this committee awards the palm it will be made public if the boatmen decide to spread it.

Looking out from the wharf at Gore's Landing at the end of Sheep Island, a Peterborough business man, who had come down on the Otonabee's popular Saturday afternoon trip remarked that it was strange that there was not a larger number of cottages. "It seems to me that that spot over there is one of the prettiest in this locality." Continuing about camping he considered that there were many places on the river nearer the city where cottages could be built. "I think they are waiting until someone takes the initiative then you will find others following." All of which may be true and likewise it may not. He referred to Wedlock's as an example and remarked that other places on the river would do just as well. "You've got to educate the people to it you know," he said, "and education costs money. If some one will begin there will soon be a great deal more pleasure taken out of the river by the people of Peterborough, young and old."

Mr. Frank Hill and Mr. John Smith, both of Toronto, have been at Hastings the past week.

Archie and George Bryce, Toronto, are holidaying at the home of their grandfather at Keene. Mr. Williams and Master Willie Cronck, Toronto, are at Keene with Mr. Wm. Kempt.

A number of campers on the river are complaining of their tents being robbed of all they had to eat.

Messrs. J. Johnston and E. Barker of the staff of the head office of the Bank of Toronto are camped at Foley's Landing, fishing for lunge.

Mr. Ross Covert, Toronto, was a guest of friends in the vicinity the past week.

Miss Cox has returned to the city, after spending a fortnight with Mrs. S. W. Clarke at Millbrook.

Mrs. L. Hancock, Miss Jessie Hancock, Toronto, and Mr. J. Thompson, St. Mary's, Pa., are with friends in this vicinity.

Mr. John Black came down from Toronto and was a guest of Campbellford friends this week.

Mr. Archie Leach of the Bank of Montreal, Toronto, is holidaying with Millbrook friends.

Mr. Bert Buchanan, Winnipeg, is a guest of his aunt, Mrs. Wm. Archer, at Millbrook. He is a brother of Mr. W. A. Buchanan, formerly of Peterborough, now member of the Alberta Legislature for the city of Lethbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Pearson, Toronto, and Miss Pearson, Strathroy, are at Wedlock.

Mr. H. M. Upton, Toronto, arrived at Wedlock this week.

Mrs. Dean, who has spent several summers at Cobourg, has come out to the lake for the season.

Children Had Eczema

SUFFERED AGONY UNTOLD

Treatment prescribed had no effect—DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT made thorough cure.

Many a mother's heart has been torn by the suffering of her little one who has fallen a victim of eczema. Only such mothers appreciate to the full the value of Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for this horrible ailment.

Mrs. Oscar Vancott, St. Antoine, Sask., writes:

"I have found Dr. Chase's Ointment to be a permanent cure of eczema and other skin diseases. One son, while nursing, broke out with running watery sores all over his head and around the ears. Many salves were prescribed to no effect. The child's head became a mass of scabs and he suffered agony untold. He became weak and frail and would not eat and we thought we would lose him.

"Providentially we heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it soon thoroughly cured him. He is seven years old now and strong and well. An older boy was also cured of eczema by this Ointment, and we hope more people will learn about it so that their poor little ones may be saved from suffering."

Chafing and irritation of the skin, from which nearly all babies suffer more or less, is a frequent source of eczema. There is no treatment for chafing so satisfactory as Dr. Chase's Ointment. Pore-clogging, unsanitary powders are being discarded by all who have once learned the value of this great Ointment in keeping baby's skin soft, smooth and healthy.

In scores of ways Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home in the treatment of pimples, barber's itch, scalds and burns, poisoned skin, sore feet and every form of itching skin disease. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

UPSET WHILE RUNNING RAPIDS AT WHITE LAKE

Stony Lake Visitors Were the Victims of a Disagreeable Accident—Canoe Capsized in Swift Current—Masquerade Ball at Viamede—Other Stony Lake Items.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, July 19—There has been a series of bad storms at the lakes during the past week. Following the severe one of Thursday last, there was one on Sunday that kept the cottagers to their islands. Many were unable to get out to service yesterday morning. The wind blew very high and the lakes were lashed into foam. Few dared to venture out, and those who did were not long in quickly returning to their homes. Heavy showers of rain fell at intervals. The wind was very cold and a fire in the summer homes was very comfortable last night.

An Exciting Experience.

A party of Americans from Glenwood took a trip the other day to White Lake. There were four of them and they went in two canoes. After partaking of their luncheon they proceeded to run the rapids on the Indian river. A lady and gentleman in one canoe went first and their experience in trying to paddle through the rapids will not soon be forgotten by them. The canoe was upset and the two occupants were thrown into the water, which, on either side of the rapids, is very deep. With the assistance of Mr. John Carlisle, who was also one of a picnic party there, the boat was righted and the young people got to shore. The others were advised not to attempt shooting the rapids.

In the upset a fine camera with ten snapshots in it was lost, and the lady's hat was badly spoiled.

At Juniper Island.

An exceedingly large number of young people were present at the usual Saturday evening hop at the Juniper Island pavilion, many coming up on the night boat. Excellent music was given, among those presiding at the piano being Mr. L. Acton, Misses Acton and Taylor.

On Sunday morning Stony cottagers had the pleasure of listening to an extremely interesting address by Rev. F. J. Wilson, B.A., of Hamilton, and formerly assistant pastor at St. Paul's Church, Peterborough. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are holidaying with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carey at Eagle Mount. Vocal solos were given by Mr. Vanzant, of Toronto.

The pavilion is looking more attractive this week, the painters having been busy giving it a fresh coat of paint.

At Viamede

The masquerade dance given at this popular resort on Thursday evening proved to be the most enjoyable event of the season. Many were in costume, and excellent music was provided by Mrs. Murton, Mr. Waldon and Miss English.

Those in costume and the characters represented were:

Miss Sternberg—Geisha.
Mrs. Murton—Japanese lady.
Miss Fox—Sally from our alley.
Mrs. Raisbeck—Mammy.
Miss E. Bell—Bathing Girl.
Miss Bell—Japanese girl.
Miss Raisbeck—Dutch girl.
Mrs. Johnston—Baby.
Mrs. Goselin—School girl.
Mrs. Gordon—Nurse.
Mr. Stewart and Mr. Murton—Chauffeur and wife.
Mr. Goodger—Turk.
Mrs. Thos. Fox—Tennis player.
Mr. H. Boswell—Mexican.
Mr. E. Boswell—Cardinal Richelieu.
Mr. Denzen—Buffalo Bill.
Mr. Gordon—Mermaid.
Mr. Hart—Cowboy.

Service was held in the Viamede Pavilion on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Lord, of Apsley, delivering the address.

Among the recent arrivals here are: Wm. H. Emery and wife, Albert and Leon Emery, Rochester, N. Y.; Miss Loghun, Guelph; S. J. Murphy, Peterborough; S. Bishop and wife, H. J. Bishop and wife, Buffalo, N. Y.; E. R. Meng, Rochester, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Taylor and Clarkson Taylor, of Wyoming, Ohio, and Misses Bertha and Bessie Mowry.

At Burleigh Falls

A young lady stopping at the Park Hotel narrowly escaped drowning a few days ago while in bathing. She got out beyond her depth and but for the timely action of Mrs. W. Darcy, who rescued her, a drowning fatality would have to be recorded.

During the past week dances have been held regularly in the pavilion and have been greatly enjoyed by the young people.

Mr. J. Holmes, Lakefield, has sold his fine cottage near Burleigh to Dr. Fraser, of Lakefield.

The following guests arrived at the Park Hotel this week: Messrs. Jas. R. Giliford, Wm. S. Edgerly and H. Metcalf, Toronto; Chris. Moffatt, Peterborough, Geo. Blackcamp and Herschell Hall, Cleveland; Fred Rice and K. McDonald, Buffalo, N. Y.; John West, John Dunn, John Egan, Geo. Wunder and W. S. Castleman, Rochester, N. Y.; J. C. Judge, New York; J. D. Businger and wife, New Kensington, Pa.; A. H. Stall, David Black and H. S. Orr, Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. N. H. Taylor and Miss Belle Taylor, Peterborough; Henry C. Shinet and wife, Cincinnati; Harry K. Mead and wife, Cincinnati; G. N. Gordon and wife, Peterborough; R. W. Gordon and Miss Richardson, Toronto; John J. Ryan and wife, Medina, N. Y.; John Indeau and wife, Lyndonville, N. Y.; John J. # The Peterborough Gypsies As Described By Local Lady

A Visit to the Picturesque Camp And an Account of How They Conducted Routine of Family Life—The Dance of the Gypsies

THE DRESS OF THE WOMEN

Mrs. MacFarlane Wilson, writing in the Magazine section of Saturday's Globe, gives an interesting portrayal of the camp of the gypsies who recently created a nine days' wonder in the city. It is the picture, painted not in the hurried style of the reporter, but in a realistic and easy manner, which will be appreciated. The narrative is partly reproduced as follows:

A band of 60 Mexican gypsies had been here—greatly against their wish—for ten days. So large a party travelling through the country in a body had obstructed traffic and terrorized the farmers, whose goods, in the night season, were freely purloined. Pending instructions from Ottawa, the men were lodged in jail, the waggons with the women, children and dogs disposed about the jail yard, making that dreary place for the nonce ablaze with life and colour. The women vehemently protested against this treatment of their spouses, and although their words were unintelligible, eloquent gestures spelled the word indignation.

The male head of the band is at present in Washington, but his authority was not appreciably missed, as no Czar ever ruled more despotically than Queen Rosa, who is young and beautiful and looked like a gorgeous flower—in a scarlet silk dress, with row after row of gold coins and bangles, and a scarf of striped yellow and red silk twisted round her black hair.

It was found that this band had been too long in Canada to admit of their deportation, and so at the end of a week's time they were fined one hundred and twenty-five dollars, and upon their promising to leave Ontario were discharged. However, before the wiles of Cupid even a magistrate's severity may be relent, and as a wedding was en tapis, the gypsies, promising good behaviour, were allowed to remain in Peterborough for three days to celebrate the festive event. They encamped on a field near the town, and this spot at once became a kind of Mecca for the curious. The men are disreputable looking, but the women are beautiful, of a rich, ruddy brown complexion, black hair, dazzlingly white teeth, and those mournful stag-like black eyes which seem to denote past tragedies. There were no Madonna-like faces, no curves nor dimples, but features clearly carven like cameos, and, as Romany blood is gentle blood, their hands and feet were slim and small. All wore scarlet dresses with the exception of the bride, who is a daughter of Chief George, and is said to be only 14 years old. She was dressed in a light chintz-like silk, with yards of pink muslin fastened with flowers to her hair and floating down her back.

The groom, named Stoke, is said to be an exetensive land-owner in the far west. He was easily distinguishable amid the throng because of his new clothes and because he was the only man of the party to be encumbered with a coat. They seemed to be plentifully supplied with money, which they spent freely in food, kegs of ale, and even telegraphing. The band of the 57th Regiment played and minuet-like dances were participated in by the gypsies, who are passionately fond of music.

As to the marriage itself they declined to give any information regarding its performance, but rumour says there is a priest among the band and that the traditional broomstick cut no figure whatever in the ceremony. Marriages among these people are not made in Heaven, nor by first intention on earth, nor by mutual attraction, but by fiat of the Queen, whose decision is absolute.

It was nearly eight in the evening when we visited the camp, and anything more picturesque I never saw. Each family was sitting just outside its own van and a meal was being prepared. There was broth in the pots, potatoes, beans, onions—even cucumbers and bananas being added. Children, clad in one garment only, darted in and out among the blazing fires, coming to no harm and tumbling about underfoot like puppies. A tiny baby, in a tin dishpan, was being drawn over the uneven ground, its stoical little face expressing no discomfort from the frequent bumps.

Oh, what a nation the gypsies might have become had they adopted one land as their country, and cultivated a national sense of patriotism and cohesiveness! Their women do not know the meaning of nerves and did not trouble to caution the children who were seated perilously near the fires, smoking cigarettes and playing cards—and yet, odd as the statement may sound, the scene was homelike in a weird, exotic fashion—the family, the fire, and the scent of cooking.

As if to put a finishing touch to so Eastern a picture, a beautiful girl, gold bedecked and scarlet clad, rose up and in a graceful, langourous manner began to dance, chanting the while and moving her arms in time with the music. So must Vivien have looked in the forest when she

Of woven paces and of waving hands."

With the exception of one woman, all of the party appeared to be young, and one's interest could not but be aroused by her—she seemed so set aside from the bustle of the scene. Perhaps, as the children grew sleepy, she might gather them about her fire and tell them of that sunny land where she herself was born—of tropical trees and graceful feathery foliage and brilliant butterflies, of pilgrimages down mountain trailis and through pueblos of abode huts and of camping at night under large olive trees. And she would tell them that instead of robin and oriole, as here, she had heard the clarin sing, that modest brown bird which is the pride of Mexico, because it combines the tender melancholy of the nightingale's notes with the skylark's flood of melody. And as the boys' eyes glistened and seemed to ask for more she would tell them of the fighting races who inhabited the plateau before the Spanish conquest; of the Aztec priests, who tore the hearts from their living human victims and offered them in sacrifice upon the high teocallis; that her ancestors followed Cortes and saw him burn his ships, and had intermarried with the native Indians, and that Mexican women are proud of their power of endurance, and that highway robbery is a pleasant recreation, only it is best to indulge in it warily, as white people have an unreasonable prejudice against it.

In another 24 hours the caravan had left the town, as the allotted three days had expired—setting forth on their objectless journey down the dusty way and singing "The Song of the Open Road."

THE MYSTERIOUS NERVES

The secret of keeping the marvellous nervous system in health and vigour is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative.

ROLLER RINK TO OPEN

Popular Amusement Place Will Be Open For Its Patrons This Week

It will be welcome news to the young people of Peterborough that arrangements have been made to open the Auditorium Roller Rink about the middle of this week. The lack of amusement has been felt by many and they will be glad to learn of the opening of the popular roller rink. Some improvements that will add to the convenience of the patrons are being made and the floor will be in the best of shape for the opening date which will be announced in a short time. There will no doubt be big crowds on hand every night as roller skating has always been popular here.

"Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. ### BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

A C.P.R. brakeman was seriously injured at Brockville.

Canada won the Jubilee Cup at Bisley, making her third victory.

The Curtiss aeroplane was badly damaged when a novice became unnerved in a trial flight.

Don Carlos of Bourbon, the pretender of the Spanish throne, died yesterday at Varez, in Lombardy.

The enforcement of the dog bylaw is causing trouble at Brantford, and owners are making every effort to protect their pets.

The German Kaiser has been freed from restraint by the retirement of Von Buelow and will rule autocratically, it is said.

Referring to the G.T.P. issue, The London Morning Post says Canada certainly has been borrowing in the past few years at a rate which must give rise to the greatest misgiving.

The body of Miss Mabel Bruce of Garnock, Sask., who disappeared on Friday last was found in a slough in 18 inches of water. Foul play is suspected, as there was evidence of a struggle.

In The Daily Telegraph match, McInnes got 22nd place, winning 67 shillings; Lieut. Smith 36th, winning 55 shillings; Mortimer, 56th, winning 40 shillings; Forrest, 70th place, winning 40 shillings.

Loved a Chicago Girl.

Chicago, July 19.—Dr. Rudolph Menn of this city places an authoritative seal upon the story that Baron Oskar Rothschild, the youngest son of Baron Albert Rothschild of Vienna, killed himself because of his family's opposition to his marriage with Olga Menn, the physician's young and beautiful daughter.

The doctor told of his daughter's meeting with the young baron when he arrived in Chicago with a party of friends on their way to Europe from the Orient six weeks ago. A friend of the nobleman was taken ill and was sent to the hospital where Dr. Menn is a staff physician. The baron met the doctor's daughter and from that first meeting they were together much of the time that the young man was in Chicago.

A week after meeting Miss Menn, the doctor said, young Rothschild proposed marriage.

A Joke on Pugsley.

Vancouver, B.C., July 19.—Business and shipping men played rude jokes on Hon. William Pugsley Saturday. They were showing him around the harbor to give him first-hand information of improvemnets, removals of shoals, etc. They had the steamer Joan. Capt. Troup, superintendent of the C.P.R. fleet, was aboard, and when the steamer was off the entrance to False Creek, where for years dredging has been required. Troup purposely piled the vessel up on a sandbank. The illustration of the need of dredging was very dramatic, for the boat hit with a bump. She was undamaged and backed off in a few moments.

But Mr. Pugsley made no promises.

Who'd Be the Richest Boy?

London, July 19.—John Nicholas Brown, the richest boy in the world, is living the simple life in London, though occupying a magnificent suite in the exclusive Berkeley Hotel and constantly watched by his physician.

His mode of life is extremely modest, compared with some less rich youngsters in the London hotels. His food is always sterilized and his diet simple. While exercising every possible care, his mother rigorously refrains from pampering her multi-millionaire son.

Emmerson Criticizes I.C.R.

Montreal, July 19.—Hon. Mr. Emmerson, ex-Minister of Railways, who was here yesterday, declared that the new I.C.R commission was starving the road, as far as equipment is concerned, adding that the road would suffer unless other methods were adopted.

The ex-Minister said he would never be satisfied till the I.C.R. was run as a company-owned road. He also wanted the Government to buy up the small roads as feeders to the Government system.

Shoots Two Assailants.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 19.—In a fight growing out of a strike of employes of the Lake Carriers, Richard Brown and Wm. Woods, were shot and killed here Saturday night, and one man was shot in the arm, James P. Purvis, 52 years old, a marine engineer of Detroit, was later arrested. Purvis is a non-union chief engineer on the steamer Centurion, which arrived here early in the evening. He was attacked by three men. He escaped and was again attacked, and drew his revolver and fired.

Hamilton Man Slugged.

Hamilton, July 19.—Fred Porteous, butcher, was slugged by two highwaymen after midnight Saturday. Mark Tompkins, who spent about eleven years in penitentiary for clubbing and robbing Jack Cauley, cashier for the Tuckett Company, was arrested as one of the assailants, but the other got away.

British Emigration.

London, July 19.—The British emigrants to Canada in 1908 numbered 81,321, as against 151,216 the previous year. To the United States they were 96,869, as against 170,284 for the previous 22 months. Emigration from England in 1908 was the smallest in 31 years.

Storm In Ottawa District.

Ottawa, July 17.—Yesterday's storm did much damage to hay in the district, as the rain was exceedingly abundant and heavy for hours. A number of telephone lines were put out of order by lightning.

TO BOOST FAMILIES.

Dr. Richet of Paris Has Scheme to Cope With France's Problem.

Paris, July 19.—The grave problem presented by the declining birth rate again is distressing France, which is engaged particularly at this moment weighing the merits claimed for the plan proposed by Prof. Richet of the Academy of Medicine Leroy Beaulieu.

The scheme proposed a system of bonuses for children, the bonus growing as the number of children in one family increases. That is, while the parents get nothing in consideration for the first child, they are allowed $120 for the second, $200 for the third, and so on. Richet believes births would be increased annually by 750,000, or 1,000,000 at a cost to the state of $6,000,000 yearly. This would be met by death duties, the plan laying a tax of 50 per cent. on all collateral bequests and confiscating half estates in case of only one child.

Richet further would reduce the salaries of unmarried employes of the state as well as those with only one child or none five years after marriage.

Naturally the proposition has aroused warm opposition. It is asked whether the class which would be reached by such an offer, is one worthy to be the parents of future generations.

There are not lacking those who affirm that the prosperity of France rests on the principle of the small family and who see revolution, chaos, and national poverty if large families become general.

Lords to Discuss Budget.

London, July 19.—From a statement by Lord Lansdowne, in a political speech, it is apparent that the Unionist Lords intend to disregard precedent and treat the budget, when it reaches them from the House of Commons, as they would any other measure.

Heretofore the House of Lords has not interfered with the financial measures of the Government of the day, the imposition of new taxes and expenditures being considered entirely in the hands of the House of Commons.

Lord Lansdowne said it was not likely that the House of Lords would proclaim that it had no responsibility in the budget bill or that it was obliged to accept the bill whole because it mixed up financial affairs. He contended that it was unthinkable that in a country where there were two chambers it should be left absolutely to one of them to impose a new financial system.

The members of the Government recently threatened that if the House of Lords interfered with the budget they would appeal to the country on the question of the reform, if not the abolition of that House.

Deadly Battle.

Union, Miss., July 10.—One old cow, which would not have brought $50 on the market, caused a bloody pistol battle in the streets of this little town Saturday. It resulted in the killing of two men, the fatal injury of two more, and the serious wounding of another.

The dead: E. P. McDonald and P. McDonald; fatally injured, Charles Chisholm and Joseph Miller, and the seriously injured man Murphy McDonald.

The fight was between the McDonalds on one side and Miller and Chisholm on the other, two factions which have quarrelled for many years.

Both Chisholm and the McDonalds claimed ownership of the cow. Miller and Peter McDonald started the row in front of the Union Bank. Revolvers were drawn and the shooting commenced.

Profits Tragedy.

London, May 19.—Krishnavarma, the notorious editor of The Indian Sociologist, writes a long letter from Paris in defence of Dhingra, the murderer of Sir William Wyllie. He denies any complicity in the assassination, but describes the assassin as a martyr in the cause of Indian independence. He reasserts his doctrine that political assassination is not murder, and avers "That there are even in England some high-minded, thoughtful publicists who agree with him."

The significance of this letter lies in the prophecy at the end that "there will ere long befall England a catastrophe that will stagger humanity."

Fumigator Explodes.

Port Stanley, July 19.—Benjamin Goodhue's two sons, aged 7 and 4, have recovered from scarlet fever. Saturday night their physician, Dr. J. D. McDonald, had the village medical officer, Dr. Jackson of Union, come down to fumigate the house. After putting the family outdoors, and closing all the windows and doors, Dr Jackson lit the fumigator. All went well for a few minutes, then the machine suddenly exploded with a report like a cannon. The house took fire and $100 damage was done.

La Blanca Is Sold.

Pachuca, Mexico, July 19.—John H Hammond arrived here Saturday for the purpose of closing a deal for the purchase of the famous La Blanca mines, near Pachuca. The consideration involved is said to be $5,000,000 in gold.

Mr. Hammond denied that he is representing the Guggenheim interests in the transaction. He says that G. F. Palmer of New York is associated with him.

Car of Freight Burns.

Brampton, July 19.—At about seven o'clock yesterday morning, as a freight train on the C.P.R. was approaching Brampton, a car was discovered to be on fire. Upon reaching Brampton the fire brigade was summoned, but the car and contents were destroyed. Valuable freight consigned to Vancouver was destroyed. It is thought the fire originated from spontaneous combustion.

Police Killed; Slayer Suicides.

Paris, July 19.—Deputy Chief Blot and Inspector Nugat of the detective department, were shot and killed Saturday night by a man named Delaunay, whom the police had been hunting in connection with thefts from picture galleries.

Delaunay committed suicide.

C.T.P. Issue.

The Toronto Chemical Co.'s issue of £100,000 5 per cent. debentures at 98 1-2 is advertised.

Gold Robbers In Germany.

Berlin, July 19.—Brigands held the highway between Augustowo and Lipsk on the Russo-German border all one day of the past week and captured some 50 or 60 travelers whom they relieved of money estimated in the aggregate at $25,000. Most of the victims were horse dealers on their way to the central horse market at Lipsk.

One of the exploits of the highwaymen was to seize a toll gate house. They bound the keeper and his wife, and stationed one of their number, dressed in the gatekeeper's uniform, outside the gate.

Peasants were allowed to pass on the payment of the usual fee, but prosperous-looking travelers were overpowered and robbed and then imprisoned in the attic of the gatekeeper's house. One man was murdered.

Japs Get a Preference.

Seattle, Wash., July 19.—According to owners of American halibut fishing vessels here yesterday the recent order forbidding Americans to buy herring bait in British Columbia waters is intended to force Americans to put their ships under the British flag and transfer their business to the Canadian side, as one Boston company has already done.

The American fishermen said that Japanese fishermen are given every privilege over Americans by the regulations just promulgated by the Dominion council. In the harbor of Nanaimo, B.C., alone between November 1, 1908, and February 15, 1909, Japanese fishermen caught and shipped to Japan 20,000 tons of herring.

Shot by Burglar.

Montreal, July 19.—A daring hold-up was committed in the store of a Pole named Boclaski on Saturday night.

At a late hour two men entered the store and demanded money, and when they were refused one of them drew a revolver and shot Boclaski and also shot his wife. Boclaski's wound is dangerous.

The men then went through the till and made their escape.

No Reprieve In England.

London, July 19.—William Hampton, a farmer resident of Ishpeming, Mich., will be hanged on July 20 in Stearth, Cornwall, for the murder there on May 2 of this year of Emily Tredres, his sweetheart. He was to have been executed on July 15, but a delay was allowed to permit a decision on a reprieve, which now is refused.

Washington Is Grieved.

Washington, July 19.—Formal notification of the ratification of the Franco-Canadian treaty by the French Parliament have reached the State Department, and there are indications that the Department is far from pleased with the effect the treaty will have on imports of American manufactures into France and Canada

FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

Millions of leaflets are being circulated among the people of the Empire, informing the masses how to guard against Tuberculosis, of which 100,000 Germans die every year. The time is fast approaching when this disease will be treated like diphtheria and smallpox—the patient being isolated and removed from contact with others.

Meantime it is to be hoped the masses will learn the all-important lesson of guarding against coughs and chest colds, from which tuberculosis always springs. When your throat tickles, your chest feels tight and sore, when you sneeze and feel cold shivers up your back — that should be your warning.

Nerviline Will Assist

The following treatment is known to be very efficient: Give the chest and throat a vigorous hand-rubbing with Nerviline, and take twenty drops of Nerviline in hot, sweetened water. If there is any hoarseness or cough, gargle well with Nerviline and put a Nerviline Porous Plaster over the chest. By following this advice you can keep clear of colds, pneumonia, bronchitis, and preserve uniform good health. This is worth cutting out and preserving.

SURPRISE FOR THE LEADERS
STRATHS WIN FOUR TO TWO

Hitherto Unbeaten T. A. S. Lost to High Commissioners in Senior City League on Saturday in One of the Best Games of the Year--Won Out in the Ninth---Park Street Had a Walk Over With the West Ends.

Strathconas, 4.
T. A. S., 2.

Looks like a typographical error, doesn't it?

The unbeaten leaders trimmed by the tail-enders listens something like a fairy tale, but anyway that was what happened in the first game of the Senior City League Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval.

The High Commissioners, led by the demon athlete, Mr. Shaw, and on their own stamping ground, played by far the best article of ball they have done all season and earned their victory by their good work in the field. Gorham was on the slab for the winners and the three fingered exponent of the art of pitching, was there with a 22 karat brand that cut a terrific slice in the T. A. S. batting averages, all of them dropping a little expect Lajoie Derocher, who had not any further to go. Gorham had great control and pitched a heady, cool game. Four scattered hits were all that the Abstainers could offer in the way of solving his puzzlers, and the team behind him gave him the classiest kind of support. Ray, at third, Kendry, at short, and Heaslip, at first, doing especially brilliant work.

Quinlan pitched for the T. A. S. and the Commissioners could do little with his slants, making only three safeties, but errors and charities allowed the Strathconas to annex a most unexpected victory. The Commissioners fielded more clearly than their opponents and had fewer battery errors and that about represents the difference.

The Abstainers were the first to score. Mr. Quinlan first up in the second innings, hoisted a high one, which dropped back of Mr. Sheridan in centre field, and the talented pitcher of the Abstainers had planted both of his number elevens on second when Mr. Sheridan had recovered the sphere. Mr. Doherty bowled a grounder at Mr. Gorham, which that gentleman foosled and there were two on and none down. Mr. McFadden, the elongated catcher hit to Mr. Kendry at short and the other half of the T. A. S. battery raced home before the ball could be returned to the counting station. Mr. Doherty had gone to third in the meantime and when Conroy hit one to Gorham, was nipped at the plate. McFadden made his way around to third and scored when Andrus, the Straths new catcher, made a thoughtless heave in the direction of second, where, alas, there was no one. Cahill's strikeout retired the side and there ended the T. A. S. counting for the day.

The Straths got one in the fourth, when Weatherstone rapped out a timely single, stole second, and scored on Kendry's thoughtful wallop over the middle station.

The tying run came in the sixth, and was pure charity. Curtis received a floater in the ribs, stole second, went to third on Cahills' error, and scored when Quinlan and McFadden got their signals tangled, and a passed ball resulted.

There was nothing more doing until the ninth. Shaw, first up for the Straths, missed three, but as McFadden also dropped the last one and proceeded to hit Shaw in the spinal column as he steamed up for first. The incident was very encouraging from a Strathcona standpoint. Weatherstone hunted along towards Mr Callaghan's corner and the cold water third baseman, imagining for a moment that it was a game of croquet, and he was a hoop, allowed the sphere to trickle through his under pinnings More delight in the Straths' camp. Then Shaw and Weatherstone carried out a well-planned grand larceny at second and third. The decision at third was close, so close that the Abstainers complained to the well-trained umpire, Mortimer McGill Kendry hammered out a grounder to Flaherty and died a martyr's death at first, but Shaw had gallopped home with a run. Andrus pushed a roller at Quinlan, who hurled the sphere home to McFadden, who put up his mit expectantly and then dropped the ball, Weatherstone coming home in the excitement. There was nothing further doing however, as Heaslip missed three and Andrus perished within sight of home on an ambitious attempt to steal the plate.

The Abstainers tried hard in their half, but beyond getting McFadden a complimentary on four wide ones, could do nothing and the game was over.

The statistical side of the surprise party is best expressed by the following figures:

There were dread and weird doings at Nicholls Oval in the second game between Park Street and the West Ends Saturday afternoon, and out of the gloom and dismalness came a very one-sided decision for the Park St. A. C., who annexed the contest by a score of 14 runs to 1.

The game was by far the loosest and most uninteresting one pulled off in the league this season. The only feature of the contest was the fielding of Park St. and Dusty's fine pitching. He was almost a whole team by himself, and allowed the Wtst Enders only one bingle, which was corralled by Falton in the seventh.

"Bud" Swanson, of Milwaukee, formerly of this city, was chosen to pitch for the Oldham contingent, after a long period of inaction, yielded three runs in the two-thirds innings of his incumbency, and gave place to Rose, who fared little better, and was replaced by Kirn, in the fifth, but he, too, was unable to check the onward march of the Park Streets, and gave way to Callaghan, a kid pitcher, in the seventh, who fared better than any of his team mates, holding the winners to two scratch hits and one run in the two sessions he worked.

The main cause of the West Ends overwhelming defeat was due to the wildness of the pitchers, none of whom seemed to be able to locate the plate at all and seven of the nine charities they issued figured in run getting, and at times they received weird support from their team mates and their inability to hit Dusty.

Score by Innings.

The West Ends went to bat first, and Gibson, who was first up, got life on Pentland's fumble; stole second and third. Menzies fanned Halpin, got first on a fielder's choice, Gibson scoring, the throw being too late. N. Dusty made a wide heave to second to catch Halpin, the ball going to centre field; Crowe picked it up and by a nice throw, caught the runner at third. Fallon grounded out to Jack Pilling. This ended the West Ends' run getting.—One run.

For Park Street Jim Pilling was an easy out, Halpin to Rose. Crowe got hit, he stole second and scored on Jack Pilling's safety. O'Brien fanned. B. Dusty got life on Dickie's fumble. J. Pilling scored. Pentland hit an easy one to Swanson, who threw the sphere to the cinder track, Dusty tallying. At this juncture Manager Oldham relieved Swanson and placed Rose on the mound. E. Pilling, who was next up, grounded out Dickie to Kirn.—Three runs.

The West Ends went out in order in their half of the second.

For Park Street N. Dusty was out Halpin to Kirn. Rose hit Bell and passed Jim Pilling and Crowe, filling the cushions. Jack Pilling got first on Menzie's error, Bell scoring. O'Brien hit safely, sending Jim Pilling and Crowe across the plate. Ben Dusty went out, Halpin to Kirn, Jack Pilling tallying. Pentland was safe on Gibson's fumble, O'Brien going home for another counter. E. Pilling was hit by the pitcher. Pentland was caught napping off second, ending the innings.—Five runs.

Both sides went out one, two, three in the third.

West Ends repeated in the fourth, but the South Enders added another brace. Jack Pilling got life on Menzie's error, while O'Brien took first on Rose's misplay. Pilling was caught off second. Ben Dusty singled, scoring O'Brien. Pentland got first, when Rose booted his easy bounder. Dusty scored on a passed ball. E. Pilling lifted one to Halpin, who doubled Pentland at second.—Two runs.

There was nothing doing for the West Ends in the fifth.

Kirn replaced Rose on the firing line. N. Dusty was safe on Kirn's error. Bell was hit. Jim Pilling doubled to right, scoring Dusty and Bell. Crowe got his third complimentary. Jim Pilling and O'Brien struck out while B. Dusty ended the innings by grounding out Dickie to Rose.—Two runs.

West Ends were retired in order again in the sixth, while Park Street raised the score by adding another run. Pentland, who was first up, walked. E. Pilling fanned. N. Dusty was safe when Halpin fell down on an easy grounder. Bell was safe on Mennie's error, Pentland scoring; Jim Pilling fouled out to Seymour, who replaced Gibson at third.—One run.

West Ends had a chance for another score in the seventh by a nice throw by N. Dusty, nipped Fallon at the plate.

Callaghan, a kid heaver, replaced Kirn in the seventh and he retired the side in order.

In the eighth the West Ends were handed another goose egg, while Park Street piled up another. E. Pilling grounded out to Rose. N. Dusty singled to left, stole second and third and scored on a passed ball. Bell flied out to Callaghan and Jim Pilling fanned.

In the ninth Manager Oldham sent in Dawson to bat for Fallon, but his best efforts resulted in a strike out. The manager himself went in for Rose but, like Dawson, fell a victim to Dusty's shoots. The game was over when Jack Deannard, who was batting for Dickie, fanned the atmosphere.

WELL! WHATCHA KNOW ABOUT THAT?

Snapshot of a T. A. S. Fan at the Conclusion of the Strathcona-T. A. S. Baseball Game.

SUGGESTS A METHOD TO MAKE NATIONAL GAME LESS ROUGH

How to keep our national game clean seems to be a lively topic, but does it ever occur to the lacrosse fan of to-day that the baggy stick has a lot to do with unnecessary roughness and slashing players indulge in in order to dislodge the ball in an opponent's stick?

Some of the old-time followers of the game will remember (said an official of the Shamrocks to the Star) when our old friend Henry McLaughlin who was then honorary secretary of our club, used to announce through a large 10x4 poster that the Toronto men were coming.

Well, we would all talk about it, and on the appointed day hike up to see what the Torontos were really going to do.

When the referee would gather the players about him, one would notice that the captains would inspect the lacrosse sticks of their opponents, and if any of the players had a baggy stick, the referee's attention would be drawn to it and another stick would have to be substituted.

I claim that if the baggy stick was done away with, the game would be cleaner and fairer.

Picture a player with a baggy stick. He gets possession of the ball. Say, for instance, he is on his attack. The ball lodges in the bag; he advances towards the defence player, he checks his stick, the ball does not budge; again and again he tries, but to no purpose, he loses his head or he has to try the up-check, and to successfully check up he has to be very fast.

What is the result? The followers of each team urge the man on to take chances. The defence man checks hard and fast to see if he cannot knock the ball off his opponent's stick, with the result as you'll remember in a game played this present summer, the stick was actually knocked out of a home player's hands, and the defender had to go and keep company with the timers for five minutes.

Now, I would suggest; let the officials who handle our games see that the running strings are tightened a little at least, and you will find that the game will be cleaner and faster.—Montreal Star.

SVANBERG HAD NO TROUBLE IN BEATING TOM LONGBOAT

Toronto, July 19.—John Svanberg the tow-haired Swede, has met Tom Longboat three times, and each time has come off a victor over the Indian Saturday night at the island he beat Longboat in a fifteen-mile race in the fast time of 1.23,24 2-5. The two former occasions were in the Olympic Marathon at Shepherd's Bush, where the Swede finished eighth, and in the Chicago Marathon, which was won by Svanberg. The Swede will remain in Toronto for a week in an effort to get a fifteen-mile race with Shrubb to which he seems entitled. After that race, if he is successful in arranging it, he will return to Sweden for a rest of some months.

Svanberg beat Longboat a quarter of a mile in fifteen Saturday night and always had a shade on the Onondaga. Longboat set off in front at the crack of the gun, adopting Shrubb's tactics of sprinting to acquire an early lead. Svanberg refused to follow the Indian's dizzy pace, and Longboat ran the half in 2.25, and the first mile in five minutes flat. Svanberg gradually crept up on the Indian and finally drew away from him until he had gained two hundred yards. There he ran steadily for a mile, and set out to lap the redskin, which he did in the third mile.

Longboat tried several times to get away from Svanberg, and sprinted into the leadership of fifty yards on several occasions, but Ernie Hertberg's galloper was quite able to overhaul Longboat whenever he wished. He ran around Tom several times just to show the Indian that he was in the neighbourhood and with a full head of steam. Near the end of the contest he cut loose with a sprint like a 440 man, and sailed across the line an easy winner. Hertberg claims that Svanberg has done 1.22.40 for fifteen miles, and truly his performance Saturday night looked as though he might be capable of such a feat. The Swede runs much after the style of Shrubb, and has great speed as well as endurance. He invariably finishes his races, no matter what the distance or the track conditions.

EASTETN ATHLETES WON 11 EVENTS IN THE WEST

Winnipeg, July 18.—The East and West divided the honours in athletics yesterday, though the distinguishing and most-coveted prize of the all-round championship of Canada was wrested from the Eastern stalwarts. The sweep which had been conceded to the latter did not materialize, for of the nineteen events on the programme yesterday the West captured eight, while eleven were annexed by the Eastern brigade. That the championship was captured for the West is due altogether to J. H. Gillis, a husky policeman of Vancouver, and the dark horse of the meeting, who won four firsts, one second and one third, which gave him 24 points, while the best that Barber, who was picked to capture this honour, could do was 21, with two firsts, three seconds and three thirds.

J. H. Gillis and his fellow-member of the Vancouver Police Force, Duncan Gillis, who, by the way, are not related, were unbeatable in the shot, hammer and discus, and between them they also lowered the Eastern colours in the jumping events.

The most remarkable performance of the meeting, which was one of unequalified success, was given by G. H. Goulding, of Toronto, who proved that he is in a class by himself in his favourite branch of athletics. He covered the mile in six minutes 25 1-5 seconds, or 4-5 of a second better than the record hung up by Larned. Goulding also broke the Canadian record for three miles

BRINTONS TIED WITH LAKEFIELD

The Brintons' football club journeyed to Lakefield on Saturday and played an exhibition game with the Midland League team of that place. A very interesting game was the result and after an hour's hard playing, the score was a tie 2 to 2, Brintons scoring the first and Lakefield the last two goals. The Brintons team lined up as follows:

Goal, D. Ferguson; backs, A. Bishop and A. Rue; half backs, C. Downes A. Ashton and Wright; forwards, Fall T. Monk, H. Davis, Murdock and Williams.

Referee—Mr. Skilding, of the Brintons.

Young's Point, July 19.—Two Toronto boys, who are making a canoe trip through the Kawartha Lakes, were the victims of an unpleasant accident here on Saturday afternoon. They arrived as Dr. Jebb's launch was being locked through and attempted to come through with their canoe. The water was let into the lock pretty fast upsetting the canoe. The occupants were quickly rescued, but all their luggage was thrown into the water and was only secured after considerable difficulty. The accident necessitated them making camp here for the night.

Workmen Turned Up Cartridge Of Nitro-Glycerine In Cellar

The finding of three cartridges of nitro-glycerine in the cellar of the old Cameron home, on McDonald St., where excavations are now under way for the foundations of the new public library, has been the subject of considerable discussion among the men at the corner of George and McDonel streets, and the work of taking out the gravel and earth is now nearly completed. When the men were clearing away the walls of the old cellar, which had been filled with rubbish, Thomas King discovered a tin box, which, out of curiosity, he opened. He was not sure that he knew what it contained, but William Leslie who has had considerable experience in handling explosives, stated that it was nitro-glycerine. He had been a miner and handled it every day for nearly three years. To an Examiner reporter he said there must have been fifteen ounces in the three sticks. "If King had struck that box with his pick—well, I don't know what would have happened, but I hate to think of the danger we were in. None of us would have escaped if that stuff had exploded." The house at one time belonged to Mr. William Cameron. No one could explain the presence of the explosive in the old, filled-in cellar.

GYPSIES INVOLVED IN A CASE AT OTTAWA

Arises Out of the Wedding Said to Have Taken Place Here a Couple of Weeks Ago—Queen is Here To-day Securing Evidence of the Ceremony and the Case Will be Fought Out—Are Accused of Having Carried Away a Girl—Mexican Gypsies Deny the Charge and Say That the Wedding Took Place All Right.

The gypsies are back again.

That is, the king and queen of the tribe which visited here some weeks ago, with a few retainers, arrived here on the early train this morning from Ottawa.

It may be thought that their return visit was actuated by the fact that they were so impressed with the beauty and hospitality of Peterborough but such is not the case, their presence here to-day being occasioned by a police court case, in which they are involved in Ottawa, and which arose out of that famous wedding festival which marked the last days of the tribe's residence in Peterborough. Queen Rosie was heard to state her case this morning. She alleges that while her tribe was here one of the younger men of her camp fell in love with a girl of the other tribe, whose tents were pitched near their caravan in the south end of the city. A consultation between the heads of the tribes is said to have taken place, which resulted, she says, in Queen Rosie's paying $1,000 for the girl and in the wedding ceremony taking place here. When they reached Ottawa, however, the other tribe took the girl away, said that there had been no wedding, and accused Queen Rosie's tribe of abducting the girl.

It is for the purpose of securing evidence of the marriage that the members of the tribe are in Peterborough to-day.

An Ottawa paper refers to the case as follows:

Picturesque gypsies turned the prosaic Hull court into a garden of colour this morning, their visit being due to allegations of kidnapping and a difference of opinion between the Ottawa and Hull bands as to who owns a girl of twelve. The fight was between a man who alleges that he is the husband of the girl, and who is of the Ottawa camp, and the parents, who belong to the Hull side. Katrina Alexis, the girl in question, was kept in the jail to-day, and so far the case has not advanced much, Magistrate Goyette adjourning it until Wednesday. Eli Stockes, a Bulgarian, of the Ottawa camp, was charged with doing the kidnapping on behalf of the supposed husband. There was also a charge against him of using insulting language to a member of the other side named Pietro Steno, a Mexican, whilst his brother, John Stockes, was held on another charge. Both these men are now out on bail.

The complicated circumstances, unraveled, are these: Three weeks ago, when the party were at Peterborough, the parents of Katrina hired her to Steven George, the chief of the Bulgarian tribe. These people are now encamped on the Richmond road. Later the girl complained that she was being badly abused and that she had been threatened with burning. The parents brought her home, and it was shortly after that they allege the kidnapping of the girl took place by Eli Stockes.

Yesterday they went in tears to the home of Recorder Desjardins, of Hull, and begged of him to issue a warrant. The recorder said he had no power and they took their trouble to Magistrate Goyette. He issued a warrant, and P. C. Lafontaine served it on Stockes, securing the girl at the same time.

Kissed Magistrate's Feet.

The authorities deemed it advisable to detain her out of harm's way in the jail, where she would be cared for, but they had reckoned without the affections of the parents. This act was responsible for a picturesque stage show natural amongst the very southern nations, but curious amongst cold-blooded northerners. When they learned that their child was to remain in jail pending the hearing of the case husband and wife joined voices in a plea for her release. A gypsy woman who accompanied them flew up and down the passage excitedly shouting "Fetch our lawyers." They had retained Mr. A. Desjardins and Mr. L. A. Leduc to represent them. So the lawyers were summoned and made special application to Magistrate Goyette for the child's release. As the magistrate left his chambers after saying he could do nothing, the mother fell before him and kissed his feet whilst the father got on his knees. Messrs. Leduc and Desjardins then determined to ask for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Rochon, of the superior court.

The gypsy band in Hull was greatly excited this morning. Chief Genest gave the gypsies notice to move from the city yesterday and the chief of the tribe promised to leave to-morrow.

The Ottawa police have also been asked to look into the matter, but by the band encamped on the Ottawa side of the river, who charge that the kidnapping is by the Hull gypsies.

The Wedding Day

Whether or not a marriage was performed during the afternoon of June 30th is of little import to the Peterborough people, but for the fact that there were many present at the time the ceremony was supposed to have been performed and they are probably in doubt yet. An Examiner reporter was among the crowd who sweltered beneath the hot June sun waiting for the culmination of Dan Cupid's work. Everyone seemed to have had a different story of how the wedding would be performed and all were wild guesses. The 57th Band was kept busy playing for the gypsies who danced continuously a sort of Spanish dance, a form of the fandango. The afternoon wore on and the reporter saw nothing which even suggested to him that a marriage had been solemnized. These gypsies were natural dancers and their fascinating graceful movements through their dance was continued throughout the afternoon. There was a young girl and a man who were distinguishable from the rest by brighter raiments which were considered the wedding garb. The proceedings and their significance was lost on the reporter. One of the men said the wedding would not be held until five o'clock, and in this manner there seemed to be a different story at every turn.

The reporter finally met one of the younger girls who closely resembled Rosie, the Queen, and was almost as gaily dressed. At first she stated that she had been married.

"Well do you mind giving your full name?" was asked of her.

"I'm the Queen," she replied with a sidelong glance to see how the reporter was accepting her story.

"Well then you're Rosie."

Yes she was Rosie until the reporter suggested that she might say something which had at least a semblance of truth. He also remarked that she was better looking than the Queen and that helped a great deal. The girl then gave the names of the parties who were generally reported to be the pair, but after a little further questioning she stated that there was no marriage. It was just a little fun. She explained the band's presence by saying that they wanted to have a dance and a little celebration. Whether her story was true or not remains for those who know, to settle. An older woman told the reporter that there was a wedding, but that the making of it binding in the eyes of the law was carried out in a church the same as the Canadian ceremony, but they first had their own method or rite.

HARVESTING TO BE COMMENCED BY AUGUST 20 IS THE PREDICTION

Winnipeg, July 20.—"Harvest should commence about Aug. 20," says the Canadian Northern Railway weekly crop report in the message from Warman and it is practically the same from all over the west.

Each of the agents tell the story of magnificent prospects, with a great big crop in view. Wheat is now 40 to 46 inches high at Humbolt, and most other places it has attained a height of 30 inches.

The grain is all said to be much ahead of last year and is looking very well. No damage is reported.

In some districts dealers report large sales of harvesting machinery in anticipation of bumper crop.

Concerning flax, the report says that there will be a heavy crop.

Bulls and Bears Both Satisfied.

New York, July 20.—The Herald's survey of the grain situation says:

Recent evidences of a very small surplus of old wheat have created a strong bullish feeling in the minds of traders generally, who believe that the new crop will be wanted and that buyers will be willing to pay a good price.

The world is waiting for the movement of the new American crop. In the first place shorts are waiting for wheat to fill contracts. Mills, many of which have been forced to close down, on account of the lack of supplies are anxiously waiting for new wheat to grind, and Europe is looking to America for a goodly supply of wheat to fill deficiencies in the foreign stocks and make up for rather poor crops abroad. The fact that old crop wheat for months has been selling around $1.25 to $1.45 from Kansas City to the seaboard speaks well for the strength of the situation, and while many authorities agree that it would be difficult to hold values at this figure, when the new crop begins to move in volume, it is the general belief that the new crop wheat will command a very good price.

Conditions point to a liberal crop of wheat this year in America and in Canada, but unless indications are very deceptive a good crop will be needed and readily absorbed. The outlook at present is for a total yield in the United States of around 700,000,000 bushels, and the price at which the crop will be marketed will depend largely on the appearance of the demand from abroad. The Canadian crop will be our chief competitor, and so far indications point to a very large Canadian crop this year. Wheat is still moving from the Argentine in considerable volume, and reports from India and Russia are favorable, although on the continent and in the United Kingdom it is believed that this year's yield will be somewhat deficient.

DROPPED DEAD ON THE STREET FROM HEART TROUBLE

Sudden Demise of Mr. William S. Cocks, a Well Known Local Painter—Was Returning From a Walk When the Call Came.

Death's call came with startling unexpectedness to Mr. William S. Cocks, 155 Dublin street yesterday afternoon. Mr. Cocks had been in ill health for some time suffering with heart and stomach trouble and had been in the doctor's care being unable to do any work. For the last few days he had been feeling improved, however, and yesterday afternoon, after calling at Dr. Morgan's office, walked over to the Fifth Ward to look at some property. He was apparently in his usual condition then, and after resting for a while started for home. Mr. Jas. Gates with him and as they reached a point on Dublin street, about half way between Water and George Sts., Mr. Cocks suddenly staggered and would have fallen had not his companion caught him and let him down gently on the pavement. Drs. McPherson and Burnham happened to be passing at the time and hurried to the spot. A moment's investigation showed them that the unfortunate man was dead and the probabilities are that he died instantly from heart disease. He was removed to his home on Dublin street, just a short distance away.

The deceased was sixty-one years of age and had lived in Peterborough for many years. By trade, he was a painter and decorator, and was known and respected by a very large number of citizens, who will be shocked by his sudden and unexpected demise. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Mr. J. J. Cocks, grocer, at the corner of George and Dublin streets, and Frederick Cocks of Toronto.

The funeral will leave the family residence, 155 Dublin street to-morrow, Wednesday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock to Little Lake cemetery.

FOWLER'S TORIC LENSES

My! How the orders did come in as soon as we told you that we were in a position to grind these lenses, at a reasonable cost. They came in almost faster than we could handle them, but we don't believe at that that any customer was kept waiting as long as if we had to send out of the city for them. We are making about the prettiest lenses that can be imagined, and making them right, and we appreciate very much the unanimity with which our customers all over the country started to send in their order for this new style of Toric Lenses. All work positively guaranteed.

THE ROSS RIFLE.

It is additional reason for pride and satisfaction to Canadians that the Ross Rifles used by the Canadian team at Bisley with such splendid results, were not, as claimed by the teams from other countries, made specially for these matches. The rifles used at Bisley to win the McKinnon, the Kolapore and the Jubilee Cup were the regular Canadian service rifle, identical with those issued to regulars and volunteers. There were no special rifles made for the team.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Canada is a big country. Three thousand miles away we have British Columbia, the occidental Ultima Thule, the jumping-off place, a great province, which rises into mighty mountain peaks to get a view over the immense Pacific stretching west, till west it becomes east in a wide pathway of commerce, half of the girth of the globe. British Columbia is a great country full of resources, full of people, or rather with a good few people who make a noise like a full house. There is no light under the bushel about them. They have a splendid country and they are as they have reason to be, not ashamed of it. Apropos of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition the Vancouver World issues a splendid "Book of Vancouver," which sets forth poetically and prosaically the resources and opportunities of the sea-of-mountains province. Poetically, Vancouver is variously referred to as "The Lion Gateway to the Orient," "the Half-Way House of the All-Red Route," and in Kipling's characterization, "Vancouver, the keystone to the greatest commercial arch in the world," all of which is very pretty, and what is prettier, is true. This is shown in the more prosaic parts of the book, which takes a hundred beautifully illustrated folio pages descriptive and illustrative of the commercial possibilities and inexhaustible natural resources of British Columbia. The Book is a credit to the enterprise and publishing resources of the World.

THE CLAY BELT OPPORTUNITY

The wisdom and foresight of the Ross Government in opening up by exploration in 1900 the hidden wealth of resources of "New Ontario" are receiving continued emphasis and justification. The discovered clay belt is proof that this wealth is not confined to minerals but represents a mine that will give employment and sustenance to hundreds of thousands, if not millions. The clay belt is situated north of the Height of Land and its plentiful waters flow into James Bay. It contains about sixteen million acres and extends from north of Port Arthur on the west to and beyond the interprovincial boundary between Ontario and Quebec. It averages in width from north to south about 120 miles. The clay belt is plentifully timbered with the "original" spruce forest, which will yield a plentiful supply of pulp wood. Thanks to the Dominion Government and to the initiative of the Ross Government, supplemented by the enterprise of the Whitney Government, the clay belt is well served with railway communication. The Grand Trunk Pacific enters it from Quebec at the northern limit of Lake Abitibi and pierces it in a westerly direction nearly 400 miles The Provincial Railway passing through the middle of the belt taps the Transcontinental line at the new town of Cochrane which is about 500 miles north of Peterborough. Already settlers are going by the Provincial Railway and in time this region will probably be well settled. In other countries as for north exist thriving and populous areas of cultivation. The Provincial Government is establishing an experimental farm in this region. In respect of the agricultural possibilities of this new district . C. C. James, Deputy Minster of Agriculture, says:

"The officers of this Department are quite of the opinion that, with the clearing of the land and such drainage as would be necessary on any other farm land in Ontario, this great belt can be and will be utilized for agricultural production. It may not be a rival of the prairie countries for wheat production, but it has all the indications of being able to carry live stock in large numbers. It his some advantages over prairie country in that it is well wooded and well watered."

It will probably not be long before the golden harvests of the clay belt, will be added to the silver harvests of other parts of New Ontario. The fact that this belt is thickly covered with a virgin spruce forest throws a peculiar responsibility upon the Government of the Province. From the very beginning the government should provide for the preservation, or rather, perhaps, the most profitable form of exploitation of the spruce resources of the district. If, in the beginning of the settlement of Older Ontario we had had the same appreciation of the value of the splendid forests that clothed it; if we had appreciated, as we do now, how much its destruction would have caused our climatic conditions to deteriorate, how much more profitably it could have been handled. Instead of being sent up in profitless smoke, we should have previously and now been much better off in every way —we should have had much of it remaining to be a cause of more equable rainful, and to be a source of great commercial profit. The Ontario Department of Agriculture has begun in Older Ontario a system of local municipal forest reserves—"where there are trees these are being carefully protected from fire and live stock; where there is little or no tree growth, seedlings will be sent out from the government nurseries; and it is expected that within a few years blocks of municipal forest reserves will be established in different parts of the province, varying in extent from five to two hundred thousand acres each. Up to the present the Forestry Branch of the Department has surveyed and examined about 125,000 acres in the older sections of the province suitable for the purpose."

While this action is eminently proper and,in every way, commendable, it will be a slow, tedious and expensive process, from which the present generation will derive little advantage, beyond its educative value.

It is the doing of something that never should have been made necessary and advisable. If proper precautions in cutting, clearing and selection of areas to be cleared, had been adopted and practised, there would not have been the present necessity of reproductive forestry operations. In the clay belt, the government has an excellent opportunity of adopting and applying the wise policy of forest conservation. The settler should not be turned loose with a vicious axe to cut and carve the spruce forest at his will and with regard only to putting it out of the way for clearance purposes. Restrictions should be imposed as to the extent to which clearing should be practiced. Only the land to be devoted to cultivation should be cut over and the erection of large and dreary "slashes," the kindling wood of destructive forest fires, should be prevented. From the very beginning of settlement efficient fire ranging should be provided for. Restriction of the cut when spruce is commercially exploited, should be enforced—only matured timber should be cut leaving the younger trees to grow in size and value. There will probably not be much pulpwood on the log sent out, its bulky nature making railway haulage expensive. But there are doubtless many water powers and the erection of pulp and paper mills will represent a new industry, yielding a product in the way of mechanical pulp or paper whose increased value over the raw material will easily justify the expense of railway shipment. The government should learn a lesson from the past, and provide that in New Ontario the people shall not only have the full benefit of the development of our forest resources, but also the benefit of the favourable meterological conditions consistent with frequent areas of standing and growing timber. The conditions are unsurpassable for the application of a sane forestry policy, both in the matter of conservation and utilization.

MACKENZIE'S REPUTATION.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

The Banner of Dundas, where William Lyon Mackenzie was well known, in urging that a monument to "The Little Patriot" be erected on Parliament Hill, Ottawa, remarks on the "evolution of opinion" amongst public men and political newspapers as to the Rebellion of 1837:

The term "rebel," as applied to Mackenzie and the Reformer of 1837, is no longer a reproach but an honour. There is a well authenticated story that, on one occasion, Mackenzie's youngest child complained to him of being called "rebel Mackenzie's daughter." "Never mind my lass," said the old patriot, "the time will come when you will be proud of it." The child of the story is now the wife of John King, K.C., the eminent barrister, Toronto, and the proud mother of the Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, M. P., a decore of His Majesty the King, and the Minister of Labour of Canada. The whirligig of time brings its revenges and surely this is one of them, the grandson of the "Rebel" of 1837 a trusted adviser of the King's representative in the larger part of his oversea Dominions.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, one of the greatest Colonial Ministers of modern times, justified the Rebellion as a member of the Imperial Government in the British House of Commons. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as Prime Minister did the same in the Canadian House. The list mght be considerably extended and prominent journals of Britain and Canada have concurred.

The London Spectator, a high class independent English journal of wide influence, a few months ago in reviewing a life of Mackenzie said:

He had sacrificed health, comfort, and property on the altar of his country's welfare; but he had handed down the memory of splendid, hard-bitten, fearless integrity. In judging him we have to face the old casuistical question about the rectitude of rebellion. Mackenzie himself admitted that he had erred, but we need not take the despairing apology of an exile as the final verdict of history. There can be no doubt about the grievous maladministration of Upper Canada, and the hopelessness of the Constitutional arrangement with Britain. The question is, would reform have come by pacific means? On the whole, we agree with the author of this book that Mackenzie was justified by necessity. It was the rebellion in Canada which brought out Lord Durham, and, even after his report, it was many years before grievances were finally remedied. In time, no doubt, reform would have come, but men can not be expected to wait all their lives on the processes of time. Maskenzie without doubt was a great patriot, and he suffered greatly.

ARRESTED FOR STANDING.

Man Who Wouldn't Kneel In Church Goes to Jail.

Montreal, July 20.—J. A. Lalonde, a traveler for the Redmond Co., Ltd., and a French Catholic, who attended the Lachine Catholic Church Sunday, refused to kneel when the host was elevated, as he had no seat, and had to stand the whole service. Policeman Aubin ordered him to kneel, and when he refused arrested him. When the chief of police heard it he released him. He had spent an hour in the jail. He entered three actions yesterday, $10,000 against Aubin, $5,000 against the parish church, $5,000 against the town.

The arrest in Lachine Church arose from misunderstanding. Lalonde was a good Catholic but at his church the rule is to kneel when the benediction bell rings. The constable is also porter of the church and it was as porter that he ordered him to kneel. He refused to do so until the bell rang and was ejected. Then the constable got angry and arrested him for making a disturbance.

India In Ferment.

New York, July 20.—After spending several years living in a tent and driving around in a bullock cart preaching the gospel in India, Miss Emily Minor of this city returned on the Caledonia, to remain two or three months with her relatives. Miss Minor went to India 18 years ago, when she was quite a young girl.

"The whole of India," said Miss Minor, "is in a state of unrest. The Brahmins, the high caste, are divided in opposing the present rule. Many of them, while not satisfied, know that the present time is not one in which to attempt the overthrow of English rule. Others want to drive the British out of India and rule the country themselves. From what I've seen, however, English rule is the best in the world, excepting, of course, our own.

"The lower classes are progressing under the work of the English school and the mission schools. Some of them are so well advanced that they are taking up official positions."

Eight Hundred Should Be Hanged.

Constantinople, July 20.—The report of the court martial on the Adena massacre concludes as follows:

"Fifteen persons have been hanged; 800 deserve death; 15,000 deserve hard labor for life; 80,000 deserve minor sentences. If it is decided to proceed with the punishment we will cordon the town and deal expeditiously with the matter."

In view, however, of the reconciliation between the opposing elements, the report recommends that a general amnesty be made the occasion of a national festival.

Caledon Man Drowns.

Regina, Sask., July 20.—At Wascana Creek, some miles northwest of Grand Coulee, Herbert Middleton, aged 22, of Caledon, Ont., went in the water for a swim, was seized with cramps while swimming and was drowned.

Must Build Cattle Guards.

Ottawa, July 20.—The Railway Commission yesterday morning issued an order that all railways must, before Jan. 1, 1911, erect and maintain on each side of the right of way fences of minimum height of four feet, six inches, with swing gates at farm crossings and cattle guards on each side of the highway.

The width of approaches to rural railway crossings must be twenty feet road surface on concessions and main roads, and sixteen feet on side and bush roads.

Wanted Him Put Away.

Chatham, July 20.—William Kane, alias Wm. Martin, was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison. Kane was arrested for vagrancy. He formerly lived in St. Thomas, and the chief of police of that city asked the Chatham authorities to give him the limit.

Must Close at 7 p.m.

Montreal, July 20.—The City Council yesterday decided to take steps at once to enforce the early closing by-law, which makes it compulsory for all stores to close at 7 o'clock on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Fruit Growing In The Kootenay District Of British Columbia

An Interesting Letter on the Subject by the Pioneer Fruit Grower of the Pacific Province.

British Columbia is our farthest west sister province, and to most Ontarians our knowledge of its wonderful and varied riches—mine, forest, and fruit. The written or printed word is our most intimate realism. The soil and climate of the western province are well adapted to fruit. It is only within the last few years that the development of the fruit possibility of British Columbia took practical shape. Many of our Peterborough farmers are more or less smitten with the western fever. To those who are likely to yield to the wanderlust perhaps some reliable information, in regard to fruit growing in the Kootenay country, British Columbia will be of practical interest. The following article on this subject is written by Mr. Charles Clements, one of the first settlers in the Whatshan valley, the same in which is situated the fruit farm of Mr. J. J. McBain, formerly of Peterborough, and at present manager of the Columbia Valley Land Company: To the Editor of The Examiner.

In discussing fruit growing in the Kootenay, I shall have special reference to the Arrow Lakes District, in the Columbia Valley, West Kootenay, where I have had several years' experience.

There are two ways of reaching this district. First, by way of the C. P. R. main line to Revelstoke, then south by branch line to Arrowhead, and thence by C. P. R. steamers, which ply daily, one each way, between Arrowhead at the north and West Robson at the south end of the Arrow Lakes; or, second, by C. P. R. Crow's Nest Line of G. N. R. to West Robson and north by C. P. R. steamers. These lakes are a beautiful stretch of water, 150 miles in length.

To persons brought up in the agricultural districts of Canada and the United States the quantity of good, cultivatable land here seems very small, as the greater bulk of the country is occupied by lakes and mountains, but the small, fertile valleys, and bench-lands along the shores of the lakes and streams are highly productive, and it is only in the last five or six years that their real value has begun to be known.

The principal settlements along the Arrow Lakes are, beginning at the most northerly, Arrowhead, with two large saw-mills, and Galena Bay, with about two thousand acres of agricultural land, on the east side; Fostall Valley, with about four thousand acres of agricultural land, on the west side; the Valley of the Kooskanax at Nakusp, with about six thousand acres of good agricultural land; (here the C. P. R. have established their ship-yards); Mosquito Valley on the west side, entered from Arrow Park; Cariboo Valley, on the east side, entered from Burton City; the Whatshan and Fire Valleys on the west side, entered from Needles; Dog Creek Valley, on the west side, entered from Renata, and Deer Park; two miles further south, on the opposite side.

Very little has yet been done to develop the first three mentioned settlements, but some splendid development work has been done around Nakusp, where about forty new orchards have been planted out, and the settlers are still looking very hopefully into the future. Arrow Park, also, although only one year old, has made a good beginning, and is destined to become a very nice settlement. Burton City has had its share of new arrivals, and although the clearing there is heavier than the average, the settlers are making wonderful progress in developing their new homes. The Whatshan and Fire Valleys, two sister valleys lying side by side, the one especially adapted to fruit culture and the other to dairying and general farming, make a very desirable combination, and can already boast of about seventy-five resident land-owners, and about twenty-five thousand acres of good agricultural land. Some of the oldest orchards on the Arrow Lakes are in the immediate vicinity of Needles. Renata and Deer Park are also making good progress, and are largely settled by Mennonites from the Prairie Provinces.

Physical Conditions of the Country.

The soil is almost exclusively a rich reddish-brown loam, from twelve to twenty inches deep, on top of clay or gravel, mostly sloping, or in broken benches, which seldom exceed a mile in width. The rivers or creeks nearly all flow in deep channels, indicating that the soil is easily disolved in water. From the principal levels of the valleys the land generally rises in a succession of benches, mostly level on top, until it reaches the rocky hills and mountains. Most of the good land that is not in process of clearing or burned off by bush-fires, is covered with a heavy growth of fir, spruce, cedar, alder, willow, or white birch, and the undergrowth consists of swamp, alder, willow, vine maple and a great tangle of wild berry bushes. Where the original forests stands, the timber is very large, running from eighteen inches to four feet in diameter, which makes clearing very expensive, and for this reason, quite a proportion of the good land will not be brought under cultivation for a good many years, as the new settlers naturally choose the more easily cleared land first. Good, pure water is very plentiful, as there are innumerable small streams and springs all over this district. This district seems to be particularly favoured both as to altitude and the precipitation of moisture. It has plenty of natural moisture for horticultural purposes, and is never troubled with late or early frosts. Whereas, the country to the north and east is too high in altitude, and cold; and that to the west and south is too dry.

Climatic Conditions.

The winters here are not cold, the thermometer seldom remains more than three or four days at a time below freezing point, and will not, more than one or two days during the winter season, touch zero. Snow falls to a depth of from two to three feet, the total precipitation of snow for the winter season being about eight feet. As a rule we have good sleighing for about six weeks. Winter, in earnest, is not expected here until after the first of the year, and by the middle of March, it is gone again. Generally, it is very calm.

There is no frost in the ground, so that vegetation is well started as soon as the snow is gone. I have seen fall wheat, which was sown late in the fall, just peeping from the ground when the snow came, that had grown to be two and one-half inches high when the snow went on.

In summer the days are very hot, often reaching from 88 to 92 degrees in the shade, but the nights are very cool. We always expect nice summer showers in June, July and August. Summer frosts are unknown, and the autumn frosts are always delayed long enough to allow the horticulturist ample time to get all his harvest safely gathered, and get his fall plants nicely started.

Social Life and Amusements.

There are plenty of cases where the pioneer selects a lonely isolated place for his future home, but these are and should be the exception on those lakes and the settlers are forming themselves more into communities for social and educational purposes. The policy of the British Columbia Government of establishing schools with government-paid teachers, where there are ten or more children of school age, is a very commendable one, and greatly relieves the anxiety of parents going into a new country like this, with families of small children that have to be educated.

By way of amusement, we have in summer, football matches, picnics, excursions and lectures by government-employed professors, and in winter dances, box-socials, concerts, and church entertainments are frequent occurrences.

The chief holiday attraction, however, to this charming district, where out-of-door living has such a fascination for both young and old, is the wonderful fishing and hunting it provides. The lakes and streams abound in the best varieties of fish, chief among them being the "Rainbow Trout"; and the woods are full of game, principally deer and black bear, on the lower levels, and in the high mountains, mountain goats, mountain sheep, cariboo and grizzly bear. Bird shooting is also good. The country abounds in blue and willow grouse and partridge.

It is bound to be for all time a veritable sportsman's paradise, because about ninety per cent. of it will always remain a gigantic game reserve, occupied by mountain, forest and lakes.

Making a Beginning.

The beginner should, in choosing a location, be careful to select one where there is enough land to support a fair-sized community, so that the cost of maintaining schools and churches will not be too great.

He should also keep in mind the cost of clearing.

Then he should be careful to select the soil best adapted to his purpose. There is some controversy between the early settlers as to whether clay or gravel sub-soil is the better, and in every case, the settler takes which ever side of the argument his own land happens to be on, and they all have a stock of pet arguments to show why the other kind of land is "not quite so good". But, where there is no lack of moisture, and the clay is not too near the surface, they seem to the disinterested judge, to give uniformly good results. I do not think it advisable however to plant out orchards on clay land, as it is better adapted for dairying and grain growing, both of which are very profitable occupations in this country.

With regard to clearing the land, it may be divided into two classes, namely, the green timber country, and the light second growth, where the original timber has all been burned off by bush fires.

In choosing his location, it is important to the settler, that he take this matter into consideration, as the light, second growth on land that has been burned over some years earlier is easily cleared away, and this land can be brought under cultivation at an average cost of from $15 to $20 per acre; while the green timber country cannot be cleared by hand, for less than from $25 to $250 per acre; and there is a lot of good land so heavily timbered that it cannot be profitably cleared by hand, but will come into use later, when capitalists undertake to clear it by the use of expensive steam apparatus.

Good quality of cleared land in this district is easily worth $300 per acre, but in getting at the value of wild land, it is necessary to deduct the cost of clearing and also from one to two years, use of the land where the clearing is difficult.

The first thing for the beginner to do is to clear up a patch and build his cabin; then put the land immediately surrounding it into garden. All kinds of garden produce, such as peas, beans, onions, carrots, parsnips, beets, cabbage, lettuce and tomatoes yield splendid results. The garden once started he can go on with his clearing and cultivating, so as to put his place in the best possible shape for putting out his orchard in the following spring. It is very pleasant to do gardening in this soil, as the surface never bakes or cracks, and there are few weeds to bother one, except farm roots, which are easily conquered, and I have never known land respond to cultivation so effectually. The leguminous do the best at first as they are the most independent of the nitrogen in the soil, not by any means that the soil is deficient in nitrogen, but the land needs cultivation before the nitrogen becomes available for plant food. This is confirmed by the largely increased crop in a year or two after cultivation and clover growing. Native white clover appears everywhere as soon as the bush is removed, and red clover and alfalfa yield enormously. The open country is simply covered with wild fruits. The wild strawberries and huckleberries are about twice as large as those grown in Eastern Canada.

Early Source of Income.

The question, "How does the new settler support himself and his family until product of his land is sufficient for his wants?" is one often asked by people thinking of coming to this country, and in answering it I must say that I would not advise a settler to bring his family into this country unless he has saved up $500 or $600 to help him through the first year or two, because he must spend a large proportion of his first couple of years in labour that is not productive of immediate return. Of course there is plenty of work to be had, if a man wishes to hire out and work for others, and at good wages, but the most profitable work is what he does on his own place, getting it ready for cultivation. The Government of British Columbia have adopted a very progressive policy in the matter of road-building to accommodate new settlers. They are spending a great deal of money in road making, and the settler can earn $3 per day building roads which are adding very much to the value of his place.

Marketing Facilities.

At present, on account of the great activity in prospecting, mining and lumbering throughout the Kootenay country, the price of all farm and garden proruce locally is very high. The settler needs to seek no market. Milk, butter, eggs, garden stuff, hay and oats are eagerly sought by local buyers. The demand cannot, to any extent, be supplied, and much has to be imported. At present dairying and poultry raising do not receive that attention which would seem desirable, largely because the male population predominates so greatly.

There is money in growing potatoes, onions and tomatoes, while the young orchard is coming into bearing. The price of potatoes ranges from $25 to $50 per ton, and this year has gone as high as $65. Onions sell at from $2 to $3 per hundred weight, and tomatoes 8 to 12 cents per pound. Poultry is also a very profitable line, the lowest price for eggs last year was 40 cents per dozen, and average poultry are worth $1 per head.

The time when this country becomes an exporting country, that is when it will seek the market of the prairie country to the east, with its more staple lines, is at least eight or ten years distant, because the development of the mining and lumbering industries will absorb all that can be produced in the meantime. We are, of course at present shipping small fruits very profitably to this market.

When the time does come this country cannot fail to get the preference in the prairie market, because we are the nearest source of supply, and the quality of our fruit and vegetables cannot be excelled in any way. Settlers are coming in from every part of Canada, as well as from the Northern States of the Union, and rapidly changing the appearance of the country by their improvements.

The Orchard.

In developing an orchard, after the ground has been properly prepared, special care should be exercised in selecting the varieties of fruit best adapted to this country in general, and to the land you select in particular. It has been demonstrated that almost all the standard varieties of apples, pears, plums, prunes, cherries, peaches, quince and walnuts, as well as all the small fruits and grapes can be grown here successfully.

But my idea of a successful commercial orchard is, that a grower should confine himself largely to the staple lines, which he can store and ship to the market when the market suits him, rather than the more perishable which have to be marketed upon a time limit or be lost.

The choicest varieties of winter apples were sold this year at from $2 to $3 per box of forty pounds, and the commoner varieties at from $1.50 to $2.00. Whereas the fall apples are worth only $1 to $1.50. Plums brought from 8 to 12 cents per pound, according to variety, and cherries from 10 to 12 cents. Winter pears are worth $2.50 per box, and fall pears $1.50 to $2.00.

Where there is a large family to do the picking, small fruits are very profitable. I would not advise the extensive growing of peaches, except on very sandy land.

The growth of all the orchard trees is very rapid, and then come into bearing here at an earlier age than in any fruit district I have ever visited.

Opportunities of This New Country.

Now then, in answer to the question, "Does it pay to come here and develop a fruit farm?" Yes.

I say yes, although we hear the statement made very often that it does not pay as well as working for the good wages that prevail here, but the explanation is simple.

A large proportion here come from the cities, where they have been accustomed to receiving their salaries or wages, weekly or monthly, in cash, and when a man goes in for developing a fruit farm, he receives no money for his labour, but gets his reward in the improved value of his place, and it takes two years before any big returns for his outlay commences to come in, and it takes about seven years before his orchard comes into commercial bearing. But as surely as he puts a days' work into improving his place so surely will it return him interest on two days' work later on, and if he ever wishe sto dispose of his place after improving it, he can easily get a handsome bonus upon his present investment.

If a man is not contented to take the reward of his labour in the shape of a good farm and comfortable home, instead of in cash, and if he is not willing to put up with the inevitable hardships of the beginner, then let him stay away from here. But if he is willing and able to develop a well-selected fruit farm in this district, he may be assured that it will bring him satisfactory returns, and he will be a more independent and prosperous man, when his place is properly developed, than he can become in any other way that I know of. The best evidence of this is the fabulous prices that are being paid for developed orchards, not only in this district, but in the valleys of Wshington and Oregon to the south of us.

In writing this article I have endeavoured to convey to the inquiring public a correct impression of this, to me, very attractive country, and hope that I have in some measure succeeded.

Yours truly,
CHARLES CLEMENTS,
Meedles, B.C.

Another Sunshine Feature

This is an entirely new idea, and will especially interest people who reside in natural gas districts. The gas ring takes the place of the lower Sunshine fire-pot, thus making it possible to burn gas in your furnace without inconvenience. Such is not possible in a furnace where the ordinary gas log is inserted; for, should the gas give out, a coal or wood fire could not be started until the gas pipes were disconnected.

To provide against sweating in the summer time, Sunshine Furnace is equipped with a nickelled steel radiator and dome. All bolts and rivets are nickelled, all rods copper-plated. This special treatment, besides meaning quicker and greater radiation from the radiator and dome than cold chill iron could possibly give, acts as protection for the bolts, rivets and rods from fumes of gas. When cast iron comes in contact with our nickelled steel it is coated with the special Anti-Rust treatment, which prevents the slightest possibility of rust commencing anywhere in Sunshine Furnace.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING TO-NIGHT

Salaries Settled to Attend—Address and Discussion of the Two By-laws.

An important meeting of the local Board of Trade will be held to-night, in the Council Chamber, when the subject for discussion will be "Smith St. Bridge and Street Extension By-laws." In this connection it is a pleasure to be able to state that Prof. C. R. Young, instructor and lecturer in the Engineering Department of the School of Science of Toronto University, will be present to address the meeting on "Re-inforced Concrete Bridge Construction," a subject that will be timely and instructive. This is the line of work with which Professor Young has to deal in his University teaching and should be found decidedly fascinating as the speaker does not go into wearisome technical details that mystify instead of enlighten. His address will be illustrated by views thrown on canvas by a stereopticon lantern, which Mr. H. O. Fiske has very kindly consented to operate. The pictures will not only illustrate the methods of bridge building but will deal with the appearance of the finished structure from an artistic standpoint. The lecture should prove not only very interesting but highly instructive as well.

At the conclusion of the lecture there will be a general discussion on the by-laws to be voted upon on July 29th. The general public is invited and it will be a good opportunity for the ratepayers to get some information about the by-laws in order that they may be able to intelligently vote on the measures when they are called upon to do so the week after next.

RING WORM AND DANDRUFF.

They Are Each Caused by a Pestiferous Germ.

Ring worm and dandruff are somewhat similar in their origin; each is caused by a parasite. The germ that causes dandruff digs to the root of the hair, and saps its vitality, causing falling hair, and finally, baldness. Without dandruff there would never be baldness, and to cure dandruff it is necessary to kill the germ. There has been no hair preparation that would do this until the discovery of Newbro's Herpicide, which positively kills the dandruff germ, allays itching instantly and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. Take no substitute. There is nothing "just as good." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co. Detroit, Mich.

C.M.B.A. EXCURSION TO HASTINGS JULY 28

Arrangements Made for an Enjoyable Outing to the Village on the Trent.

The C.M.B.A. have arranged completely for their excursion on Wednesday, July 28, to Hastings. The special committee appointed for the purpose have secured the steamer Stoney Lake which will leave the Wolfe street wharf at 8 a.m. The sail across Rice Lake and down the Trent is an enjoyable one and it is expected that a large number will go along with the C.M.B.A. It is expected that the T.A.S. baseball team will go to Hastings to play the village team which is said to be fairly fast this year and may give the locals a good run.

The most cooling of hot weather beverages is iced "Salada" Tea. It is most delicious. 54

ALL THE PATIENTS RETURN TO HOMES

Epidemic Has Been Subdued and Tent is Now Vacated.

The epidemic that necessitated the providing of a tent at the north end of the city is reported by Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., to be at an end and all the patients have been released and are at their homes. No other cases are known in the city and it is hoped that no more will be met with. Those who were at the tent have been carefully attended to and there is no possibility of new cases appearing as a result of the tent being vacated.

SMART GOWNS IN FOULARD FOR MATRON AND MAID

Foulard stil leads as the most popular fabric of the season, and justly so when one considers that it is both pretty and durable It lends itself admirably to the severe scant lines of the prevailing mode.

The first gown of this sketch is for the matron, and is made of plain black satin foulard. The lines are long, broken only by the high belt that fastens at the side of the back. A broad band of white satin heavily braided in soutache edges the collar, sleeves and hem of the gown, and conceals the fastening in the back.

The misses' frock is made of white foulard silk, which has rings of black scantily scattered over its surface. It fastens down the left side of the front under a narrow black-braided hem, which is further decorated with groups of large black velvet buttons.

Is it necessary to state that none but the girl with a graceful, slender figure should attempt to wear this simple but smart little gown, The reason is quite obvious.

London's Fine New Isolation Hospital Has Cost $50,000

Some of the Figures and Facts May Be of Interest to Peterborough People—Western City Has Pretential Building With Every Improvement.

500,000 BRICKS USED

As the subject of an Isolation Hospital is now before the City Council and the citizens in general are undoubtedly interested in it, the Examiner publishes the following details of the new isolation hospital erected in London at a cost of $50,000:

The hospital is laid out on the pavilion principle, and the building is planned so as to provide complete isolation in every part and at the same time is extremely compact and capable of complete and easy supervision and economical service. Further, there is perfect intercommunication between the respective pavilions. Provision is made for scarlet fever and diphtheria patients in two, two story pavilions, the upper floors to be used for acute cases and the lower floors for convalescents. Each floor comprises four private wards, public ward to accommodate ten with large solarium on the south side, diet kitchen, linen room, ward office, bath-room, male and female W. C's. and lavatory and service room, and W. C. for nurses in a separate isolated pavilion. Connected with each patient pavilion is an administration pavilion three floors in height.

Ground Floor.

On the ground floor are two detention wards, office, doctors' robing room, disinfecting-room, and clothing stores, exit bathroom and superintendent's bedroom with bath and lavatory en suite. First floor, comprising four nurses' bedrooms, nurses' dining room, bath room, etc., and house maids' service-room. Second floor comprises nurses' dormitory to accommodate six, and two nurses' bedrooms. Between the two administration pavilions is placed the service pavilion, containing on the ground floor a general kitchen with pantry and stores to serve the whole group of buildings, separate diphtheria and scarlet fever maids' dining-rooms, and on the upper floor and isolated from each other, are maids' dormitories, cooks' bedrooms and bathrooms and lavatory. In the basement of this building is the heating chamber, with boiler-room in a separate, one-story annex. All the respective pavilions are connected, by covered ways and covered bridges, which allow a complete circulation of air between them.

An Open Outlook.

The hospital is laid out so that every ward, sleeping-room and living-room has an open outlook. Corridor and service-room only being lighted from the court yard. The public wards and the service buildings are designed so that in case of an epidemic the accommodation can be doubled without destroying the efficiency of the building or overcrowding. The whole of the internal communication, corridors, passages, staircases, bridges, covered ways, etc., are of fireproof construction, constituting a perfect internal fire escape in case of fire or panic. The natural lighting and ventilation of the buildings are perfect and every part is capable of being cross ventilated, and there is not a dark corner in the whole of the building. The artificial lighting is electric.

The hospital is heated and ventilated on the plenum principle, supplemented with direct steam heating in parts, and the system gives a ten-minute air change in all parts of the building.

The total cost of the building, exclusive of land, was $50,504.86.

The hospital possesses 20,578 square feet of floor space. The air space is 225,358 cubic feet.

It required nearly 500,000 bricks to build it.

If they were laid one upon another the bricks would form a monument 21 miles high.

Western Canada Reported To Need 20,000 Men For Harvest

The west is beginning to call for men for the harvest fields. It is too early yet to fix upon a definite figure, but the number spoken of is from 20,000 to 25,000.

Efforts are being made by the various railways to regulate the supply so as to prevent congestion at some points and scarcity in others. Stricter regulations will be enforced this year than in the past in order to prevent unbecoming behaviour on the part of excitable persons under the influence of drink.

Special officers will accompany the cheap harvesters excursions, whose duty it will be to see that order is enforced on the trains. One of the difficulties created last year in connection with the distribution of the hands was that the larger proportion of the men insisted upon being carried as far as their excursion tickets entitled them to go regardless of whether there was work there or not. In other words they insisted upon being taken past places where work was plentiful to others where none was available.

The authorities recognise that men cannot be deprived absolutely of liberty of choice but they think they ought to be governed by common sense and act upon good advice.

COULD NOT KEEP THIS SECRET

"Six months ago I was cured of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment," writes Mrs. G. A. Swayze, Copenhagen, Elgin Co., Ont. "I had been afflicted for over thirty years and tried all sorts of treatments in vain, so I was surprised and delighted to be cured. I don't care for publicity but would like to tell every one suffering from piles about Dr. Chase's Ointment."

LOCOMOTIVE SO HEAVY IT CANNOT MOVE

New C. P. R. Monster Refuses to Show Itself Off When Under Inspection by Officials.

MOST POWERFUL IN WORLD

Officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway are worried over the disposal of a gold brick in the shape of a monster locomotive, which was built in the Angus shops, at a cost of approximately $35,000.

The locomotive was completed a week or ten days ago and taken out for a trial run between Hochelaga and Mile End, but to the consternation of the many officials who had gathered to see this most wonderful of all locomotives, it refused to haul, and after many fruitless attempts it was taken back to the Angus Shops and the officials returned to their respective duties.

Mr. Vaughan, under whose supervision the locomotive was designed said this morning that he had no statement whatever to make regarding the locomotive, but said through his secretary that the only trouble with the engine was that it was too heavy and that it was taken to the shops in order that the weight might be reduced.

Most Powerful in the World.

The locomotive was intended to be the most powerful locomotive built in Canada, in fact, in the world. It was intended for use on the mountain section of the road and was to do away with the necessity of a pusher.

It is of the Mallet or articulated type and is practically two engines placed under one big boiler, the new feature being that the high pressure cylinders are placed on the rear trucks and the low pressure cylinders are placed over the front trucks, with flexible connections between the two, while the steam from the high pressure cylinders in the rear is superheated on its way to the low pressure cylinders. This is the novelty in this type of engine, but it has failed completely.

The engine weighs 250,000 pounds or 125 tons, without the tender, which, when loaded will weigh 136,000 pounds, making a total weight for locomotive and tender of almost two hundred tons. It is designed to exert a traction force of 56,000 pounds as compared with 36,000 pounds, the power of the largest consolidated locomotives now in the service of the C.P.R. The boiler contains the equivalent of 4,000 feet of heating surface, which should enable the engine to develop approximately 2,200 horse power. The engine as it stands is just 70 feet from end to end.

PREVENTION IS WORTH WHILE.

When you consider the risk to life, the expense, the anxiety which is involved in an attack of appendicitis and a surgical operation, it is certainly worth while to avoid it by keeping the liver and bowels regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Doctors are now unanimously of the opinion that appendicitis comes from a neglect to keep the liver and bowels in a healthful condition.

NOT BELLS ON HER TOES BUT TASSELS ON HER HOSE

Here's the newest fad in hosiery introduced of course by the progressive Parisienne for wear with her fascinating slippers and pumps. Our girls will not be far behind, we venture to predict, in following this pretty fashion.

They, too, are tired of gauze and lace, embroidered and plain stockings in all colors, and they will be glad to have something new to wear in that line.

So on rainy days hereafter, if the wind blows, too, mere man may discover accidentally that our pretty modish maids wear—not bells on their toes, but tassels on their hose.

ORANGEMEN AT HASTINGS

Several Lodges Turned Out and Celebrated the 12th in That Village.

Special to The Examiner.

Hastings, July 17.—Monday was a very busy day here, it being the celebration of the Battle of the Boyne. Several lodges of Orangemen turned out and took part in the parade, accompanied by the different bands, which supplied plenty of music for the occasion. A great many visitors were in town, coming via railway, steamboat, and carriages, and those who were supplying refreshments did a lively trade, especially the ladies of the different churches, who served meals in various places. The parade, after doing up the town, marched out to Scriver's Grove, where the speeches were listened to, after which they returned to the town and many took in the ball game between Hastings and Campbellford, which proved very interesting. The lodges left early in the evening for their respective homes.

A very large crowd attended the Catholic Foresters excursion to "Idyl Wyld" this week per steamer "Otonabee," music being supplied by the Alderville Band.

Loose Wood In The House Was Cut Up For Stove By Tenants

At the police court this morning Charles Clarke was charged with having damaged the property known as 230 Edinburgh street, belonging to Mrs. Harrison, by having removed several verandah posts. The agent of the property said Clarke became a tenant on Jan. 14th, and he left about May 1st. He gave no notice of leaving, nor was he put out. The three posts on the back verandah were gone when Clarke left. Posts in the cellar supporting the floor are missing since his occupancy. Witness had to have four new ones put in to raise the floor up and support it. Boards have been taken from outside sheds and timbers are gone from the attic. The previous tenant was Silas Bulied. The total damage would amount to $30.00.

To Mr. Gordon witness said he was not sure whether the posts in the cellar had been taken away before Clarke began his tenancy.

Silas Bullied left the house October 7th, 1908. He was not sure whether there were posts in the cellar. There were two or three posts on the verandah. The rent was $12 per month, and witness, considering $10 a large enough sum, left the house.

Thos. Martin boarded with Harry Raymond, who occupied half of the house. Witness said Raymond took boards off the shed and tore out timbers in the garrett. Clarke took one of the verandah posts. It was cut up into stove lengths to heat the house.

Raymond pulled a bed into the garret in order to reach three collar joists which he tore away and cut up for firewood. Martin said that Raymond did the stripping and laid bare the interior of the barn. "His woman" was starving and Mr. Westcott, the father-in-law, had to keep them nearly all winter.

Henry Truesdale, now living in the house, said the shed had been badly racked, and the cellar was minus the posts referred to.

Mrs. Chas. Clarke said she had burned coal all winter, but had never seen the post cut up. It had practically rotted out of its position and fell in the yard.

Mr. Gordon submitted that there was no wilful destruction of property on the part of the defendant. The Magistrate's decision was a fine of five dollars and another "fiver" for damages, add to which was $5.25 costs, making a grand total of $15.25 to be paid in ten days.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Methodists and Baptists on Sunday held services in Zion City.

James Dale, a miner, was assaulted and robbed by three masked men at Cobalt Sunday night.

Charles Butler, aged 28, of Smith's Falls, had his back broken while shunting cars at Brockville.

Four more deaths have occurred in Berlin, Germany, due to the explosion of the fast running motor cycle.

Alice, three-year-old daughter of James Lapointe, curio dealer at Niagara Falls, was drowned Sunday night.

Owing to the rental of $1,900 a year being demanded it is likely the R. I. Club of Cobalt will remove to Port Cobalt, where a cathedral will be erected.

Navigation on the Rideau River above Black Rapids is still considerably impaired by the low water, and the Rideau King and Queen have been stuck on the bottom several times lately.

Matthew Gill, jr., a wealthy retired ironmaster of Philadelphia, was found dead in the driveway of his country home at Dadnor, Pa., with a bullet wound in the head. Nearby was found a revolver.

Three children named Bedard, aged 9, 7 and 5 years, whose home is between Perth and Westport, in Leeds County, accompanied their grandfather when he went for the cows. They wandered away and were lost for the night.

Thrown from his small boat as the tow line from the steamer Woodford jerked taut, Tony Conkey, reporter for the Kendall Marine Agency, was stroked beneath the big steam barge and drowned at Port Huron, Mich. His brother plunged after him, but too late.

G.T.P. Conciliation Board.

Winnipeg, July 20.—The first session of the board of conciliation in the dispute between the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and its operating employes opened yesterday afternoon in the office of H. H. Brewer, general superintendent, and will continue all week.

Hon. R. F. Sutherland is chairman of the board; F. H. McGuigan is representing the company, and J. G. O'Donoghue of Toronto the employes.

The men want an agreement similar to those enjoyed by the employes of the C.P.R. and all other roads, but with modifications to suit conditions along the G.T.P. They have grievances relating to equipment, condition of the roadbed, hours and the care of engines at roundhouses, and they also claim that serious accidents have occurred through lack of proper conditions and precautions.

Fire Underwriters Enter Action.

Ottawa, July 20.—Another action was entered by the Canadian Fire Underwriters against the Willis Faber Co., agents for Lloyds of England. The action is charging the company with doing fire business in Canada without having taken out a license, according to the Federal act, which provides for a fine of $50 or six months in case of violation.

This is a new step in the fight between the insurance companies and the Manufacturers' Association before the Federal House last session. Both parties sent deputations to Ottawa. The underwriters want the unlicensed companies kept out, the C.M.A. want them in to prevent a combine.

New Shah Leaves Father.

London, July 20.—The Teheran correspondent of The Times describes the affecting scene at the parting of the new Shah from his parents. Both his mother and father broke down at the thought of parting with their favorite son, and offered their second son in his place. The boy wept bitterly. Finally Their Majesties, being informed that it was the people's will, were persuaded to agree to the departure of the youthful Shah.

The ex-Shah accepts his strange position with oriental philosophy, and shows no lack of personal dignity. He expressed a desire to live in the Crimea.

Sheriff Clements Dead.

Milton, July 20.—Matthew Clements, sheriff of the County of Halifax, died yesterday afternoon, after an illness extending over several weeks, heart failure being the immediate cause of death.

The late sheriff was in his 83rd year, and was appointed by the Ontario Government in 1882, on the resignation of the late Hon. George C. McKinsey. Prior to his appointment as sheriff, Mr. Clements had held many municipal offices and had been warden of the county.

Two sons and a daughter survive, his wife having died several years ago.

Toronto Woman Falls, Dying.

Owen Sound, July 20.—Mrs. Thomas A. Wells of Farley avenue, Toronto, visiting relatives here, dropped on Bay street yesterday from heart failure and expired shortly after reaching the hospital.

A Bad Accident.

Owen Sound, July 20.—David Cramm, Hepworth, had both legs broken above the knees by his horse taking fright at an automobile and running away.

Killed by Horse's Kick.

Galt, July 20.—Charles Milne, a farm laborer at R. K. Cowan's, while watering the horses Sunday night was kicked by one and died yesterday.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Hogs 10c Higher at Chicago, But Lower at Buffalo.

LONDON, July 19.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 13½c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, July 19.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 89 carloads, consisting of 1812 cattle, 3 hogs, 37 sheep and 41 calves.

Exporters.

As stated above, there were no sales reported, but we saw one of the best loads of cattle on the market—in fact, many good judges reported them the best of their class, weighing about 1250 lbs.—for which $6.10 per cwt. was bid for the local butcher trade.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers' were reported to be worth $5.50 to $5.75, but we did not see any sold at these prices. Loads of good, $5 to $5.40; medium, $4.75 to $5; common, $4 to $4.50; inferior, light, $3.50 to $4; cows, $2.25 to $4.25 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

Fred Rowntree bought 12 milkers and springers at $40 to $50 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices for veal calves were unchanged, at $3 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn reports prices unchanged. Export ewes, $3.50 to $4; rams, $2.25 to $3 per cwt.; lambs, $6 to $7.80 per cwt.

Hogs.

John Nesley reported that the packers of Toronto were a unit, and that they would not pay more than $7.90 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 19.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 17 were 2300 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1600 hogs and 1080 calves, while the supply for local consumption this morning amounted to 1000 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 300 calves.

The condition of the market for cattle was unchanged from a week ago, owing to the fact that supplies were smaller, and this, coupled with much cooler weather and a good demand from local buyers, maintained prices well for all grades. The export demand was quiet on account of the fact that cables from Liverpool on Saturday were again weaker, and noted a further decline in prices of ¼c to ½c per pound, as compared with a week ago, which was due to warm weather and a continued slow trade. One of the principal factors to which are attributed the high prices ruling for cattle this season here and in the west is the fact that United States exporters are operating freely in the Canadian market, on account of values being so much lower than in the Chicago market; consequently large shipments are being made weekly from Toronto to Boston and other ports for export account, which curtails supplies from coming this way, and tends to keep prices up. In this market to-day choice steers sold at 5c to 6¼c; good at 4½c to 5¾c; fair at 5c to 5¼c; medium at 4½c to 4¾c; common at 3½c to 4¼c; and inferior at 2¾c to 3¼c per pound.

The strength which developed in the market for hogs a week ago still continues to be the main feature of the situation on account of the scarcity of supplies, and prices in consequence have scored a further advance of 10c to 15c per 100 pounds, and the indications are that they will go still higher in the near future unless supplies increase materially. The demand from packers to-day was keen, and sales of selected lots were made at $8.90 to $9 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars, and contracts were made for delivery later in the week at $9.10, which is a new high record price for the season.

The only important change in the market for small meats was the stronger feeling in sheep on account of the improved demand from local buyers, and prices advanced ¼c per pound, with sales at 4c. The trade in lambs was fairly active, and prices ruled steady at 6½c to 7c per pound. The offerings of calves were small and the market was quiet at prices ranging from $3 to $8 each, as to size and quality.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, July 19.—Cattle—Receipts, 3700 head; fat steers and females fairly active and 10c higher; others slow and barely steady; prime steers, $6.50 to $6.85; shipping, $5.75 to $6.40; butchers, $5 to $6.60; heifers, $4.25 to $6; cows, $3.25 to $5.25; bulls, $3 to $5; stockers and feeders, $3.65 to $4.50; stock heifers, $3.25 to $3.75; fresh cows and springers, choice, active to higher; common steady; $22 to $60.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,100 head; slow and 5c to 10c lower; heavy, $8.50 to $8.60; mixed, $8.40 to $8.50; yorkers, $8.30 to $8.40; pigs, $8.15 to $8.20; roughs, $7.10 to $7.15; stags, $6.00 to $6.50; dairies, $8.15 to $8.25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, [illegible] head; [illegible] active and steady; [illegible] lower; lambs, [illegible] to $8.25; [illegible] to $8.10 to $[illegible]; [illegible] to $7.75; sheep, mixed, $6 to $6.50.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Cattle—Receipts [illegible]; market [illegible] to 10c lower; beeves, $4.90 to $7.45; Texas steers, $4.40 to $5; western steers, $4.75 to $6.15; stockers and feeders, $3.25 to $5.10; cows and heifers, $2.50 to $5.25; calves, $5 to $8.75.

More English Than Americans.

The English lead with a total of 7,397, but the United States citizens are a good second with 5,857. Arrivals from Scotland numbered 2,714, those from Italy 2,691, and returned Canadians are given as 1,095. The immigration from Northern Europe continues, but on a small scale. It is stated at the Department that the outlook is that this year's immigration will slightly exceed that of last year.

Italian Terribly Stabbed.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 20.—Early yesterday morning Humbert Calamanda, a 20-year-old Italian, was found at 20th street and Ferry avenue in a dying condition. The man refuses to make any statement.

Four suspects are under arrest.

Four Years for Willing.

Whitby, July 20.—Four years at Kingston was Magistrate Harper's idea of punishment for Henry B. Willing, bigamist. He was scathing in his comments, before giving out sentence, characterizing it as a case of the worst kind.

Willing presented a dejected appearance and trembled some when his fate was pronounced.

Ottawa, July 20.—Gordon Grant, inspecting engineer of the Transcontinental Railway Commission staff, has accepted the position of chief engineer vacated by H. D. Lumsden, at a salary of $10,000.

He will commence his new duties in a few weeks.

Suspect Foul Play.

Brampton, July 20.—Provincial Detective Miller was in town yesterday enquiring into the death of Ed. Fitzgibbon on Monday last. It is believed Fitzgibbon was struck over the head, the nature of the wound discounting the theory that his injury was due to a fall.

Alleged Lunatic Is Released.

Orangeville, July 20.—Albert Johnston, one of the three brothers committed as lunatics from Mulmur some months ago, and who have been since in the county jail here, has been discharged by the authorities on the certificate of the jail surgeon, having been employed as a farm laborer by Archie Greer, reeve of the township.

James, the eldest, and David, the youngest, are still confined. It is likely that they will also shortly be released.

Caused Rescuer's Death.

Medicine Hat, Alta., July 20.—Two C.P.R. roundhouse wipers, Shaw and Ritchie, were drowned in the creek here yesterday. Ritchie, who could not swim, got over his depth while bathing and Shaw went to his rescue. The drowning man clutched him and both went to the bottom. Charles Wilson almost saved Shaw, who rose once, completely exhausted, but the current swept him away just as Wilson had his hands on him.

MUGGSY McGRAW HAS DONE AWAY WITH SACRIFICE HIT

BY TIP WRIGHT

To think that Muggsy McGraw should turn against the sacrifice hit! For that's just what he's done.

"Hit 'em out!" is the word to the New Yorks Giants now.

Yet Muggsy McGraw trained in the school where the sacrifice hit, if not actually originated, reached its first great development—the famous scrapping, never-quitting 'Baltimore Orioles.

Arthur Irwin of the old Providence team is another claimant of being the original sacrifice hit man. But Hanlon's merry men—Muggsy, and Slide K. S. Kelly, and Hughey Jennings, and Wee Willie Keeler—were the men to make it a fine art.

Bang! a singe. Bing! a hit in the diamond; and the first batter went to third if he was safe, or to second if it was out. These were the plays, pulled off every day, that made the Orioles the best team in the world to watch.

But maybe Muggsy is right in breaking away from it sometimes.

Base ball gets its moss-eaten traditions just the same as nations and dry goods stores, and it's one tradition to sacrifice with a man on first or on first and second. But when the other team knows you're going to sacrifice, and is ready for it, it sometimes looks considerably like advanced boneheadism not to spring a surprise by tapping one into the short outfield.

The other day I watched Detroit and Cleveland playing a desperate game, Cleveland trying to overcome a three-run lead in the last half of the ninth. Two Naps were on bases when Perring came to the bat with instructions to lay down a bunt.

Every man on the eDtroit team knew that Perring was going to bunt it. By the time he spit on his hands the infielders were standing around him so close eh could almost shake hands with them.

Any kind of a little hit over the fielder's heads would have sent the players on, saved an out and given a good chance for a score, but Perring had his orders. Well, he bunted all right, and, as it happened, Morarity juggled the ball just a second so that he had to throw to first, and the sacrifice was made without a double play, which it looked like it would be. And then Bill Bradley slammed the ball as he used to a few years ago, and won the game. For such is base ball.

But Cleveland might just as well have had another hit as not.

S ogo ahead, Muggsy McGraw, and fool the infielders who are playing for sacrifice hits. The sacrifice hit, used with judgment, is all right. Used blindly, it is all right—NOT..

TWO MORE PRIZES FOR CANADIAN BISLEY TEAM

Bisley Camp, July 20.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Owing to the Transvaal's renewed protests against the Ross rifle, the Bisley committee summoned the MacKinnon and Kolapore teams to appear before them with rifles yesterday afternoon. At this meeting the unsportamanlike kick of the Transvaal team was not entertained. The Transvaal objected to the removal of the hood from the foresight. The committee's decision is that the hood was simple a protection for the foresight and not part of it.

Using a Lee-Enfield's rifle, Sergt. Blackburn of Winnipeg scored ten bull's-eyes in the Prince of Wales, at 600 yards. His total over the 300 and 600 yards range was 84. He is declared winner of the first prize of $500, and the Prince of Wiles' badge. The Prince of Wales' prize competition is fired over the 300 and 600 yard ranges, seven shots at the first and ten at the latter distance. Sergt. Blackburn is also the winner of the Birmingham Metal & Munitions Co. silver cup and $25. Lieut. Mortimer was sixth, winning 20 shillings.

Places and prizes won by Canadians were: Prince of Wales' match, Forrest, 3rd, $75; Morris, 21st, $15; Mortimer, 24th, $15; Russell, 27th, $15; Mitchell, 50th, $10; Stack, 51st, $10; Smith, 53rd, $10.

Places and prizes won in the Alexandra match were: Sergt. Smith, 17th, $25; Lieut. Smith, 23rd, $25; Mitchell, 52nd, $20; McVittie, 72nd, $15; Forrest, 125th, $15; Freeborn, 144th, $15.

In The Daily Telegraph match Cpl. McInnes of Edmonton was 22nd, winning £3 7ss; Lieut. Smith was 38th, winning £2 15s; Lieut Mortimer was 56th, winning £2, and Capt. Forrest, 70th, winning £2.

PARK STREET HAVE A CHANCE TO TIE WITH THE LEADERS

Affairs in the Senior City Baseball League are once more at fever heat, owing to the unexpected defeat of the T.A.S. at the hands of the Strathconas. If the Abstainers had won they could hardly have been headed off, but they failed to stow away the Commissioners and are now only one game ahead of Park St. The two meet on Saturday and the aggregation from the South End of the city, realizing that a win will tie the mfor the leadership, may be depended upon to put up the hardest kind of fight. The Abstainers will be shy the services of Quinlan and Derocher, who are holidaying just now and the Park St. team may follow the example of the Straths and take a fall out of the leaders. It should be one grand game and will attract a big crowd to the Oval.

The Straths and West Ends play the second game and the Commissioners will endeavour to climb out of the bottom position by beating the West Ends. The Straths are playing grand ball now and it will keep the West Ends on the top to hold them for a minute.

BATTING AVERAGES OF THE CITY LEAGUE PLAYERS

Saturday's games in the City League lowered the averages of most of the players, very few making any gains. The pitchers had the batters pretty well at their mercy and only fifteen hits were made by the four teams. The averages of those who have played two games or more follow:

BASEBALL

The T. A. S. nine will be considerably weakened on account of the absence of Manager Quinlan and Leo Derocher, who have left the city on their holidays. On this account the Park Street A. C. will put up a desperate fight to repeat the trick the Straths played on Saturday last, when they handed out the first defeat this year to the Abstainers. The T. A. S. however, have a few substitutes who are expected to make good on Saturday. This game promises to be the closest exhibition of the season.

MR. CAMPBELL WON STRATTON TROPHY

Mr. Allan Campbell won the Stratton Trophy in the handicap competition of the Peterborough Golf Club by defeating Mr. A. Mowat, in the final game at the local links this morning. Mr. Campbell, who is a son of Mr. Peter Campbell, manager of the Bank of Toronto, is a young golfer and is to be congratulated upon his success.

PROTECTS YOU FROM COLDS

As the only way to reach catarrh is by inhaling medicated air, it follows that the healing balsams of Catarrhozone can't fail to cure. It is a purely vegetable antiseptic—soothes and heals wherever it goes.

The germ-killing vapor is inhaled at the mouth and instantly spreads through all the breathing organs. Every case of bronchitis and catarrh is rooted out, and such health and strength is imparted that these troubles never again return.

Catarrhozone has cured thousands, and here is quoted the experience of Mrs. James A. Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, Maine, who sent for sixteen outfits of Catarrhozone for friends in her locality. This lady gives very full particulars why she did so. Her daughter, fourteen years old, had doctored for catarrh, obtaining no benefit, tried lots of other remedies, but al failed—recommended by a neighbor to try Catarrhozone. Instead of despairing, as she had good reason for doing, obtained Catarrhozone and before it was done, as she states, she was completely cured. No wonder she recommends it. Child had dropping in the throat, hawking, spitting; father thought she was going into consumption; could not sleep at night, and adds: "I only wish anyone suffering from catarrh to give it a fair trial."

Just Breathe "Catarrhozone" and You're Insured Against Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

Not difficult for Catarrhozone to cure, because it contains the essences of pine balsams and other antiseptics that simply mean death to catarrh and colds. Large size, guaranteed, $1; medium size, 50c; small trial size, 25c. All dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Why Not Fill Your Body WITH NEW ENERGY

And avoid the weariness and tired feelings of spring—You can do this by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

You need not be a victim of circumstances and suffer all the weakening and depressing effects of spring.

Tired feelings, headaches, indigestion and nervous troubles all fly when the system is flooded with rich, red blood.

Energy and vigour only come after all the ordinary waste of the system are supplied. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so wonderfully successful as a blood builder that you soon begin to feel strong and healthy by its use.

By means of its great restorative treatment you can rebuild the body when it has been wasted by worry, overwork, lingering colds or the depressing and debilitating effects of spring.

There is no reaction after the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because it is not a stimulant. On the contrary it is a blood forming, system building medicine which by working hand in hand with Nature proves of lasting benefit to the system and thoroughly drives out weakness and disease by filling the system with new energy and vigour.

Mrs. E. A. Loynes, nurse, Phillipsburg, Que., writes: "I was all run down and could not do my work. Everything I ate made me sick. In nursing others I had seen the good results of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and resolved to try it. As a result of this treatment I have gained ten lbs., do my own work alone and feel like an entirely different person."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE CASE OF MRS. BALL DESERVING OF HELP

The sad case of Mrs. Ball, the Hebrew lady left destitute by the desertion of her husband, the failure in business, and the attachment of all her property, clothing, etc., for claims under the law, is one deserving the interest of the charitably inclined. She is utterly destitute, not having a penny, and at present dependent upon Mr. B. Lastar, upon whom she has no claim beyond the claim of humanity. She has three children, is without resource, and has no relatives on this continent. If she could get means to reach Austria she would have an asylum with her husband's relatives. As it is, she and her family promise, otherwise, to be a burden upon the city. Her case seems to be deserving of help. Any person disposed to assist in making up the price for the passage of her and her children are requested to leave their contributions with Mayor Rush, who has kindly consented to take charge of the fund for this purpose.

Soap That is Best for the Baby's Bath

Baby's skin is very sensitive to soap; some soaps soothe and nourish, while others inflame and irritate.

It is of the utmost importance that you know what is in the soap you use, and to do this you must know what is in the soap.

So let us explain how we make Infants' Delight. We first go for pure vegetable oil to France. There we pay often double what we might pay. But the oil we get is pure enough to use on your table.

Then we go more than 12,000 miles to the isle of Ceylon for pure cocoanut oil. Both oils are carefully tested by chemists and doubly boiled.

Next they go through our own special milling process and fall like flakes of snow into enormous bins. Then they are crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture.

Finally they pass through granite rollers and come out in miles of silky ribbons. Then they are dried eight times and stamped into oval cakes that just fit the hand.

Isn't it worth while to have soap like this for your baby? Why risk using common soaps when this excellent kind costs no more than others?

This lovely soap leaves the baby's delicate skin as soft as velvet and as smooth as silk. Even the baby knows the difference in this delightful soap—so we call it Infants' Delight.

Baby will like the perfume too. It is so dainty and fragrant—only the exquisite scent of the rose. If this soap is pure enough for the baby's skin it surely is best for your own. Try one cake—you owe it to baby and yourself.

5 Cents a Cake At All Dealers

JOHN TAYLOR & CO., Limited, Toronto, Canada

How to Bathe the Baby

Rinse the body with clear, warm water and then rub in a rich lather of Infants' Delight. Then rinse off the lather with a cloth dipped in lukewarm water and wrung out over the skin. Pat the baby's skin dry with a cloth but never rub with a towel for it exposes the texture of the skin.

THE CLEMENCEAU CABINET HAS FALLEN

Just on Eve of Voting on Naval Resolution, Clemenceau Taunts M. Delcasse and a Wild Scene Ensues—Government Is Downed and the Premier and His Ministers Hand In Their Resignations.

Paris, July 21.—The Clemenceau Cabinet fell suddenly last night under dramatic circumstances at the conclusion of a violent debate over the naval scandals, which has been extended over several days.

M. Delcasse, chairman of the investigating commission, led the attack upon the naval administration, especially during the incumbency of M. Pelletan and M. Thomson, former Ministers of Marine.

But M. Picard, who succeeded M. Thomson, had promised in the name of the Government to complete a series of reforms, both in the administration of the Department and the methods of construction, and the Chamber was ready to vote confidence in the Government, when an incident occurred which changed a majority into a minority.

Premier Clemenceau, who always has been an adversary of M. Delcasse, smarting under the criticisms and doubtless over-confident of a majority, which on July 15, under the general policies of the Government, was 122, taunted the ex-Minister of Foreign Affairs, who was thrown overboard by the Rouvier Ministry at the dictation of Germany during the crisis of 1905, with having led France to humiliation at Algeciras.

The spectre of that chapter of France's foreign history, in which Delcasse was sacrificed, was a fatal error. Instantly there was an uproar of dissent from both sides of the Chamber.

Delcasse flung back the taunt in Clemenceau's face with bitter words, declaring, amid cheers, that France had gone to Algeciras in the interest of peace.

Hot words were bandied back and forth. It was a veritable duel between two enemies.

The scene when the Premier took his seat was indescribable. Amid the wildest excitement the vote was taken, and when it was announced that the Government had been beaten 212 to 276, Clemenceau clapped his hat on his head, pulling it far down over his eyes and stalked out of the chamber, followed by the other Ministers, in token that he intended to resign.

Mr. Clemenceau went immediately to the Elysee Palace, and told the story to President Fallieres, who seemed stupefied at the incident which had caused the fall of the Cabinet, but he accepted the resignation of the Premier and his Ministers.

There is but one opinion in Paris to-day—astonishment that an old Parliamentary war-horse like Clemenceau should have committed political suicide by his awkwardness in recalling the Algeciras spectre up on the eve of adjournment, when the Government was assured of a majority on the naval question.

The Premier's action drove about 50 members of the Republican bloc into a combination with the Right and extreme Left, unhorsing the man whose Ministry has been the longest in the history of the third republic, and who for three years has been absolute master in France.

More than 60 members of the majority, enough to have saved the day, were absent visiting their Parliamentary confreres of Sweden when the vote was taken.

Many times during his Ministry M. Clemenceau apparently was on the eve of defeat, as many strong combinations, especially by the enemies of the income tax, were formed to accomplish his downfall, and often there was much secret opposition in the ranks of the majority. But when the decisive moment came the rebels never dared to brave Clemenceau's whip.

To Fortify Prince Rupert.

Victoria, B.C., July 21.—Princess Royal, which reached port yesterday morning brought among her passengers Gen. W. D. Otter, Capt. H. L. Hughes, Royal Engineers, Lieut. Keycock of H.M.S. Pearwater, and Capt. Hay of the Indian army, a party sent to locate a chain of fortifications to be established as defences at Prince Rupert.

The scheme is to establish a chain of forts, with batteries of six and ten-inch disappearing guns, with auxiliary ante-torpedo batteries of quick firers at the outer channels, through which vessels must pass to reach Prince Rupert.

Brockville

Brockville, July 21.—Miss Kate Kennedy, aged 35, a domestic who entered the employ of Dr. McBroom on Thursday, has been missing since Monday morning. She was greatly excited over a police court case for wages in which she was the plaintiff, and it is thought she has committed suicide while temporarily deranged. She quietly left the house during Sunday night while the members of the family were asleep. She took no extra clothing or money.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC AND BOLIVIA MAY GO TO WAR

Buenos Ayres, July 21.—The Argentine Government has sent passports to the Bolivian Minister here, ordering him to leave Buenos Ayres within 24 hours.

The Government has also telegraphed Senor Fonseca, Argentine Minister to Bolivia to leave La Paz immediately.

The action of the Argentine Government follows the refusal of Bolivia to accept the decision of Argentina in the matter of the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Peru.

The Bolivian Minister yesterday advised the Argentine Government that Bolivia had decided to submit to Parliament for consideration the arbitral award rendered by President Alcorta, which in itself was considered sufficient reason for breaking off relations.

In addition, however, the Argentine republic has taken offence at the action of the President of Bolivia, who it is asserted, has sent circulars to the prefects throughout the country, casting reflections on the Argentine Government.

These familiar with conditions attending the Bolivian-Peruvian territorial dispute assert their belief that serious difficulties, which may involve other South American republics, are bound to ensue as a result of the Bolivian Government's rejection originally under stress of popular protest, of the decision entered by Argentine's President as arbitrator in the matter of the frontier limits of the two countries, and now the open diplomatic rupture.

Peru, it is pointed out, has pending another claim to certain Brazilian territory which also lies in the rich Ache River district. Though this claim now is only in the initial stage of litigation and has not reached the arbitration period. Peruvian maps which have been recently published display that country's northern boundary as including also this great strip of contested land.

Argentine's arbitrament, dismissing Bolivia's claims to at least a portion of the tract now in acute dispute, will, it is contended, tend to uphold supplementarily that republic's claim upon the big Brazilian strip, even though a part of this latter territory was formally ceded to Brazil by Bolivia in accordance with the treaty of Petropolis, which marked the termination of the war between those countries five years ago over national ownership of the same land.

As Brazil paid $10,000,000 to Bolivia at that time for the territorial rights thus ceded, it is asserted that she will not easily accede to Peru's other demands that affect her. Hence it is predicted, Brazil is likely to be drawn into the wrangle in case war should result between the republics concerned in the present trouble.

Japan Snarls at China.

Tokio, July 21.—The Kokumin, one of the most influential of the Japanese newspapers and regarded as the mouthpiece of Marquis Katsura, the Premier, in matters pertaining to the Government's policy, yesterday discussed the situation between Japan and China and struck a somewhat alarmist note, concluding: "The Japanese Government is showing all possible patience, but is not carrying its endurance to the point of sentimentality. Unless China's mood changes before the conclusion of the current month, Japan will be obliged to assume a different attitude."

We are making about the prettiest lenses that can be imagined, and making them right, and we appreciate very much the unanimity with which our customers all over the country started to send in their order for this new style of Toric Lenses. ### FIRST WHEAT SOLD.

Early Carload of Norfolk County Yield Sells at $1.10.

Toronto, July 21.—Ontario's first 1909 wheat was marketed yesterday at $1.10 or 10 cents lower than the present quotations for old stock. A carload was ordered by a Toronto dealer at that price from Norfolk County, where threshing is now proceeding. A sale of flour for export was made at the new quotations by W. B. Browne.

Mr. Browne's advices are that the yield throughout Western Ontario will be 40 bushels to the acre of wheat, which is considerably better than last year. The acreage is, however, short. He does not anticipate that the price of new wheat will drop below $1.10 for some time anyway, as the farmers are too busy taking care of their fruit and marketing peas, etc., at the large canneries, to clean wheat for market.

"Ideal growing weather, with prospects for a splendid harvest of the brightest," about sums up the reports from all parts of the northwest received by Toronto business firms. The large banks, manufacturers of harvesting machinery and the many grain dealers are keeping in touch by means of special agents with the crop situation and there has yet to arrive the first disturbing intelligence regarding the crops. Of course, as a business man stated, the real danger season has not yet arrived. The time for rust is still to be passed and when the wheat is in the milk the supreme risk is from frost. Farmers and all others on the anxious seat, will have about two weeks more of anxiety.

Late reports received by the James Richardson Grain Co. are to the effect that the weather could not be better for aiding growth. In spite of the fact that seeding was two weeks later this year than last year the crop is now as far advanced as the 1908 grain was at this season, owing to the favorable weather.

If Furniture Could Talk.

If furniture could only talk there would be a sorry time for some housekeepers.

Why are there so many homes which make us feel as if we would like to make quick exit from them, as the conglomerated mixture of carpets, furniture and pictures give an actual pain to contemplate and we sit in silent amazement at such atrocious taste.

"It is easy enough," say some people, "to have artistic surroundings if you have the money to pay for them." In a certain sense this is true, but a full purse does not always guarantee good taste, which is in fact nothing more than having a well developed sense of the suitability of things in connection with each other.

A piece of furniture in itself may be charming, but in the room in which you have to place it it can be a positive fright. To buy such a piece just

LUCKY MR. BROWN.

If it had not been for "Fruit-a-tives," Mr. Lemuel Brown, of Avondale, N.B., would still be living on stale bread and porridge, and suffering torturous with indigestion.

His stomach was so weak that he had to give up all kinds of meats, potatoes and other vegetables, and even deny himself the comforts of a cup of tea. Fortunately, Mr. Brown read about "Fruit-a-tives," bought a box and was so much improved by taking the tablets, that he used four boxes altogether. "I have been a great sufferer from Indigestion for fifteen years. About two years ago, I read about Fruit-a-tives and concluded to give them a trial. I used nearly four boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" and they have made me feel like a new man. I can eat all kinds of hearty foods and enjoy tea and coffee." This is not a rare case, but the regular experience of everyone who uses "Fruit-a-tives" for Weak Stomach, Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Try them. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. because you have taken a fancy to it is very foolish, just as foolish as for a man to marry a woman for her good looks, with no regard to other qualities she may or may not possess. Not only must you live with that purchase, but so must everything else in the room, regardless of whether they harmonize or not.

The secret of good furnishing is not only the question, "Do I like it?" but "Will it agree or harmonize with the rest of the furniture where it is to be placed?"

For Breaking Nails.

The constant use of hard water is fatal on the good appearance of the finger nails. This is one of the drawbacks to a filter plant. The alum used is hard on the skin and makes nails brittle. As, however, pure water is the first consideration, women must seek means of overcoming minor ills.

Nails that break easily must be given a course of olive oil. It should be rubbed into the finger tips each night. Massage well and occasionally give the fingers a bath in hot olive oil.

If it is not convenient to use the oil, vaseline is a good substitute. Whenever doing rough work the fingers should be protected with gloves. If it is not comfortable to wear them over the whole hand, fingers can be cut from old gloves.

Radiator Brushes.

The housewife who has not a radiator brush is giving her maid unnecessary work. These little affairs do not cost much, and they are shaped so that they get into every crevice of the radiator and take out the dust that clogs and is unsightly.

Ugly Hands in Evidence.

To keep the hands smooth and white soak them in sweet almond oil every night. Pour the oil in a bowl and immerse the hands for several minutes. Wipe gently with a soft towel and draw on loose white gloves for sleeping.

Cooking on the Trail.

Our guide allowed me to assist him in preparing the breakfast, though I fancy my assistance might have been easily dispensed with. He sagely remarked that if I was going to rough it I might as well begin learning now as any time. It was astonishing how appetizing a meal he prepared with the very fewest conveniences. For instance, he made bread in the sack of flour without using a bread pan. He hollowed out a cavity in the flour, poured in water, added salt and baking powder in proper quantities, then proceeded to mix the dough. He did another thing in his cooking that amused me very much. To prevent the coffee boiling over he placed a small willow stick across the open top of the pot. The lesson in physics soon followed. The coffee bubbled and then rushed up to the top of the pot as though it was going to boil over the sides and extinguish the fire, but as soon as it touched the willow it subsided like some sentient thing.—Forest and Stream.

Captain John Smith and Rats.

The intrepid navigator Captain John Smith in the course of his journeying in the Bermudas had some experience of the rat as a destructive force. "But the great God of heaven," he writes, "caused such an increase of silly rats in the space of two years so to abound before they regarded them that they filled not only those places where they were first landed, but, swimming from place to place, spread themselves into all parts of the country, insomuch that there was no land but it was pestered with them, and some fishes have been taken with rats in their bellies which they caught in swimming from ile to ile. Their nests they had in almost every tree and in most places their burrows in the ground like conies. They spared not the fruits of the plants or trees or the very plants themselves, but ate them up." All efforts to exterminate these vermin proved unsuccessful, and the unfortunate colonists "were destitute of bread for a yeere or two."

The Traveler's Joy.

The cream of tartar tree, which is also called the "sour gourd," grows in northern Australia and has a trunk which measures from seventy to eighty-five feet in circumference, but which is only twenty or thirty feet high. The wood is soft and juicy and when steeped in water provides the thirsty traveler with a refreshing and cooling drink. The fruit is about six inches long, shaped like a lemon and contains a gently acid pulp, which tastes like cream of tartar. Wherever it is to be found a small encampment of weary wayfarers unfurl their tents. When sighted in the bush the famous tree is always greeted with a song written by the early bushrangers called "Sing Hey For the Traveler's Joy."—New York Telegram.

THE CANADIAN ENVOYS.

Complimentary References to Canada in London Journal.

Sir Frederick Borden and the Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Canadian Ministers of Militia and Marine, are starting to visit this country for further consultation with His Majesty's Ministers on the subject of Imperial Defence. At the same time it is notified that the Government of the Commonwealth of Australia has sent its amended proposals to the Admiralty. Taken in conjunction with the offer of Dreadnoughts by New Zealand and by Victoria and New South Wales, these are gratifying signs that the Young Lions are awake to the dangers which loom before the old grey mother and the whole of her family alike. Sir Frederick Borden presides over a force which is already strong both in numbers and in other essentials which make even more surely for efficiency in war. The Canadian Infantry proved itself, on the day of Paardeburg, fit to fight beside the elite of the British army. When the Imperial General Staff is established, and the divisions for which Mr. Haldane hopes organized, the strength of the Empire on land will be of a kind not to be lightly provoked, provided that the Mother Country will set the example by accepting the liability for service for defence. Sir Frederick Borden's military service has been on the non-combatant side, for he is a surgeon-colonel. But that is, after all, as real a military experience as most Secretaries for War in this country enjoy. The Marine over which it is Mr. Brodeur's duty to preside is yet a thing of the future. His duties are, for the nonce, confined to fisheries. But there can be no doubt that Canada means to have a navy of her own, and no man's task can be more responsible than his to whose lot it will fall so to concert arrangements with the Imperial authorities that the infant fleet may at once retain its independence of administration, and yet fit in with the organization of the whole when it is called upon to do its duty in war.—The London Graphic.

Gypsy Smith Is Facetious.

Gypsy Smith may not be a higher critic. He may not think any more of higher criticism than either Hon. S. H. Blake or Dr. Elmore Harris, but if the good old Bible is good enough for the evangelist, he doesn't exactly adopt the old method of imparting its teachings. An incident at one of his Toronto meetings indicated the soul-saver's attitude toward the stereotyped and dignified method of piloting the wanderer to the penitent bench.

It was at the close of one meeting, which was to be followed by an after meeting. The sedate gentleman acting as chairman had just requested the ushers to see that the women departed by way of certain doors.

"Don't let a single woman out by that door," he admonished the assistants down below. Then Gypsy Smith rose to his feet, with this correction or addition: "And don't let a married woman out that way either."

"You will break up the meeting," the chairman said, in mild rebuke; but the evangelist would not stay rebuked.

"It will break up the stiffness, you mean," was the way he came back at the dignified chairman, who, however, eventually recovered from the shock.

The Times and the Telegraphers.

The London Times likes to have its correspondence from Canada sent over the Marconi route. The Canadian land telegraph companies have no working agreement with that phantom conveyer of intelligence, and they have been charging the Thunderer full local commercial rates—thirty cents for ten words, instead of thirty cents a hundred—for delivering the goods at Glace Bay to the Marconi Co. The Times has applied to the Railway Commission to have this discrimination put an end to. The telegraph companies advance as justification the fact that The Times's reports are very much condensed, to which Chairman Mabee replies that every one who uses the telegraph condenses as much as possible. Evidently Judge Mabee is a bit old-fashioned. The Times deserves sympathy in its pioneer support of the ethereal system, but it had better beware. The telegraph companies may introduce the method of charging by the ton, and The Times's reports are reputed to be rather heavy.

British v. American.

British tourists in Canada have hitherto formed a considerably smaller proportion than American, but the balance should be to some extent redressed this year. The British Association, which meets at Winnipeg in August, will naturally account for many, but quite apart from that there is a growing tendency among travelers to go to Canada instead of the United States. The expenses are less, and the scenery is infinitely finer. The Canadian Pacific staff at Charing Cross, London, is positively inundated at present with requests for information as to tours in Canada. Nowadays the transatlantic passage is so easy that one wonders why so many still keep to the played-out and over-crowded holiday resorts of Europe.—Standard of Empire.

Wanted Real Help.

An enterprising newspaper reporter who once happened to be holidaying at the same seaside resort as Lord Northcote, who has been spoken of as the next Governor-General of Canada, took the occasion by the hand by asking for some advice on a policy his paper proposed to adopt.

"Advice I am always chary of," said his lordship. "It is so cheap, so easy. I remember some years ago watching a boy pushing a heavy cart up a hill. The hill was steep; the boy thin. He bent forward at the work till he was almost horizontal. 'Push it up zig-zag,' I cried, 'and you will find it will go much easier.'

"The boy married back: 'Not so much of yer bloom'n advice. Come and give's a shove'."

The Eye on the Red Flag.

There are many odd bits of bunting unfolded to the breeze in New York harbor, but the oddest of all perhaps is the ensign that flutters from the staff of a little craft that rounds the Battery sea wall promptly at noon every day and then disappears up the North river. It is a triangular flag with a flaming red background, from which stands out in bold relief a great cyclopean eye. Inside the pilothouse is a man in blue coat and brass buttons, who views the water front and passing craft through a long telescope. This is the supervisor of the harbor. His duties are to see that the regulations are observed in the East river, the upper bay and the Hudson river, that the channels are kept free of obstructions and that the city's docks and ferries are being looked after as they should be. As soon as he steps on board his vessel the unique ensign is raised. It signifies to all nautical folk: "I've got my eye on you. Watch out!"—New York Sun.

Some Handicaps.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.

"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent. "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and, to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you. Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it. Do you frequent the race tracks?"

"I never saw a horse race in my life, sir."

"Um-m-m! Play cards for money?"

"Emphatically no, sir."

"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped. My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job—why, God bless you both!"—Washington Post.

Woman's Work.

After dinner the other evening Mr. and Mrs. Brown started to speak of their respective duties, and soon an argument as to whether the husband or the wife had the hardest work to perform was in full swing. First Brown warbled and then wifey sang.

"A wife," argued the good lady, "has to cook, wash dishes, clothe the kids, scrub the floors, sweep the house, make the beds, build the fires, carry up coal, nail slats on the back fence, dig"—

"Is that all?" sarcastically interrupted Mr. Brown.

"No," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Brown. "In addition to those duties every wife has to keep her husband from making a fool of himself."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Anchored Him.

"I was at a reception with a certain young lady the other night," said a man who always tells the truth, "and her father was there too. He doesn't think much of me, and he followed us about from room to room—wouldn't let us get out of his sight for a minute. Well, I knew the old man was an awful tight wad, so I thought up a scheme. I carelessly dropped a half dollar on the floor while he was looking. He moved over and put his foot on it and never stirred until the party broke up. Meanwhile daughter and I beat it and enjoyed ourselves."—Cleveland Leader.

Saving Cuff Addresses.

Folded up with the laundry bill was another slip of paper, on which were several lines of fine writing.

"What is this?" asked the new customer.

"Those are the addresses we copied off your cuffs," said the clerk. "We always make a record of the addresses we find on cuffs and return them with the laundry, so if our customers have not put them down any place else they won't be lost."—New York Press.

When There Was More of It.

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

DR. PELKEY.

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odourless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

A gauge registers the amount of oxygen taken by the patient.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier, and building up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Goverment officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

TENNIS FOR YOUNG GIRLS FROM THE PRACTICAL POINT OF VIEW

Grip of the Racket for the Forehand Stroke.

WITH the present great popularity of tennis most girls either play it or wish they could play it. Probably all the girls of to-day have tried; some have succeeded and others have become discouraged. The cause of the latter state of mind is often that they have just picked it up carelessly, with no real effort to learn the game. Now, tennis may be a source of much enjoyment to pretty good players, with the one condition that the two players are evenly matched. But there is such infinitely greater pleasure in playing well that it is worth while for any girl to take the trouble to learn the principles of the game, keep them in mind and practise them energetically.

BEFORE beginning to play one should be correctly and conveniently dressed. The skirt must be quite short and not very heavy. The best material is a rather stiff duck, for a soft skirt that hangs in around the legs will interfere very much with the movements. Any kind of a loose shirt waist may be worn, and the only other necessity is rubber soled shoes. These should fit comfortably, being neither too tight nor too loose. If one has weak ankles, high laced shoes are a help, but most players use low ones. Very thin stockings should never be worn; they wear out almost immediately and are not nearly as comfortable as thick ones.

For the game itself, the first and most important principle is to hold the racket tight. If it is loosely and carelessly held no good stroke can ever be made. It must be held at the extreme end and the firm grasp must never for an instant be forgotten. With a beginner this tight hold often makes the muscles of the forearm feel strained, but it will grow easier with practice.

THE second principle is to keep away from the ball. All beginners and some comparatively good players get too close to the ball. It is harder to teach girls to keep back far enough and wait long enough to make the stroke than it is with boys, probably because the boys are more used to ball games of different kinds and have always played them. A girl who is learning to play tennis has to be told every few moments to stand back and wait for the ball. Until one is quite an experienced player the ball should not be struck until it has reached the top of the bounce, and often it is better to let it begin to drop before striking it.

Another important point is that a step forward just as the ball is struck gives added force to the stroke and the further back the racket is swung the more force is gained as it strikes the ball. Then, too, it is important that the ball should strike the centre of the racket; no clean stroke can be made when the ball strikes the edge of the stringing. A racket which has been used long by a good player will have a little dark spot in the middle of the stringing, showing that the ball has always been hit in that one place.

FEW inexperienced players know that there should be a "follow through" in tennis, as there is in golf. This helps very much to guide the ball in a straight and accurate line. The racket, in hitting the ball, moves in the direction the ball is to go, and the longer it keeps on in that direction the better for the chance of the stroke being a true and swift one.

After any stroke has been made the player must immediately run back to the centre of the baseline and be ready there to move whichever way she must for the next stroke. If she does not do this her opponent will probably place the ball just where she cannot reach it. Many girls, after they have struck the ball, stand still and watch it, only moving when it is too late. Great quickness is most necessary in tennis. A player must think of several things at once, and the habit of always getting back to the same position between strokes soon becomes mechanical and is a great help.

A very general fault of girls who are learning tennis is bending the elbow, and it is hard for them to realise that the arm must be kept straight and the ball hit while it is below the level of the waist line. Of course it is struck much higher in the air in volleying, but few girls succeed in volleying well and they should not try to use that stroke often, except in doubles when playing at the net.

ON the other hand, it is a very good thing to learn to lob well. It is an easy stroke and very helpful when one wants to gain time. Some players are also so bothered by it that it gives their opponent a great advantage.

When a girl has had some little experience in playing and has learned how to make the strokes fairly well she should begin to practise placing the ball in different parts of the court. This is done by turning the wrist a little as the ball is struck. At first it will be rather discouraging, for a large number of the balls will go out of court, but everything new that one attempts in tennis takes much practice and some day it will suddenly seem easy and the player will begin to find she has considerable control over her racket and can come pretty near sending the ball in just the spot she wants to.

So far I have said nothing about the service. But of course it is of the utmost importance to develop a swift and accurate service. The ball should be thrown up in the air, the racket swung back over the right shoulder and swiftly forward, hitting the ball just before it begins to fall. It will take a lot of practice to serve a fast ball, but it can be done, though, of course, no girl can ever compete with men on the question of a tennis service.

It is a great help to a girl who can play tennis moderately well to play with men or in mixed doubles. If she can play singles with some man who plays well and is willing to adapt his game to her degree of skill, that is the greatest advantage possible. But, failing that, the experience of a man's swifter game that is gained in mixed doubles will improve her game very much.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

IN running around to see your girl friends, whether formally or informally, do not utterly disregard the hours for meals in their homes.

It is not good form when you have not been previously invited for the meal to linger on to the luncheon or dinner hour. If you do so you are likely to place your friend or her mother in an awkward position. Either she asks you to remain because she feels it courteous to do so, or she has the meal delayed waiting for you to take your departure. It is well to carefully avoid putting yourself in the position of allowing either of these alternatives to occur. No housekeeper likes her routine interfered with, and unexpected guests are not apt to be popular.

In all well regulated houses the table is as conventionally laid for luncheon as for dinner, and to rearrange it at the last moment necessitates considerable change, accompanied by special orders to the kitchen, all of which mothers avoid if possible, and therefore they do not encourage inviting the girl at the last moment to stay.

If you are really wanted you should understand that you will be asked during the early part of your call. Suppose you go about eleven to see a girl friend. If she wishes you to remain to luncheon she will slip away in a moment to consult her mother about it, and if her mother consents she will return and ask you immediately, while you, if you wish to stay, will accept without hesitation, remove your things, and settle down for a nice long visit.

But if she does not ask you in this spontaneous way do not embarrass her by staying right up to the moment the meal is announced and forcing her either to ask you under protest or feeling uncomfortable because she does not invite you. Keep track of the time and start away a good half hour before the meal hour. And when you start to take your departure "stand not upon the order of your going," but get off with despatch. Some girls take almost astonishing time to say goodby. It would seem as if all the most important, exciting and engrossing topics of conversation occurred to them at the last moment, and they will chatter on even after they have said goodby, forgetting time or meals or the fact that others may be waiting for them.

All girls should wish to and strive to be popular with their elders, who are not only deserving of every consideration, but have it in their power to make things very delightful for the young people whom they like. And they do not like girls who delay their meals, either by loitering when they should go or by being unpunctual when house guests. So many of us would not for worlds intentionally offend in these matters, and do not always realise that we do offend because we do not stop to think about them. But thoughtlessness is easily remedied by setting a careful watch over ourselves and trying to see that our actions give pleasure rather than annoyance to those about us.

For the Porch Tea Table.

THE girl who makes tea on the porch will find that two most necessary parts of her outfit are a screen for the kettle and a tea cosey. The latter is useful in the house, but far more needed where a cool breeze may soon spoil the tea; and the screen is simply indispensable when the lamp of the kettle is lighted, for without it the flame is always blowing and often blows out.

Very handsome screens can be bought in silver, copper or brass, or a girl can make one. Whatever kind is used it must have three or four hinged panels, so that it can be put half or three quarters of the way around the kettle stand, and must be about the height of the kettle, without the handle. The prettiest kind of screen is of glass, through which the flame can be plainly seen while it is entirely protected from the wind. It may not be possible to buy this, but a girl can easily have one made to order.

Each panel should have a narrow frame of plain wood, holding a piece of clear glass, and after the screen is made its owner can decorate the wood herself. A very simple design burnt in the wood is especially pretty, but if she does not understand this work the wood can be painted. If she prefers to have some one else do it for her there are plenty of people who do the burnt wood designs to order. These screens can also be made of painted cardboard, but it must be very heavy cardboard; or they can be entirely of wood, either burnt or painted.

The tea cosey can be bought in such a great variety of styles that one can have either something most elaborate and expensive or a simple linen one. It, too, can be made, and made with very little trouble. A piece of handsome brocade can be used on some simple piece of silk, or an elaborately embroidered cosey is charming, made either of silk, satin or linen. To be useful the cosey must have a very thick interlining of wadding, wool wadding being better than cotton.

Poke Bonnet Motor Hats.

THE new motor hats in Paris show a direct return to the poke bonnet of half a century and more ago, and for real comfort in touring it is stated that nothing has yet equalled this wide brimmed hat, which protects at one time the eyes from glare, the face from burning and the hair from dust. Some of these hoods are marvellous confections in silk, lace and flowers; others are severely simple, of either linen or straw, and bear close resemblance to the garden sunbonnet. Trimmed with the hood part of lace and silk and the brim adorned with tiny rosebuds and fern leaves, the elaborate bonnets could scarcely be called practical for the purpose for which they are said to be designed. The simpler models, however, are excellent, and with a small veil of lace or chiffon over the face are most comfortable.

A girl who does not care to be a pioneer in her dress and likes always to keep to the conservative can make for herself an extremely pretty motor hat, with just sufficient of the bonnet lines to be comfortable and becoming without giving any suggestion of exaggeration. She should buy first a plain flat hat of some soft straw that can be bent in any lines desired and then wire the brim and bend the straw in at the back and down at the sides, leaving a brim in front to shade the eyes. As the frame must be a wide one to allow of the brim covering the hair in the back, it will be necessary to cut off some of the front and sides, binding the straw with ribbon. A large wired ribbon bow is then placed just in the centre of the front, with end turned about the crown. A chiffon or net veil is then fastened over the crown of the hat and tied down under the chin.

Any narrow brimmed round hat with a simple bow of ribbon at the front and the veil placed over the crown and, drawing the sides of the hat in somewhat will be good for automobile use. A sailor shape if not too large will always make a comfortable motor hat and the brim in front will prove the greatest protection to the eyes. Naturally this hat must be held down firmly with a veil, but so does even the smartest toque require to be kept on by this means.

There is no need for an automobile hat to be either dark in color or unbecoming in shape. Better have two or three light colored straw hats with simple, attractive ribbon trimming, which when faded or out of shape can be discarded, than to buy one intensely practical motor hat (at the beginning of the summer) which because of its costliness one feels must needs be worn throughout the entire season.

Pongee is perhaps the most satisfactory for a motor coat for hot weather, but natural colored linen made to fasten up well at the throat and cover the dress to the very hem is also smart. Linen has the double advantage of being inexpensive at the commencement and can be washed as long as the material holds together—which is an almost indefinite length of time—looking better after each washing.

Washable chamois gloves are the only thing possible in warm weather. Silk gloves are worn for motoring, it is true, and there are pongee gloves, which are thought very good, but the chamois, either in white or tan, are really smartest.

Young Girls' Gloves.

GLOVES especially adapted for tennis playing girls are of one button length in white or yellow chamois, a material which will not only withstand boiling but become softer and more flexible with every laundering.

The most practical gloves for golfing are the mousquetaires of colored mocha, which come with quite long wrists. For driving and riding there is nothing quite so smart as the white leather gloves with black buttons, stitching and gauntlets.

Tan, mode, white and black gloves for the street are of fine French glacé kid in three and six button lengths and of finely spun silk, with double finger tips and composition clasp fastenings.

Young girls' summer party gloves are of white or delicately tinted twisted silk in elbow lengths. They are seamless, the thumbs hemstitched and some of them are exquisitely embroidered.

New Desk Fittings.

DESK fittings come in all manner of materials and odd shapes. A Japanese bronze ink stand, representing a wide spreading chrysanthemum has a slender well of glass sunken amid its innermost petals. Another ink receptacle, of English manufacture is a barrel shaped affair of golden oak hooped with nickel, and a third is in the form of a gun metal revolver lying flatly on low ball feet made of crystal.

Magazine and envelope cutters of ivory, celluloid and mother of pearl have owls, green lizards, monkeys and elephants carved upon their handles. All metal cutters of dull silver, green gold or gun finish have handles chased in floral and Greek designs, while crystal bladed cutters have richly colored lacquered wood handles. Some of these paper knives are accompanied by steel library shears fitted with ornamental handles and go into compartment cases of alligator, morocco, suede, seal or pig.

Stationery holders of two compartments are of plain brass or copper, etched with laurel wreaths designed to enclose a monogram; of crystal ornamented with gold or silver corners or ball feet, and of flemish oak studded with metal nail heads. Most practical of all the new stationery holders is one of silver embossed ebony, which is equipped with a lead pencil secured by an ornamental metal chain, which automatically rolls out of and into an attachment. Another useful fitting for a girl's desk is a brass handled pen brush which holds a perpetual calendar.

Individual desk lights are in the form of miniature six sided Japanese lanterns with lacquered frames and hand painted silk panels, Oriental brass lamps fitted with silk lined and fringe trimmed filigree brass shades, two and six armed synagogue candelabra and silver or gilt Benares candelabrum.

Some Interesting and Useful Hints.

FOR a summer room a most fascinating box to hold fancy shoes and slippers can be made of light wood covered with cretonne and linen. To make the box unique have it hexagonal in shape, which any carpenter can do, and have a cover to fit, fastened at the back with small hinges.

Design the covering of the sides of the box in panels, selecting a French cretonne which lends itself to this idea, the prettiest new ones being those that have figures of girls and of little Cupids on them. Cut the material to get the figure exactly in the centre of the panel, and then on the next panel of the box put linen of a color to form an artistic contrast to the cretonne. Alternate this way until the box is covered, finishing the edges of the two materials with strips of fancy linen braid, which heightens the panel effect.

The cover should be padded slightly, then covered with linen, ornamented with a large centrepiece of the figured cretonne, which is sewed on to the linen before the linen is tacked on the cover. The edge of the cretonne centrepiece is covered with linen braid to match the panels on the box, and when finished the proud owner has a veritable pièce de resistance.

BECAUSE worsted sweaters have recently been so vastly improved in fit and texture they are more than ever in demand by girls who go in for summer sports.

Twenty-six inch coat sweaters of soft, elastic wool have shaped sleeves and practically a full fashioned body without seams or joints. By a new process of knitting the garment is non-elastic at the waist line, while above and below that point it is as elastic as other garments of its kind.

Rib knitted golfing coats with plain worsted face waistcoat and cuffs are collarless, rather long at sides and back and in one tone. General utility sweaters are single breasted, slope gradually away from the hips and are bordered with a contrasting shade or color.

DUTCH collar pins developed in rose, green or Roman gold are in a variety of jewelled fancy shapes as well as in large ovals centred with cameos or hand painted medallions.

Jungle pins of stamped white metal, of gun, gold, silver or baroque pearl, serve as a base for lion, tiger, monkey and elephant heads, some of which have jewelled eyes and tongue.

Turquoises are set in oval gilt metal frames of Directoire pattern, in oblongs surrounded with rhinestones and in semi-diamond shaped pieces framing gilt metal dragons, the latter open mouthed and in the act of catching a pearl riveted above in the turquoise.

Empire pins show porcelain medallion heads against a cobalt blue or dark green background framed in rose finished metal.

Pearl wishbones and bunches of grapes combined with gold, silver and green enamelled leaves, varicolored Persian enamel with semi-filigree and gold rope decoration, and filigree finished in antique gilt framing a feldspar cameo head topped with an Egyptian headdress are among unique Dutch collar pins.

The latest collar pin is a triple looped double end bow made of strip metal stamped, colored and sheen finished to perfectly simulate taffeta ribbon.

FEW of the schoolgirls who habitually use sponges for one purpose or another comprehend the terms applied to the various qualities. As sponges are a natural product they are so rarely of perfect shape and quality that the choice specimens bring large prices and are usually designated as "extra choice." Next come the "fruits," which are of imperfect shape, but of good texture, while the "seconds" are those of awkward shape and coarse texture. An American Zimocca or Bahama hard head sponge is usually sold by stationers, while the Bahama reef sponge—soft, fine and velvety, but not especially durable—is to be found at a toilet counter. West India velvet sponges, although of coarse, open texture, are considered very desirable for the face, but a Florida sheep's wool sponge is one of the best for general bathing, as its fibre does not become soggy with use. Another type of bath sponge which is soft and springy comes from Mediterranean waters. Turkey silk sponges, which are best of all for the complexion, may be recognised by their almost perfect cup shape and the flexibility of their texture.

AUTOMOBILE dressing pouches are rapidly superseding all kindred receptacles, as they not only hold an amazing amount of luggage, but may be crowded into a surprisingly small space. They are made of tan or stone gray waterproof moire, leather lined and strap handled, of khaki rubber proof material, English pigskin, patent leather, russet or black, alligator and genuine walrus skin.

Grain leathers of various kinds of finish are employed for combination bags which have a lower portion adapted for holding skirts and an upper section supplied with cold cream, boracic acid and soap receptacles, as well as compartments for brushes and manicure tools.

While club, kit, Oxford and Gladstone bags in real walrus skin are deemed exceedingly smart, they are rather difficult to handle, whereas the oblong shaped leather lined wicker dressing bags are wonderfully light of weight, capacious and the very latest device for holding motoring luggage.

A LUNCHEON set suitable for a young girls' entertainment includes a centre piece and six plate, finger bowl and tumbler doylies. It is made of fine lawn squares and finished with an inch wide hemstitched border headed with a slender vine of embroidery in white, green, Delft or rose.

Batiste embroidered in a tulip or violet pattern in heavy nun's stitch or worked in allover spray designs broken by Cluny medallions makes an attractive looking luncheon set. Or the Valenciennes butterfly medallions may be applied to the edges and centres of a number of French linen squares of the requisite size.

Substantial looking luncheon sets are made of white butcher's linen embroidered in round medallions and finished with fine scalloping, or the linen may be stamped in oak leaf pattern and done in natural colors with rice braiding.

Scalloping also edges the thistle, shamrock and rose patterned fine damask luncheon sets, initial marked in all white, as well as those quaint sets made from Java prints in blocked and cretonne designs. These latter, however, are only suitable for a luncheon given at a simply furnished summer camp.

THE only way of ever learning to spell is by keeping a dictionary always at hand and consulting this whenever there is doubt about any word. A girl should, of course, own a large standard dictionary, but for everyday use to turn to every time a letter is written she should keep on her desk or in her portfolio a small pocket dictionary. There are to be had tiny books which in small print contain practically every word in everyday use, with a key at the commencement explaining how to add plurals, form adverbs and adjectives, &c., from each word given. A dictionary of this description, kept always at hand, will help. A word once looked up and seen written in black and white is not liable to be forgotten, and thus each time the dictionary is consulted the spelling of one more word is learned. It may seem bothersome at first to carry out this plan, but surely the amount of trouble is small compared to the feeling of shame on realising that a formal note has been sent in which are one or more incorrectly spelled words.

A dictionary frequently consulted will also help enormously toward enlarging one's vocabulary, for often in the definition of a word can be found a synonymous term which will save repetition and help toward giving a finished style to a letter.

With a pretty cover of chintz, brocade or wall paper the tiny dictionary is an ornament to the desk and one with which every writing table should be provided.

DAINTY looking lingerie handbags are made of one medium sized sheer linen handkerchief having a rather deep border of machine embroidery. They are doubled once, joined at the ends with a seam running just inside the inner edge of the border and shirred at the top with a narrow ribbon run through a muslin beading set below the outer edge of the border.

The moire lined soutached linen and pongee bags, which are used in white, tan, blue, green and mauve, may be made by an amateur, but must be taken to a jeweller to be mounted on gilt frames, to which are attached link chain handles.

Rope handled raffia bags, of circular, oblong and square shape, trimmed with hand embroidery, braid, cording or fringe, are novel, but decidedly unique are the hand made bags that are decorated in pea sized round ribbon beads which are dyed in all the fashionable colors and made up in combinations of two harmonising shades like old blue or taupe with black and brown with dull green.

An intermingling of red with blue or black is a marked feature of the bags developed in patent and brilliantly finished pelts. Some of these receptacles are composed half of one color and half of another, or they are piped and decorated in colors of striking contrast. Usually they are mounted on a German silver frame, made up in one piece of leather and equipped with a continuous flap extending from the back to a metal lock placed low on the front side.

RED cedar enters largely into the dressing room accessory furnishings of the young girl who appreciates the importance of taking good care of her wardrobe. If the red cedar bed box is not so long as the skirts of her woollen gowns she closes the placket and plaites it flatly against the centre of the front breadth, which must be kept perfectly smooth. If the receptacle is so short that the skirt must be twice double a roll of tissue paper placed between the folds keeps the garment from wrinkling.

For worsted sweaters and flannel blouses the safest storage place is a moth proof red cedar shirt waist box. For lingerie blouses, however, the daintiest receptacles are the six-sectioned shirt waist cabinets of white enamelled wood lined with dark blue paper, while flower and feather trimmed summer hats may be put away in a white enamelled wood hat cabinet fitted with several chintz covered hat boxes.

Some of the most useful boxes of wood and chintz include a hat compartment and a waist drawer fitted with an accessory section. Of similar materials are the five drawer utility cases for the dressing table and the work cabinets, having an upper portion composed of three brass handled drawers and a daintily lined lower section fitted with all manner of sewing implements.

TENNIS FOR YOUNG GIRLS FROM THE PRACTICAL POINT OF VIEW

Grip of the Racket for the Forehand Stroke.

WITH the present great popularity of tennis most girls either play it or wish they could play it. Probably all the girls of to-day have tried; some have succeeded and others have become discouraged. The cause of the latter state of mind is often that they have just played it up carelessly, with no real effort to learn the game. Now, tennis may be a source of much enjoyment to pretty good players, with the one condition that the two players are evenly matched. But there is such infinitely greater pleasure in playing well that it is worth while for any girl to take the trouble to learn the principles of the game, keep them in mind and practice them energetically.

BEFORE beginning to play one should be correctly and conveniently dressed. The skirt must be quite short and not very heavy. The best material is a rather stiff duck, for a soft skirt that hangs in around the legs will interfere very much with the movements. Any kind of a loose shirt waist may be worn, and the only other necessity is rubber soled shoes. These should fit comfortably, being neither too tight nor too loose. If one has weak ankles, high laced shoes are a help, but most players use low ones. Very thin stockings should never be worn; they wear out almost immediately and are not nearly as comfortable as thick ones.

For the game itself, the first and most important principle is to hold the racket tight. If it is loosely and carelessly held no good stroke can ever be made. It must be held at the extreme end and the firm grasp must never for an instant be forgotten. With a beginner this tight hold often makes the muscles of the forearm feel strained, but it will grow easier with practice.

THE second principle is to keep away from the ball. All beginners and some comparatively good players get too close to the ball. It is harder to teach girls to keep back far enough and wait long enough to make the stroke than it is with boys, probably because the boys are more used to ball games of different kinds and have always played them. A girl who is learning to play tennis has to be told every few moments to stand back and wait for the ball. Until one is quite an experienced player the ball should not be struck until it has reached the top of the bounce, and often it is better to let it begin to drop before striking it.

Another important point is that a step forward just as the ball is struck gives added force to the stroke and the further back the racket is swung the more force is gained as it strikes the ball. Then, too, it is important that the ball should strike the centre of the racket; no clean stroke can be made when the ball strikes the edge of the stringing. A racket which has been used long by a good player will have a little dark spot in the middle of the stringing, showing that the ball has always been hit in that one place.

FEW inexperienced players know that there should be a "follow through" in tennis, as there is in golf. This helps very much to guide the ball in a straight and accurate line. The racket, in hitting the ball, moves in the direction the ball is to go, and the longer it keeps on in that direction the better for the chance of the stroke being a true and swift one.

After any stroke has been made the player must immediately run back to the centre of the baseline and be ready there to move whichever way she must for the next stroke. If she does not do this her opponent will probably place the ball just where she cannot reach it. Many girls, after they have struck the ball, stand still and watch it, only moving when it is too late. Great quickness is most necessary in tennis. A player must think of several things at once, and the habit of always getting back to the same position between strokes soon becomes mechanical and is a great help.

A very general fault of girls who are learning tennis is bending the elbow, and it is hard for them to realize that the arm must be kept straight and the ball hit while it is below the level of the waist line. Of course it is struck much higher in the air in volleying, but few girls succeed in volleying well and they should not try to use that stroke often, except in doubles when playing at the net.

ON the other hand, it is a very good thing to learn to lob well. It is an easy stroke and very helpful when one wants to gain time. Some players are also so bothered by it that it gives their opponent a great advantage.

When a girl has had some little experience in playing and has learned how to make the strokes fairly well she should begin to practise placing the ball in different parts of the court. This is done by turning the wrist a little as the ball is struck. At first it will be rather discouraging, for a large number of the balls will go out of court, but everything new that one attempts in tennis takes much practice and some day it will suddenly seem easy and the player will begin to find she has considerable control over her racket and can come pretty near sending the ball in just the spot she wants to.

So far I have said nothing about the service. But of course it is of the utmost importance to develop a swift and accurate service. The ball should be thrown up in the air, the racket swung back over the right shoulder and swiftly forward, hitting the ball just before it begins to fall. It will take a lot of practice to serve a fast ball, but it can be done, though, of course, no girl can ever compete with men on the question of a tennis service.

It is a great help to a girl who can play tennis moderately well to play with men or in mixed doubles. If she can play singles with some man who plays well and is willing to adapt his game to her degree of skill, that is the greatest advantage possible. But, failing that, the experience of a man's swifter game that is gained in mixed doubles will improve her game very much.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

IN running around to see your girl friends, whether formally or informally, do not utterly disregard the hours for meals in their homes.

It is not good form when you have not been previously invited for the meal to linger on to the luncheon or dinner hour. If you do so you are likely to place your friend or her mother in an awkward position. Either she asks you to remain because she feels it courteous to do so, or she has the meal delayed waiting for you to take your departure. It is well to carefully avoid putting yourself in the position of allowing either of these alternatives to occur. No housekeeper likes her routine interfered with, and unexpected guests are not apt to be popular

In all well regulated houses the table is as conventionally laid for luncheon as for dinner, and to rearrange it at the last moment necessitates considerable change, accompanied by special orders to the kitchen, all of which mothers avoid if possible, and therefore they do not encourage inviting the girl at the last moment to stay.

If you are really wanted you should understand that you will be asked during the early part of your call. Suppose you go about eleven to see a girl friend. If she wishes you to remain to luncheon she will slip away in a moment to consult her mother about it, and if her mother consents she will return and ask you immediately, while you, if you wish to stay, will accept without hesitation, remove your things, and settle down for a nice long visit.

But if she does not ask you in this spontaneous way do not embarrass her by staying right up to the moment the meal is announced and forcing her either to ask you under protest or feeling uncomfortable because she does not invite you. Keep track of the time and start away a good half hour before the meal hour. And when you start to take your departure "stand not upon the order of your going," but get off with despatch. Some girls take a most astonishing time to say goodby. It would seem as if all the most important, exciting and engrossing topics of conversation occurred to them at the last moment, and they will chatter on even after they have said goodby, forgetting time or meals or the fact that others may be waiting for them.

All girls should wish to and strive to be popular with their elders, who are not only deserving of every consideration, but have it in their power to make things very delightful for the young people whom they like. And they do not like girls who delay their meals, either by loitering when they should go or by being unpunctual when house guests. So many of us would not for worlds intentionally offend in these matters, and do not always realise that we do offend because we do not stop to think about them. But thoughtlessness is easily remedied by setting a careful watch over ourselves and trying to see that our actions give pleasure rather than annoyance to those about us.

For the Porch Tea Table.

THE girl who makes tea on the porch will find that two most necessary parts of her outfit are a screen for the kettle and a tea cosey. The latter is useful in the house, but far more needed where a cool breeze may soon spoil the tea; and the screen is simply indispensable when the lamp of the kettle is lighted, for without it the flame is always blowing and often blows out.

Very handsome screens can be bought in silver, copper or brass, or a girl can make one. Whatever kind is used it must have three or four hinged panels, so that it can be put half or three quarters of the way around the kettle stand, and must be about the height of the kettle, without the handle. The prettiest kind of screen is of glass, through which the flame can be plainly seen while it is entirely protected from the wind. It may not be possible to buy this, but a girl can easily have one made to order.

Each panel should have a narrow frame of plain wood, holding a piece of clear glass, and after the screen is made its owner can decorate the wood herself. A very simple design burnt in the wood is especially pretty, but if she does not understand this work the wood can be painted. If she prefers to have some one else do it for her there are plenty of people who do the burnt wood designs to order. These screens can also be made of painted cardboard, but it must be very heavy cardboard; or they can be entirely of wood, either burnt or painted.

The tea cosey can be bought in such a great variety of styles that one can have either something most elaborate and expensive or a simple linen one. It, too, can be made, and made with very little trouble. A piece of handsome brocade can be used on some simple piece of silk, or an elaborately embroidered cosey is charming, made either of silk, satin or linen. To be useful the cosey must have a very thick interlining of wadding, wool wadding being better than cotton.

Poke Bonnet Motor Hats.

THE new motor hats in Paris show a direct return to the poke bonnet of half a century and more ago, and for real comfort in touring it is stated that nothing has yet equalled this wide brimmed hat, which protects at one time the eyes from glare, the face from burning and the hair from dust. Some of these hoods are marvellous confections in silk, lace and flowers; others are severely simple, of either linen or straw, and bear close resemblance to the garden sunbonnet. Trimmed with the hood part of lace and silk and the brim adorned with tiny rosebuds and fern leaves, the elaborate bonnets could scarcely be called practical for the purpose for which they are said to be designed. The simpler models, however, are excellent, and with a small veil of lace or chiffon over the face are most comfortable.

A girl who does not care to be a pioneer in her dress and likes always to keep to the conservative can make for herself an extremely pretty motor hat, with just sufficient of the bonnet lines to be comfortable and becoming without giving any suggestion of exaggeration. She should buy first a plain flat hat of some soft straw that can be bent in any lines desired and then wire the brim and bend the straw in at the back and down at the sides, leaving a brim in front to shade the eyes. As the frame must be a wide one to allow of the brim covering the hair in the back, it will be necessary to cut off some of the front and sides, binding the straw with ribbon. A large wired ribbon bow is then placed just in the centre of the front, with end turned about the crown. A chiffon or net veil is then fastened over the crown of the hat and tied down under the chin.

Any narrow brimmed round hat with a simple bow of ribbon at the front and the veil placed over the crown and, drawing the sides of the hat in somewhat will be good for automobile use. A sailor shape if not too large will always make a comfortable motor hat and the brim in front will prove the greatest protection to the eyes. Naturally this hat must be held down firmly with a veil, but so does even the smartest toque require to be kept on by this means.

There is no need for an automobile hat to be either dark in color or unbecoming in shape. Better have two or three light colored straw hats with simple, attractive ribbon trimming, which when faded or out of shape can be discarded, than to buy one intensely practical motor hat (at the beginning of the summer) which because of its costliness one feels must needs be worn throughout the entire season.

Pongee is perhaps the most satisfactory for a motor coat for hot weather, but natural colored linen made to fasten up well at the throat and cover the dress to the very hem is also smart. Linen has the double advantage of being inexpensive at the commencement and can be washed as long as the material holds together—which is an almost indefinite length of time—looking better after each washing.

Washable chamois gloves are the only thing possible in warm weather. Silk gloves are worn for motoring, it is true, and there are pongee gloves, which are thought very good, but the chamois, either in white or tan, are really smartest.

Young Girls' Gloves.

GLOVES especially adapted for tennis playing girls are of one button length in white or yellow chamois, a material which will not only withstand boiling but become softer and more flexible with every laundering.

The most practical gloves for golfing are the mousquetaires of colored mocha, which come with quite long wrists. For driving and riding there is nothing quite so smart as the white leather gloves with black buttons, stitching and gauntlets.

Tan, mode, white and black gloves for the street are of fine French glacé kid in three and six button lengths and of finely spun silk, with double finger tips and composition clasp fastenings.

Young girls' summer party gloves are of white or delicately tinted twisted silk in elbow lengths. They are seamless, the thumbs hemstitched and some of them are exquisitely embroidered.

Some Interesting and Useful Hints.

FOR a summer room a most fascinating box to hold fancy shoes and slippers can be made of light wood covered with cretonne and linen. To make the box unique have it hexagonal in shape, which any carpenter can do, and have a cover to fit, fastened at the back with small hinges.

Design the covering of the sides of the box in panels, selecting a French cretonne which lends itself to this idea, the prettiest new ones being those that have figures of girls and of little Cupids on them Cut the material to get the figure exactly in the centre of the panel, and then on the next panel of the box put linen of a color to form an artistic contrast to the cretonne. Alternate this way until the box is covered, finishing the edges of the two materials with strips of fancy linen braid, which heightens the panel effect.

The cover should be padded slightly, then covered with linen, ornamented with a large centrepiece of the figured cretonne, which is sewed on to the linen before the linen is tacked on the cover. The edge of the cretonne centrepiece is covered with linen braid to match the panels on the box, and when finished the proud owner has a veritable pièce de resistance.

New Desk Fittings.

DESK fittings come in all manner of materials and odd shapes. A Japanese bronze ink stand, representing a wide spreading chrysanthemum has a slender well of glass sunken amid its innermost petals. Another ink receptacle of English manufacture is a barrel shaped affair of golden oak hooped with nickel, and a third is in the form of a gun metal revolver lying flatly on low ball feet made of crystal.

Magazine and envelope cutters of ivory, celluloid and mother of pearl have owls, green lizards, monkeys and elephants carved upon their handles. All metal cutters of dull silver, green gold or gun finish have handles chased in floral and Greek designs, while crystal bladed cutters have richly colored lacquered wood handles. Some of these paper knives are accompanied by steel library shears fitted with ornamental handles and go into compartment cases of alligator, morocco, suede, seal or pig.

Stationery holders of two compartments are of plain brass or copper, etched with laurel wreaths designed to enclose a monogram; of crystal ornamented with gold or silver corners or ball feet, and of flemish oak studded with metal nail heads. Most practical of all the new stationery holders is one of silver embossed ebony, which is equipped with a lead pencil secured by an ornamental metal chain, which automatically rolls out of and into an attachment. Another useful fitting for a girl's desk is a brass handled pen brush which holds a perpetual calendar.

Individual desk lights are in the form of miniature six sided Japanese lanterns with lacquered frames and hand painted silk panels, Oriental brass lamps fitted with silk lined and fringe trimmed filigree brass shades, two and six armed synagogue candelabra and silver or gilt Benares candelabrum.

VETERAN LAW-MAKERS

FEW OF CANADA'S ORIGINAL LEGISLATORS SURVIVE.

Eight Who Dined Recently at Ottawa Are Nearly All Who Are Able to Go About—Story of the First Federal Election — Assassination of George Brown—He Was One of the Hardest Workers for Confederation

Of the score or so of men who sat in the first Parliament of the Dominion of Canada and who have not yet passed over to the great majority, eight sat down to dinner not long ago in the restaurant of the House of Commons as guests of the Canadian Club of Ottawa. Among the other guests were the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition, and several other members from both Houses. Five of the eight veterans are members of the present, the eleventh Parliament of Canada, so that they dined with political associates of forty years ago and those of to-day. Among the surviving veterans are several of the most prominent members of that first Parliament, which, as Earl Grey aptly said, rocked the cradle in which reposed the Confederation baby. Several of them sat down that day to dinner, others were absent, in all probability destined never to meet again. Two who were missed were Sir Charles Tupper and the Hon. Edward Blake. For many years they were conspicuous figures in the political arena, but their battles are over and their armor laid aside.

In the list of names of surviving members of that first Parliament published in one of the newspapers, strange to say, the name of Sir Charles was omitted, a remarkable omission to make, when every history of Confederation mentions the fact that Sir Charles (Dr. Tupper then) was the only supporter of the new order of things elected in Nova Scotia. Cumberland stood firm against the anti-Confederation tide, electing Dr. Tupper by the rather narrow majority of 87. Perhaps the error occurred by not remembering that although he was not taken into the Cabinet at its formation, he was in the House from the first. A portfolio was offered Dr. Tupper when Sir John Macdonald was choosing his Ministers, but with great unselfishness it was refused in order that it might be given to a representative of another element of the population.

The elections that returned the members of that first Federal Parliament were held during the late summer and early autumn of 1867. Those elections brought many surprises. One was the defeat in North Ontario of the Hon. George Brown, one of the Fathers of the then infant Confederation, the leader of the Clear Grits, and a man who during the preceding twenty years had had so much to do with the making and unmaking of Ministries as any man living. It was Brown's last election campaign, and like his first, it ended in defeat. The first was fought in Haldimand, and the memorable feature of it is the fact that the Grit leader was defeated by the penitent and pardoned rebel leader, William Lyon Mackenzie. "The contest was an exciting one," writes Mr. Charles Lindsay in his Life of William Lyon Mackenzie, "and created widespread interest on account of the political prominence of the candidates, both of whom belonged to the Reform party, which, at that time, was composed of groups or sections not fully in accord on some of the questions of the day. The result of this election caused a certain amount of estrangement between Brown and Mackenzie, which was never wholly removed, on account of Mackenzie's independence in the Assembly and otherwise."

It has just turned twenty-nine years since George Brown's life came to a close. His end was tragic, for he was the victim of an assassin's revolver. Bennett, the man who killed George Brown, had been employed in the engine-room of The Globe printing house, but had been discharged for intemperance. On the afternoon of March 25, 1880, Bennett entered the private office of Mr. Brown, presented a paper for the latter to sign, stating that Bennett had been in the employ of The Globe for five years. Bennett was told to go to the head of the department in which he had been employed, but Bennett replied that the head of the department had refused to give the certificate. He was then told to apply to the treasurer of the company, but he kept insisting that Mr. Brown should sign the paper, and finally he began to fumble in his pistol-pocket, whereupon it occurred to Mr. Brown, to use his own words, "that the little wretch might be meaning to shoot me." Bennett got out his pistol but Mr. Brown seized the man's wrist and turned his hand downward. One shot was fired in the struggle, the bullet passing through the outer side of Mr. Brown's left thigh.

The report of the pistol and Mr. Brown's cries for help instantly brought assistance from the editorial rooms. Among the first to arrive were Mr. Avern Pardoe, now librarian of the Ontario Legislature; Mr. Archibald Blue, head of the Census Bureau at Ottawa; and Mr. John A. Ewan now leader writer on The Globe.

The wound was not considered to be mortal, and for a number of days, but against the advice of his physicians, Mr. Brown transacted business in his room; but as April wore away the case began to look serious. Periods of delirium occurred, and then the wounded man became unconscious. Early on Sunday, May 16, George Brown passed away. Almost a third of a century has flown since then, and most of the men who worked with George Brown in public life or who fought against him are no more; but his name is not forgotten, nor will his career ever cease to be a matter of interesting study to those who would understand the long struggle in Canada for responsible government and the arduous and delicate task of those who laid the foundations of our Dominion.

Immune From Arrest.

In Washington, in the capital of the nation, there reside 200 men who, with their households, have absolute immunity from the laws of the land, even though they commit crimes of the first degree. They may shoot down the man who injures them; they may, if they see fit, paint the equestrian statue of General Phil Sheridan a vivid pea green, yet the hands of Uncle Sam must be kept from their shoulders, and woe unto the unterrified policeman or other servant of the law who undertakes to bring them to justice once they have declared their official connections. These men who are so clothed in immunity are the members of the diplomatic corps, and their shield is international law. It is provided in the laws of nations that they must answer before the tribunals of their own countries for the offenses they commit here in Washington, but that they shall not be tried by any court of the United States.—Washington Star.

A Realistic Acter.

Malcolm was three years old. He stood stock still in the middle of the floor, one arm extended horizontally. His mother, looking up from her sewing, saw the door open.

"Shut the door, Malcolm, please," she said.

No response. She repeated her request. Still no response.

"Malcolm," she said more sternly, "I asked you to shut the door."

Still Malcolm stood in the middle of the floor with his arm outstretched and did not move.

"Malcolm," said his mother, "if you don't shut the door at once I shall have to punish you."

Malcolm burst into tears and flung himself on his mother's knees. "Muver," he cried, "I was bein' a wooden sign, an' wooden signs can't shut doors!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Memory Studies.

A small boy went into a South Boston drug store, wrinkled his face, rubbed his head and rubbed his left foot up and down his right leg in an effort to remember something that had escaped him.

"Say," he began, "will you tell me the name of the place where we Americans have so many soldiers?"

"Fort Sheridan?"

"Oh, no. It's farther away than that."

"The Philippines?"

"That ain't just it, but it's somewhere around there."

"Perhaps you mean Manila?"

"Manila! That's right! I knew I would get it after awhile. I want a bottle of manila extract for flavorin'. They're goin' to have ice cream."—Boston Record.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstention may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquit in Socialism.

His Walking Papers.

"My sister 'll be down in a minute," said little Clarence, who was entertaining the young man in the parlor. "I heard her tellin' maw a little while ago that she was goin' to give you your written permission to perambulate tonight. What do you reckon she meant by that?"

"I think I know, Clarence," said the young man, reaching for his hat. "You may tell her, if you please, that I have decided not to wait for it."—Exchange.

Some part got out of gear.
Said one who later saw the place
Where with a crash was stopped the race,
"They found the pieces here."

The Duluth-Superior Traction Company was formed in the year 1900, and under it electric street railway systems were built and have been operated in Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., adjoining cities. The bulk of the common shares of the company have been owned by a few interests, amongst them being the estate of the late Thomas Lowry, President, until his death, of both the Twin City Rapid Transit Company, of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway; Mr. C. G. Goodrich, now President of the Twin City Rapid Transit Company, and President, since organization, of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company; and other important interests in Great Britain, and in Minneapolis, New York and Duluth. In addition to these, common shares of the company are held by 79 shareholders in moderate amounts, 2,210 shares altogether being so held.

The death of the late Mr. Lowry led to disposal of a portion of the stock formerly held by him, and, in this connection, arrangements have been made for the benefit of all concerned which it is believed will result in a wide market for the common shares.

Applications will be made in due course to have the common stock listed upon the Toronto, Montreal and New York Stock Exchanges, and Transfer Agencies will be established in these cities.

Mr. Goodrich, who is peculiarly fitted for valuable service through his successful experience in charge of construction and operation of the two important electric railway systems before mentioned, continues indefinitely as President of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company, and remains a large shareholder.

The earning record, present position and prospects of the company are such that the directors have authorised a statement that they intend to pay, on October 1 of this year, the first regular quarterly dividend upon the common stock, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

The directors of the Company are:—C. G. GOODRICH, President, Minneapolis, Minn.; L. ## DULUTH-SUPERIOR TRACTION COMPANY

Since September, 1907, the Duluth-Superior Traction Company has operated with power furnished by the Great Northern Power Company, which has, on the St. Louis River—about 22 miles from the cities of Duluth and Superior—I believe, the largest development of water power on the continent, next to Niagara Falls.

The population of the two cities, given in the census reports of the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin for 1905, was: Duluth, 64,942; Superior, 36,551; total 101,493. Since 1905 there has been an important growth, and I believe the present population of Duluth is about 85,000, and of Superior 40,000, making a total of 125,000.

Back of the cities are the immense deposits of iron ore in the Missabe and other ranges, and the business resulting from the activities of the United States Steel Company and other corporations is enormous.

Over 400 vessels, with a net tonnage of more than 600,000 tons are enrolled in the dock of Duluth, and in one season there have been shipped through this port 34,786,705 tons, valued at $287,529,690. Nearly 14,000 boats arrive and depart each season.

The Superior shipbuilding yards, during the last eight years, built 20 ships, with a carrying capacity of nearly 200,000 tons.

On the borders of the Duluth-Superior harbor are 33 grain elevators, with a capacity of over 35,000,000 bushels, besides large flour and saw mills, and the largest ore and coal docks in the world.

The railways entering Duluth and Superior are as follows: Great Northern; Northern Pacific; Duluth, Missabe & Northern; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic: Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; Chicago Great Western and Canadian Northern Railway Company. In addition, the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway and the Wisconsin Central Railway have both been actively constructing their entrances into these cities for about a year, the first of these coming in both from Brooten, on the west, where it connects with the great northwest grain growing area, and from St. Paul and Minneapolis and Chicago on the south, and it is likely they will both be operating their train service in and out of the cities before the end of the current year.

Regarding the drop in surplus earnings in 1908 to $121,656.67 as compared with $189,636.03 for 1907, the conditions bringing this about were these: During 1906 and 1907 the number of cars operated by the company became more and more inadequate for the growing traffic, but inasmuch as the steam power generated by the company's own plant was almost fully used during "rush" hours, with a diminishing margin of safety, it was thought wise not to increase the number of cars until the waterpower to be supplied by the Great Northern Power Company, and for which we had contracted, should be available. The citizens were patient under the circumstances, and the net profits of the company were for the time unduly large. After receiving power from the new source, in September, 1907, the company put on a number of new cars, increasing operating expenses proportionately. This happened to be coincident with an increase in wages, amounting to nearly $30,000, and an increase in accident damages of about $26,000. The very prosperous business conditions which have obtained in Duluth and Superior for some time have brought the surplus profits to a basis practically equal with those of 1907, and the basis is more substantial, inasmuch as the company now not only fully occupies the territory, but is well equipped from the standpoint of its roadbed, character and number of its cars, and source of power supply.

Taking the basis of actual net earnings for the first six months, and making as close an estimate as possible of the earnings for the last six months, I expect that the surplus profits for the year 1909 will be at least $185,000, or say, 5¼ per cent. upon the capital stock.

The momentum which has been achieved through the activity in building and in general business, coupled with the strength of the situation of the two cities, would seem to justify the prediction that their population will have more than the ordinary increases which have ruled, with cities of their size in North America. Based, however, only upon the history of the cities and upon ordinary growth in gross earnings, which have increased steadily each year over the preceeding year (except in the year 1904), from $452,703.83 in 1901, to $890,295.71 in 1908, I feel that the directors are justified in commencing dividends at this stage at the rate of four per cent. per annum, and see no reason why this rate should not be maintained; while prospects for increases in dividend are such as relate to a healthy company expecting a normal growth in its business.

C. G. GOODRICH, President.
Duluth, July 8, 1909.

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATES

We hereby certify, that we have made running audits of the accounts of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company from December 31, 1905, and that the following is a true statement of the earnings and expenses for the three years from that date to December, 1908:—

| | 1906 | 1907 | 1908 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gross earnings | $768,874.77 | $846,084.85 | $890,295.71 |
| Operating expenses | 401,624.92 | 438,766.51 | 549,437.58 |
| Net earnings | $367,249.85 | $407,317.84 | $340,858.13 |
| Fixed charges | 211,575.76 | 217,681.81 | 219,201.46 |
| Surplus | $155,674.09 | $189,636.03 | $121,656.67 |

"The "Fixed" charges in each year include bond interest to the amount of $125,000, preferred stick dividend to the amount of $60,000.00, and all taxes. The surplus remaining is the amount available for renewals and dividends on the common stock.

The policy of the company has been to apply its surplus to the improvement of the company, and in pursuance of that policy no dividends have, as yet, been paid on the common stock. The accumulated surplus, at December 31, 1908, amounted to $841,722.87, of which $326,579.80 had been appropriated to the credit of renewal account, leaving $515,143.07 in surplus account.

In addition to having made a running audit from December 31, 1905, we have had access to the books and accounts of the company from its organization in 1900, and have satisfied ourselves that in the eight and one-third years ended December 31, 1908, the company, in addition to having paid its bond interest and preferred stock dividend in full has spent out of its surplus earnings $728,107.02 in new construction and equipment and has added $113,615.85 to the excess of the current assets over current liabilities, the two amounts accounting for the entire surplus of $841,722.87.

The gross earnings monthly for the five months of the current year ended May 31, in comparison with the same period in the three preceeding years, are as follows:

| | 1906 | 1907 | 1908 | 1909 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| January | $54,101 | $58,874 | $64,355 | $71,213 |

| March | 57,846 | 63,896 | 67,102 | 72,998 |
| April | 61,634 | 66,819 | 68,387 | 74,442 |
| May | 63,335 | 68,892 | 71,045 | 79,144 |
| | $286,629 | $310,813 | $332,659 | $361,950 |

Balance Sheet, December 31st, 1908.

| ASSETS | | LIABILITIES | |

We have inquired into the franchises of the underlying Companies of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company and are of the opinion that they are valid and free from onerous restriction, and have at least 22 years yet to run.

FEW OF CANADA'S ORIGINAL LEGISLATORS SURVIVE.

Eight Who Dined Recently at Ottawa Are Nearly All Who Are Able to Go About—Story of the First Federal Election — Assassination of George Brown—He Was One of the Hardest Workers for Confederation

Of the score or so of men who sat in the first Parliament of the Dominion of Canada and who have not yet passed over to the great majority, eight sat down to dinner not long ago in the restaurant of the House of Commons as guests of the Canadian Club of Ottawa. Among the other guests were the Prime Minister, the Leader of the Opposition, and several other members from both Houses. Five of the eight veterans are members of the present, the eleventh Parliament of Canada, so that they dined with political associates of forty years ago and those of to-day. Among the surviving veterans are several of the most prominent members of that first Parliament, which, as Earl Grey aptly said, rocked the cradle in which reposed the Confederation baby. Several of them sat down that day to dinner, others were absent, in all probability destined never to meet again. Two who were missed were Sir Charles Tupper and the Hon. Edward Blake. For many years they were conspicuous figures in the political arena, but their battles are over and their armor laid aside.

In the list of names of surviving members of that first Parliament published in one of the newspapers, strange to say, the name of Sir Charles was omitted, a remarkable omission to make, when every history of Confederation mentions the fact that Sir Charles (Dr. Tupper then) was the only supporter of the new order of things elected in Nova Scotia. Cumberland stood firm against the anti-Confederation tide, electing Dr. Tupper by the rather narrow majority of 87. Perhaps the error occurred by not remembering that although he was not taken into the Cabinet at its formation, he was in the House from the first. A portfolio was offered Dr. Tupper when Sir John Macdonald was choosing his Ministers, but with great unselfishness it was refused in order that it might be given to a representative of another element of the population.

The elections that returned the members of that first Federal Parliament were held during the late summer and early autumn of 1867. Those elections brought many surprises. One was the defeat in North Ontario of the Hon. George Brown, one of the Fathers of the then infant Confederation, the leader of the Clear Grits, and a man who during the preceding twenty years had had so much to do with the making and unmaking of Ministries as any man living. It was Brown's last election campaign, and like his first, it ended in defeat. The first was fought in Haldimand, and the memorable feature of it is the fact that the Grit leader was defeated by the penitent and pardoned rebel leader, William Lyon Mackenzie. "The contest was an exciting one," writes Mr. Charles Lindsay in his Life of William Lyon Mackenzie, "and created widespread interest on account of the political prominence of the candidates, both of whom belonged to the Reform party, which, at that time, was composed of groups or sections not fully in accord on some of the questions of the day. The result of this election caused a certain amount of estrangement between Brown and Mackenzie, which was never wholly removed, on account of Mackenzie's independence in the Assembly and otherwise."

It has just turned twenty-nine years since George Brown's life came to a close. His end was tragic, for he was the victim of an assassin's revolver. Bennett, the man who killed George Brown, had been employed in the engine-room of The Globe printing house, but had been discharged for intemperance. On the afternoon of March 25, 1880, Bennett entered the private office of Mr. Brown, presented a paper for the latter to sign, stating that Bennett had been in the employ of The Globe for five years. Bennett was told to go to the head of the department in which he had been employed, but Bennett replied that the head of the department had refused to give the certificate. He was then told to apply to the treasurer of the company, but he kept insisting that Mr. Brown should sign the paper, and finally he began to fumble in his pistol-pocket, whereupon it occurred to Mr. Brown, to use his own words, "that the little wretch might be meaning to shoot me." Bennett got out his pistol but Mr. Brown seized the man's wrist and turned his hand downward. One shot was fired in the struggle, the bullet passing through the outer side of Mr. Brown's left thigh.

The report of the pistol and Mr. Brown's cries for help instantly brought assistance from the editorial rooms. Among the first to arrive were Mr. Avern Pardoe, now librarian of the Ontario Legislature; Mr. Archibald Blue, head of the Census Bureau at Ottawa; and Mr. John A. Ewan now leader writer on The Globe.

The wound was not considered to be mortal, and for a number of days, but against the advice of his physicians, Mr. Brown transacted business in his room; but as April wore away the case began to look serious. Periods of delirium occurred, and then the wounded man became unconscious. Early on Sunday, May 16, George Brown passed away. Almost a third of a century has flown since then, and most of the men who worked with George Brown in public life or who fought against him are no more; but his name is not forgotten, nor will his career ever cease to be a matter of interesting study to those who would understand the long struggle in Canada for responsible government and the arduous and delicate task of those who laid the foundations of our Dominion.

Immune From Arrest.

In Washington, in the capital of the nation, there reside 200 men who, with their households, have absolute immunity from the laws of the land, even though they commit crimes of the first degree. They may shoot down the man who injures them; they may, if they see fit, paint the equestrian statue of General Phil Sheridan a vivid pea green, yet the hands of Uncle Sam must be kept from their shoulders, and woe unto the unterrified policeman or other servant of the law who undertakes to bring them to justice once they have declared their official connections. These men who are so clothed in immunity are the members of the diplomatic corps, and their shield is international law. It is provided in the laws of nations that they must answer before the tribunals of their own countries for the offenses they commit here in Washington, but that they shall not be tried by any court of the United States.—Washington Star.

A Realistic Actor.

Malcolm was three years old. He stood stock still in the middle of the floor, one arm extended horisontally. His mother, looking up from her sewing, saw the door open.

"Shut the door, Malcolm, please," she said.

No response. She repeated her request. Still no response.

"Malcolm," she said more sternly, "I asked you to shut the door."

Still Malcolm stood in the middle of the floor with his arm outstretched and did not move.

"Malcolm," said his mother, "if you don't shut the door at once I shall have to punish you."

Malcolm burst into tears and flung himself on his mother's knees. "Muver," he cried, "I was bein' a wooden sign, an' wooden signs can't shut doors!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Memory Studies.

A small boy went into a South Boston drug store, wrinkled his face, rubbed his head and rubbed his left foot up and down his right leg in an effort to remember something that had escaped him.

"Say," he began, "will you tell me the name of the place where we Americans have so many soldiers?"

"Fort Sheridan?"

"Oh, no. It's farther away than that."

"The Philippines?"

"That ain't just it, but it's somewhere around there."

"Perhaps you mean Manila?"

"Manila! That's right! I knew I would get it after awhile. I want a bottle of manila extract for flavorin'. They're goin' to have ice cream."—Boston Record.

Old Time Temperance.

The first temperance society is said to have been founded by Margrave Frederick V. in 1600, and it is instructive to learn that the noble members of that society were bound by a pledge good for two years not to drink more than seven bumpers of wine with any meal nor more than fourteen bumpers a day. They were, however, permitted to quench any surplus of thirst with beer and to drink one glass of whisky on the side. By this ideal of abstention may be gauged the ordinary drinking habits of our forefathers in the good old times when knighthood was in flower.—Morris Hillquit in Socialism.

His Walking Papers.

"My sister 'll be down in a minute," said little Clarence, who was entertaining the young man in the parlor. "I heard her tellin' maw a little while ago that she was goin' to give you your written permission to perambulate tonight. What do you reckon she meant by that?"

"I think I know, Clarence," said the young man, reaching for his hat. "You may tell her, if you please, that I have decided not to wait for it."—Exchange.

Where with a crash was stopped the race,

OFFERING AT $61 PER SHARE OF $1,500,000 COMMON STOCK OF THE

DULUTH-SUPERIOR TRACTION COMPANY

CAPITALIZATION: Bonds, 5 per cent. ..... $2,500,000
Preference Stock, 4 per cent. ..... 1,500,000
Common Stock ..... 3,500,000

The Duluth-Superior Traction Company was formed in the year 1900, and under it electric street railway systems were built and have been operated in Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis., adjoining cities. The bulk of the common shares of the company have been owned by a few interests, amongst them being the estate of the late Thomas Lowry, President, until his death, of both the Twin City Rapid Transit Company, of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway; Mr. C. G. Goodrich, now President of the Twin City Rapid Transit Company, and President, since organization, of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company; and other important interests in Great Britain, and in Minneapolis, New York and Duluth. In addition to these, common shares of the company are held by 79 shareholders in moderate amounts, 2,310 shares altogether being so held.

The death of the late Mr. Lowry led to disposal of a portion of the stock formerly held by him, and, in this connection, arrangements have been made for the benefit of all concerned which it is believed will result in a wide market for the common shares.

Applications will be made in due course to have the common stock listed upon the Toronto, Montreal and New York Stock Exchanges, and Transfer Agencies will be established in these cities.

Mr. Goodrich, who is peculiarly fitted for valuable service through his successful experience in charge of construction and operation of the two important electric railway systems before mentioned, continues indefinitely as President of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company, and remains a large shareholder.

The earning record, present position and prospects of the company are such that the directors have authorized a statement that they intend to pay, on October 1 of this year, the first regular quarterly dividend upon the common stock, at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

The directors of the Company are:—C. G. GOODRICH, President, Minneapolis, Minn.; L. MENDELHALL, Vice-President, Duluth, Minn.; EDMUND ZACHER, New Haven, Conn., and HORACE LOWRY, Minneapolis; RODOLPHE FORGET, M.P., Montreal, Que., and A. E. AMES, Toronto, Ont., are to be added to the board at the annual meeting next January. They also join the board of the operating company, the Duluth Street Railway Co., at its annual meeting, to be held during the present or the following month.

At $61 per share the present yield on the investment is 6.55 per cent.

We recommend purchases of these shares from the standpoint of security, present dividend yield, and enhancement of value of the principal.

Full particulars of the company's franchises and power agreement are on file and may be seen at our offices.

Memoranda are appended, signed respectively by the President and Auditors of the company, and also by Messrs. Thomson, Tilley & Johnson, Solicitors, of Toronto, and Messrs. Clarkson & Cross, Accountants, of Toronto, who have acted on behalf of the purchasers.

DULUTH-SUPERIOR TRACTION COMPANY

Since September, 1907, the Duluth-Superior Traction Company has operated with power furnished by the Great Northern Power Company, which has, on the St. Louis River—about 22 miles from the cities of Duluth and Superior—I believe, the largest development of water power on the continent, next to Niagara Falls.

The population of the two cities, given in the census reports of the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin for 1905, was: Duluth, 64,942; Superior, 36,551; total 101,493. Since 1905 there has been an important growth, and I believe the present population of Duluth is about 85,000, and of Superior 40,000, making a total of 125,000.

Back of the cities are the immense deposits of iron ore in the Missabe and other ranges, and the business resulting from the activities of the United States Steel Company and other corporations is enormous.

Over 400 vessels, with a net tonnage of more than 600,000 tons are enrolled in the dock of Duluth, and in one season there have been shipped through this port 34,786,705 tons, valued at $287,529,690. Nearly 14,000 boats arrive and depart each season.

The Superior shipbuilding yards, during the last eight years, built 20 ships, with a carrying capacity of nearly 200,000 tons.

On the borders of the Duluth-Superior harbor are 33 grain elevators, with a capacity of over 35,000,000 bushels, besides large flour and saw mills, and the largest ore and coal docks in the world.

The railways entering Duluth and Superior are as follows: Great Northern; Northern Pacific; Duluth, Missabe & Northern; Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic: Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; Chicago Great Western and Canadian Northern Railway Company. In addition, the Minneapolis, St, Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway and the Wisconsin Central Railway have both been actively constructing their entrances into these cities for about a year, the first of these coming in both from Brooten, on the west, where it connects with the great northwest grain growing area, and from St. Paul and Minneapolis and Chicago on the south, and it is likely they will both be operating their train service in and out of the cities before the end of the current year.

Regarding the drop in surplus earnings in 1908 to $121,656.67 as compared with $189,636.03 for 1907, the conditions bringing this about were these: During 1906 and 1907 the number of cars operated by the company became more and more inadequate for the growing traffic, but inasmuch as the steam power generated by the company's own plant was almost fully used during "rush" hours, with a diminishing margin of safety, it was thought wise not to increase the number of cars until the waterpower to be supplied by the Great Northern Power Company, and for which we had contracted, should be available. The citizens were patient under the circumstances, and the net profits of the company were for the time unduly large. After receiving power from the new source, in September, 1907, the company put on a number of new cars, increasing operating expenses proportionately. This happened to be coincident with an increase in wages, amounting to nearly $30,000, and an increase in accident damages of about $35,000. The very prosperous business conditions which have obtained in Duluth and Superior for some time have brought the surplus profits to a basis practically equal with those of 1907, and the basis is more substantial, inasmuch as the company now not only fully occupies the territory, but is well equipped from the standpoint of its roadbed, character and number of its cars, and source of power supply.

Taking the basis of actual net earnings for the first six months, and making as close an estimate as possible of the earnings for the last six months, I expect that the surplus profits for the year 1909 will be at least $185,000, or say, 5¼ per cent. upon the capital stock.

The momentum which has been achieved through the activity in building and in general business, coupled with the strength of the situation of the two cities, would seem to justify the prediction that their population will have more than the ordinary increases which have ruled, with cities of their size in North America. Based, however, only upon the history of the cities and upon ordinary growth in gross earnings, which have increased steadily each year over the preceding year (except in the year 1904), from $452,703.83 in 1901, to $880,295.71 in 1908, I feel that the directors are justified in commencing dividends at this stage at the rate of four per cent. per annum, and see no reason why this rate should not be maintained; while prospects for increases in dividend are such as relate to a healthy company expecting a normal growth in its business.

C. G. GOODRICH, President.
Duluth, July 8, 1909.

AUDITORS' CERTIFICATES

We hereby certify, that we have made running audits of the accounts of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company from December 31, 1905, and that the following is a true statement of the earnings and expenses for the three years from that date to December, 1908:—

| | 1906 | 1907 | 1908 |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gross earnings | $768,874.77 | $846,084.35 | $690,295.71 |
| Operating expenses | 401,624.92 | 438,766.51 | 549,437.58 |
| Net earnings | $367,249.85 | $407,317.84 | $340,858.13 |
| Fixed charges | 211,575.76 | 217,681.81 | 219,201.46 |
| Surplus | $155,674.09 | $189,636.03 | $121,656.67 |

"The "Fixed" charges in each year include bond interest to the amount of $125,000, preferred stick dividend to the amount of $60,000.00, and all taxes. The surplus remaining is the amount available for renewals and dividends on the common stock.

The policy of the company has been to apply its surplus to the improvement of the company, and in pursuance of that policy no dividends have, as yet, been paid on the common stock. The accumulated surplus, at December 31, 1908, amounted to $841,722.87, of which $326,579.80 had been appropriated to the credit of renewal account, leaving $515,143.07 in surplus account.

In addition to having made a running audit from December 31, 1905, we have had access to the books and accounts of the company from its organisation in 1900, and have satisfied ourselves that in the eight and one-third years ended December 31, 1908, the company, in addition to having paid its bond interest and preferred stock dividend in full has spent out of its surplus earnings $728,107.02 in new construction and equipment and has added $113,615.85 to the excess of the current assets over current liabilities, the two amounts accounting for the entire surplus of $841,722.87.

The gross earnings monthly for the five months of the current year ended May 31, in comparison with the same period in the three preceding years, are as follows:

| | 1906 | 1907 | 1908 | 1909 |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| January | $54,101 | $58,874 | $64,355 | $71,213 |
| February | 49,712 | 52,332 | 61,770 | 64,153 |
| March | 57,846 | 63,896 | 67,102 | 72,996 |
| April | 61,634 | 66,819 | 68,387 | 74,442 |
| May | 63,335 | 68,892 | 71,045 | 79,144 |
| | $286,629 | $310,813 | $332,659 | $361,950 |

Balance Sheet, December 31st, 1908.

| ASSETS | | LIABILITIES | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Roadway, equipment, etc. | $8,211,794.23 | Bonds (5 per cent., due 1930) | $2,500,000.00 |

New York, June 18, 1909. MARWICK, MITCHELL & CO.

We have examined, at Duluth, the accounts of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company, and have satisfied ourselves that the above statement of Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell & Co. is correct.

SOLICITORS' OPINION

We have inquired into the franchises of the underlying Companies of the Duluth-Superior Traction Company, and are of the opinion that they are valid and free from onerous restriction, and have at least 23 years yet to run.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Active and Higher at Buffalo.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, July 20.—The railways reported 75 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 966 cattle, 1204 hogs, 2213 sheep and lambs and 389 calves.

Exporters.

Geo. Rowntree reported having bought several lots of medium exporters at $5.35 to $5.50. Export bulls are quoted at $4.60 to $5.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree was the heaviest purchaser of butchers' cattle, as usual, having bought 200 for the Harris Abattoir Company, as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers at $5.75 to $6.25 per cwt.; cows at $5.25 to $5.50 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

Harry Murby reports good quality cattle, 800 to 900 lbs., as holding their own in values, the number of this class being scarce, there not being enough to supply the demand. Common, altho not many offered, are hard to cash. It looks as the good quality feeders and stockers are not going to be very cheap. Steers, 800 to 1000 lbs. each, at $4 to $4.25; steers, 700 to 800 lbs. each, at $3.90 to $4; fair to good stockers, $3 to $3.50; common stockers, $2.50 to $2.75.

Milkers and Springers.

About thirty milkers and springers sold at from $30 to $50 each, with one at $60.

Veal Calves.

Deliveries of veal calves were liberal, with prices generally much easier; that is, few brought the top quotation. Prices were quoted at $3 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The run of sheep and lambs was large—over 2200. Prices were generally easier, and likely to go lower. Export ewes, $3.50 to $4 per cwt.; rams, $3.00 to $3; lambs, $6.50 to $7.00 per cwt.

Hogs.

The market for hogs was very firm, at $6.75, fed and watered at the market, and $6 f.o.b cars at country points, and in some instances $6.05 was reported paid as country points.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards for Tuesday, were 28 carloads, consisting of 1758 cattle, 15 hogs, 45 sheep and 3 calves. Besides the above, there were over 20 carloads of exporters, that arrived on Monday, that were on hand for to-day's market.

Exporters.

Export steers sold at from $5.15 up to $5.30, the latter price being paid for the load brought in by P. Rastorick, and sold by McDonald & Halligan to A. McIntosh for Gordon, Ironsides and Fhares. Export heifers sold at from $5.40 up to $6 per cwt.

Butchers.

The best butchers' sold to-day were reported at from $5 to $5.30; medium, $4.75 to $5; common, $4.25 to $4.75; cows at from $3 to $4.25 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

Fred Rowntree bought 15 milkers and springers at $30 to $60 each.

Prices for sheep, lambs, calves and hogs were unchanged from Monday's quotations.

Victims of Strange Disease.

Chicago, July 21.—Pellagra, a mysterious plague as fatal as leprosy, and usually found only in the southern States, and in tropical countries, has been discovered among inmates of the insane ward at Dunning Asylum. Most authorities attribute the disease to the use as food of spoiled or damaged corn or its products. Pellagra eats out the body and mind, but is a chronic disease and not acute. The disease is not considered communicable.

151 Hours Without Food.

London, July 21.—Another suffragette, Miss Elsie Mackenzie, was discharged from prison yesterday in a critical condition, having gone 151 hours without tasting food.

New York for Copper Centre.

New York, July 21.—The reform committee of the metal exchange propose a measure to swing London trading to New York, making it the world's copper centre.

Training Ships May Visit Chatham.

Chatham, July 21.—On Saturday, when 50 Detroit motor boats, headed by Mayor Breitmeyer of that city, visit Chatham, the keels of two American warships may plow the waters of the Thames for the first time since 1813. Efforts are being made to induce the Washington authorities to permit the training vessels Don Juan, Austria and the Morrell, to come here with the motor boats.

Major Leckie Vindicated.

Montreal, July 21.—Before Judge Leet yesterday the hearing of the charge of fraud laid against Major R. C. Leckie, Sudbury, was taken up and resulted in the major's honorable acquittal. Judge Leet declared Major Leckie had a perfect right to conclude the transaction in question, and he refused to hear further evidence after the statement of the case. Major Leckie, he said, was completely vindicated.

Dynamite Kills Six.

Easton, Pa., July 21.—Six men employed on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad's cut off work, were killed yesterday. A large gang of men were at work digging dynamite that failed to explode, when it was set off.

Hurt In Handcar Collision.

Kingston, July 21.—Two handcars came together on the C.P.R. near Cos Hill. Patrick Finnegan, section foreman, was hurled fifteen feet and received injuries about the head. Mrs. Finnegan had her ankle broken and sustained other severe injuries.

ROBBER WAS FRIGHTENED.

Person Who Took Jewels Worth $7,000 at Cobourg Returned Them.

Cobourg, July 21.—Seven thousand dollars in jewelry, belonging to Mrs. Boake of Chicago, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Donley, of King street, Cobourg, were stolen some time between Wednesday and Sunday last. Yesterday they were mysteriously returned.

The jewel casket was last in use by Mrs. Boake on Wednesday. On Sunday evening it was gone. Chief of Police Ruse was notified; so were Pinkerton sleuths; so was Provincial Detective Rogers, who came to town Monday.

Yesterday it was announced that the casket had been found in the residence in such a location that it must have been placed there some time during the morning. The police say that they are doing no further investigating.

The jewelry included a diamond and pearl bracelet, one shower pin of pearls surrounded with diamonds, one ruby pin surrounded with diamonds, one emerald bar brooch surrounded with diamonds, one crown pin set with pearls, one diamond ring, three pearl bar pins, and one gold fleur-de-lis ornament surrounded with large diamonds set in platinum.

The small freight steamer Martha Stevens, bound by the inside route to Trenton, N.J., was run into and sunk by an unknown tug off Robbins Reef, in New York harbor. One man was drowned.

Foe of Middleman.

Ottawa, July 21.—Complaints have been received by the Government from the British Colonial Office and the British ambassador at Tokio regarding the methods adopted by W. T. R. Preston, lately Canadian Trade Commissioner in the Orient, while working to establish and develop Canada's trade with Japan.

Mr. Preston, who is at present at Ottawa, yesterday said that when he went there he found himself up against the whole foreign commercial element, particularly Great Britain, Germany, and the United States. It was not only, he said, that they objected to Japan buying from Canada what she had been purchasing from them, but they feared the application of the larger principle, the disturbance caused, they claimed, by Canada's attempt to do without the middleman.

Mr. Preston may not go to Holland for some months yet. He will represent Canadian interests there.

Dominion Can Appeal.

London, July 21.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Privy Council yesterday the following petitions for special leave to appeal were heard:

Lach v. the King for leave to appeal in forma paupers, dismissed.

Conciliation Board Disagrees.

Winnipeg, July 21.—The conciliation board called to arbitrate the case between the Canadian Northern Railway and its men, has failed to agree. The majority report is signed by Judge Myers, chairman, and J. G. O'Donoghue, representative of the men, and the minority report signed by W. J. Christie, the company's delegate on the board. The men and the company had agreed on a schedule covering the rates of wages and everything except two items in the pay list. Christie thought that the board ought to deal with the whole schedule, as the company's offer was not accepted.

Moors Good Fighters.

Melilla, Morocco, July 21.—The attack by Moorish tribesmen made on the Spanish forces here last Saturday afternoon was executed under cover of a feint on the front against the Spanish flank. Many of the tribesmen succeeded in breaking through the barb wire entrenchments, where they fell at the mouths of the cannon after hand to hand fighting. It was three o'clock on Sunday morning when the Moors finally retired. The Moors numbered 6,000, and the French and Spanish force 2,000.

King Visits Chamberlain.

London, July 21.—The condition of Joseph Chamberlain, who has been in ill-health for some time past, continues to improve gradually, according to a statement issued by his son, Austin Chamberlain, yesterday.

On Monday King Edward paid a long visit to Mr. Chamberlain at his London residence.

City Asks Conciliation Board.

Ottawa, July 21.—The City Council of Saskatoon has applied for a board of conciliation and investigation in regard to a dispute as to conditions of employment in which it is involved with its employes. This is the first application for a board by a municipality.

Tried to Escape.

Strike Over at Inverness.

Inverness, N.S., July 21.—The output at the Mackenzie & Mann coal mine is now about 80 per cent. of the normal, and to all practical purposes the strike of the U. M. Workers at this point has been overcome. Prior to the strike the mine was operated by 500 to 550 men, and the average output per day was about 1,100 tons. The trouble started on the 8th, and on the 9th the men were called out. Work was resumed in the mines on the 10th, with a few of the old men and some new ones in charge, and on the 13th 480 tons of coal were mined. On th 14th, eleven members of the union returned, on the 15th thirty-four men went to work, while twenty-five were added on the 16th, eight on the 17th and nineteen on the 19th. On Monday 830 tons were taken out.

Complaint Against Magistrate.

Halifax, N. S., July 21.—In a letter to Hon. W. T. Pipes, Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, L. A. Lovett, solicitor for the Dominion Coal Co., has raised objections to the action of Magistrate A. D. McCuish, who is considered to be in sympathy with the U.M.W., states that when strikers and their sympathizers have been arrested for alleged assault and interference with workmen, the U.M.W. supporters or their solicitors have procured the release of the person charged by putting up bail, and have immediately gone to another magistrate and laid an information against the police officer who made the arrest, for kidnapping.

"The law is thus being made a farce by these arrests and charges," says Mr. Lovett.

Output Increasing.

Glace Bay, N.S., July 21.—From a careful review of the strike situation to date, it can be said there is no indication of the settlement in sight. Strike leaders claim they have 5,500 men on the rolls, while the company refuses to give out a statement as to the number of men in the collieries.

The one important feature of the situation to-day is the remarkable increase in the output claimed by the company, viz., that at 4 o'clock yesterday 7,585 tons had been shipped from the different collieries, including 3,096 tons from the banks.

A Belligerent Farmer.

St. Catharines, July 21.—The police want Morley Secord, a farmer. After being allowed to go on suspended sentence for beating his wife, Secord, according to information laid with the police, went home and licked the hired man and his son, because they were in court ready to give evidence against him in the assault case.

A LINDSAY WOMAN WAS RELIEVED OF HER PURSE

Went on an Excursion to Niagara Falls and Struck Up a Conversation With a Well Dressed Stranger, When Latter Disappeared, So Did the Purse.

LEFT WITHOUT A CENT

A well-known dressmaker of Lindsay had an experience on Saturday that she will not forget in a hurry. She was one of the many Lindsay citizens who took advantage of the Warder's popular excursion to Toronto and Niagara Falls, and for some time past has been figuring and planning ahead for the outing. It was her intention to spend Sunday with friends in Buffalo, but alack and alas, she was doomed to disappointment.

It happened this way. While on the Str. Corona she became acquainted, apparently, with "a woman of the world." The latter was well dressed, was rather pretty and had a somewhat winning way. They sat down together on one of the upholstered settees and engaged in conversation. The stranger glibly lead the Lindsay lady to believe that she had traveled much and that she had just returned from a trip to the silver mining fields of New Ontario, that she had been very successful in her speculations, and that she was now about to enjoy a rest, and would live on her money for a while. They chatted on until the boat pulled up at the Lewiston wharf, and then they separated. She who plies the needle felt for her pocketbook in the inner folds of her waist, and was shocked to find the much-needed pocketbook was not there, and the Lindsay lady believes that she was robbed by her well-dressed companion on the boat.

She was moneyless and did not know what to do. However, they were very kind to her on the boat, and secured transportation back for her. —Lindsay Warder.

STEEL DRY DOCK

Large Floating Structure to be Erected at Port Arthur.

Superior, Wis., July 21.—The local shipyard has taken the contract for the construction of a floating dry-dock for James Whalen, of Port Arthur. The dock is to be 100 feet long and 70 feet wide, and will take 400 tons of steel to construct. It will cost $50,000. Mr. Whalen is interested in the plan of putting in a shipyard at Port Arthur, but the steel dry-dock is said to be an entirely separate proposition. Work on the construction of the dock is to be started as soon as it is possible to get the material at the yards here.

NAME OF PUPIL OMITTED FROM LIST OF SUCCESSFUL

In the list published from the Globe on Monday, of the pupils who passed the examinations of the Toronto College of Music the name of Master Hugh Carmichael, who passed in primary piano, was omitted. He was a pupil of Mrs. W. M. Thackeray, of the Conservatory of Music staff.

LOOK OUT FOR PNEUMONIA

WEST TORONTO VISITORS ARE HERE TO-DAY

Big Excursion Brings Over 400 People to the City—Baseball and Other Sports at the Nicholls Oval.

TRIP OVER THE LIFT LOCK

Peterborough was invaded this morning by over 400 excursionists from West Toronto, Lambton and Weston under the auspices of the business men of the three places. The threatening weather did not interfere with the attendance and the outing was a decided success. The excursion arrived on a special C. P. R. train at 10.15, after making the splendid run of two hours and ten minutes from West Toronto. On their arrival special street cars were in waiting and the excursionists were conveyed to Nicholls' Oval, where a baseball match was played between the North and the South sides.

This afternoon a lengthy programme of sports open only to those holding excursion tickets is being run off. The events include hundred yard races, mile run, pole vault, high jump, running hop-step-and-jump, ladies' races, biscuit races, and quoit and bowling matches, the latter between the visitors and a local team. In addition there is being held a baby show, for which four prizes are offered and several well-known local ladies are acting as judges.

At 5.30 o'clock the excursionists will be taken for a trip over the lift-lock. They will leave for home at 8 o'clock.

The committee had made every arrangement for the comfort and entertainment of the excursionists and they appeared to be having a very enjoyable time. On the train coming down refreshments, consisting of oranges, bananas, water melon, soda water, etc., were served free of charge.

The chairman for the day is Mr. T. P. Padget, and the secretary, Mr. F. B. Hartney.

MAY VISIT MONTREAL

To Examine Modern Isolation Hospital That City Has Erected.

A meeting of the Property Committee was held yesterday afternoon, with Chairman Bradburn presiding. The question of the Isolation Hospital was discussed and it was decided to have a deputation go to examine the modern methods employed there. The following motion was passed:

Moved by Ald. Morgan and Ald. McIntyre, that Mr. Blackwell, Dr. McPherson and Ald. Bradburn go to Montreal to look over the hospital with a view to erecting a hospital for Peterborough, and that the expenses be paid on the certificate of the Mayor. If the chairman finds it impossible to go he has authority to send some member in his place.—Carried.

CASE DISMISSED

Tried to Secure Wages, Claiming That Two Weeks' Notice Had Not Been Given.

Mr. Parrot, until recently a clerk in the employ of the Peterborough Bookstore, tried to obtain $24 from his late employer, claiming it as wages. The case was dismissed, Magistrate Dumble stating that Parrot had received due notice and that he had received very fair treatment in the face of his incompetency, by which the company's business suffered considerably.

THE ROLLER RINK

Auditorium Will be Thrown Open to the Public on Saturday.

The Auditorium Roller Rink will open for the season on Saturday afternoon with the 57th Band in attendance. Everything is in readiness for the opening and doubtless there will be a big crowd present as the devotees of the rollers have been anxiously waiting for the announcement of the opening. It will be good news to the people of Peterborough that Mr. Eugene Hurtubise will be manager of the rink. Mr. Hurtubise is well known and popular, and with him in charge the patrons have a guarantee that everything will be run in a first-class manner and that there will be no disagreeable features.

APPROVES OF PLANS

Prof. Young Stated to Examiner That Engineer Hay Was Providing Splendid Bridge at Smith Street at Very Reasonable Cost.

CITIZENS WILL LIKE IT

Prof C. R. Young, of Toronto, who lectured last night before the Board of Trade on "Reinforced Concrete as a Material for Bridge Building," stated to the Examiner this morning that Engineer Hay's plans for the Smith Street bridge were ideal for that location. It was necessary, owing to the proximity of Inverlea Park and the natural beauty of the east side of the river, that a bridge of some artistic pretensions be constructed. Bridge building is receiving more attention at present from the standpoint of beauty than ever before and the future demands are being catered to because of the exceeding durability of concrete. Mr. Young is pleased with the engineer's plans and considers that the citizens will appreciate the design when the work has been completed.

He visited the locality this morning with Ald. Gillespie and was delighted with the opportunity the Engineer has had to provide a fine structure with naturally beautiful surroundings.

The blood was enriched, colour improved, new flesh was added, and I get strong and well."

A BICYCLE STOLEN

Chief of Police Would Like to Get Some Information About Missing Wheel.

Chief of Police Rossel would like very much to get some trace of a bicycle which was taken from the end of the English Canoe Company's building on Charlotte street, on Monday night. The wheel is a Regi model, with a 24 inch frame, black enamel, a Morrison coaster brake and reversible handle bars. Any person knowing anything of the whereabouts of the missing bike are asked to communicate with Chief Rossel.

$1000 JEWELLS STOLEN FROM COBOURG RESIDENCE HAVE BEEN RECOVERED BY POLICE

Thieves Became Scared and Returned the Missing Property—Was Stolen While Inmates Were Away.

IDENTITY IS UNKNOWN

Cobourg, July 20.—Thanks to the celerity of the action of the police authorities, jewels to the value of $7,000 stolen from the summer residence of a prominent American resident, have been recovered. The victim of the robbery was a guest at the house of Mrs. Bonley, who resides on King street, Cobourg, and the evidence would tend to show that the theft was the outcome of a carefully-prearranged plan by expert operators from the other side of the line. The robbery was committed in such a manner as to indicate that the perpetrators had an intimate knowledge of the habits of the household, for the jewellery was safe before the guests went to dinner, and was found to be missing shortly after the conclusion of that meal.

All Her Jewels Stolen.

On her return to her room, the lady whose property was missing, found that practically the whole of her ornaments, with the exception of the few she was wearing, had been stolen. The value of the missing articles was, as already stated, $7,000, and included a diamond and pearl bracelet, one shower pin of pearls surrounded with diamonds, one ruby pin surrounded with diamonds, one ruby pin rounded with diamonds, one emerald bar brooch surrounded with diamonds, one crown pin set with pearls, one diamond ring, three pearl bar pins, and one gold fleur-de-lis ornament surrounded with large diamonds and set in platinum.

Jewels Were Returned.

One of the significant features of the case is that the theft was committed during the absence of all the male members of the party. The police and Crown Attorney Kerr were at once communicated with, and the latter immediately placed himself in communication with the Attorney-General's Department, with the result that Inspector Rogers was yesterday despatched to the scene of action.

Indications were that the theft had been committed by operators from the United States, who have been held responsible for similar crimes in that country, and the Pinkerton office in Buffalo was called upon to render assistance. In the meantime Inspector Rogers worked upon the theory that the robbery had been committed by some one in the house, and apparently his inquiries led him so close to the trail that the thieves were scared, and this morning the missing property was returned, being found in a place so prominent that it could not be overlooked.

THE GYPSIES ARE NOW IN TROUBLE IN OTTAWA ON A HOLD-UP AND ROBBERY CHARGE

Eli Stokes Alleges Five Men Surprised His Camp and Took $200 at Point of Pistol—Ottawa Detectives Make Arrest.

THE KIDNAPPING CASE

Ottawa, July 20.—Five members of the Mexican band of gypsies who are camped in Hull crossed over to Ottawa last night and held up Eli Stokes, a member of the Bulgarian band of gypsies, camped on Wellington street, and it is alleged, at the mouth of a revolver, Stokes was persuaded to hand over a sum amounting to over $200.

The row arose out of the illfeeling between the two bands over the case in the Hull courts over the alleged selling of Katrina Alexis, the 12-year-old Bulgarian gypsy. In the dead of night the Mexican band, who claimed that they had bought the Bulgarian girl, entered the camp of their rival and pointing a revolver, demanded Stokes' money. Meanwhile the other members of the raiders had spread among the tents and severely handled some of the sleepers.

When the Mexicans had left they warned the Bulgarians that an attempt to follow would be severely punished.

Told the Police

This morning Eli Stokes and his wife appeared at the police station and complained that they had been robbed of $200. Detective O'Meara and Detective Ryan went over to Hull and arrested five members of the Hull band. They are Peter Sterio, Christie Steman, Peter Michael, Stephen George and Stephen John. They were placed in their caravan and accompanied by the officers were driven to the Ottawa police station.

Driven Out of Hull

Mayor Fontaine to-day gave orders to Chief Genest that all the Mexican gypsies camped in Hull are to be compelled to leave the city limits this afternoon. The excitement amongst them incident to their trouble with the Bulgarian camp on the Ottawa side has almost turned Hull upside down. The man and women have been riding up and down the streets in an automobile hired by the day. Well known citizens have not hesitated to stop them on the street and talk to them out of curiosity and children and others have blocked Main street about the hotel where they were staying with a view of getting a glimpse of the strangers. The mayor says that complaints have been made that members of the tribe, men and women, were going in bathing near their camp in a half naked condition.

He said they had proved a nuisance in the city and that he would not stand for their staying any longer.

Mr. L. Cousineau, who has been acting for the Mexicans in their legal troubles in Hull says that the police have no right to arrest them as vagrants. He claims that they have become Canadians being able to produce the necessary papers, and are engaged in buying and selling horses. The women he claims have not been telling fortunes or doing anything that would bring them into the hands of the police.

Back to Parents

Judge Champagne this morning gave

CANADIANS SWEEPING THE BOARD GREAT TRIUMPHS AT BISLEY

London, July 20.—The extraordinary success of the Canadians in "almost sweeping the board" at Bisley, as one paper puts it, is the subject of great comment here. If a representative of the Maple Leaf should win the King's Prize, the present will undoubtedly be known as the Canadian year. The Standard says that never has such a powerful team visited Bisley, and adds that special credit belongs to the Ross rifle for the successes. The Express says the Canadian victory of the Daily Graphic Cup is another triumph for the Ross Rifle.

Band Has Fine Programme For Friday Night's Concert

The 57th Regimental Band has prepared an especially attractive programme for their concert on Friday evening which promises to be the best of the season. A special feature will be a vocal solo by Mr. W. McIlroy, "Love's Old Sweet Dream," with accompaniment by the band. Mr. McIlroy's singing is always greatly enjoyed and no doubt will be appreciated on this occasion.

The overture to "Zampa" will be another choice number, while there will be a number of selections of a higher nature. The band is having two special rehearsals this week, the second one to-morrow night and they will give a programme that will delight the large audience. Mr. Joseph Halpany, whom the pressure of business has kept out of the band for some time has returned, bringing with him his two sons, Carl and Frank, which will add strength to the band.

The band has been engaged for the three days of the Painters' Convention next week, and will probably give a concert on Wednesday night in Victoria Park.

West Peterborough Election Mr. Burnham Seeks Further Delay

Yesterday two Motions came up before Hon. Justice McGee at Osgoode Hall, Toronto; one to compel Mr. Burnham to furnish better particulars of his charges herein and the other to compel Mr. Burnham to attend for Examination for Discovery and to answer the several questions which he has already refused to answer and to produce to the Court certain documents which he failed to produce on the occasion of his partial examination on the 29th of June. Mr. Jones on behalf of Mr. Burnham asked to have both motions enlarged until Friday. Mr. Smith on behalf of the Respondent opposed his application intimating that the granting of it might result in the postponement of the trial. Mr. Justice McGee said that in his opinion the examination should proceed during Long Vacation whether the rule respecting Long Vacation applied or not and he intimated that he would make an Order to that effect when the Motion came on. Notwithstanding such intimation, however, Mr. Jones insisted upon having an enlargement until Friday of this week which was finally granted.

Some Questions That The Newspaper Men Answer

"Things People Say to Defenceless Newspaper Men," was the heading to the following list of remarks reprinted from an exchange in the Washington Star recently:

"I've got a scoop for you—our club's going to give a picnic."

"You want to go easy on that; I'm a friend of your boss."

"Who writes the items for you after you bring them in?"

"If I was you I'd be going to some show every night."

"I don't see how you can make up so many lies."

"Be sure and send back this photo; it's the only one of me I have."

"Put in your paper that I've gone to New York. I ain't going, but I want a certain girl to see it."

"Say, get me a pass to the ball game, will you?"

"I'm going to Europe this summer. Would your paper pay expenses if I was to send letters every now and then telling about my trip?"

"I wish you'd put a knock in your paper on a fellow I know."

"Don't you have to vote the way your editor does?"

"If you print anything about this I'll quit taking your sheet."

OVER HALF A CENTURY IN THIS CITY

Mr. John McMahon, Old Resident of Peterborough, Passed Away This Morning at the Age of Eighty Years.

FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

Mr. John McMahon, one of the oldest residents of Peterborough, passed away at 1:30 o'clock this morning after a long illness, at the age of eighty years. The deceased had lived in this city for fifty-five years, coming here four years after Peterborough had been incorporated as a town. The late Mr. McMahon had seen the little town develop into a flourishing city of five times its size at that time. He was born in Ireland and on coming to Canada settled in Peterborough and had been a continuous resident here ever since. He was widely known and respected and his death will be regretted by all who knew him.

Besides his wife, the only surviving members of the family are two daughters, Mrs. Patrick Bolton, of this city, and Mrs. Schall, of Meriden, Conn.

The funeral will take place at nine o'clock on Friday morning from his late residence, 251 Lake street to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

NOT THE ORDINARY

Man Found in House Did Not Tell The Oft Told Story.

William O'Brien, who came very recently to Peterborough from Hamilton was found sleeping in an empty boat house by P. C. Meharry, and brought before Magistrate Dumble. His explanation was something out of the hackneyed line of police court excuses. He is a machinist by trade and as business is dull in Hamilton he came on to this city, but his several attempts to get employment were unfruitful. He was tired out he said and laid down to rest, thinking he was not interfering with any person. He asked to be given a chance. He had a mother to support and he was endeavouring to do so. The Magistrate said he would not interfere with his chances under the circumstances and gave him his liberty.

UNNAMED STREETS

Stranger Says He Has Found Quite a Number in That Condition.

A stranger in the city to-day stated to a reporter that he had experienced a difficulty in finding his way around the city, owing to the streets not being designated by sign board or otherwise. It was remarked that the sidewalks at corners show the name on the street, but he replied that he had found at least twenty during his short stay here and they were unnamed. He had to refer to his guide-book for direction. He suggested that some one connected with the city's affairs look into the matter and provide some accommodation in this respect.

STRIKES AND RIOTS

A day of fearful rioting is reported from McKee's Rocks, Pa., six miles below Pittsburg where there is a strike of car builders in progress. Meanwhile we have troubles of our own at Glace Bay, and the intense anxiety of certain local politicians to secure the withdrawal of the troops, sent there to preserve order, is to say the least suggestive. If the strikers have no desire to break the law, by interfering with the liberty of men who want to work, we do not see on what ground they can object to the presence of the soldiers. They are there not as the servants of the Coal Company, but to up hold the law; and for the protection of the strikers, as much as the protection of the non-strikers; if we could imagine anybody wanting to molest the strikers. The Municipal Council of Glace Bay showed good sense in resolving by a vote of 9 to 12 that the troops ought to remain until the end of the strike. If any striker wants to sulk in his tent until the Company misses him so much that it will accept the dictation of a foreign labour organisation to woo him back, he is within his rights; and the troops will protect him in his rights. On the other hand if any Canadian workman wants to go to work without the permission of a foreign labour organisation, the troops will protect him in his rights also. As a rule the striker has more time and inclination for rioting than the non-striker, but the rights of each before the law are equal.

THE LORDS AND THE BUDGET

The Unionist members of the House of Lords seem inclined to show the haughty spirit that goeth before a fall. In a recent speech Lord Lansdowne intimated that the Lords intend to disregard precedent in regard to the attitude of that august body towards the budget. In the past the House of Lords has not interferred with the financial measures of the government of the day. The imposition of new taxes and their expenditure have been regarded as fitting subjects of occupation for the ordinary clay composing the House of Commons.. If the Lords persist in mutilating the budget bill and emasculating it because it proposes to make the landed classes, very strongly represented in the hereditary chamber, pay their reckoning, a long-pending conflict may be precipitated. Recently the members of the government intimated that if the House of Lords laid violent hands upon the budget, they would dissolve Parliament and appeal to the country upon the alternative issue of mending or ending the House of Lords. If this issue is brought to test there is no doubt as to whom will come out second best. The history of England has been a long fight between privilege and freedom, with freedom always winning in the long run of events. The Lords seem to be confronted with the choice of being retired or restricted or becoming consenting parties to the class they represent bearing a fair proportion of contribution to the national housekeeping bill.

CANADA'S SHARE

Lord Grey says that the governor-generalship of Canada is the prize gift in the imperial service; and Canadians can reciprocate to the extent that he is the "prize package" in the form of appreciative viceroys. Lord Dufferin in his day was prophetic; he foresaw the destiny that Canada was equipped to realize and Lord Grey is able after the lapse of forty years to bear appreciative testimony to the part Canadians have played in the way of achievement and contribution to strengthening the bonds of Empire. Speaking at the Dominion Day banquet in London, Earl Grey, in the course of his speech, said:

"I am continually amazed as I go through Canada at what a population equivalent to that of Greater London has achieved in a continent the size of Europe. The Canadian Pacific railway, which was only finished a little more than 25 years ago, was made out of a contribution of public money amounting to 100 million dollars. Who is there that can say that that money put into ten Dreadnoughts would have been of equal value to imperial defence? There are two more transcontinental railways under construction, and my hope is that we may see Canada advance in population, in strength, in prosperity, and in spirit. But whether with a small population or a great one, I have seen enough of the temper and the spirit which animate the people of the Dominion from one end of Canada to the other to be convinced that the Prime Minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was more than justified in stating that if it was necessary to maintain the naval supremacy of the Crown, Canada was prepared to spend her last dollar and to give her last man."

His Excellency talks solid sense which is better then empty sentiment. He strikes the right chord,in practically asserting that Canada can, in her own way, more effectively contribute to Imperial defence than in building Dreadnoughts and maintaining a large and costly standing army. The Examiner has frequently pointed out that Canada by steadily pursuing the arts of peace, by developing her magnificent heritage, can serve the interests of Empire and more practically contribute to the building up of the Empire than by making expenditures in the maintaining of ruinously expensive naval and military establishments. The Mother Country needs foodstuffs—and Canada can better serve the Home Land by sending it bread rather than bullets. We are potentially the granary of the Empire. We are striving to make Canada the granary of the Empire in fact. While Britain is building Dreadnoughts,Canada is providing the sinews of war—food for the men whose physique pluck and stamina energise those floating battlements. Let us divide the duties and each section of the Empirle do the work for which it is fitted. While others do the fighting Canada can do the feeding—an army marches on its belly, food is the real ammunition by which campaigns are carried out and victories won. Canada can not only keep the Imperial commissariat stocked but it can provide the matchless raw material for manning the fleets in the thousands of hardy sailors, schooled, seasoned and hardened in the naval school of our thousands of miles of sea and inland fisheries while, at the same time, she is prepared to do her fair share of defence by providing and maintaining a home fleet, to be at the Imperial disposal in time of need.

MALIGNING OUR CROPS

While the West is wallowing in prosperity and wheat waist high, it might leave poor Ontario alone and refrain from poking fun at us and intimating that we are not as they, the pets of Providence. The Lethbridge Herald has the following:

"Down in Peterboro County, Ontario, the weather is so dry that the farmers are feeding the oats to the cattle as they do not expect it to be worth taking chances on it, the weather being so dry. Out here in Alberta the rain is falling at the proper times and crop prospects were never better.

This appears in the Lethbridge Herald of July 13, and might have had a suspicion of truth in it a fortnight ago—to the extent that the weather was rather dryish and the crop outlook—of some kinds—was not overroseate. But that's of the past. Alberta didn't monopolize the rain and we had a downpour of three inches and the crops are fairly soaring skyward in the way of growth. It should not take the hustling Herald two weeks to have got possession of the fact that Peterborough is not so dry as it thinks, especially as it gets the Examiner every day and as we made a big crow over the bountiful rain, of two week ago. The crops are good in Peterborough County—and by the way the Herald should know that there is no such place as "Peterboro" in Canada—it is Peterboro-u-g-h—and we hope Alberta will do as well as we have promise of doing in the way of crops. Will the Herald apologize or—

CIVIC COMMISSIONS

The Brockville Times makes the following rather sweeping and inclusive statement:

"More and more is the conviction being brought home to ratepoyers in Candaian towns that municipal government by paid commissioners is the only chance of stopping the municipal muddling which marks the existing system."

There is a great deal asserted in this statement—too much in two ways. It is alas, too true that municipal government in its results is not the success which the interests of the governed demand. There is too much in the statement as applied to general municipal ogvernment. There are some things that municipal councils as statutorily constituted and generally composed, can do very well—at least as well as could be expected. In the exercise of their legislative functions, it is proper that they should directly represent, as they fairly will do, the people. The difficulty comes in when municipal councils undertake to execute, to administer. When the law recognizes that the management of a mild and tractable body like the police force is beyond the competency of a municipal council and intrusts the matter to a commission, it is not to much to ask that the administration of our streets, which is much more extensively beyond their ability, should be conferred upon a capable commission composed of men with expert knowledge or business capacity, specially qualifying them for the work. While we may not be prepared to go the length of Galveston and Houston, Texas, and other United States cities and turn over the entire scope of civic administration to commissioners, we might very well consider the question of making an experimental beginning with placing the work of our streets under a paid commission. The streets and their management above all demand especial, if not expert, knowledge of requirements and how to meet them as well as the business ability and training necessary to devise system, without which there must be waste in expenditure and failure in proportionately unsatisfactory results. To suggest this is to cast no reflection upon civic councils as a whole. If they have not the special knowledge, it is as unreasonable to demand the application of the special qualifications they do not possess to satisfactory street administration as it would be to expect a watchmaker to shoe a horse or a blacksmith to repair a watch. Each might do it in a way, but in the one case would the work stay and in the other would it go—or in fine would the work in either case, be satisfactory?

A LUCID INTERVAL

The Toronto News preaches "day in and day out," the utter depravity of the Liberal Government, the rottenness of the administration, and the inevitable ruin that faces the country in consequence. Here are three or four little paragraphs in a row in its editorial columns, which shows that the junior Conservative organ is not all bad liver:

An increase of $9,628,986 in the volume of our foreign trade for June furnishes the optimist with fresh reason for his belief in the future, and especially, the immediate future of Canada.

The trade depression began in the latter half of 1907, but it was doomed to be short-lived. It continued throughout 1908, but the first half of 1909 witnessed the return of prosperity.

The remarkable industrial and commercial recovery now under way throughout the Dominion reflects the enormous recuperative power latent in the country's natural resources and the energies of its people.

The Government trade returns furnish undeniable proof that the country is fast recovering from the depression which overtook it in the latter part of 1907. Exports and imports for June and the first quarter of the fiscal year shoy definite gains over the exhibits for the corresponding periods a year ago, and approximate to the high records reached just before the collapse two years ago.

THE WORLD'S BREAD.

(Finance Chronicle)

To whatever extent day-by-day fluctuations are due to the play and counter-play of speculation, the general trend of grain prices depends upon the world's supply and demand. Prices will continue high for months to come because stocks in sight are exceedingly light, reserves of farmers are almost at the bottom of the bin, and crop prospects the world over are but moderate.

According to the periodical returns of Broomhall's Corn Trade News, the world's stocks in sight at mid-year compared as follows with those of 1908 and 1907:

In British Pits, 1909, 10,240,000 bushels; 1908, 22,720,000 bushels; 1907 22,000,000 bushels.

Stocks in U.S.A. and Canada, 18,-640,000, 21,200,000, 64,320,000.

En route to Europe, 39,104,000, 29,-568,000, 38,944,000.

Total, 67,984,000, 73,488,000, 125,-264,000.

Of course harvesting is already in progress, but new wheat in Europe will not be generally marketed before the end of the month; and indeed shipments from Roumania and Russia will not begin in large volume until after the middle of August.

Nor is the outlook for later European returns very promising. And Argentina, which of late years has been ousting the United States from its former position as chief exporter of grain, has this year experienced unfavourable crop conditions.

In a country so largely agricultural as Canada, its own direct gains are apt to obscure the fact that world-wide economic conditions are seriously affected by abnormally high prices for bread. And even Canada, with its rapidly growing industrial population, fixes its best hopes for future years upon steadily increased grain yields, at prices more normal than those now ruling.

OFFERING OF STREET RAILWAY SHARES

Public Offer of 15,000 Shares Duluth-Superior Common Stock at $61.00 per Share by A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, Toronto, and Rudolphe Forget, M.P., Montreal.

Messrs. A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, Toronto, and Rodolphe Forget, M.P., Montreal, are offering by advertisements in to-day's Examiner, 15,000 shares of Duluth-Superior Traction Co. common stock at $61.00 per share. The Duluth-Superior Traction Co. owns and operates the Electric Railway business in and between the twin cities of Duluth and Superior. The Company has been in successful operation for some years, and has now reached the stage where the Directors have decided to commence regular quarterly dividend payments, at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum. This means a yield of 6.55 per cent. upon an investment at $61 a share.

The Duluth-Superior Co. has been controlled since organization by Thos. Lowry, late President of the Twin City Rapid Transit Co. and C. G. Goodrich, Mr. Lowry's successor, who has been President of the Duluth-Superior Traction Co. since its organization, associated with a few of their friends in Minneapolis, Duluth, New York and Great Britain. Arrangements have now been made to make the Company a public one, with a wide market. For this purpose applications are to be made for listing the stock on the Toronto, Montreal, and New York Stock Exchanges.

The vendors feel that there is room on the Canadian Exchanges for a low-priced traction security, paying a dividend and yielding a good rate on the investment, and so near at hand that investors can keep in touch with it. The prediction is made that before very long the shares should sell on a basis of a yield of about 5 per cent., or say, $75 to $80 per share.

Subscription books are now open, and close not later than Tuesday afternoon next, at 4 o'clock.

THE GYPSIES ARE AGAIN IN TROUBLE OVER A "HOLD-UP" GAME

judgment in regard to the 12-year-old girl, Katrina Alexis, who was held by the court in connection with the case against Eli Stokes of kidnapping her. He allowed her to go with her parents, saying that her detention was illegal. Katrina gave vent to her feeling by crying and kissing her lawyer's hand.

The trial of Stokes will come off tomorrow morning before Magistrate Goyette.

The Mexicans assert that the girl, Katrina, concerning whom the rival camps are fighting, is only the adopted child of Miguel Alexis and his wife, and that her father is in Russia and is a poor man.

"They sell her at Peterborough," they said this morning. "She is married and lots of money was spent on her wedding. Even the little children in the camp will tell you that. They now say our men robbed their camps but it is not true. Two police watched our camp last night and all our men were there."

PARK STREET TEAM HAVE GOOD CHANCE WITH THE ABSTAINERS

The Park Street team have the chance of a lifetime to get into line for the leadership of the Senior City League by defeating the T. A. S. on Saturday. The Abstainers will be without the services of their two star twirlers "Prunes" Quinlan and "Yebbie" Flaherty, both of whom will be out of town on Saturday. Quinlan is holidaying in the land of the U. S. A., and Flaherty has contracted to pitch for Haileybury against Cobalt. The Abstainers will have Carol Hayes on the rubber for them, and are confident of defeating Park Street even without their two former experienced pitchers, Park Street will have about the same team that defeated the West Ends so badly Saturday. A win for the Southerners will leave the Park Street and T. A. S. team tied for the leadership, so that there will be excitement galore. The chance of a new-up will attract a big crowd to the Oval.

The West Ends will have a greatly strengthened lineup for their game with the Straths and will endeavour to head off the Commissioners, who state that they will be up with the leaders before the schedule is completed. This will be the rubber game between the two teams and should be a corker.

NEW YORKS ARE HANDICAPPED BY AN INJURY TO "MATTIE"

New York, July 20.—New York's chances for the National League pennant received a serious setback this afternoon, when, in the seventh innings of the game with St. Louis Christy Mathewson, the teams' star pitcher, had the second finger of his left hand broken in stopping a liner from Delhanty's bat. Mathewson has been New York's one consistent winner this season, and has not been defeated since May 24. The big pitcher had to leave the game at once, and a surgeon who attended to his injury, reported that it would be at least two weeks before he could twirl again. Manager McGraw was banking heavily on Mathewson in the series with Chicago starting Thursday.

FLAHERTY IS TO PITCH FOR HAILEYBURY AGAINST COBALT

Yebbie Flaherty of the T. A. S. Senior City League team, will play for Haileybury against Cobalt on Saturday occupying the box against the Silvertown team. A telephone message was received from Haileybury yesterday asking Flaherty to work for them Saturday and the local twirler consented. He showed by the brand of ball he pitched against Barrie here recently that he is right back in form and he may be depended upon to give the Cobalt team a bad afternoon. Bill Cinnamon, of Lindsay, will do the catching for Flaherty, and as the two have been coupled before they should get along well together.

300,000 AUTOMOBILES ARE IN USE IN UNITED STATES

The automobile is not as modern a s some people think. The one in the picture was used on the streets of New York a century ago. It was built by Robt. Dudgeon and used by him to go to his place of business. Dudgeon used it for 10 years, consuming a hogs head of coal each trip. The authorities finally ordered him to stop using the vehicle.

Do you realize that something like 300,000 automobiles are whizzing about the United States.

In every city, town and hamlet; over every country road and up the mountain sides, steam, gasoline and electric machines are whirling their human freight every day in the year. Yes, 300,000 of them are transporting humanity.

Few realize how vast the automobile industry has become. The machines are so common that the importance of the business has been overlooked by the public.

But pause an instant and contemplate some cold facts.

There are 121 establishments manufacturing automobiles in this country.

The capital invested is $20,555,247.

Officials and clerks employed draw annually $1,076,425.

The wage earners number 10,239.

They earn annually $6,178,950.

The annual output is 21,692 cars.

An enormous business.

The automobile is no longer a luxury for the very wealthy. It has become a necessity. Not only the wealthy, but families of moderate means find the self-propelled vehicles almost a necessity.

Father goes to the office or to his factory; mother and daughter go shopping and the children go to school in the car. The upkeep is no greater the care of a horse or two, and the mobility of the automobile makes up for a slight difference.

The automobile has entered almost every business. Merchants who formerly maintained dozens of horses for delivery service have retired the equines in favor of machines. Fire departments in some cities use gasoline driven apparatus. Gasoline patrol wagons are common. Farmers drive threshers with automobile engines and go back and forth to town in their cars.

It is estimated that cars average $1,250, which would make the 300,000 in this country worth $100,000,000.

American cars cost from $900 to $5,000, but the medium priced car from $1,000 to $2,500 is most papular.

Many prefer to purchase second-hand cars, which originally sold for say, $3,000 and have been used only about a year, and which may be purchased for about one third of their cost, to investing in new machines. In this way men on salary, are able to maintain a high-grade car, which they could never hope to earn unless able to buy them second-handed.

Some day, perhaps when the market is glutted, automobiles will come down in price, just as the bicycle has, and new cars of excellent make will be within reach of every man, but at present this seems far away.

Carelessness Is Cause Of Allowing Milk To Sour

From Farm and Dairy.

Carelessness is at the bottom of all trouble that causes milk to sour in a short length of time. No excuse can be given for milk being delivered at the factory other than in a sound condition. The cheesemaker or the butter maker cannot be expected to make a product that will bring the highest price from milk that is anything but first-class. Milk drawn from the cow in a cleanly way and cooled immediately to 60 degrees or lower and kept in a sanitary location a reasonable distance from a barn or hog pen, or other source of contamination should grade No. 1 when it reaches the factory. Where it is necessary to hold it in hot weather over a period of two days, ice is a great convenience. Milk can be kept, however, without ice and many have been sending the best of milk to factories for years without ever having ice. They use cold water instead.

The cost of conveniences necessary for properly caring for milk is small compared with the loss yearly resulting from milk indifferently cared for. A can of milk sent back represents considerable loss, but for every can sent back many are taken in that should have been rejected. This results in much greater loss and a feature of it is that such loss is not placed where it belongs, but must be born by patrons collectively. If patrons of cheese factories and creameries would rise to the occasion and accept their full responsibility in regard to the milk that they deliver at the factory, it would be a happy day for our dairy industry. When dairymen generally have forgotten to say "too much bother" and practise the simple methods available on most farms for properly caring for their milk, the second grade article will not be featured on our markets. Dairy products will then grade as first.

A HORNLESS DILEMMA.

By MARION DEXTER.

[Copyrighted, 1909, By Associated Literary Press.]

Harold McCrea's comfortable turnpike of life was suddenly barred by a dilemma—a three pronged one, he called it, because three people were concerned.

"What a confounded tangle!" he snarled, and because the grating of his unoiled revolving chair accorded with his feelings he twisted it right and left till the senior member of the firm rattled the doorknob in white hot rage.

"Idiot!" was the greeting through a crack in the door. "Respect a man's nerves, can't you?"

Brought to a standstill, he dropped his plump cheeks in his palms and grappled the dilemma to a mighty endeavor to see a way out, but the cheerlessness of midnight met him at every turn.

"If it hadn't been for that miserable pup," he groaned, "the mater's scarf wouldn't have been torn. If it hadn't been for the scarf I'd never have gone to the mender's. If I had gone to the mender's I'd never have seen Flossie. My wedding day wouldn't have had a cloud, and Lucia and mother and I would have been happy ever after. But"—

The immensity of the problem smote his heart with the chill of a damp, cold hand; the soft brown waves skirting his temples and forehead stood out like curled points of horn in response to distracted currying and combing of nervous fingers, but not even afar off was there a gleam of light.

"The mother will be broken hearted," he muttered disconsolately, "and Lucia"— His thoughts ricochetted backward to the day when she, the little adopted sister, had been brought home and presented to him.

That was just after his father's death, when the house was unbearably still and lonely. He had been just fourteen, he remembered, and Lucia nearly twelve, and from the very first minute they had been chums. There had never been any bickering and strife.

"I'M TO BE MARRIED TO SAM WESTON'S FATHER."

That was what put the idea of marriage into his mother's head and caused her to build her every hope for a serene old age on such a foundation. And he and Lucia had been willing, too—that is, after the newness of the idea had passed.

But now—and every day made it plainer—he knew what the love he had given Lucia was—the calm, even surface of a brother's affection, not the turbulent, feverish love of a lover. With her, though, it was different—that is, it had somehow got to be different.

Of late she had changed. Her gayety and sparkling color were gone; her eyes, big and unnatural, followed him everywhere, yet only too obviously she avoided him. His mother, too, was unlike herself, her usual cheerfulness replaced by a nervous restlessness.

"You're killing them," he fiercely berated himself. "You're changed yourself, and they see it. The mater worries, but Lucia—just suppose"—

His thought snapped like the breaking of a string. A startling object had reared itself in the foreground of a depressing picture. It was Lucia, emaciated, the blue eyes peering sadly from dismal caves—a wreck, not even a resemblance to the dear girl he had known.

"I'll give it up," he groaned. "Flossie doesn't know, and I wouldn't for worlds hurt mother and Lucia."

After that he stayed home more, making strenuous endeavor to put affairs back on the old footing. Persuaded by small glimmerings and patches of sunshine, he fancied he was succeeding. He was forgetting Flossie, too—not forgetting exactly, but keeping his brain so busy that there was no room for a thought of her.

But it was incomprehensible, he grumbled, and most annoying that even one glimpse of her on a street or in a car, no matter how indistinct or far away, would so fill his whole brain and heart that his good intentions flew before it like a handful of feathers before a gust of wind.

"I'm getting on," he congratulated himself after a breakfast conspicuous for merriment. "I'm bound to get on," he added grimly, slamming the hall door and making a dash for a passing car. Out of breath, but relieved and in high spirits, he made his way to a vacant seat and dropped down beside—Flossie.

"There's no use in putting up a fight," he confided to himself in deepest humiliation but five minutes later. "I'm a weakling, a coward, a traitor, but if Flossie will take me she's got the chance. I'm done for."

It was late when he reached home that night. Almost for the full time (the lights were out. That suited his mood. He felt himself a very Macbeth. His deed also was one best done in the stillness and darkness of night, the stabbing of two loving hearts.

He would go to the library and work out the little speech that was to strike the terrible blow. It was always cozy there, especially in rainy weather. Nothing could be more soothing to a fellow's nerves than the crackle of an open fire, even if its heat be not needed.

The door was ajar, the flicker and glow cheerfulness itself. Before the fire sat his mother, and in a corner of the sofa, among the deepest shadows, crouched Lucia.

For the space of a minute he felt the coward he had called himself. He wanted to run; he wanted to brave it out; he stood irresolute for a second, then sank into the chair his mother had drawn to her side.

"I'm glad you've come, Harold." It was his mother who spoke. But what ailed her voice? She locked her fingers tightly in her lap before going on. "There's something I want to say to you and Lucia. I've decided to go west for a year or two, and it's best, I believe, for you to be married before I leave. I've worried a good deal about what you might think of such a step, but my mind is finally made up. I'm going to"—

It had come—the crucial moment! Harold felt distinctly that his heart stopped beating with fear of the next few minutes.

Then out of the shadows hovering about the sofa a little voice, thin and quavering, totally unlike Lucia's, cleft the silence.

"I—I can't. I'm—married—already. Today—at—3 o'clock to—Sam Weston."

Afterward Harold remembered his sensation—a numbness, the slow fuse of Lucia's announcement forcing its way, inch by inch, exploding finally, full force, in his brain. But the first thing he really knew he was laughing insanely, fairly jingling the bric-a-brac with his "Ha, ha, ha!" and dancing Lucia madly about the room.

It was his mother's sigh that finally penetrated his stupor, and he and Lucia, two culprits, repentant, but happy, bent over her.

"Don't fret about me, mater," he mumbled, his lips on her hair. "I'm as happy as Lucia. There's—you know, mother, there's—a—girl for—me."

"I'm very, very glad," she smiled, still nervous. "I hardly know how to tell you, but I—guess it's all—right. This day week I'm to start west, but before I go I—I'm to be married to—to Sam Weston's father."

Peat as Fuel.

Peat is partly decomposed vegetable matter that has formed either where the ground is saturated with water most of the time or where it is permanently covered with water. It is the dark colored or nearly black soil found in bogs and swamps, commonly known as muck, although technically a distinction is made between peat and muck, the latter name being restricted to those forms of swamp deposits that contain too much mineral matter to burn freely. Dry peat may be very fibrous and light colored or compact and structureless and dark brown or black. It is usually somewhat lighter in color when dry than when freshly dug. When wet it contains, as a rule, from 80 to 90 per cent or more of water—that is, a short ton of wet peat rarely contains more than 800 pounds of dry peat and may yield as little as 100 pounds. In the wet condition it is entirely noncombustible, and the various processes by which it is prepared for use for market consist principally of methods for ridding it of water cheaply and quickly and for increasing its fuel efficiency and transportability.

To Fresh Eyes.

Willie, accompanied by his father, was visiting a circus and menagerie. "Oh, papa," the boy exclaimed as they passed before an elephant, "look at the big cow with her horns in her mouth eating hay with her tail."—Christian Register.

They Help Your Stomach Out
And Save You a World of Wretchedness

A stomach that cannot digest a good meal is certainly a sore trial. It has been responsible for almost everything in the way of human misery, up to suicide.

The trouble in most cases is that the stomach and other digestive organs lack vigor. Not enough of the juices necessary to digestion are secreted, nor does the stomach work up the food properly.

The worst of it is that there is not sufficient nourishment taken out of the food to restore the system's vigor, and the trouble goes from bad to worse. The stomach needs help.

"Little Digesters" treat the meal exactly. One "Little Digester" after each meal will ensure perfect digestion, provided, of course, that the food is good and wholesome.

"Little Digesters" are guaranteed to cure Indigestion, and Dyspepsia, or your money will be refunded.

Government Takes Lease Of Healey's Falls From Company

Nothing Been Done to Develop the Power and Northumberland-Durham Company Loses Its Privileges—Mr. J. A. Culverwell Has Been Managing Director.

A RECENT DECISION

By order-in-council the power lease held by the Northumberland-Durham Power Company from the Ontario Government at Healey's Falls on the Trent River has been canceled.

The cancellation was recommended by Hon. Frank Cochrane, minister of lands, forests and mines, on account a non-fulfillment of the conditions on which the lease was similarly canceled on account of the terms not having been carried out.

It was stipulated that the development of the waterpower should at once be proceeded with. On the ground that the Dominion Government might grant further concessions in respect of other water privileges in connection with land on the Trent held by the Ottawa department, the company has delayed commencing operations. The lease is a valuable one and in view of the demand for power, which is growing in the east, the provincial government is determined to protect public interests, and refuses to have the franchise tied up any longer.

The Northumberland Durham Power Co. have been endeavouring to make arrangements with Peterborough to supply electric power.

FEATURES OF OPERATIONS IN THE STOCK MARKET

Until a Few Days the Market Was at a Practical Standstill ---Efforts, However, to Force Things to a Higher Level Has Been Commenced by Skilful Operators---Will They Succeed?

New York, July 19, 1909.—Until the last few days the stock market has been at a practical standstill for a month. While a few specialties had made further advances, the market as a whole remained substantially at the same level; this in spite of improving outside conditions. The disposition to wait the outcome of both the harvest and the tariff, add to the usual summer inertia, accounted for much of the recent inactivity. But the main reason for the latter was the dogged persistence with which the market was held at the high level. There was every indication of a number of stocks being firmly pegged by powerful speculative cliques, who seem to realize at last that the only means by which they can be distributed is to infuse fresh activity and life into the whole market.

The effort to force the market to a higher level was renewed this week with a vigor which showed that powerful and skilful manipulators are now in control. The question is will they succeed? It must be admitted that circumstances in many respects are much in their favour. Money is cheap and plentiful. Business, though not yet not up to the normal in volume, is steadily improving. The crop outlook, except for cotton, is very satisfactory, and, as everyone knows, our farmers are confidently looking forward to another very profitable season. Even coton is likely to do better than now feared, because damage reports have unquestionably been exaggerated, and there is at least two months for possible recuperation. onfidence generally in business circles is strong. The spirit of hopefulness prevails nearly everywhere, and all influences at work are such as would naturally tend to discourage the selling of securities. At the same time there is an element of weakness in the situation that is generally overlooked. The big holders have plenty of securities for sale, and more are coming in large amounts. Some big operators are anxious to sell in order to realize the handsome profits now offered. Their only difficulty is want of buyers. Both the public and investors generally apparently are difficult to attempt at these figures; and it is noticeable that the market often declines on good news from unexepcted inside selling, making the average buyer exceedingly cautious, and properly so. There is no question but that values are excessively high. In many cases quotations are above the highest existing before the panic; and no one pretends that business, although better than a year ago, has resumed normal activity. At present many stocks are yielding very small returns on their market values, and if dividends do not go up prices must eventually go down. A setback in business, an important injury to the crops or a sharp advance in money rates would quickly incite a sharp reaction. Fortunately these events are more in the range of possibilities than probabilities, though there is every chance of money working firmer when the usual crop and business demands begin. The big leaders have evidently concluded that the only way to get rid of their stocks is create a more active market. By such means it is calculated that a good distribution can be effected at handsome profits to holders. This may broaden the market and bring in a much needed new buying element. There is plenty of money seeking investmnt; it is the inducements which are scarce, and the speculative spirit has not been aroused. Another element which prompted buyers to wait was the large new issues expected next month, including the Harriman and Gould financing. There is every indication of a large output of new securities during the next few months, and it is well understood that some bankers are better prepared to share in this new financing than others. Some of our best financiers and syndicate organizers have openly declared the market too high, while others who, apparently, have not yet got rid of their surplus stocks are optimistic in their talk and interviews regarding the prosperous condition of the country. It is worth while noting that these gentlemen have a habit of talking bullishly for public consumption when the market is approaching the top and they or their friends have stocks to sell. No one questions the truth of their statements, nor does anyone suppose them to be put out from purely philanthropic motives.

The steel trad continues to show great improvement, the demand for steel products being genuine and large at advancing prices. Railroad eanings continue satisfactory, showing that traffic is constantly growing, the better returns now received being as much due to higher rates and reduced expenses as to the actual growth of traffic. There is more or less public complaint about high prices for farm products, and it must be admitted that in the absence of any important surplus that the chances for lower prices seem somewhat remote. We are promised a bumper corn crop, and it is evident that there will be a good demand for the entire yield at profitable prices. The monetary situation is satisfactory, and while firmer rates must be looked for before long, no particular stringency is in sight.

A feature in the banking situation is the tremendous expansion in loans, due more to stock market operations than to ordinary business requirements. More gold is going to Argentina on London account; but there is now no prospect of shipping the precious metal to Europe. Before long we shall be exporting cotton, also moderate amounts of grain. Of bonds, too, we are likely to send considerable sums to Europe, so that in some quarters figuring has already been attempted upon future gold imports. A large issue of Panama bonds is imminent, and this in connection with other security issues is likely to make large inroads on the supply of floating capital during the next two months.

In view of the present high prices for stocks the market in the immediate future will not be a conservative accumulating one but profitable for quick in and out trading, as it is likely to soon have infused into it greater activity in transactions and wide fluctuations, and thus made a good distributing market. As the big u... have for sale stocks bought at low prices, the only way of disposing of them at high figures is through an excited market, which may be expected to be soon forthcoming.

Excursionist Is Delighted With The Steamer Monarch

"Of all the regular steamers, plying on the Trent Canal Waters, between Stony Lake and Rice Lake, the smoothest sailing craft is the smart steamer "Monarch," of the Otonabee Navigation Co.

Such was the mental conclusion of a satisfied excursionist on the "Monarch" yesterday on her return trip from Rice Lake. In explanation the fredom from vibration and her general steadiness in the water were given as the main reasons. Captain Harris is very competent and thorough.

The shores of the Otonabee below the locks are thickly dotted with campers from the city. Many private families are enjoying the novelty of out-door tent life, the male members of whom go up and down to work every morning and evening with the help of small boats and the street cars. Some of these campers expect to remain until September.

The wharf at Jubilee Point is in a very dilapidated condition. Steamers are in danger of being torn with spikes and projecting planks, and passengers have a rough and rocky road to portage over before leaving safely.

The summer resorts at Gore's Landing are doing a good business. Quite a number of Peterborough people are staying at Harris', which is also a favourite resort for American tourists. Idyl Wyld is also attracting resort-goers. Mr. Jos. H. Fox, of Cobourg, is the managem this season, and will give visitors to this charming island resort every attention.

Large Attendance At The Evangelistic Meetings

At the Evangelistic meeting last night held in the lot south of the Customs House there was a good attendance, the tent being nearly filled. Rev. J. G. Brown was the leader and opened the meeting with prayer. The speaker for the evening was Rev. S. H. Soper, who chose as his text, Isaiah 32:9.

At to-night's meetings in the tent on George street, the leader will be Mr. W. D. Warne. The sepaker, Rev. Mr. Whelen.

Reinforced Concrete's Merits As Bridge Building Material

Intelligent Treatment of This Engineering Subject by Professor Young of Toronto—Relation to the Smith Street Bridge Which Ratepayers are to Decide Upon.

ITS PROMINENT ASSETS

With the 29th, the day for voting on the two by-laws, only a week distant, the Board of Trade's meeting last night was of special importance to the ratepayers who are interested in the Smith street bridge, on account of the scholarly address on "Re-inforced Concrete Bridge Construction," by Prof. C. R. Young, instructor and lecturer in the Engineering Department of the School of Practical Science of the Toronto University. The attendance was fairly large, but should have been more numerous as the lecturer brought out many points in support of reinforced concrete as a material for bridge construction. Ald. Geo. A. Gillespie presided and after the regular routine of business Prof. Young was called upon to address the meeting.

In beginning, he said that concrete is not a new material by any means. It has been used for centuries. The masonry of the Carthaginians and Romans is largely made up of this material. The dome of the Pantheon was constructed of concrete, and remains to-day without a crack. Reinforced concrete is, however, a comparatively new building material, and it is now used extensively in practically all forms of construction.

Strength and tenacity are two of the chief qualities of concrete. Its tension, however, is small, and, therefore, steel is used as a reinforcement. The tenacity of reinforced concrete is one of its greatest assets.

The first bridge built of reinforced concrete was in 1889, at the Golden Gate, San Francisco. One firm in Indiana, the National Bridge Co., has constructed 1,000 bridges in that section of the United States, of which Indiana may be said to be the centre, and many other firms could undoubtedly show as good a record. Owing to the conservatism of the Canadian people it was some years later before this material was used in bridge building. It was used extensively in abutments and floors, but not in the arches, but at present there are many bridges in Canada, which are entirely of concrete, and many more are being planned. The address was illustrated by slides, and among the number thrown on the screen was a picture of a Philadelphia bridge, with a span of 233 feet, and another, the Rocky River bridge, near Cleveland, whose span is 280 feet. The span of the Hudson Memorial bridge is 703 feet, the greatest of its kind in the world.

Stronger With Age.

Reinforced concrete grows stronger with age. Mr. Young stated that the result of many tests has resulted in securing the fact that a bridge of this material is forty per cent. stronger at the end of twelve months than it was at the end of the first month. At the end of a year it will carry a load forty times heavier than a load it would support at the end of the first month. Concrete is, therefore, practically lasting, particularly as the effect of the elements is practically nil. The life of a timber bridge is practically ten years, a steel structure forty to fifty years, and a concrete bridge should endure at least 100 years. Mr. Young gave examples of its superiority over other materials in withstanding floods and fires. In regard to the former there had been many instances along the same river where concrete bridges had withstood the tremendous force of a Spring freshet or of floods from other sources, while the same torrent had wrenched and torn bridges of steel, demolishing them. Many slides were presented to impress upon the audience the pleasing appearance that can be given to bridges of concrete, and Mr. Young stated that Engineer Hay had provided for a bridge that should be an ornament as well as a utility to the city.

Regarding the Cost.

It was pointed out that the initial cost for a bridge as long as that at Smith street would be greater if concrete were used instead of steel. But the construction was not for the present nor for this generation. The estimated cost of the proposed bridge is $32,500 and a steel structure could be erected for $30,000, having the same dimensions. That would be a saving of $2,500. But it was the rule in the city to paint the iron bridges every two years. This would entail a cost at each painting of $400. A steel bridge with a life of forty or fifty years, would have to be painted about twenty times, costing altogether $8,500. The total cost of this bridge would ultimately be $38,500, and it was found that there were generally other incidentals which would increase this amount considerably.

There have been failures in bridges of concrete, but the same may be said of bridges of all other materials. The cause could be generally traced to some glaring violation of the laws of engineering. Faulty foundations, or poor designs were the most frequent causes. Mr. Young gave other interesting details and concluded by advising the citizens to support the proposal to build a bridge of reinforced concrete and to pass the by-laws, which were to be soon presented by the Council.

Other Speakers.

Mr. D. W. Dumble expressed his pleasure with the lecture. "It has enabled us to travel cheaply, and see some of the finest bridges in the world. The surroundings at Smith street calls for an artistic bridge. There is a park practically on each side." Mr. Dumble said the statement that a steel bridge lasted only 40 years, is not quite correct. The Hunter street structure must be close to celebrating its 40th anniversary. Mr. Young stated that forty years was the minimum life. "I would be surprised if the Hunter street bridge did not enjoy a life of one hundred years," Mr. Dumble remarked.

Mr. Wm. Langford, replying to Ald. Turner, said he had objected to the cost of the first plans. "They are now at a fair figure and I do, not intend to oppose the erection of the bridge," he said.

Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, was next called on, and he went into full details of the water front and street extension by-laws. He explained that $6,000 was for the water front, of which $4,000 had already been paid. On the street extension by-law $20,300 had already been spent. $6,000 had been received from debentures and several thousand dollars were received from the sale of lots, so that there is now $15,500 required for this work. He also took up the Smith street bridge by-law, and explained that to the meeting. All the information given out, however, has already been given in these columns. He closed by thanking the president for calling this meeting.

Ald. Turner seconded Mr. Dumble's vote of thanks to Prof. Young and also that moved by Ald. Phelan. He considered that the ratepayers should have shown more interest in the meeting, which was a very important one. The motions were carried unanimously.

Human Life Increased BY FOURTEEN YEARS

Longer life is due to better understanding of Nature's Laws and use of such medicines as DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

During the last century the average life of man has increased by about four years. Insurance statistics prove this.

What is the reason?

People are learning to take better care of their health and to follow the laws of sanitation and hygiene.

The first law of health and the most important calls for "Daily movement of the bowels."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have helped to prolong the life of many because they have enabled them to follow this first law of health.

A torpid, sluggish condition of the liver and kidneys is certain to bring constipation of the bowels, clogging of the digestive and excretory systems, poisoning of the blood and give rise to the most dreadfully painful and fatal of diseases.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills purify the blood and cleanses the system as no other treatment can because of their unique and combined action on the filtering and excretory organs—the liver, kidneys and bowels.

Mrs. R. Morrow, Bracebridge., Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled almost constantly with constipation of the bowels and never got anything to do me the lasting good that has been obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They not only relieved the trouble but have entirely cured the headaches from which I used to suffer, and have improved my health in a general way."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose; 25c a box; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Honan Presbytery's Thanks For Miss Maxwell's $5000 Gift

Through the courtesy of Rev. J. G. Potter, Pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, the Examiner is able to present below an interesting letter from the clerk of the Presbytery of Honan, China, to Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell of this city. In giving it to the public there is only the two-fold object in view. (1) The letter is an evidence of the fact that committees of the church entrusted with missionary funds are faithful in the discharge of their trust and that the whole amount donated finds its way to its destination. (2) That there may be other friends who will find it in their hearts to assist in the very needy work of China or India, where so much depends upon what the Christian church does now.

Weihweifu, June 4, 1909.

Mrs. Mary A. Maxwell,
Peterborough, Canada.

Dear Madame,—I have been instructed by the Presbytery to send to you the following minute extracted from the Minutes of Honan Presbytery:

"It was resolved that the Presbytery of Honan feels deeply grateful to Almighty God for the way in which our urgent needs for fuller educational equipment have been met. At a time when China is changing so rapidly and moving on into unknown paths a grave responsibility is laid upon the Church to guide the young in their pursuit of knowledge, to provide them with an enlightened Christian education and to train them for efficient service for Jesus Christ among their fellowmen. Mrs. Maxwell's generous gift of $5,000 for the high and Normal schools at Weihweifu is most opportune, making possible the erection of commodious and substantial buildings, and greatly assisted the development of our educational policy. The very sincere thanks of Presbytery are therefore tendered to Mrs. Maxwell."

It gives me great pleasure personally to convey to you the thanks of Presbytery, and I can assure you that this gift will be the source of untold blessing to many. The young men attending the High and Normal school at present are a splendid lot of young fellows; the Chinese premises at present used for the school are very inadequate and unsuitable. Now, however, owing to your generosity we can look forward to better things.

Faithfully yours,
W. HARVEY GRANT.
Presbytery Clerk.

Hall's Glen, July 19.—Messrs. H. and F. Payne made a short call on their way through the village on Sunday.

The rainy weather proved rather unfavourable for some of our young citizens last Sunday. Misses L. Crowe of Toronto, and Rosbury, of Peterborough, is visiting at the home of Mrs. M. E. Crowe.

Most of the farmers in this vicinity commenced haying last week.

Mr. David Brown will soon be moving into his new house, which the carpenters expect to finish in about a month.

In view of the summer attractions at McCracken's Landing, a number of the young people spend enjoyable evenings there.

Messrs. R. Hamblin and N. Payne visited friends here on Sunday.

Mr. M. G. Carveth of Detroit, Mich., is spending his vacation with his mother.

A very busy season is reported by the Massey agent and there appears to be no let up to the business. A number of men are engaged in putting cement walks at Zion church this week. Mr. A. Darling is overseer and W. Carveth contractor.

A number of the young folks are looking forward to the huckleberry excursion, which will be run off about the first of August.

The annual tea meeting of the Zion Methodist church will be held on the grounds on the 28th inst; a number of the local clergy will be present to deliver addresses, the Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., is expected to be present and a soloist from Peterborough will assist in the programme.

NON-POISONOUS

Recommended by
Ontario Agricultural College Guelph, Ontario

They report Bug Death has made an excellent record in each of the past two years. The potatoes on which the Bug Death was applied were more vigorous in growth and greener in appearance throughout each of the seasons than those on which other applications were made.

DO YOU WANT BETTER CROPS?

Of course you do. Well, the way is clear. Use Bug Death and you'll not only have a heavier crop, but larger potatoes of better quality.

Write or call and we'll tell you some more good things of this celebrated Bug Killer and Fertilizer, both in one.

Funeral Of The Late W. F. O'Boyle Was Very Large One

The Lindsay Post has the following reference to the funeral of the late W. F. O'Boyle. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mrs. J. F. Crowely, Water street:

The last tribute of respect was paid this morning to Mr. W. F. O'Boyle, whose funeral took place at 8:45 o'clock, from his late residence, corner Glenelg and St. Lawrence streets to St. Mary's Church.

The sacred edifice was crowded to the doors with a large congregation, which included the representative citizens of the town and county as well as parishioners of St. Mary's who had learned to love and honour the deceased for his many noble qualifications of heart and hand.

Requiem Mass Chanted

Requiem mass was chanted by Rev Father W. F. O'Boyle, O.M.I., rector of New Westminster Cathedral, and son of the deceased. The deacon was Rev. Father Roach, Superior of St. Michael's College, Toronto; sub-deacon, Rev. Father McGuire, Downeyville; Master of Ceremonies Rev. Father O'Sullivan, Port Hope; Acolytes, Messrs. Dominis Spratt and H.Rogers. The following clergymen were inside the sanctuary rail: Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of Peterborough; Rev. Fathers Kennedy, of Sandwich, and Phelan, of Young's Point.

The Funeral

At the conclusion of the mass the funeral ocrtege proceeded on its way to the Roman Catholic cemetery. It was one of the largest seen in years. The Lindsay branch C. M. B. A., of which the deceased was a charter member and chancellor, turned out in a body as did the Ops Township Council and officials, Mr. J. R. McNeillie, county clerk and treasurer, represented the county, and there were also representatives from the Victoria creamery.

May Take Steps To Stop Circulation Of "Yankee" Silver

Ottawa, Ont., July 21.—It is understood that the Finance Department of Canada here has approved of a plan submitted by the Canadian Bankers' Association to bar American silver coins from circulating in this country. The work of collecting and deporting such money will be commenced immediately by the banks.

It is estimated that in the western provinces of the Dominion at least one-half of the silver in circulation is of United States coinage, and the assistance given to the Government by the banks in replacing American silver with the silver coins of this country by the increase in seigniorage, which is the profit derived by the Government on bullion brought to the mint here to be coined, is considerable, and, of ocurse, means a good thing for the country, although not to the banks themselves.

It is estimated that the American silver coinage now passing current in the Dominion, not taking the discount into consideration, is fully 40 per cent. of the total silver circulation of the country. About two years ago, the Canadian banks arranged with the Government, which allowed them a small percentage for the service, to have American silver deported from Canada, but at the end of the year the Government grant expired, and the whole arrangement fell through. It is believed that the present plans will be permanent for sentimental as well as business reasons.

Farmers Should Support Their Local Exhibition

From Farm and Dairy.

Remember that the character and quality of the exhibits made at your local exhibition are largely what you make them. Much rests upon the officers of the agricultural society in compiling a suitable prize list and in advertising the fair. Their efforts, however, would be largely in vain did they not receive the co-operation and support of members and others, in the district, interested in the success of the show.

The local or country fair, in some cases, has lost much of its former usefulness. Some departments have become the prey of what might be termed the professional exhibitor, particularly those departments in which poultry, vegetables and other garden truck, fruits, art and ladies' work are exhibited. Too often the same exhibits are sent on their rounds year after year and they capture a large percentage of the prize money. Many societies have wisely ruled against such exhibitors. It is often, however, difficult to make this ruling effective.

This difficulty can be overcome to some extent by all interested in the success of the exhibition, bringing out the best of those products that they have produced themselves. Boys and girls should be given encouragement to put up exhibits. While they might not successfully compete the first time, they will improve, after a few experiences, to such an extent that in time even the professional will have little inducement to make his rounds.

To compete successfully, one must begin early. Products and stock for exhibition should be carefully prepared long before the date of showing. Exhibits selected in this way are sure to bring credit to their owner. Begin to plan now for what you will exhibit at your fair next fall. If there are boys or girls on the farm, see that they are encouraged to prepare the exhibits. Let them exhibit under their own name. Such action on your part will do much to raise the standard of your local exhibition and will have a far reaching effect upon the young folks induced to take part.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

Kryptok Bifocals are the only perfect invisible, double vision lens made. There is no crack or split to gather dirt, and being made of one piece of Glass, it forms no line between the near and far sight. No cemented double vision lens is entirely satisfactory, because the cement will come loose in time. The Kryptok lenses are fused and welded in such a way as to become one solid lens of perfect optical qualities. We have issued a Booklet on these lenses, which covers the question of Bifocals thoroughly, and explains why the Kryptok Bifocals are much superior to the ordinary cemented kind. These Booklets we give away free of charge as well as our Antiseptic Lens Wipers. Call and ask for one

MUSEUM ROBBED

While Officials Doze Repository of Articles of Vertu is Robbed of Valuables Presented to Institution by Captain George Parker Van Koughnet—Some Were Father's Relics—Amateur's Work.

Toronto, July 22.—Seven invaluable relics were stolen from the Normal School Museum on Monday night, between nine and twelve o'clock, when no watch of the premises is kept.

The collection was presented to the University of Toronto by the late Capt. Edward Barker Van Koughnet a short time before his death at Gibraltar four years ago.

They are a silver trowel, about eight inches long, with wooden handle, a silver cigar case, from the Prince of Wales; a silver jug, about fifteen inches high; a silver snuff-box, about two inches long and one inch wide; a silver inkstand, eight inches long, six inches wide, containing two ink wells with candle placed between them; a combination gold pen and pencil, and a gold tray, made of Kruger sovereigns.

The sovereigns alone are worth $350 face value. It is for their associations and artistic value that the articles are most highly prized.

The Provincial Museum has been located in the Normal School for many years, Dr. Daniel Boyle being the superintendent. Since Dr. Boyle's illness Clarkson W. James, secretary to Hon. Dr. Pyne has been in charge. William H. C. Phillips is the assistant curator. W. A. Poole is guard.

The valuable Van Koughnet collection was carried away from the museum between nine o'clock and midnight Monday last while the alleged custodians dozed dreamily and in peace.

The traces left behind do not stamp the thief as that of an expert in the art of housebreaking, but with the tempting inducement held out to the amateur such accomplishment must have seemed, as they were, superfluous. Also the thief was modest in his taking. There lay open to him $300,000 worth of relics. Many of these would be easily negotiable and with a ration of portability and value much more tempting than those taken.

The seven relics were kept in a case on the second floor. To break open this the thief resorted to tools as antiquated as the methods used to guard the treasure which he sought. With hands (exactly like those presented to Adam at creation) he forced another case and took from it an ancient stone tomahawk. With this he burst open the case containing the collection, and then, confident of not being disturbed, waited to commit silly acts of vandalism, but touched none of the other valuable articles which lay ready to his hand.

GALVESTON IS SWEPT BY HURRICANE---10 KILLED

Galveston, Texas, July 22.—Fortified behind her 17-foot seawall and elevated to a point above the danger line, Galveston yesterday passed safely through a hurricane that resembled the disastrous storm of 1900. Part of the island on which the city is situated was again inundated, the overflowing seawall reaching a height of seven feet or more. That portion of the island which has been protected suffered comparatively little harm.

While the city of Galveston was held safe against the fury of the storm by the two-million-dollar seawall, seven miles in the Gulf, on Tarpon Island, where the storm whipped over the jetty into the bay, ten persons were washed from the rocky promontories into the Gulf. Boats last night were searching the bay for the bodies, but so far have been unsuccessful.

Sweeping westward, the tropical storm, which had been central over the Gulf of Mexico for 24 hours, struck Galveston shortly after 11 o'clock. The wind attained a velocity of 66 miles an hour, and shifted to the northwest, heaving the waters of Galveston Bay up against the island and flooding that quarter which had not been raised. The water backed up into the main streets of the city, but the damage was confined to the beach front, where bath houses and pleasure piers were swept away. Shipping was undisturbed.

A hurricane for east Texas was forecasted at the district weather bureau in New Orleans early yesterday morning, and warnings were sent out. When wind and rain arrived several hours later they found Galveston prepared. The inhabitants of the few scattered houses in the lower part of the island had already sought safety, and the vessels that had cleared and had prepared to sail were riding at anchor in the bay.

So short was the duration of the storm that the Mallory Line steamer, which was booked to sail for New York shortly after noon, left on schedule time.

BARNADO HOME RESULTS

Though we do not hear so much as formerly of the great rescue work carried forward by the Barnado Homes, that work is still in active operation. During its forty-three years of existence it has done a remarkable work, which is especially interesting to us in its Canadian aspect. Since Dr. Barnado first formulated his scheme of imigration to the colonies, 21,229 boys and girls have left the congested centres, the slums and the breeding places of vice of the great cities and come to try their fortunes in new lands and to become for the most part useful members of the state. Of these the far largest proportion have done well. At least 98 per cent. have fought the battle of life in Canada and won it; that is more than 20,000 boys and girls have become useful Canadian citizens, heads of families and contributers to national progress instead of being as they would have been, under the conditions from which they were snatched, miserable paupers in home city slums, or inmates of prisons and brothels or the fathers and mothers of more miserables. In Australia one Barnado boy, a slum rescue, has a seat in Parliament, and though none of them have attained that dignity in Canada, thousands of them are reputable heads of families and substantial citizens, doing their share in building up the Greater Britain beyond the seas. A work like this is only comparable in its objects and results to our own Children's Aid Society which is doing such a valuable work in saving our Canadian children from the grip of vice and crime. The work of both might be extended with the greteest benefit to both the neglected and destitute as well as to the state, at home, and in the overseas Dominions.

ANOTHER PUGSLEY ASSAULT FAILED.

Hon Mr. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, has been the object of vicious, widespread, as well as concentrated attacks. Federal politicians, outside newspapers, home politicians, home newspapers, home governments, have made a "dead-set" upon him with the object of driving him from public life. If he is the one hundredth part of the "bad man" he is represented, by his political enemies to be; if one hundredth part of what has been and is being asserted against him was true, a little effect would have been produced. Vain effort was concentrated upon a part of Mr. Pugsley's constituency, partly coterminous with the provincial seat of St. John, N.B., to divert it from the Liberal ranks. A despatch describes, what is described as "one of the most hotly contested elections ever waged here," as follows:

Premier Hazen and six of his Ministers, together with a host of Conservative speakers, have devoted their sole energies during the past fortnight to stumping the county in an effort to turn part of Dr. Pugsley's constituency into the Tory ranks. They imported into the campaign the Mayes charges and the Central Railway affair, which were thrashed out in the Federal election, and the result to-day is considered another vindication of the Minister of Public Works. Premier Hazen, two members of his Cabinet and a host of workers stood at the polls all day trying to elect their man. This is the third bye-election, held since the Hazen Government were returned to power, and in two of them they lost seats. Premier Hazen, during the last session of the House, passed a law which abolished the non-resident vote in the county, which was about 700 votes, and which, of course, cut down the normal Liberal vote.

It will be interesting to see what the next "move" against Mr. Pugsley will be.

SHOOTING TO KILL.

Shooting to kill is a brutal, but truthful, way of starting the primary object of training soldiers, whether volunteer or regular. The soldier who goes into battle without this ability is more useless than the soldier who cannot march. Having the real object of military training in mind, the sweeping victories of the Canadian rifle team at Bisley, show that we are aiming at and achieving something like the true object of military training; the Canadian marksmen have up to the present swept everything before them. They have scored a marvellous success with marvellous scores. This is gratifying since it will create an immense incentive to rifle shooting practice in Canada and justify the Government in taking larger measures to encourage and enforce rifle practice on the part of our volunteer militia. An important step in this direction has been made by the shooting efficiency test which the Militia Department put into force this year." Heretofore the camp pay of a volunteer was fifty cents per day. This year pay was graded according to efficiency in rifle-shooting. A man who could hit a target four feet square at 100 and 200 yards received seventy cents a day. Ability to hit a target two feet square entitled the marksman to ninety cents a day, while the hitting of a fifteen-inch square at these ranges entitled the man to a dollar a day. It was stated in the newspapers that there was a good deal of discontent over these regulations, and it was argued that there would be a great falling off in the attendance at camps owing to the innovation." In respect of this the Globe pertinently asks:

Would it be a serious loss if a man incapable of hitting a four-foot target at 100 yards failed to turn up next year? Our annual drills are unquestionably a preparation for war—however improbable and remote the event may be, please Heaven. The country would scarcely spend six millions a year except for a practical purpose. The man who cannot hit a four-foot target at a hundred yards with his rifle would be of no practical use in active service, and his departure from the militia would be no loss. He is only filling the place of a more useful man.

While the glory of the Bisley triumphs is great, the real benefit of them will be very much greater if it furnishes a practical incentive to more extensive practise of rifle shooting by our volunteers. It will encourage the Militia Department to give more attention to the provision of proper and conveniently accessible rifle ranges, where volunteers can learn to "shoot to kill," and thus become, gruesome as it appears, real soldiers, soldiers such as we should make. Considering Peterborough's adaptability to being a military centre, a rifle range should be provided here. There is no reason why, with facility for practice we should not turn out good shots like those now winning laurels in England. That, however, is not the highest object to aim at. We should look to having a regiment of good shots, not a few isolated cup winners.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Premier Clemencau, of France, has, with his ministry, been defeated—not on a question of policy, but because he talked too much. Hon. George E. Foster should take a lesson from this for use when, say in 1999, he may become Premier of Canada.

The Toronto News must have its ardent imeprialism somewhat chilled, by the action of the Imperial Government in appointing, its "specimen brick" of political depravity, Hon. Mr. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, as the representative of British and Canadian interests at the Hague Tribunal in the matter of the adjudication of the Atlantic fisheries questions in dispute with the United States.

During the Federal election in Manitoba, says the Globe, a foreign settler who was working for the Liberals at Gimli, was arrested by one of the Roblin Government special constables on a trumped-up harge, intended to keep him from voting and working. The ruse was successful, but Grabosky took action against his arrester and has recovered $100 from him. The record of the Manitoba Government in that election was a shameful one.

Much has been made, or sought to be made, of the Mayes-McAvity government dredging contract in the harbour at St. John's. It was charged that to favour a Liberal friend of Mr. Pugsley, a dredging contract awarded to Mayes & McAvity at 55 cents per yard was a "graft, and that McAvity got some $30,000 as his share, which should have gone into the public treasury. The contract was awarded to the lowest tender, 55 cents. The very same Mr. Mayes had a dredging contract with the City Council of St. John's. It seems that there is some dispute over this contract and the interesting fact has transpired that the City Council was paying for dredging 85½ cents per yard more than was paid under the Liberal Government "graft" contract.

RELIGION AND SPORT.

(London Advertiser.)

The Toronto Presbyterian clergyman, who, last Sunday evening, came out with a warm eulogy of all kinds of outdoor sports; who had a good word for the old clay pipe with which the tired man soothes himself after his day's labour; who even wished that more of the young people cooped up in stores and factories could have the relaxation of dancing; may probably have startled some of his audience. We refrain from mentioning his name lest we bring him into disrepute with some of his stricter brethren who read the Advertiser.

At the same time, we think he had some ground for his statements, and his arguments carry weight. Sports, pastimes and recreations, rightly indulged in, make better men and women. By them both body and soul can be benefitted. This is a strenuous life; it may be too strenuous. Perhaps we would all be better if we took things easy; were not so anxious for success; did not pursue the fleeting dollar with so much energy. But while it is well to have ideals, we much accept conditions. We have to take life as it is, and make the best of it. And it is certain that in these days the easy-going man will not succeed in accomplishing anything for himself, and wil have little influence on society. This is the world's busy day, and we must work while the day lasts.

But all experience establishes the fact that it is not wise to work one's self out; that he works hardest, and will be able to work longest and best, who at intervals relaxes the tension of body and mind. Sanitarians tell us that the most profitable rest—outside of our regular sleep—is not to be gained by absolute idleness, but by change of occupation from the severe to the light—from hard work in business to easy work in play. Recreation is necessary for the man who wants to do good work. The word does not mean "pleasure"—it means literally the process of re-creation—the renewal of wasted tissue and exhausted strength.

At the same time it is a fact that those forms of exercise which give pleasure are far more effective than those which are merely taken as a matter of routine duty. The treadmill is exercise, but not of the best kind. This is in accord with the physiological fact that anything that gives pleasure has a good effect. We do not mean the imaginary pleasures attending dissipation, or over-indulgence of the bodily appetites. The pleasure in these cases is in appreciable compared with discomforts. But agreeable sights or sounds, pleasing odors, enjoyable amusements, are all beneficial to a greater or less degree. When they are taken in excess they cease to be pleasing, and cease to be beneficial.

And this is not inconsistent with Christianity. The theology of the dark ages which made a fetish of pain and rated a man's happiness in the next world in proportion to his misery in this, which made pleasure pernicious and mortification meritorious, still lingers in the minds of some people. But there s no divine authority for this pitiful doctrine. It has driven more people away from religion than it has ever attracted. A wiser, and saner, and more Christian theology has no place for it. But true religion and reasonable pleasure are in harmony. Christianity is not opposed to the outdoor sports that take a man to the skating rink, the bowling green or the golf links; to the quieter amusements that are found in social gatherings and artistic entertainments. It is only the excess that does harm. When the man neglects his business for sports, when the woman neglects her home duties for the pleasure of society; when the soul is starved that the body may feed, then there is evil as bad as the evil for which a remedy is sought.

So, to return to our Presbyterian friend we think his utterances timely, and recommend his words to the consideration of all, when he says: "Pleasures and sports are the safety valves of the human life. If we did not have a little relaxation, the tension would break and we would go to terrible extremes of pleasure. * * * God meant us to have pleasure, or he would not have filled the world with so many beautiful things for us to enjoy, nor would he have put into our hearts the desire for pleasure."

WHEAT PRODUCTION IN THE UNITED STATES.

(Weekly Sun.)

That wheat consumption will exceed wheat production in the United States by 1925, if conditions remain as they are, was the chief statement in an address delivered by Prof. John Hamilton, of the United States Department of Agrisulture, before the Pennsylvania Board of Agriculture. The change from exporting to an importing country may come before the first quarter of the present century is past, provided an era of exceptional prosperity occurs in the meantime, because, according to Prof. Hamilton, the consumption of wheat varies in the United States from four to seven bushels per head of the population depending on price and general business conditions—eloquent testimony, by the way, either to the extent to which the poor deny themselves in times of adversity, or of the shocking waste which occurs when plenty abounds.

Going into details in support of his statement, Prof. Hamilton says the present rate of progress points to a population of 120,000,000 in the United States inside of fifteen years and that number of people, consuming five and one-quarter bushels per capita, would require as much wheat as is now produced in an average year in the country. Prof. Hamilton admits that drainage of swamp lands on the one side, and irrigation of arid lands on the other, with the application of the system of "dry farming" as an intermediary, will make available for wheat lands now waste. As an offset to this, however, on lands which have been exclusively devoted to grain growing, diversified farming will have to be applied. Indeed, this change has already begun. ten States of the West or Middle West having already commenced to reduce the area in wheat.

The one hope of postponing the day when the United States will be forced to depend in part on outside sources for bread depends, in Prof. Hamilton's opinion, on increasing the yield per acre. There should, however, be room for vast improvement in this respect. In the three years ending with 1905, according to figures quoted by him, the average yield of wheat in the Republic was a trifle over twelve bushels per acre, as compared with an average of nearly 28¾ bushels in ten European countries, including Great Britain and Austria, in the same years. There must, indeed, be an increase if American farmers are to do more than live. In the Eastern States the cost of producing wheat is estimated at $12.50 per acre, and with the breaking up of the great wheat ranches this esthmate will soon apply fairly well to the United States as a whole, so that a yield of twelve bushels per acre does not, in a normal year, represent a decent living wage for the farmers employed.

The facts quoted seem to point to a continued firmness not only in wheat but in all other food products as well. They point still more strongly, in the case of the United States, and the situation of Canada is not essentially different, to the necessity of a steady improvement in methods as a means of increasing production per acre; and to this end better drainage, better tillage, and larger holdings in live stock are the chief essentials.

FERROZONE

A case showing how Ferrozone acts is illustrated by the following from Mrs. H. Wright, of Enfield, N.S.:

"Six months ago I experienced a serious illness. It commenced with splitting headaches, dull pains through my chest and shoulders. I found it hard to get satisfying sleep—would roll and toss, and in the morning felt tired all over. Then I grew nervous, lost flesh, got pale, and had heavy dark circles under my eyes. My strength got so low I couldn't do housework. I was worried and unable to eat, and feared I would not get well. Ferrozone braced me up in a few weeks. It seemed to supply wonderful strength. I gained in flesh, looked better, and was able to sleep. In all I took twelve boxes of Ferrozone, and my cure was complete."

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

EXAMINER WANT "ADS" ALWAYS BRING RESULTS

The Examiner is almost every day demonstrating its ability to find lost articles through a lost advertisement in its columns. To-day we have received a letter from Mr. C. L. De Guerre, Oshawa, who inserted an advertisement "for sale of a business" at the above place. In his letter to us to-day, he states that he has been successful in selling his business through the advertisement that appeared in our paper. Just another instance of many of the values of The Examiner as an advertising medium.

New York, July 23.—Michael Murphy, an eastside character, was interrupted last night in the operation of prying open the mouth of a corpse in an undertaking establishment. Examination revealed three $5 bills in the dead man's mouth. They had been there since Sunday last when Andrew Ericksen met death in Jamaica Bay.

Murphy said he and Ericksen had hired a drunken sailor to a boat and had robbed him. Then the oar broke, says Murphy, and Ericksen, stuffing part of the money in his mouth to keep it dry, jumped overboard after it, but sank.

Tries to Die at Wife's Funeral.

New Haven, July 22.—Robt. Leihiger drew a pistol as the service at his wife's grave were in progress yesterday and would have shot himself had not mourners overpowered him and wrested the weapon from his hand. ### Two Years for Bigamy.

SORE THROAT

Slight colds become more offensive and sickening every day. The inflammation extends further into the head, soon the ears begin to buzz and ring, the head aches, the eyes pain dreadfully, the nose gets plugged up, and this forces the patient to breathe through the mouth. Vile, filthy secretions are forced back into the throat, requiring a great deal of coughing to keep the air passages free. Finally, this foul matter finds its way into the stomach, causing dyspepsia and general ill-health. By this time the patient has SYSTEMIC CATARRH, which say strength, depletes the vital energies till Consumption is the u[illegible] result.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, or how often you have failed to get relief, even though colds and Catarrh may affect every organ in your body, you can be permanently cured by inhaling the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone.

A few breaths through Catarrhosone Inhaler clears the phlegm out of the throat and stops coughing. The nostrils are cleansed of offensive mucous discharge, and sneezing and sniffing stop at once. Partial loss of hearing and headache (very common symptoms of Catarrh) are quickly cured; and in a short time every trace of Catarrh disappears.

We are so confident that Catarrhosone will cure your Catarrh that we are willing to refund the money in every case a purchaser is not fully satisfied Catarrhozone has afforded a lasting benefit. Nothing could be fairer. Now is your chance to get cured. Get Catarrhozone to-day and satisfy yourself as to its wonderful curative powers.

Toronto's Mayor Runs Out.

Kingston, July 22.—Interviewed yesterday, Mayor Oliver of Toronto, who is here attending the annual meeting of the Oddfellows' Relief Association, stated that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the mayoralty next year.

"I cannot afford to neglect my business any longer," he said. "The mayor's chair is an expensive seat, and I am, although reverse thing, I would have been if I had continued to look after my own business rather than the city's."

The association announced the appointment of resident agents, J. T. Potts at Montreal, and Johnston Douglas, Winnipeg.

U.S. Warns Japan.

New York, July 22.—The American to-day claims to be "in a position to state on the highest authority" that the U. S. Government has abandoned its altruistic policy in the Orient and is now determined to deal with China, Japan and Russia, as represented in Manchuria—in the firmest possible manner.

The role of benevolent advisor is to be replaced by the mailed fist.

The Governments of China, Russia and Japan have been notified of this change of demeanor by the present administration. Ambassador Takahira is returning to Japan unable to approve of Japan's bectoring attitude in Manchuria; and the United States will transfer its Pacific fleet to the Orient.

The United States will demand the restoration of the status quo in Manchuria from all the nations concerned, and that if this status quo is not speedily restored by voluntary and graceful act an acute situation will develop which Congress in regular session will be called upon to consider.

Daring Diamond Robbery.

Ottawa, July 22.—A big diamond robbery occurred here between one and two yesterday afternoon, when four men entered McMillan's jewelry establishment on Sparks street, right in the city business section, and took two trays out of the window, in each of which were fifty diamond rings. The four entered the store at once. One asked to see nail files, another to see umbrellas, and the other two "worked" the theft. The same firm was robbed of $2,000 in much the same way two years ago.

The jewelry stolen yesterday was worth from eight to ten thousand dollars.

Bloom. He is even now on bail from the New York police court upon a charge of larceny in May. He also served a term there for a letter box theft. # THE NASSR AIRSHIP

Great Expensive Attraction Secured and for This Year's Central Canada Fair

The Central Canada Exhibition Association has been fortunate in securing as one of its best attractions for this year's big fair—September 10th to 18th—the Nassr Airship, whose daily flights will provide a spectacle never before witnessed in this part of the country. There is no subject receiving more careful scientific attention at the present time than that of aerial navigation. While it is perhaps in its initial stage of development, the possibility of ascensions with the ship under perfect control is fully demonstrated by the Nassr invention. Upon the ship, which will be seen and operated at the fair, over $15,000 has been spent. The construction was done almost wholly by its navigator, Tony Nassr, or Toledo, Ohio. The big gas bag which supports the frame work and engine of the airship is 76 feet in length, has a diameter of 16 feet, and when inflated with hydrogen gas has a capacity of nearly 13,000 cubic feet. It is made entirely of Japanese silk, possessing the qualities of lightness and strength. The frame-work, 5 or 6 feet below, is triangular in form. The gasoline engine which furnishes the motive power is of 16 horse-power, four cylinder, four cycle, air cooled type. It weighs but 142 pounds, though it is quite as powerful as many automobile engines. Unlike other aeronauts, Nassr has the engine so designed that he can stop or start it at will when in the air. The propeller is at the forward end and the rudder at the stern. Sulphuric acid, iron borings and fillings are the principal ingredients in the hydrogen gas and a generating plant to produce it is carried. To house the airship while the balloon is being inflated is a tent 100 feet in length. Nassr sails the ship himself and is conceded to be a wonder in aerial navigation. Last year he made 42 successful flights out of 52 attempts, and this year with improved equipment he is doing even better. The airship is not to be confused with the old hot air balloon, and as one of the latest scientific achievements of the world it will be a great attraction at the fair. It has been contracted for by the Central Fair directors at very heavy expense. There will be daily ascensions unless a gale happens to be blowing.

PORT HOPE BAND MAKES A DISCORD

Town Grant Reduced and Musicians Are Unwilling to Continue Concerts.

The Ideal Concert Band is not satisfied with the grant of $100 from the town council and will not give open air concerts at the town square this summer. The band agreed to give ten concerts for $150 and the council offered $100 for eight concerts.

Owing to the heavy expenditures occasioned by the flood and smallpox epidemic, the council found it necessary to reduce the grant by $50. To meet the various demands it is absolutely necessary to make these reductions. Compared with other towns our band is not very liberally treated, but this being an exceptionally heavy year on the town treasury we hope the band will reconsider their decision and accept the offer.—Port Hope Guide.

STEAMER WATER LILY MET WITH AN ACCIDENT AT STONY LAKE

Dropped Her Rudder at Juniper Island and Had to go to Burleigh for Repairs--Other Stony Lake Incidents of Interest---The Doings at Viamede.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, July 21.—The steamer 'Water Lily" met with an accident at Juniper Island yesterday morning and had to be taken to Burleigh where the necessary repairs were made. The rudder dropped off at the island, necessitating the delay. A party of picnickers from the city, who spent the day at Sandy Point, were obliged to remain over night at "Woodside," the Water Lily not calling for them. Two of the party had to walk to the hotel at Burleigh Falls, where they telephoned to their friends at Peterborough to let them know that they would not be home.

Mrs. W. Macdonald, of Cobourg, who is stopping at "Upsidedown," Clear Lake, entertained a large number of young people from Kawartha Park on Monday afternoon to a trip around the lake on the fine launch the "Jessie." A stop was made at Fairy Lake, where tea was served, followed by a sail on the lake, afterwards returning to the pavilion at Juniper Island, where dancing was enjoyed.

Mr. Shanahan of Lakefield, who, with his family, has been camping at Sandy Bay, Clear Lake, and who has been getting the handsome launch of Judge Hudspeth, of Jersey City, ready for the latter's arrival, has everything now completed. He is expecting the Judge about the twenty-eighth. He will spend August at his island in Upper Stony Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Magee of Grove City, Pa., came up to Kawartha Park on Tuesday evening and will camp near the Spring.

Miss Jessie Ludgate of Beaver, Pa., is holidaying at Hamilton's Island, Clear Lake.

Mr. Robt. Neill came up to his cottage on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Charlie Munroe of Toronto, will spend the next two weeks with his family at Sandy Point.

Miss Lillian Rogers returned to the city after a two weeks' holiday at "Woodside."

Miss Bertha Best is holidaying at "Ispheming," the guest of Mrs. T. Barrie. Miss Hamilton of Sturgeon Falls, who has been visiting with Mrs. Barrie for some weeks, returned home to-day.

Mr. Robt. Patterson of Lorneville, is a guest at "Kilkenny."

At Viamede.

This ever popular resort is filled with guests at the present time, and all are apparently having a very enjoyable time at the pavilion each evening; a large number of young people gather and dancing is indulged in.

To-day several of the guests are having a picnic to Eel's Creek. Numerous small boats carried the picnickers to their destination. Dinner was partaken of at Eel's Creek, and the party returned to Viamede in the afternoon.

Recent arrivals at Viamede are Harry S. Damp and Harold O. Bond, Toronto; W. E. Macy, Lois Macy, R. B. Southgate, Olive H. Southgate, S. L. Crabb, L. G. Crabb, Grace Graham, and F. W. Tyler, Rochester, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Boss, London. Miss Lena Ratcliffe, and J. B. Ratcliffe, wife and Ruth, Hannah Bond and Mayme Brown, Bernard Shaw and Jas. E. Wharton, Toronto; and Chester E. Arnott, Rochester, N. Y.

Council's Special Meeting To Deal With Power At Burleigh

Mayor Rush has called a special meeting of the Council to-night to deal with the Burleigh Falls Power question. It is understood that an effort will be made to arrive at some definite arrangement between the city and the company.

Mr. J. A. Culverwell arranged for the session with Mayor Rush. The Central Ontario Power Co., desire to meet the City Council to discuss the power question briefly and to the point, and to settle the final price upon their power. What the directors say to-night will have to be accepted or rejected. The intention is to bring the question to a head at once. It has been hanging fire for the past three months, at least it is that long since the city was given the price. It is time that something was done, and it will have to be done soon. The directors of the company who are coming are: Mr. J. A. Culverwell, managing director; Dr. Adams, vice-president; Messrs. R. S. Hudson, general manager Canada Permanent Mortgage Co.; W. VanDusan, president of Sun and Hastings Loan Co., and Col. Harry Ward, ex-M.P.

Danny Simons Gets A Bass At Lovesick--But Not With Hook

Fish have been caught and will be caught as long as the world rolls on in its present condition. Illustrious deeds done with line and hook or with net have been recorded in every age. Even in biblical times there was some "tall" fishing "stunts" and in their own way they will never be surpassed. But coming down to the present moment the race has been a close one between Isaac Walton and the Scullion of the C.G.E. Angling Club, until Danny Simons paid a visit to Lovesick Lake a few days ago. He was not seeking adventure but he had a deep desire to get a line on something worth while. The party composed of Dan Simons, Gus White, Herb Kendry and J. Johnston, were staying at the latter's cottage. The fishing was fine for everyone but Danny, but he was not to be disheartened because the finny tribe showed an aversion to his kind of bait. On Tuesday afternoon he started out in a light skiff to get a fish or —buy one. He chose a likely looking place and with a Billiken smile threw over a tempting morsel and sat back to wait developments. The warm sun smiled its kindliest and Dan caught himself napping several times. Once or twice he woke up with a start in response to a bite below but the hook failed to land anything. He was generous with the bait and replenished the "hookful" many times. After a longer lapse of quietness, he started to pull up his line his patience nearly expended. What? A bite! No the hook was caught, likely a stump. No by Jove, it must be a bundle of rags, its moving. Gradually up it came and the Angler was surprised to experience a movement, a jerk, for which only a fish or some denizen of the deep could be responsible. The line was drawn in more rapidly and carried several more sensations of a similar nature to the fisherman who was at a loss to realize what he had hooked up with. Dan looked into the water to receive the surprise of his life as a basket handle was drawn above the surface and the basket proper became apparent. Dan grabbed the handle and was about to loosen it from the hook when that old sensation was repeated, and strange as it may seem, there was a fish in it—a real live 3-pound bass. An Examiner reporter heard the story from one of the members of the party and Mr. Simons will probably think twice before telling it. Danny thought that he should preserve that fish but was finally prevailed upon to have it prepared for the table.

ANOTHER "INDIAN" HAD COSTLY "TOOT"

Fined $23.65 for Drinking Deeply While Posted.

Twenty dollars and three dollars and five cents costs, was Magistrate Dumble's decision yesterday against a young man who has been placed on the Indian list some time ago, and who came home from Port Hope on Monday evening, July 13th, the worse of liquor. It is dangerous to one's financial conditions to taste of the forbidden bowl after being posted. The accused stated that he secured his liquor in Port Hope and its effects had not worn off when he arrived home, about half past ten that evening. He was seen on the street and reported, with the result above mentioned.

REAL REASONS FOR THE BIG STRIKE OF THE PENNSYLVANIA CAR WORKERS

"Wage Pooling" System Announced by Steel Trust Plant is Said to Have Been the Explosion Plant—Bullets, Misery and Loss of Life Follow in its Wake.

SOME PITIFUL SCENES

By J. V. Knight

Pittsburg, Pa., July 22.—The truth concerning the riots that followed the strike of the 5,000 men of the Pressed Steel Car Co., at McKees Rocks, is not that a "herd" of "ignorant" foreigners went out to do violence simply because they were looking for trouble.

The truth is that the steel company has so imposed upon these patient labourers that they were goaded to desperation. Being men of muscle, they know only the one way of redressing their wrongs, and they met the polite, intelligent and prolonged violence of their employers with the vulgar, unthinking violence of men who know only the power of their hands.

Conditions at the Pressed Steel Car Co.'s works are described as amounting to slavery. The Pittsburg newspapers refer to them as the "shame of the city."

The lowest wages, the worst working conditions, the most brutal treatment, looking to the death of every human impulse and instinct, graft, robbery, the swapping of human souls for profits, have for years marked the Pressed Steel Car works as the most outrageous industrial institution in the United States. The great, gloomy mills are called among the men "the slaughter house," and of a man who goes to work in them it is said that he has taken "the last chance."

In these mills a human life is worth less than a rivet. Rivets cost money. Human lives cost nothing.

The majority of the workers are Hungarians or Slavish, who are slow to absorb the English language and American customs. So they have been imposed upon as brutal men impose on dumb beasts.

These workment have been, as patient at their work as horses. Every day sees one or more of them killed—slaughtered. These very deaths are unknown save to the workmen who see their bodies hacked and butchered in the pitiless machinery and the death traps fill the big works. The steel company never reports deaths or accidents, and the public is thus kept ignorant of the company's "violence." Even the local coroner keeps no record of men killed.

When an ambulance enters the yard, no matter how grewsome its errand, the gates close on the fact, for every employee is warned against making any statement to the public.

When some poor "hunky" as the foreigners are called, is maimed at his work, the foreman or other petty boss pushes the bleeding body aside to make room for another living man, and the wheels do not stop for an instant.

Until the present uprising, these strangely patient people have even spoken of themselves as the "company's men." Long opression and constant bullying at the hands of the bosses have made them even consider themselves as slaves. They live in dingy two-story frame houses, jammed close together looking like long black rows of rough boxes. These houses have four stalls each, described as "rooms." They rent for $12 monthly. It has been charged that while the workmen are not forced to live in these company houses, they do not long remain at their jobs if they rent elsewhere. It is the same way with the company's store. No one is forced to buy there, but as the company owns all the property around the mills and the merchants who have tried to establish business to run in opposition to the company's stores, have never been able to get sites for stores, the men are practically forced to buy of the company. Many of these men earn less than $2 a day, some less than $1. Out of these wages they pay their rent back to their employers, and the price of every mouthful of food that they and their family eat comes out of their envelopes. The company's stores give the men credit and the amount due the store is substracted from the contents of the wage envelope. When a man's rent and food bill equals his wages he receives no money at all.

There are some 20,000 women and children and old and crippled people dependent upon these 5,000 strikers. No decent American farmer but would furnish better quarters for his hogs than those in which live these soul-crushed victims of the company known as "The Last Chance" and "The Slaughter House."

How the children survive is a mystery. As soon as the boys are old enough they are put to work. The girls marry almost as soon as they reach their teens.

The interior of a company house is more hideous than the exterior. There is the bare floor, one or two chairs, a soap box or two for company, and cheap iron cots bought at the company's store. The tired workers sleep on straw and in the summer the bedrooms are sickening from the heat and the smell. Bath rooms, sinks and piping are unknown in these houses. The majority of the women carry the water they use from the river. All are miserably clothed. The children run naked until they attain an age which makes it necessary to provide them with clothes.

Ordinarily neither women nor children wear shoes or stockings. The ordinary man has only overalls, shirt and rough shoes.

Such, in brief, is the condition of these people. The men went on strike after many years of patient servitude not as a protest against the servitude, or of the conditions named in this article, but because of what is known as the "pooling system." This is another name for the celebrated "readjustment" system which was invented by Andrew Carnegie and first tried at Homestead, where a labour battle was fought that left its bloody mark on the politics as well as the industrial history of the country.

The "pooling" or readjustment of wages is always downward, never upward. The superior mechanic is pulled down to the level of the mediocre workman, and then the latter is kicked down a bit farther, and then the superior man is pulled down too his level again, and so on, until the workers became desperate.

The "pooling system" means that the company fixes the cost of its cars, and bases wages upon its profits. The truth is that it once fixed the cost, and this cost has remained stationary ever since. This cost is divided among the various "gangs" in the several departments. The company cannot lose by this arrangement. The man who doesn't work gets the same share of this "pool" earning as the man who works every minute. The man who works piece work is no better off than the man who works by the day, often not so well off. But whether he works little or much, day work or piece work, no man in the plant knows what he has earned until he tears open his pay envelope. He does not know whether he has been cheated. The company, so far as he knows, has given him what it chose to give him. He may get $2 a day or he may get $1.

As the men are unorganized, they have been entirely at the mercy of the company.

LOCAL JUDGES AT BABY SHOW "PLAYED SAFE" AND WON FAME AS VERY CLEVER DIPLOMATS

A feature of the West Toronto excursion to Peterborough yesterday was the baby show held in connection with the sports at Nicholls Oval yesterday afternoon. Six fond infants were entered in the competition and as many anxious mothers glared at the judges as much as to say, "Choose some one else's if you dare." As a result of this attitude on the part of the ladies the judges who were Fire Chief Howard, Mr. Thomas Kelly, of the Bank of Toronto, and Mr. T. H. Hooper, were placed in a very embarrassing not to say dangerous position, so much so that their local friends trembled for their safety. To be thrown amongst six strange babies with four hundred pair of alien eyes upon you and to know that giving the prize to one of the infants means that you make mortal enemies of the mothers of all the rest, is to say the least, decidedly uncomfortable. However, the three gentlemen who accepted the perilous position are to be congratulated upon the diplomatic manner in which they carried out their duties. Especial credit is due Mr. Kelly, who performed his difficult task in a highly satisfactory manner. Solomon-like in their wisdom the judges decided to give all the babies a prize and therefore all six mothers were delighted, the crowd was satisfied and everything went as merry as a marriage bell.

By the way the excursionists had a very enjoyable field day of sports in spite of the threatening weather. They were delighted with the Oval and considered it one of the finest parks of its kind that they had ever seen. A long programme was pulled off and most of the events were highly exciting.

The excursionists left for home on a special train at 8 o'clock, after having a most enjoyable outing in Peterborough and promising to return to this city on their next outing. Nearly all the crowd saw the Lift Lock and were much impressed with the monster concrete structure.

South Beach Is Very Popular With Peterborough People

Special to The Examiner.

South Beach, Clear Lake, July 22.—Peterborough people do not realize what a charming and attractive spot they have easy access to at South Beach, the most popular summer resort at Stony Lake. This resort is within such easy access to Peterborough that it is fast becoming a popular rendezvous for automobile drives and carriage drives as well. Scarcely a week passes but a large number of Peterborough people take advantage of this pleasure and spend a week end or drive up to the South Beach Hotel for dinner. As this popular resort becomes better known it will be a Mecca for driving and auto tourists.

Several Peterborough people are registered at the South Beach Hotel at present, among whom are Mrs. S. Taylor, Mrs. J. H. Smith, G. W. Bennett, Miss C. B. Morse, Miss Laura Kelley, Mr. J. A. Lillie, Mrs. F. D. Hewson, Dickson Davidson, Wm. H. Blenchet, R. Hicks and wife, W. Harstone and wife, Miss Bell Menzies, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Menzies and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey. Many guests from Rochester, Pittsburg, Newark and Toronto, are registered.

Musical parties have been a feature of the entertainment provided during the past two weeks. These have been very materially assisted by the kind assistance of Mr. R. J. Devey, of Peterborough. Several card parties and a masquerade dance are planned for the near future. The fishing this year at South Beach is fine and large strings of fish are a daily occurrence.

Upset In Rice Lake While Trying To Land A Big 'Lunge

Mr. "Jack" Gillman, proprietor of Jubilee likes to tell fish stories about those of his guests who are proficient or fortunate with the trawl, but recently the order of things was reversed and he finds himself the subject of a yarn which is related by one of his guests and is told as being entirely authentic. A few days ago he was paddling on the lake, had a line out, and when nearing the end of Spook Island, one of the favourite fishing beds, he hooked on to a 'lunge that gave all the manifestations of being a "whopper." He was pulling it in and several Indians passing nearby asked what he had got. He told them to wait till he could get a look at it.

Mr. Fish came along nicely, tugging now and then but showing nothing extraordinary in the line of gameness, and Jack was beginnig to think it was only a sun fish or one of the other members of the minnow family. Only a few more feet of line remained in the water and Jim Howard asked him to lift it out and show the "gallery" the fish. Jack leaned over one side of the canoe and saw his quarry only an arm's length away. But in looking over the side he dipped considerable water but righted his craft before a complete upset. He joined with the Indians in a general laugh at his own expense and a moment later, still laughing, Jack rather carelessly made an effort to haul in his catch when over went the canoe. Jack did not let go his hold but swam to Howard's canoe and pulled himself into it. He then landed and despatched the 16-pounder and after baling his own canoe resumed his place and started for Jubilee, where in an hour or so, every one was wise to the accident.

The Problem Of Choice Which Presents Itself To Everyone

Subject of Last Night's Meeting at Evangelistic Tent—Fairly Large Attendance and Great Interest in the Proceedings.

A SPECIAL EVENING

Rev. Mr. Whelen was the speaker at the Evangelistic meeting last night held in the tent on the lot south of the Customs House. There was a good attendance and the assembly showed a deep interest in the proceedings. Mr. Whelen chose as his text the passage from St. Matthew: "What shall I do then with Jesus whom we call Christ?" This was a question which was not only asked by Pilate when Jesus was called before the tribunal but it presents itself to the people of the present age every day of their lives. Pilate neither declared Him innocent as he undoubtedly believed Him, nor did he judge Him guilty. He chose a middle course. The people of to-day have either to accept Jesus or refuse Him. A compromise with sin is the first step towards ultimate downfall. Some men like to put off the day of accepting Jesus, preferring the easier way of living in worldliness and unrighteousness imagining that before their death they will have an opportunity of making reparation for their past. They do not seem to realize that many are called away from this life in the twinkling of a moment, like the sudden extinguishing of a lamp. We look upon Pilate as a weak man. He thought too much of his position as Governor to jeopardize it by declaring Jesus innocent. He was afraid of the opinion of the rebble and the expressions of the people who were bent upon crucifying Jesus. People of today who do not declare themselves for Christ and lead lives indicating that they are His followers are in the same position. Mr. Whelen urged his hearers to decide for themselves now. Delay is dangerous and no man knows when he will be called before the tribunal of God to give an account of his stewardship here on earth. Conscience dictates and impresses that immediate action be taken but it is the weakness of man that is the obstacle.

It was announced that on Saturday night there will be a special meeting when Rev. Robt. Pogue will give the address.

Sixteen Gypsies Were Rounded Up On A Charge Of Vagrancy

Ottawa, July 21.—There was a lively scene at the gypsy camp at Hull yesterday afternoon, when the arrest of the gypsies was commenced consequent upon their ignoring the order of Chief Genest to leave the city. Sixteen of them, four men and twelve women, all bearing impossible names were apprehended and then the police force of six were obliged to desist. The remainder of the men refused to allow themselves to be captured but kept themselves out of the way of the policemen. It was under the orders of Mayor J. E. Fontaine that the chief demanded the gypsies to move and then made the arrests upon charges of vagrancy. The women were let out on bail and returned to camp, the centre of an inquiring, inquisitive throng.

The excuse the gypsies gave for remaining on their stand near the cement works was that a case they were very much interested in, the charge of kidnapping against one of their number, Eli Evano, was to be heard at the Hull court. But the instructions of the Mayor, were emphatic. "The chief must move them away because they are a nuisance to the citizens and a menace to the young people," he said.

The gypsies refused to move at all and the catching of 16 was accomplished in the presence of a multitude of engrossed and amused spectators. No actual resistance was made to the arrests but the vociferations and the language were sufficiently terrifying in themselves. The arrested seemed quite at a loss to understand the reason of their arrest for very few of them can speak French. A large crowd followed Chief Genest's stalwarts through the street, considerably hampering them.

IN AGONY WITH PILES

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

TORIES HOLD PICNIC.

North York Conservatives Gathering Addressed by Premier.

Jackson's Point, July 22.—The annual North York Conservative picnic, held yesterday, was as great a success as the uncertain state of the weather would permit. All morning, though the sky was overcast and rain fell intermittently, the roads leading to the Point were crowded with teams, many driving a score of miles from all sections of the riding and from North Ontario and Simcoe. The trolleys brought several thousands from Toronto and York Radial stations; trains had a few thousand from Stouffville, Beaverton, Uxbridge and other points, while 500 or more came in by steamers from Barrie, Allandale and other Lake Simcoe ports. Everyone who knows about crowds says yesterday's turnout exceeded last year's. A modest estimate would place the figure at 12,000 at any rate.

The occasion was graced by the presence of Sir James Whitney, Hon. Dr. Pyne, Hon. James Duff and several members of the Legislature and House of Commons. They addressed the crowd from a stand in a sheltered corner and their words fell on a sea of umbrellas. Not till the program was well advanced did the rain cease.

Premier Whitney was the real "lion of the hour," and, as it was his first visit to a North York gathering since his accession, he was presented with a laudatory address.

In his reply Sir James told how his administration had honestly—and successfully—endeavored to carry out its pledges; and then in concluding, referred to the power question.

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.

Officers Report a Prosperous Year for Craft in Ontario.

London, July 22.—The Ontario Masonic Grand Lodge opened its annual communication here yesterday.

Grand Master Freed, in his report, said that the revenue for the year just closing was $37,446, and the expenditure $41,349. Grants for benevolent purposes totaled $26,372. The receipts from lodges for the semi-centennial fund during the year were $7,657 and the amount to the credit of the fund on May 31, 1909, was $51,750. Since that time contributions of over $3,000 had been received.

R. W. Bro. Aubrey White, Toronto, in his report on the condition of Masonry, shows 22 districts, with 406 lodges, with a membership of 42,180. Several lodges were instituted during the year, bringing the membership up to 43,763. There were 2,600 initiations during the year. Some criticism is given on the slipshod methods of keeping Masonic records, and the inability of district deputies to ascertain if lodge rooms have been ever dedicated. The frequency of fires draws forth advice to insure Masonic property.

Warrants have been granted for lodges in Bancroft, Granton, Dryden, Haileybury and Cobalt. Dispensations had been granted to Blind River, Harrow, Arden, Smith's Falls, Markdale, Cardinal, Coldwater, St. Mary's, Hamilton and Toronto. Petitions for new lodges at Sutton, Mount Albert and Lombardy had been refused.

Telephone Merger.

New York, July 22.—A formal offer to purchase the stock of the Bell Telephone Co. of Buffalo was made yesterday by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. This is regarded here as another step in the recently announced plan for merging all the Bell companies in the country into a single corporation representing nearly $1,000,000,000 capital. Stockholders in the Buffalo company will receive two shares of American stock for every three of their own, the adjustment being on a basis of $96 per share for the Buffalo stock and $1,555 for the American.

Children Left Alone.

Toronto, July 22.—Henry Jobin, seven years of age, and his brother Leo, two years of age, were left alone for several days by their parents, who go about the country peddling. ## DR. M'INTYRE DEAD.

Member for Strathcona Succumbs to Operation.

Strathcona, Alta., July 22.—Dr. Wilbert McIntyre, M.P. for Strathcona, succumbed to an acute attack of kidney trouble at 4.40 o'clock yesterday morning. At an early hour Tuesday evening the attendant physician, Dr. J. M. Holson of this city, after consultation with other resident medical men, determined to take the only remaining chance to save the life of the sufferer, and had him removed to the hospital. The patient never rallied from the operation.

and promising members. Returned at the bye-election in April, 1905, rendered necessary by the appointment of Mr. Peter Talbot to the Senate, Dr. McIntyre brought to the House of Commons a knowledge of public affairs, a grasp of political principles, and a personality which quickly marked him out as a coming man.

Mr. McIntyre was forty-three years of age, having been born on July 15, 1867, at Rosedale, Victoria county, Ont. He received his education at Owen Sound Collegiate Institute, and studied medicine at the University of Toronto. Before entering Parliament he was president of the Strathcona Board of Trade and of the Northern Alberta Medical Association.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 21.—(Special.)—Since this day week there has been an improved demand for ocean freight space for August shipment, and a fair amount of business has been done to Liverpool and Glasgow at 22s 6d and 25s, the former figure being for the first half of the month, and the latter for the last half. The feeling in London space is easier, and it is now offering at 26s. At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings were 250 steers, 150 cows, 50 bulls, 900 sheep, 100 lambs, 600 calves and 600 hogs. Considering the fairly large supply of cattle, of which the quality was only medium, and the warmer weather, the trade done was all that could be expected. The demand was fairly good for small lots, and the undertone to the market was steady, as the prices paid were much the same as on Monday. Good steers sold at 5½c to 5½c; fair at 4¾c to 5c; medium at 4c to 4¼c; good cows at 4c to 4¼c; common at 3c to 3½c, and bulls at from 2c to 4c per pound. Notwithstanding the fact that the offerings of sheep were the largest this season, the tone of the market was stronger, and prices advanced ½c per pound under an active demand from local buyers, and a brisk trade was done in this line at 4c to 4¼c per pound. There was also an active demand for lambs, and prices were firmer, at from $4 to $5 each, as to size. Calves met with a good demand at from $3 to $3, as to size and quality. The condition of the market for hogs remains strong, and prices were firmly maintained at the recent advance, under a good demand, and small supplies, and sales of selected lots were made at $9 to $9.10 per hundred pounds, weighed off cars.

Suffragettes Released.

London, July 22.—Six out of fourteen suffragettes, who were recently imprisoned in the Holloway Jail for breaking windows at Whitehall, have been released on account of insubordination, and Herbert Gladstone, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, intimated in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that it was only a question of a few days untill all of the women would be turned out, as the "hunger strike" has become general.

Since the women were sentenced to close confinement they have been defying all the prison rules, and now Mr. Gladstone said they have taken to kicking and biting the female wardens.

The Home Secretary hotly denounced James Kier Hardie's suggestion that the cells underground were unsanitary.

Attempts made by the supporters of the suffragettes to adjourn the House, in order to discuss "the infliction of a punishment that was dangerous to the health of the ladies," was defeated by the Speaker, who refused to put the motion, on the ground that there had been no departure from the ordinary administration of law.

MAY BE RAPIDLY AND EFFECTUALLY CURED BY THE USE OF

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

The medicine with a record of cures extending over 65 years. You don't experiment when you buy it.

MRS. JOSEPH MATCHETT, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "It gives me much pleasure to write you of the wonderful benefit I have found in your medicine. Last summer it saved the lives of my three little ones. They all took the summer complaint and were very sick with it. The baby would take fits, and after trying many remedies, which were of no use, I suggested we should try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. After giving them one bottle I found a great change, and now my little ones are as well as ever. We have never been without it since, and I have recommended it to my friends."

MRS. S. A. HARRISON, Napanee, Ont., writes: "I take great pleasure to send you this testimonial of what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done in our family. My daughter's little girl, three years old, took summer complaint and was nearly dead. After all other remedies failed I thought of your remedy. The first dose gave relief and the third cured her. My son had diarrhoea and a few doses stopped it right away. I advise all mothers to have a bottle of Dr. Fowler's on hand all the time. It is a grand medicine for young and old, and I cannot recommend it too highly in all trouble where the bowels become too loose. A few doses will check the trouble at once."

INTEREST AT FEVER HEAT IN SATURDAY'S BALL GAMES

The City League games at Nicholls Oval on Saturday should be the most interesting of the season, in view of the fact that but one game separates the T.A.S. and Park St. A.C., and the two leaders meet on Saturday. If the Park St. team win and both the players and supporters are confident that they will, it will leave the two tied for the leadership and with the finishing line only a few short weeks away, there will be more excitement than at a German picnic, when it has been discovered that some one has stolen the beer. Park St. will have the same team that defeated the West Ends last week. They are confident of galloping away from the weakened T.A.S. but the Abstainers have enough of the regulars with good substitutes to give the Park St. team an awful argument.

The West Ends and Strathconas are fighting it out in the second division and Saturday's game will have a good deal of say about who will occupy the cellar position. The Straths, who got off to a bad start by dropping the first three games are now playing grand ball and are certain that they will defeat the Westerners.

The week end crowd will see two grand games and the attendance should be the largest of the season.

JEFFRIES' MANAGER HAS PUT HIM IN AN AWKWARD PLACE

New York, July 21.—There is a growing impression among the friends of James J. Jeffries that he has been badly advised in the Jack Johnson matter; that he has been placed in a most awkward predicament because of the persistent statements from Sam Berger, his press agent, sparring partner and manager, to the effect that he intends to post forfeit, sign articles and fight again. For two weeks or more the rumour has been circulated here that Jeffries is somewhat displeased because of Berger's theatrical methods, and is even now seeking the advice of a former friend and backer. Those who have been in close touch with the Jeffries-Berger combination since the partners left California in February to play a seventy-weeks' vaudeville engagement at $6,500 per, say that Berber has been allowed to run things with a high hand and that Jeffries has been practically led around by the nose.

"Keep your mouth shut Jeff, and get the money." This is said to have been the advice proffered by Berger to the boilermaker from the beginning of the long tour of the country. "Leave everything to me, Jeff, and we will make a fortune."

Jeffries, always an honest fellow, is said to have protested again and again against Berger's repeated warlike declarations relative to Johnson and to have stated on more than one occasion that he could not regain his old form. But, according to Jeff's friends who are now talking right out in meeting, Berger's business methods prevailed and to such an extent that Jeffries now finds himself in a pretty awkward fix.

Canadian In Tie In The First Stage Of The King's Prize

Bisley Camp, July 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Private McCrae of the 7th Argyle Highlanders, has tied with Corpl. Albert Sprinks of the 10th R.G., Toronto, for first place in the first stage of the King's prize. They shoot off the tie to-day. The winner of this stage is presented with the N.R.A. bronze medal. The first stage is shot over the 200, 500 and 600 yards ranges. At the 200 and 500 yards' ranges Corpl. Sprinks' score was each time seven bulleyes. At the 600 yards range he made 33, a total of 103. He is using a Lee-Enfield rifle and is not with the team. Last year a score of 103 won this stage.

Sergt. Kelly, Sergt. Smith, Pte. H. D. Gougeon, Staff-Sergt. Bayles and Sergt. Blackburn with scores of 95 shoot off with 96 others for places in the second stage of the King's Prize. This is open only to the 300 taking the highest places in the first stage.

Staff-Sergt. F. Richardson of the 5th C. A. Victoria, is first in the "All-Comers" aggregate, with a score of 167 out of a possible 175. This cup has only once before been captured by a Canadian, when Sergt. Broadhurst took it in 1898 with a score similar to Richardson's.

While passing along the 600 yards range the Duke of Connaught enquired of Col.-Sergt. Freeborn of Hamilton, "Is that the Ross rifle?"

"Yes, sure," answered Freeborn, not knowing the identity of the speaker.

"May I look at it?" asked the duke.

"Sure you can," said Freeborn, and he explained the rifle to the duke, who expressed the opinion "It's a very heavy rifle."

On another range Lord Roberts asked Pte. Gougeon of Winnipeg, "How are you getting on?"

"There's the board," laconically replied Gougeon, jerking his head in the direction of the score board. He didn't recognise Lord Roberts.

Sergt.-Major S. J. Huggins, Sergt. W. Kelly, and Col.-Sergt. J. Freeborn will shoot in the Irish team for the National Challenge Trophy.

FEATURES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

NATIONAL LEAGUE

MATTY'S INJURY NOT SERIOUS.

New York, July 21.—In a poorly played and long-drawn-out game today New York defeated St. Louis 11 to 7. The St. Louis pitchers were ineffective, and so was New Yorks'. Bridwell's batting and Byrnes' fielding were the features of the contest. An X-ray examination of Pitcher Matthewson's injured finger showed that it was mashed, not broken, as was first supposed. Matthewson will, according to the surgeons, be able to twirl by the end of next week. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| St. Louis | 7 | 14 | |
| New York | 11 | 13 | |

Batteries: Beebe, Melter, Bachman and Phelps and Bliss; Marquard, Raymond and Myers and Schlei. Umpires—Emslie and Kane.

FIVE IN A BUNCH.

Boston, July 21.—Boston made an even break with Cincinnati by winning to-day's 7 to 2. Three errors and bunched hits in the fourth inning gave the locals enough runs to win. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cincinnati | 2 | 10 | 4 |
| Boston | 7 | 6 | 2 |

Batteries: Campbell, Dubuc, Castleton and McLean and Roth; Ritchie and Graham. Umpire, O'Day.

EARL MOORE BEAT PITTSBURG.

Philadelphia, July 21. — Pittsburg was again defeated here to-day by 2 to 1. Moore was very effective and he was given perfect support. An error by Wagner, Moore's sacrifice, Grant's double and Titus' single gave Philadelphia two runs and the victory. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Philadelphia | 2 | 7 | 0 |
| Pittsburg | 1 | 5 | 2 |

Batteries—Moore and Dooin; Willis, Brandon and Gibson. Umpire—Klem.

CHAMPIONS LUCK TO WIN.

Brooklyn, July 21.—Chicago was handed the rubber game of the series, 3 to 2, to-day by a cluster of three errors, two of them by Alperman in the fifth inning. The home team fought hard after that, hammering Overall out of the box, but failed to land, although they made ten hits, including four doubles. Lennox batted for McIntyre in the ninth and cracked out a double, with one out, but great plays by Hofman and Evers prevented the tieing run. The first four innings were marked by as many double plays, three, by Brooklyn. Sheckard made half of the Chicago hits off McIntyre. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 3 | 6 | 0 |
| Brooklyn | 2 | 10 | 1 |

Batteries—Overall, Brown and Archer; McIntyre and Bergen. Umpires, Rigler and Johnstone.

FOUR FROM WASHINGTON.

Chicago, July 21. —Chicago won a lively game from Washington by 6 to 3.

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 6 | 12 | 1 |
| Washington | 3 | 5 | 0 |

Batteries: Burns and Owens; Johnson and Steele. Umpires—Perrine and Evans.

BOSTON'S NEW PITCHERS.

Cleveland, July 21.—Cleveland defeated Boston to-day by 4 to 2. Ryan was wild and ineffective in the first inning, and before he was taken out Cleveland scored four runs, which were enough to win the game. Cleveland could do nothing with either Pape or Collins, who succeeded Ryan, while Berger was effective except in the first inning. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cleveland | 4 | 7 | 0 |
| Boston | 2 | 7 | 0 |

Batteries: Berger and Clark; Ryan Pape, Collins and Donoghue. Umpires—Sheridan and Kerin.

SUMMERS SHOWS HIS CLASS.

Detroit, July 21.—Summers to-day made his first appearance since his eighteen-inning-no-score game of Friday, and held New York to five hits easily blanking them. He was brilliantly supported, especially by Bush. Hughes pitched well but bunched hits cost him one tally and Keifer made a home run. Laporte was spiked by Bush and was forced to retire. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Detroit | 2 | 10 | 2 |
| New York | 0 | 5 | 1 |

Batteries: Summers and Schmidt; Hughes and Kleinow. Umpires—Connolly and Egan.

EASTERN LEAGUE

JAKE GETTMAN'S HOME RUN.

Montreal, July 21.—Gettman's home run with a man on bases in the sixth won to-day's game for Newark. It was a well-played game, in which McGinnity outpiched Keefe. Score: 4-2.

Batteries: McGinnity and Crisp for Newark; Keefe and Kritchell for Montreal.

ROCHESTER BLANKED THEM.

Rochester, July 21.—Cy Barger shut out the Greys this afternoon in a great game by 2 to 0, although played in a drizzling rain for four innings, and thereafter in a heavy downpour. Cronin, too, pitched fine ball. Rochester's first run was due to two errors in the first innings, but the second was earned. When the Greys had men on bases he made them do as he wished.

Batteries: Barger and Erwin for Rochester; Crown and Fitzgerald for Providence.

VISITED CHIEF HOWARD YESTERDAY

Fire Chief Robinson, of Toronto, Accompanied Excursionists.

John Robinson, Chief of the Fire Department of West Toronto, was one of the excursion party that visited the city yesterday. He was accompanied by one of his men, and as would naturally be expected, Chief Robinson paid an early visit to the fire hall, where he was taken in charge by Chief Howard and, if there are any important places that he has not seen it was only because the short time forbade longer visits. Chief Robinson expressed himself as very well pleased with the condition of the Peterborough Fire Department. He considered that as far as he could judge from a cursory visit such as yesterday afforded, the city was well provided to fight a fire. The brigade could be made more efficient by increasing the number of men and improving the equipment, but considering everything he thought that good progress had been made and that Chief Howard was getting the best out of the facilities presented to him, which apparently met the requirements of the city.

Chief Robinson stated to the Examiner that his fireman had a baby in the show which was held at the Oval and of which Chief Howard was the judge. The Chief was pressed into service, and fully realising the danger, he accepted, prepared for the worst. However, all went well and the decisions were made. Chief Robinson knowing his fireman would like to have his baby win the prize, tried to get Chief Howard's eye during the examiner's review, but to no avail. Afterwards the two chiefs were walking down town, and Chief Robinson remarked, "I was trying to give you the wink about my fireman's youngster, but you refused to look." Chief Howard asked the man's name and it turned out that he had won the prize and both laughed over the circumstance and that it should have resulted so satisfactory.

Surgeon's Opinion OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with Dr. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sir Henry C. Burdett, K.C.B., of London England, in a recent address, said, "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom to be conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext."

Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife at every opportunity. The rewards to them are rich, but think of the suffering of body and mind, the enormous expense and the risk of life itself. An operation should be the last resort, for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtaining cure.

Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better but my old trouble returned and again I lost much blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Was Afraid The Boiler Was About To Blow Up

Mr. Jas. E. Noble, Formerly of Peterborough, Tells of Some Overworked Machinery in a Cheese Factory of This County.

AMUSING FEATURES

The following letter, which appeared in the last issue of "The Power House," was written by Mr. James E. Noble, formerly of Peterborough, and now Chief Engineer of the Toronto Asylum, should be read with interest here:

Overworked.

The article by an interested Listener on page 38, June number, is amusing and interesting. Some of your readers may imagine the word picture overdrawn of the Dutchman's method of curing the safety valve's cough. An experience I had in a cheese factory in Peterborough county some years ago is quite as bad.

I was sent out there to make some alterations in the pipe work, etc., and when I arrived I found there was no regular fireman or engineer; the cheese maker received $2.50 a day, from 10 to 15 hours a day, and besides attending to the cheese making, receiving milk, attending to the machines, cleaning the factory, etc., he also attended (question here) to the boiler and engine. The fuel was four-foot slabs and scrub timber, and as it was an utter impossibility for the man to attend properly to half his duties, he left the firing of the boiler to chance loafers, or any farmer who happened to be around, and they sometimes did it "for fair."

This day when I arrived, I was guided to the boiler room by a hissing and clattering and when I entered, I had the same hair raising feeling the Dutchman's visitor had. The boiler was a good one, thank goodness, otherwise I would not be in the land of the living at the present day. As an engineer, my first glance when I entered the boiler room was at the water and steam gauges, the water was in sight, but that was all, the steam pressure was out of sight, at least part of it was. The gauge was made to register 150 lbs. and the index hand had made a complete circuit and was prevented from starting on a second trip around the gauge by the stop pin at the zero mark.

Understand, Mr. Editor, this is no fairy story, but the honest truth. A couple of volunteer slab throwers were busy hustling in more fuel. I yelled at them to drop it and make for safety. I also moved out rather rapidly myself and told the cheese maker, man of all work, to say his prayers and to work while he was saying them, and get the fire out of the furnace. I explained to him in as few words as possible, the danger we were all in, and then started for the high ground, where some of the amateur firemen already were, intending to watch the ascension of the cheese factory from a distance.

The cheese man had grit, or perhaps his life was such that he did not value it very much, for he pulled out the fire and then came and kept us company. Well I cannot say to what it was due, but the boiler did not blow up.

In the dim past, a safety valve used to adorn the boiler, but it had been removed for repairs and had never been replaced. In its place was a fine blank flange about 1¼ inches thick. I could fill a book about this one plant, but I think the foregoing is enough to show that it is not only the boiler sellers or engineers who are always to blame, but sometimes the employers who expect one man to do three men's work for one man's pay.

IN MEMORIAM

WALLIE WARNER, who died July 22, 1905:

In Loving Memory of our Dear Son, Wallie, who died July 22nd, 1905:

Just four years ago to-day
Since our dear son passed away,
God called him home it was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.
His memory is as dear to-day,
As in the hour he passed away.

Four years have gone, but still we miss him;
Never shall his memory fade.
Loving thoughts will always linger
Round the grave where brother's laid.

THE TORONTO PICNIC

Four hundred and fifty citizens of West Toronto, Lambton, and Weston attended the annual picnic of the business men of West Toronto at Peterborough yesterday. On their arrival they received a hearty welcome, and started in to enjoy the trip. They were shown the beauties of Peterborough by means of a trip on the street cars. Subsequently a baseball match took place on the Oval, where, after luncheon, a programme of sports and a baby show provided amusement for the afternoon. Chief Howard, of the Peterborough Fire Department, acted as judge in the baby contest, and at the conclusion of his arduous task welcomed the excursionists in the name of the Mayor and Corporation. A trip through the famous lift lock ended the day's events. —Mail and Empire.

COSTS AMOUNTED TO FIFTEEN DOLLARS

Stewart Murphy, of Dummer, appeared before Magistrate Edmison yesterday charged with cruelty to animals. The circumstances were considered an extenuating character, and no fine was imposed. The defendant, however, paid the costs, which amounted to $15.00.

Makes the Glassware Fairly Sparkle

Mirrors and glassware are hard to clean with ordinary soap. The oily matter often leaves streaks and spots that are hard to remove.

But with Taylor's Borax Soap the result is wonderful. The surface is left without a single streak—it glitters and sparkles as though it were diamond.

And your work is only half as hard. For this soap reduces rubbing to a minimum—it works almost like magic.

Taylor's Soap

Borax is the most powerful cleanser in the world. It does wonders that are almost unbelievable until you once see the results for yourself. When you spend an hour cleaning the bath room, the tub, the wash bowl and the mirrors, you have wasted just half an hour. You would have done less than half the rubbing and finished in half the time with Taylor's Borax Soap.

For this soap does more than any other soap you have ever known. It loosens every bit of dirt instantly, it destroys every possible germ and leaves everything both clean and sweet. Hard water often hardens the hands—it leaves them red and rough. But this delightful borax soap softens the water and so softens the hands—it leaves them whiter and daintier than ever before.

We use only the finest of cocoanut oil in this soap. We go more than 12,000 miles to the isle of Ceylon just to be sure this oil is pure and fresh. Then we boil it doubly long and run thousands of gallons of pure water through it to remove every impurity. It is the cleanest and purest of soaps.

It requires twenty-one days to make a single cake. The labor of more than 200 persons is needed.

Yet this soap costs no more than the ordinary. We make millions and millions of cakes every year and are thus able to buy at the lowest of prices.

Why use the ordinary soap any longer when this wonderful soap costs no more?

Try a bar this very day—learn for yourself its real merits.

WE DO NOT GRIND LENSES

We have not time for this ourselves, and would not entrust lens grinding to less skilled hands. Our lenses are all imported and are manufactured in factories of hundreds of thousands of dollars equipment employing over 1000 hands, with every facility for accurate work. It does not pay to surface grind good lenses in Canada. It requires a day or two extra to get these but we have the work of of more skilled workmen at a reasonable price.

JAILBIRDS FOR FARMS

Need of West for Men to Work in the Wheat Fields Causes Magistrate Daly to Release Short Term Prisoners on Condition They Go to Work—Excursionists Are Not Plentiful, Says the Report.

Winnipeg, July 23.—Daily the fear of a scarcity of farm labor this summer grows apace with favorable news from the agricultural districts. At the present time there are four hundred applications on file with the Provincial Government, and nearly seven hundred with the Dominion immigration officers, asking for men, but neither can supply any. The C.P.R. is at present endeavoring to arrange excursions from the east, but reports received indicate that men there are also scarce. When the excursions are en route this year every effort will be made to prevent a recurrence of the rowdyism of last year, and if necessary a special constable will be placed on each car. Yesterday Magistrate Daly decided to try an experiment. Hearing of the scarcity of men, he released all short-term prisoners on condition that they get employment.

General Grain Agent Atcheson of the C.P.R., who has just returned from a tour of inspection of the crops, says the grain is at about the same stage of development as in other years, and especially in Manitoba the harvest will be about the same time as last year. He does not look for more than an average crop, which would mean a yield of about a hundred million bushels of wheat.

Dreams Make Him Pay.

Trenton, N. J., July 23.—Conscience-stricken because he had failed to pay a bill for funeral expenses for a relative, contracted ten years ago, Frank Quick of this city went to the home of Thomas Crawford, a former undertaker, yesterday and settled. Quick had several dreams that his relative was hovering half way between heaven and hades because the undertaker's bill was unpaid.

Tell-Tale Footmarks.

London, July 23.—Edward N. Mara was arrested at Clandeboye yesterday, charged with having on the night of June 29, set fire to the barn of William Patten and owned by J. Cartier. The barn was entirely destroyed. Footmarks said to lead from the fire to Mara's house are alleged to be the chief ground for arrest. Mara has been remanded for one week

SOCIALIST IS CHOSEN

Minister of Justice and Worship Will Decide Today Whether He Will Lead the Government—Is Bitterly Opposed by Money Interests and Conservatives — Think He Cannot Last Long in Power.

Paris, July 23.—President Fallieres last night asked Aristide Briand, Minister of Justice and Worship, to form a new Cabinet to succeed the Clemenceau Ministry, which resigned Tuesday night.

M. Briand, brilliant scholar and avowed Socialist and architect of the final chapters of the separation law, was summoned to the Elysee Palace and asked to reconstruct the Clemenceau Cabinet.

M. Briand promised his answer today. The shifting of some of the portfolios and the retention of all the Ministers except Picquart, Picard and Millies-Lacroix, Ministers of War, the Navy, and Colonies respectively, is now anticipated.

Considerable opposition to M. Briand has developed, especially among the more conservative Senators and Radicals, who dominate the party of the Republican majority, on the ground of the selection of a Socialist at the head of the Government would be equivalent to proclaiming the bankruptcy of the Radicals. Predictions are freely made in some quarters to-day that M. Briand would fail in his efforts to form a Ministry which can command a majority.

Should M. Briand succeed in forming a Cabinet, as his friends believe he will, the tendencies of the new Ministry will be distinctly more socialistic than those of the outgoing Cabinet. M. Briand is opposed to the dissolution of the revolutionary general federation of labor, which M. Clemenceau favored, and M. Barthou, Minister of Public Works, and M. Viviani, Minister of Labor, have championed socialistic doctrines.

A Briand Cabinet would be exceedingly distasteful to the moneyed classes. The Conservatives, however, believe that the Briand Cabinet will be short-lived.

THE WATER COMMISSIONERS ARE BACK FROM THEIR TOUR OF INSPECTION

Tell of Their Visit to Chatham and St. Thomas and of the Filtration Plants Used in Those Cities—Were Splendidly Received in Both Places.

THEIR IMPRESSIONS

The Water Commissioners, accompanied by Mr. Henderson, Superintendent, and Mr. Armstrong, Secretary, arrived home last night after having visited Chatham and St. Thomas, with a view of finding out what they could regarding the system of water filteration in both of these cities.

Mr. Matthews when seen by the Examiner this morning kindly gave his impressions of the trip in an interview that from its importance should be of the greatest interest to Peterborough people:

"Chatham was the first point visited " said Mr. Matthews. "This city has a population of about 11,500. The water works system was originally put in by a private company, and purchased by the city some years ago. It is operated, and controlled by three commissioners—two of whom are elected by the people, the Mayor of the city being the third. On arrival we went to the City Hall, which is a splendid building in the centre of the city, and owned jointly by the city and county. The City Clerk, Mr. Merritt, was exceedingly obliging, giving us considerable information, and

ADVERTISING CANADA.

The basic idea of advertising is to keep one's name and business before the public—the more prominently the more effective the advertising. In this respect our prominent public men, our governors-general, our wheat crops, etc., do a great deal; but it is reserved for our Canadian volunteers to hit the bullseye. Canadian volunteers began to advertise Canada, not only by their spirit, but by their work and the way they showed the way in the South African war; by the way they shot and scored. They have been doing splendidly at Bisley. Though shooting with a condemned rifle—politically condemned—they have beaten the Empire at the Bisley butts. The Canadian team, shooting with a Canadian rifle—made in Canada—against the best marksmen of the Empire, have practically won everything big in sight and if—the fifteen who shot themselves into the second stage of the King's Prize, maintain the pace, the Canadian team will be looking for new worlds to conquer. All this is very creditable and very satisfactory in the abstract, but its greatest value is the demonstration to the people and press of Great Britain of the quality of Canadian marksmen; it gives Canada a high standing, and makes it a topic of conversation and discussion among all classes, in the course of which Canada's resources, its importance in the Empire, its desirability as a home will be given attention. The great work of Canadian marksmen at Bisley constitutes a splendid advertisement for Canada. The team will have a great welcome home, and every man of it should be presented with some substantial and enduring token of Canada's gratitude and recognition.

CANADA AND SILVER

One of the latest contributions to the study of silver is a pamphlet entitled "The Silver Situation," published by the Otisse Mining Co., Ltd., of Canada, in which there is a careful analysis of existing conditions governing the white metal and which, in some measure, is designed to forecast its future, the author, James S. H. Umsted, being well known in Wall Street and newspaper circles. Taking the recent discoveries in the Cobalt and Montreal River fields in Canada for a text, the writer argues that the production from these sources has not been responsible for the recent severe depression in silver quotations. The first great fall in the price of silver took place in the decade 1880 to 1900, largely because of the failure and final abandonment of the attempt of the United States Government to sustain the price through liberal purchases. Numerous instances are given where, notwithstanding a material increase in the production of the metal, its price has advanced in the year of enlarged production or the year subsequent. The author argues that there are many factors which have governed the price of the commodity apart from the effect of enlarged output. Numerous facts and statistics are presented to show, among these factors, the importance of the varying demand from India as it is governed by alternate years of prosperity or famine.

The disastrous panic in the United States in 1907, which disordered the trade of the world, is considered by the author to be sufficient explanation of the extreme depression in silver in the last two years. Per contra, it is held that the industrial recovery now under way is an important element in justifying a more hopeful view of the future of the white metal. Other favouring conditions are the increasing use for silver in subsidiary coinage, assured particularly by the steps taken by the Latin Union and by Germany to increase the circulation of subsidiary coins; the agitation for reform of the Chinese currency, and the increased consumption which is assured by the remarkable development of trade in the Orient and the prospect of important development of the resources of South America and other silver-using countries. Assuming that 1910 will see normal conditions of trade re-established the world over, and assuming that the Chinese minting system reform is carried out, Mr. Umsted says that "we might readily see a coinage consumption of 200,000,000 ounces and an industrial consumption of 110,000,000 ounces, an aggregate of 310,000,000 ounces, to meet which Canada might add, say, 40,000,000 ounces and the other producing countries 85,000,000 ounces to the world's production of 185,000,000 ounces of each year 1907 and 1908, before the total output would be brought to equality with the theoretical consumption." It is assumed that 50 cents an ounce is the probable minimum of the price of silver, as, below that figure, production would decrease owing to unprofitableness in operating many mines, while for the reasons given above it is contended that a material advance from present quotations is more than probable. The pamphlet masses together many statistics relating to the production, consumption and coinage of silver in the course of the last several decades and attention is given also to the future of Canada's mining industry, which is admittedly favoured by extremely low costs of output.

PATRIOTIC ADMINISTRATION

The presence of Hon. Wm. Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, in Vancouver to see for himself the conditions obtaining in respect of public works demanded is thus refrered to by the Vancouver World:

The presence of the Minister of Public Works is the more welcome when the character and complexion of the campaign throughout the Dominion on which the Liberal Party was triumphantly returned to power at last election is remembered. The visit emphasizes the fact to which The World has more than once called attention, that the Liberal Administration does not take the view to which governments which put the principle of Party before the principle of Nationality are said to be prone. Plainly, it does not take the view that the extent of its obligations to cities in particular constituencies is in direct proportion to the measure of support extended to it at the polls. The presence of the Dominion Minister of Public Works, and the purpose for which he is here, are convincing evidence to the average citizen that under the administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues Canadian citizenship is something higher than party considerations. The Minister of Public Works has come to investigate in person the claims of the city to attention from his Department at a time when the Liberal Party depends comparatively slightly on British Columbia for its strength in the Dominion. While it is true and proper that citizens welcome the Hon. Mr. Pugsley as a member of the Federal Government, it is equally fair and fitting, and more than equally true, that the healthy disposition to rise beyond the narrow outlook to which strong party sympathies tie the broadest minded will enable them to recognise the wholesome fact that the Liberal Government in power at Ottawa, of which Mr. Pugsley is a member, takes a broad, statesmanlike, patriotic view of its duties to the country at large, irrespective altogether of the support which the Liberal Party received in particular constituencies in the Dominion at last General Election.

A STRIFE BREEDER

The Toronto News in the course of one of its almost daily strife-breeding articles, says:

"The truth is that the opponents of the Government attack its record. The nationality of the Prime Minister is not an issue. It is one of the boasts of the Canadian people that neither race nor creed is any bar to public preferment. It will be an ill day for Canada if any other condition ever obtains."

In printing rubbish of this kind in regard to the Government "record" and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the News knows that it is giving publicity to what nine-tenths of its readers know to be absurd assertion, unwarranted by any foundation of fact.

every elector knows that in the last Dominion election contest "the opponents of the Government," did not attack the political record of the Government or its candidates, but exploited what the Government didn't do and never intended to do, rehashed local issues that had no reference to the political questions at issue and that the weight of attack was against Laurier and the religious minority. Broad issues relating to national politics were negligible quantities in the campaign as conducted by the Conservatives, especially in the sub-current-department. What had the "Duty of the Hour" to do with the attack on the Government record?" Why was it circulated secretly and sedulously? The News may deceive itself, but it can't deceive the public; even its own readers who, while they are willing to profit by its strife-breeding crusade, know that the expedients to hide its purpose are as misleading and meaningless as Sir James Whitney's attempts to explain away the confiscating effects of his power legislation.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sir E. P. Morris, premier of Newfoundland, says that enough men to man twenty Dreadnoughts can be secured from among the fishermen of that colony.

The way Vancouverites took Hon. Mr. Pugsley over their harbour at low tide while their talk was high tide, in order that he might be impressed with the necessity of dredging and improving "The Lion Gateway of the Orient" illustrates their ability to make the most of a situation.

THE ECONOMIES CONTINUE

(Kingston Whig.)

The Intercolonial Board of Management is pursuing its economic policy, and with results which must be commended by those who want to see the same business spirit exhibited in public as in private ownership. It has been the bane of this institution that in the past, in spite of all that has been attempted in the way of reform, there have been expenses which were undue and unattending, the management of any railway by a company or private corporation.

The road was a political conception, and for political reasons men were appointed to it and continued in its service long after their usefulness appeared to be gone. Every feature in connection with it had some handicap. Sooner or later there had to be a change, and it is now coming to pass. It is to the credit of Hon. Mr. Graham that he primarily gave the matter his attention. He made an inspection of the road. He looked into every department of it. He saw that there was need of retrenchment, and that it had to set in systematically. The next move was to secure the men who would enter upon the work, and having begun it continue until the end.

The board, as finally constituted, with the old manager and the deputy minister of railways, as members, and having associated with them an expert railway man, has been at work about six months, and already many thousands of dollars a month have been saved. The working staff has been reduced, the contracts have been revised. The waste and unnecessary expense in every direction have been cut off. There is the nearest approach to business management and public ownership possible, and the railway department, before the next meeting of parliament, will demonstrate the wisdom of this new departure.

It was authorized with some misgiving, and it has ben contemplated in a critical and kindly spirit. Now Mr. Graham is making good his promises, and the premier has been realizing his expectations in one of his latest colleagues.—Kingston Whig.

TUMOR OF YEARS GROWTH

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Eleven years ago I went to the Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering with a growth in the womb. The doctors said it was a tumor, and could not be removed, as it would cause instant death. They found that other organs were affected and said I could not live more than six months in the condition I was in. After I came home I saw your advertisement in the paper and commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it constantly for two years, and still take it at times, and both my husband and myself claim that it was the means of saving my life. I highly recommend it to suffering women."—Mrs. ORILLA BRADLEY, 264 Johnson Ave., Winnipeg, Manitoba.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy—tumor. If you have mysterious pains, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills.

WATER COMMISSIONERS RETURN FROM THEIR TRIP

he went out with us to the Pumping Station.

"The water supply is obtained from the river—pumped first into the settling basin, 1020 feet long by about 200 feet wide, and from 15 feet to 18 feet deep. The water in the river is very highly coloured, but a large portion of the suspended matter is deposited in this basin. The water is pumped again from the basin through horizontal pressure filters to the city. The filters are round cylinders, similar in appearance to steam boilers, about 9 feet in diameter, and 16 feet long. The water enters in at the top, and is forced down through the filtering material, and through small openings distributed over the bottom into the mains for city use. There is a loss in pressure of from three (3) to eight (8) lbs., per square inch in the operation—depending on the water consumption and the conditions of the filters. The filtering material used here is sea sand brought from New Jersey, the cylinder being two-thirds filled with the sand, then about 1 foot of coke on the top of it. Alum is used as a coagulant, being forced inteo the water at every stroke of the pumps. This is extracted in the filter. The pumps are operated by steam—the fuel being natural gas at a cost of 10c per thousand cubic feet. Since the adoption of natural gas, the amount spent for fuel has been reduced 50 per cent. To provide an extra supply in case of fire there is a large stand pipe, and an additional pumping well. Close to the pumping plant is the city street lighting plant. Here they have gas engines also operated by natural gas with a producer gas plant in case the natural gas supply fails. The City Engineer, under the direction of the Water Commissioners, has charge of the Water works.

Excels Peterborough

"Chatham excels Peterborough in its municipal building, and the condition of its principal streets. Fourteen miles of these streets are paved—the Main Street with vitrified brick, and the residence streets with bitulithic and concrete. Most of the roadways on the residential streets are but 20 feet or 24 feet wide—where the streets themselves are 100 feet wide. There are very many beautiful residences, but, as the water service, to which is connected a lawn, bath or closet, is supplied through water meter, the lawns are not as green as those in Peterborough. The water rate for houses with these conveniences and connections is 20c per thousand gallons, less 12½ per cent., for prompt payment.

St. Thomas

"We arrived at St. Thomas on Wednesday evening, and in the morning we were taken charge of by Mr. George K. Crocker, Chairman of Board of Water Commissioners, Mr. James A. Bell, City Engineer, and Lieut.-Col. McLachlin, Analytical Chemist, and driven out to the Pumping Station about a mile outside the city. The pumping here is also done by steam—the total capacity of the pumps being nine million gallons for twenty-four hours. The sources of supply is Kettle Creek and Artesian Wells. Just at present they are having some difficulty with their water supply—there being a slight odour connected with it, which is said to be from Algae—a vegetable growth formed where the water from the wells is exposed to the air, or comes in contact with the creek water, so just now the creek water is being used exclusively—being pumped direct through the filters into the city mains. The system of filteration here is the same as at Chatham, but much more extensive—crushed quartz being used as a filtering material. There are two batteries of three filters each, having a total capacity of three million gallons of filtered water per day. The plant here is kept in perfect order, and reflects great credit on the City Engineer, and those in charge. The fuel used is hard and soft coal screenings. We were particularly interested in the Laboratory of Lieut.-Col. McLachlin in the City Buildings. He has a complete outfit for testing water, milk, etc., and during 1908, he made one hundred and two (102) bacterial examinations of the city water, and, although considerable creek water is used, the Colon Bacillus was absent in every test made of the filtered water. The testing apparatus was provided by the Water Commissioners, and Lieut.-Col. McLachlin is paid a small sum per wek to keep up the tests. He also does very considerable microscopical work for the doctors of the city.

The Railway City

"St. Thomas is decidedly a railroad city. The population is 14,500. It is the headquarters in Canada for the N.Y.C. Lines (M.C.Ry) and six other railways pass through it. The main business street is very wide, and paved with brick for about one and a half miles. Many other streets are also paved. The City Building is very fine indeed. The city offices are located in the same building—the council chamber being so large that it is now used for church services, while a Methodist Church is being re-built. It seats about 400, besides the council. the City Engineer, Mr. James A. Bell, has charge, under the Commissioners, of the Water Works, in addition to his other numerous duties, and he appears to be extremely capable. We are indebted to the three gentlemen named above for very courteous treatme and much valuable information.

"On the whole I am pleased that we took even this hurried trip, but whether the system as used in these places is just what is required for Peterborough the Commissioners are not now prepared to say. We hope to make an examination of the newly installed ozonization plant in Lindsay, and also to go into the matter of slow sand filteration, but the Commissioners are unanimous in the idea that, after the present work is completed of building the new dam, and increasing the pumping supply, the matter of efficient, and proper filteration must be taken up."

Mr. W. H. Moore

Mr. W. H. Moore had the following to say to the Examiner:

"We were most kindly received and everything was done on the officials to make our visit both interesting and instructive, not only in relation to the object in view, but generally as to the conduct of their affairs, relating to water supply. Their filtration processes are alike, in using what is known as mechanical filtration. At Chatham the water is taken from the Thames river, which in its raw state is not considered suitable for drinking purposes. The same may be said of St. Thomas, whose supply comes from the Kettle Creek, in part, a somewhat turbid stream. But the city also uses water taken from about thirty wells, having a depth of from 80 to 108 feet, which, of itself flows freely to the surface and is gathered and carried by conduits to a large basin and thence to the filter and the pumps, in quantity over one million galleas per 24 hours. They are at present troubled somewhat with Algae, a diminutive water weed, but it is expected this will be got rid of quickly.

The mechanical process has an excellent effect on the appearance of the water and the Commissioners were assured it almost wholly removed bacterial matter, and it could be seen that it also removed vegetable matter, the water coming from the filters in a most attractive condition. These filters are faster than sand filters, and cost much less. Sand and coke are the chief ingredients used and both cities are well satisfied with the results. A large amount of information was gained and can be turned to good purpose, in Peterborough, it is hoped, in the near future. The country about is flat and almost prairie-like in its very level character. There are of course no water powers, and the supply of water appears small, when compared with the flow of the Otonabee. In its raw state, except the springs, it is far inferior to ours. The cities and the country about appear very prosperous indeed. Chatham has fourteen miles of streets paved with vitrified brick. In St. Thomas, which consists of a street about a mile in length, this highway is paved in like manner, which gives a very finished appearance. Their city halls and public buildings are features of which they may well be proud; and their stores compare most favourably with ours. St. Thomas has a room in its City Hall, set apart for the chemical analysis of the of the water, with a complete set of appliances in charge of their Chemist, Mr. McLachlin, who most kindly explained their use and illustrated their wonderful efficiency in detecting the presence of bacteria in both water and milk. During last year he made 102 tests of the city water.

"We gladly acknowledge the most courteous treatment in both cities, and the large amount of information they were able to give, which we believe may be turned to good effect in Peterborough, in due time.

Mr. W. H. Hill was also seen by the Examiner to-day and stated that one thing that impressed him forcibly with the trip that it was not possible for the authorities of a place like Peterborough to visit other places of the same size without picking up some valuable information. During their visit to Chatham and St. Thomas the Commissioners had secured some useful suggestions that will prove of benefit to Peterborough.

The streets in both places were far ahead of Peterborough's thoroughfares. In St. Thomas the residential streets are from twenty to twenty-four feet in width, are paved with brick and stone and are kept very clean. Peterborough has much to learn from the Western towns in the way of keeping the streets in good order. Mr. Hill speaks in terms of the highest praise of the treatment given the Commissioners in both St. Thomas and Chatham.

Tied Her Little Sister To The Tail Of A Cow

Horrible Deed of a Wicked Child—Youngster's Skull Was Fractured and She Was Dead When Parents Came.

MOTHER GOES INSANE

Special to The Examiner.

Paris, July 23rd.—One of those absolutely incomprehensive acts of which little children will sometimes be guilty is reported from the neighborhood of Le Mans. A farmer and his wife, being busy in their yard, had sent their elder girl, who is only seven years of age, to keep an eye on some cows, which were in a field close by. Off she set, accompanied by the younger child, who was not more than three years old, and who was in high glee at the prospect. From time to time one of the parents looked over the hedge to see that everything was going on nicely, but at one moment they proceeded to an adjoining field, and then the elder child taking advantage of their absence, proceeded to attach the little one to the tail of the cow. Having done this she beat the animal to make it run. When the parents, hearing screams, rushed up and stopped the cow, the poor child was already dead with a fractured skull. The unhappy mother's grief and despair were so great that she has lost her reason.

Many Spend Summer At Picturesque Mount Julian

View From the Mount Well Worth the Journey—Guests There This Season Have Been Very Plentiful

A LITTLE HISTORY

Special to The Examiner.

Mount Julian, Stoney Lake, July 23.—Mount Julian is second to none among the present summer resorts for beauty, popularity and convenience and has besides the added distinction of being the first of the first of the number on Stoney Lake. The name Mount Julian was given to the beautiful mountain to the West and has since been applied to the summer resort and then to the Post Office. The view from the mountain of the lake and islands cannot be equalled or surpassed on Kawartha Lakes and when on the steamer coming on one cannot but admire the beauty of the gentle landscape.

Amongst the conveniences of Mt. Julian are the telephone connection and its regular boat service as the daily mail makes it imperative for steamers to call while all tourists' supplies can be obtained at its general stores. The present hotel was built in 1871 by the late Oliver Church for Mr. A. Bertrand and an addition made to it by Mr. Charles Armstrong in 1899, followed by cottages erected by the present owner, Mr. Wm. Thompson in 1903. The season in June this year began well as a great number of guests were entertained and since the 1st of July the following are some who have registered there:

Mr. W. Lapp, W. E. Blake, Fred P. Maddox, E. McKay, J. J. Wallace, P. H. Armstrong, A. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Magill and Miss Bruce of Toronto.

J. C. Oatway, F. C. Pierce, G. Van Howson of Rochester.

COMPOSER'S WIFE SENT TO JAIL ON CHARGE OF SLANDER

Special to The Examiner.

Rome, July 23.—Signora Puccini, the wife of the well known musician who composed "Madam Butterfly," and other operas, has been sentenced by the tribunal at Lucca to five months and five days imprisonment for slander.

Early this year she dismissed a young chambermaid named Dorietta Manfredit, alleging that the girl had been too familiar with Signor Puccini.

The girl was grief-stricken at this charge, and she eventually committed suicide.

Her family brought an action against Signora Puccini, who, in addition to being committed to prision, has been ordered to pay a heavy fine, and the costs of the suit. She will probably appeal against the sentence.

KAISER HAS NOVEL IDEA IN CONNECTION WITH BATHS

Special to The Examiner.

Berlin, July 23.—Whilst the Kaiser was in England he was shown some workmen's cottages with arrangements for baths. On his return he determined to introduce improved arrangements of a similar nature on his own estates.

His Majesty has now approved of an ingenious system whereby it is not necessary to set aside a special space for a bathroom. The new Kaiser bath says the "Graureus Gesellige Zeitung," can be converted into a washing trough and a dinner table.

The Berlin papers speak disparagingly of the Emperor's scheme and question whether it will suit the workmen's taste.

Peterborough Gets Another Month's Option On Burleigh Falls And Will Get An Engineer's Report On Same

Long Drawn Out Meeting Last Night—Directors of Power Company Met the Council and Wrestled With Problem Which Has Been Months Under Discussion.

A LAST OPPORTUNITY

The BurleighFallsPower problem continues to be one of the knottiest that has confronted the Council this year. It was broached three months ago and an option was given the city, during which steps were to be taken in deciding what would be done with the proposal made by the Central Ontario Power Co., who own the power. Practically nothing was accomplished until the time limit was reached and an extension of fifteen days was granted the Council. The sum asked by the Company was $125,000. This was generally looked upon by the aldermen as exhorbitant and it was decided to offer $50,000. The company refused this counter proposition and at a conference of the Council and a representation of the directors and shareholders of the company last night the final terms the company said they would agree to were tendered.

Mr. McLaughlin, solicitor for the company, stated that a meeting of the directors had been held in Toronto on Wednesday evening, and the final price had been determined upon. He had been authorized to say:

That the company would accept $120,000 for Burleigh Falls Power to be paid in 4 per cent. bonds, one half to begin to bear interest October 1st, 1909, and the other half to begin to bear interest in three years.

That is interest on $60,000 would begin in October and the other $60,000 would not bear interest for three years.

The Council considered that it would be most inadvisable to proceed in the matter until they had the report of an independent engineer. Mr. McLaughlin stated that three months had been spent and the city had taken no steps in that direction and the directors intended to leave Burleigh open and accept the first offer that was most favourable at the same time intimating that there were gentlemen interested in it with a view to forming a company to purchase it. It was finally decided to give the city a further option of one month.

The representatives of the company then retired at the request of the Mayor. What would be the next step on the City's part was then fully discussed. It was finally moved by Aldermen Morgan and McIntyre that Mr. R. B. Rogers be appointed engineer to make a report on Burleigh Falls Power, the cost of development and the cost of transmission to the city. Aldermen Buller and Bradburn moved in amendment that the question be referred back to the Power Committee with authority to appoint an engineer. The motion carried by the following vote. Ayes—Aldermen Turner, Morgan, Duffus, McIntyre, Gillespie, Duncan and Metherall. Nays—Aldermen Phelan, Bradburn, Buller and Morrow. Alderman Hicks was absent.

Such is the present situation.

The Directors

The representatives of the company were Dr. Adams, vice-president; R. S. Hudson, J. A. Culverwell, managing director, and Col. Harry Ward, ex-M.P. Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C.; Mr. D. W. Dumble and Mr. A. P. Poussette were also present.

Mr. Culverwell introduced the visitors and briefly reviewed the situation. Referring to the engineers' reports, which had been presented to the company he stated that no one had disputed them nor could they.

He was satisfied that the report of another engineer would endorse these reports.

Mr. McLaughlin thanked the Mayor for calling the meeting on such short notice and was pleased to see the aldermen out in such large numbers. In consulting with the company before first meeting the Council he had suggested that a figure be presented which would appeal to the electors as being wholly in their interests. "I did not want to have a large price put on it to give me considerable leaway. I do not believe in doing business in that way. I believe if the ratepayers clearly understood the proposition they would support it."

One hundred and twenty thousand dollars was not a big price for the power that Burleigh would give the city. The Government has a dam there and agrees to maintain it. Plans and specifications are now being prepared for a new daw at Burleigh nad the work would probably be commenced this year, and in one year there would likely be a new dam entirely completed. Orillia paid $75,000 for a dam to develop from 1,800 to 1,600 h.p. and this was only one of three which cost together $225,000. "If you had to build a dam it would cost as much as we are asking for the power."

With Burleigh developed the city would have a power which it could sell at a lower price than any city in the Dominion.

Nature has been very munificent in sharing its gifts with Peterborough and if the city did not progress as it ought, Providence could not be blamed. If the power were sold above cost it would receive a big revenue, but if only at cost they would find companies grabbing at the offer that could be made and the city's development would soon be noticed to spring ahead. "The ratepayers are not incurring a debt, they are making an investment."

The reservoir alone is worth more than the whole cost of Burleigh. With Burleigh on a river by itself it would not be worth the reservoir, as the reservoir will develop in itself 14,000 horse power. It would not pay Peterborough to develop small water powers. Burleigh Falls is the only power for this city to purchase. There is the quantity there and the development is cheap. The power from Burleigh in Peterborough will be one-third the cost of power that Western Ontario towns and cities are paying.

The whole future of Peterborough depends entirely upon the people of to-day and upon cheap water power. The city is surrounded by all the gifts that nature could bestow, but unless these are made the best use of the city will suffer and will soon be one of the lesser cities of Ontario.

Mr. Hudson

Mr. Hudson, general manager of the Canada Permanent Mortgage Company, was the next speaker, and he opened with the supposition that the council was interested in the progress of Peterborough, and that the cheap power was one of the greatest factors, next to transportation facilities. Other towns are paying upwards of $25 per h.p. Engineers state that Burleigh can be developed and brought to Peterborough for less than $10 a h.p. Is there a sane man in this city would say that Burleigh Falls would not be a good thing for Peterborough? That the power is there and can be developed at the price stated is borne out by engineers who stake their reputations as consulting engineers upon their reports. Burleigh Falls is a commercial proposition. If it is true then Peterborough has one of the finest things they can possibly secure. He referred to the people in Peterborough as being lax in the past and allowed many good things to go away because they were not looked after. For instance the northern trade has been largely cut off. If this opportunity is lost it will be another matter for the future generation to regret.

Other Directors

Dr. Adams, the vice-president of the Central Ontario Power Company, said he was not a preacher or a speaker, but a practitioner, and if Peterborough did not take this offer the company would develop it.

Col. Harry A. Ward, ex-M.P., said he had always regarded Burleigh Falls as a valuable asset and he thought that if the figures given by the engineers were in any measure correct and Peterborough could get power cheaper than any other town in Canada, then as business men the Peterborough Council should take hold of this proposition. The company will be very glad if the city accepts this offer, still if they do not, the company will then have to go ahead and find some means of making it pay them. There are financial propositions right in this city who are waiting to take up the matter of purchasing Burleigh Falls.

To Mr. Dumble, Mr. McLaughlin stated that Orillia was receiving $16 a h.p. making a profit of $4.00 on each horse power. Mr. Hudson stated in answer to a question from Alderman Bradburn that there was something else besides power inducements in Toronto, which attracted many manufactures, but he pointed out that those were few in comparison to the many factories which prefer cheap power to the particular market opportunities presented by Toronto. Power is delivered to that city by the Hydro-Electric commission at $18.10 a h.p.

Alderman Bradburn suggested that the company be paid for the amount of power the city could sell. Alderman Morrow suggested that the report of an independent engineer be secured. He thought that if the power could be delivered to Peterborough at $7.60 a h.p. the price was a fair one, but if not, then the company should make provision for a reduction of the price.

Mr. McLaughlin scored a point by saying that if the Power Committee had engaged an engineer they would not dispute the reports the company presented, and there would be no discussion on that point. Mr. A. P. Poussette spoke briefly regarding Burleigh and the rate at which it had increased in value during recent years.

Option Extended

After the directors had agreed to extend their option, the committee considered the step to take next. Alderman Metherall thought the only thing to do was to engage an engineer and the city would know for its own satisfaction whether the estimates of the other engineers had been padded or not. Alderman Bradburn considered that a month was too short a time. Six weeks was needed. Alderman Morgan claimed that the report could be obtained well inside of the allotted time.

Alderman Gillespie favoured a longer extension because an engineer might be too busy to accept the engagement at once. Alderman Buller considered that $120,000 was far too much and that the power would not begin to pay for itself in three years as stated and consequently there would be heavy taxes to be paid. The result of the meeting was the passing of the above mentioned motion.

DULUTH-SUPERIOR STOCK

Wide Market Expected for Shares Now Offering at $91 Each by Forget and Ames Firms.

The Examiner is informed that the prospectus offering 15,000 Common shares of the Duluth-Superior Traction Co. at $91 per share by Messrs. A. E. Ames & Co., Limited, Toronto, and Rodolphe Forget, M.P., Montreal, is being widely published. The stock is to be listed in Montreal, Toronto and New York, and with the view of thoroughly distributing the shares in the hands of investors the public offer is being made in the principal newspapers of Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London and Winnipeg, in Canada; and Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, Minnesota. The firms in charge of the flotation feel that the shares of a street railway company in cities so accessible will become very popular on the Canadian Exchanges, in view of the broad character and lengthy term of the franchises, the four per cent. dividend rate and the low price at which the stock is being put on the market. Messrs. Forget and Ames join the Board of Directors of the Duluth-Superior Traction Co. and of the operating company, the Duluth Street Railway Co., at the next annual meetings.

The accounts and balance sheet of the Company are certified to by Messrs. Marwick, Mitchell & Co., who are also Auditors of the Twin City Rapid Transit Co., the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway, etc., and also by Messrs. Clarkson & Cross, the well-known Canadian accountants. The franchises are vouched for by Messrs. Thomson, Tilley & Johnston, of Toronto, who investigated them on behalf of the Canadian interests, and the vendors also have on file, we are informed, a detailed letter re franchises from Messrs. # Peterborough Continues Among The Leading Industrial Cities

Statistics For June Shows an Increase of 119 Per Cent. in Building Operation Over Same Month Last Year—Up With Principal Cities of Ontario.

COMPILED STATEMENT

From a standpoint of building progress, June was a month of universal gains and no decreases. Extraordinary high percentages were attained in all sections of the country and the average increase for the month, 102 per cent., as based on the comparative figures supplied Construction by seventeen of the twenty cities reporting, exceeds any of the big successive gains made heretofore this year, and is probably the greatest advance ever recorded in the building history of the Dominion. Two cities exceeded the two million mark, another had over half that amount, and ten additional places registered totals varying from one to six hundred thousand dollars, for permits issued during the month.

Winnipeg shows the largest volume of new work undertaken, her total being $2,041,645, as aginst $802,200 for the previous June. Toronto is second in this respect and Montreal next, their figures being $2,011,545, and $1,170,790, in order named, as compared with $1,055,405 and $559,972, for the increasing period of last year; the relative increase in all three cases being 154 per cent., 90 per cent. and 109 per cent., respectively. The remarkable rapidity with which these three cities are growing, while clearly seen in the comparative amounts of the past few months, can more fully be realized when compared with the growth of the larger cities in the United States. None, in fact, aside from New York, Chicago, and one or two of the other large cities, are making greater headway, and even these places are not showing a greater proportionate expansion.

The largest increase per cent for the month has been recorded by Moose Jaw, which comes to the crest of the wave with a striking gain of 1056 per cent. This place, it will be noted, was one of the three to show a falling off last month, her loss being 19 per cent.

Regina, of the same province, shows an advance of 61.53 per cent., while Saskatoon's enormous total, that of $149,000, although no figures for June, 1908, were submitted, makes it quite plain that this thriving city has met with no reversal.

In Alberta, Calgary and Edmonton still continue to forge strongly ahead, each adding to their former increases by another elative advance of 37 per cent. and 106 per cent.

The second largest increase for the month is noted in the case of Brandon, which over-reaches last year's figures for the corresponding peiod by 157 per cent.; while other western cities of much larger magnitude which show a decided advance, are Vancouver and Victoria, both augmenting the aggregate amount of their previous consecutive monthly gains by a further gain of 104 per cent., and 21 per cent., respectively.

Reports from vaious centres throughout Ontario indicate plainly that building operations are going on at a tremendous rate. In addition to Toronto's increase, Fort William reclaimed herself from her decrease of 5 per cent. in May, by a gain of 94 per cent. Peterborough made an increase of 119 per cent.; London, 106; Berlin, 56; and Hamilton, 5 per cent. Windsor's total investment for the month was $48,550, while the value of the permits of Port Arthur amounted to $17,600. Fort William's aggregate total for the first six months of this year, that of $2,000,000, is one third again as great as she recorded for the whole of 1908, and equally as good a showing has been made in several of the other cities of the province.

Rapid strides forward are also evidently being in the extreme eastern section. Both the reports from Halifax and Sydney show a most wholesome condition. The former's gain for the month is 7 per cent., while the latter's increase of 130 per cent. after the unusually active month in May, is really remarkable.

All the cities in the list send in encouraging reports which express the outlook as being decidedly favourable.

SCOTCH STRIKE

Crisis in the Coal Strike Accentuated by the Owners Posting Notices Inforcing a Reduction in Wages.

80,000 ARE AFFECTED

Special to The Examiner.

London, July 23.—The crisis in the Scottish coal trade accentuated when the owners decided to post notices enforcing a reduction in wages which involves a sum of £625,000 a year.

It is feared that 80,000 miners will resist this reduction, and go on strike, and the men's leaders hint at forcing the Miner's Federation of Great Britain to bring about a national struggle.

THROWN FROM HIS BUGGY IN SWAMP

Blairton Man Suffering From Paralysis Was Unable to Move Until Help Came.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred in the swamp, about two miles east of Havelock, on the Cordova Road, on Saturay afternoon. Mr. T. C. Caskey, of Blairton, an aged man, who has suffered two paralytic strokes, was driving along the swamp road, when he came to a pond of water, which, from the road, did not appear deep. He drove the horse to one side, but as soon as it had left the road it sank knee-deep in the soil of soft muck, followed closely by the front wheel of the buggy. The sudden drop of the wheel threw Mr. Caskey headforemost out on the hard ground, from which position he was unable to move until help arrived. A team of horses had to be used to pull the buggy out of the hole.—Norwood Register.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN POLICE SCENE

Paris, July 23.—Another scandal in the Russian Political Police is announced by M. Wladimir Burtsef, the writer who revealed the Azeff affair. Everybody knows that an unofficial, or semi-official branch of the Russian Secret Political Police exists in Paris. The present chief of that organization, appointed in 1905, is, according to M. Burtsef, a person of mysterious identity, though the name under which he goes is not concealed. Who and what is he? M. Burtsef, in a public letter to the Minister of Justice, says that he long wondered, and has now found out. He is one and the same as a man convicted in July, 1890, by the Paris police courts as the prime mover in a dynamite conspiracy, and was sentenced then by default to five years' imprisonment. Nineteen years ago the Paris police discovered that a plot was being hatched to blow up the then Emperor of Russia, Alexander III. and that the bombs were being manufactured in Paris. A number of conspirators were arrested, convicted and sentenced. But the ringleader escaped, and was tried by default.

Four years ago a new chief was appointed to the directorship of the Russian Secret Political Police in Paris, which is the most important of its kind to Europe, outside Russia, as it surveys from here all the Russian "subjects" in Switzerland, England and elsewhere. So. M. Burtsef now declares to the Minister of Justice that the ringleader condemned by default nineteen years ago for conspiring against the life of Alexander, and the chief of the Russian Secret Political Police in Paris since 1905, are one and the same man. M. Jaures, in the Humanite, takes the "New Azeff Affair" up, and points out that although, owing to the lapse of time, since the conviction, no prosecution can now be instituted, yet something may be done, inasmuch as the person in question was made a Knight of the Legion of Honour by the French Government, and "Burtsef will prove that the noble knight is an 'agent provocateur,' formerly condemned by the French courts for preparation of a 'dynamics outrage.'" The Prime Minister, M. Clemenceau, has ordered an inquiry into M. Burtsef's allegations.

Used Babes as Shields.

New York, July 23.—A pitched battle was fought at pier No. 8, Brooklyn, yesterday, between immigration inspectors and a band of 24 gypsies, who were being deported to South America.

Enraged at the immigration commission's decision, after they claimed to have established that they possessed $1,500 in cash, the wanderers refused to board the steamer Verdi, which was to take them back to Buenos Ayres.

In the heat of the melee several children of the band were injured because their parents, who carried them, used them as shields, and in some cases pushed the little bodies against the inspectors, who were trying to drive them from a tug on to the steamer. One little girl was still unconscious when the vessel sailed.

The band was finally driven on to the dock, where a reinforcement of longshoremen got them aboard the Verdi.

Fishery Case May Be Postponed.

Ottawa, July 23.—Contrary to general expectations the fisheries dispute between Newfoundland and the United States will not be referred to at The Hague conference this year, but will probably be referred to next year.

Meanwhile Hon. A. B. Aylesworth and J. S. Ewart, K.C., are in London preparing Canada's case along with Sir Robert B. Finley, the distinguished Scottish lawyer.

Mr. Aylesworth will proceed to Vienna in a few weeks, where he will consult with an ear specialist regarding his deafness, which occasioned him much discontent during last session of Parliament. He will return to Canada in October.

Plate Stands Test.

London, July 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Harold A. Richardson of London, Ont., who has been here two years in connection with an improved process for the manufacture of armor plate, seen by the Canadian Associated Press at the Hyde Park Hotel, said he had scored a great success in the tests of his plate by the naval authorities, which culminated on Saturday at Whale Island. A six-inch plate was fired at from a distance of 120 feet by a 9.2 inch gun, with armor-piercing capped shells, which was a severe test. No impression was made on the plate, though the impact shattered the shell into a thousand fragments.

Southern Republics to Confer.

Washington, July 23.—Official information reached the State Department yesterday that with a view to averting possible hostilities over the arbitration dispute, the Governments of Bolivia and Peru, the latter the beneficiary of the boundary award, have agreed to open negotiations directly with each other in the hope of arranging a modification of the Argentine territorial decision, which will be satisfactory to all parties concerned.

Two Drown In Creek.

St. Thomas, July 23.—Word was received here yesterday that two children of John Marlatt of Vienna were drowned in Otter Creek Wednesday. His 12-year-old girl waded into the creek and got into a hole. Her 14-year-old brother attempted a rescue, but failed, and both children were drowned.

Dr. Briggs, Justice Maclaren and H. H. Fudger are the Canadian representatives.

The conference is held every ten years for the purpose of discussing all problems relating to Methodism and the work of Methodism throughout the world. It receives the statistics of all the different Methodist bodies, from which a careful tabulation is made to show the growth every decade.

Not a Suicide.

Bayfield, July 23.—That she came to her death from causes unknown to them, but that she did not commit suicide, was the verdict of the jury empanelled by Coroner Dr. Shaw of Clinton to enquire into the death of Mrs. W. J. Burns of this village, who was found dead in her house with a stocking knotted around her throat on Saturday last.

The jury convened here yesterday afternoon and after hearing the medical evidence produced by Crown Attorney Seager of Goderich, which went to show that there was no evidence of death by strangulation, brought in the above verdict.

The crown attorney declares that the mystery of Mrs. Burns' death will never be solved. In the meantime a daughter, who is demented, will be placed in an asylum.

Farmer Runs Down Auto.

Springfield, Mass., July 23.—The order of events as depicted in comic weeklies was reversed by a farmer on a load of hay, who ran down a touring car in Main street, near Bridge street. The chauffeur drove the automobile part way on the sidewalk in a vain attempt to escape the load of hay. The farmer was greatly incensed when stopped by a policeman, who demanded his name.

"Never heard of such doin's in my town," he said testily. "Ain't a load of hay big enough for any machine to see coming and ain't it entitled to either side of the road?"

Decoration 46 Years Late.

Ann Harbor, Mich., July 23.—Jos. Kemp of this city a few days ago received a medal of honor for services performed on the Wilderness battlefields, May 6, 1864, when he was a mere lad of 20 years, a member of Co. F, Fifth Michigan Volunteers. He dashed into the ranks of the enemy, capturing the flag of the 31st North Carolina, tearing it from the staff which the colors-bearer held too tightly to be wrenched away.

In some way the letter from his colonel commending his bravery was mislaid and was only found a few days ago.

Globe Girdling for Big Purse.

Last month the greatest assemblage of war craft in the history of the British navy took place off Portsmouth. This week the same ships entered the Thames and the public was able to see the largest fleet that ever anchored so near London.

On Saturday the ships will gather at Portsmouth, where, on July 31, they will be reviewed by the King, and on the following Monday, the Emperor of Russia will have an opportunity to see them when his yacht comes to Dover for the meeting with the King.

Says Mines Are Unsafe.

Glace Bay, July 23.—There is scarcely a ripple on the surface here yesterday to indicate any change in the situation, although the company reports a much larger output from the collieries.

Rumor says that conditions in the mine are growing dangerous. Skilled men have more than they can attend to and the great pressure is to get out coal regardless of the care of the mine. One man left No. 2 and said he would not stay in under present conditions as he recognized them unsafe.

I.C.R. Pays Dividend.

Ottawa, July 23.—The gross earnings of the Intercolonial Railway for April and May were $1,462,000. The June returns are not complete.

The art of manicure is many centuries old, having had its birth in the dim old convents of France, where the patient nuns practiced it on the hands of the noble ladies brought up within their walls.

The Dignified Frogs of Korea.

Frogs in Korea do not hop or jump. They walk like well ordered animals, quietly placing one foot after another until they arrive at the end of their journey. It is an amusing sight to one who has always seen the frog of America jump.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catalogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance :—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

FEATURES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

FLATER LOST HIS OWN GAME.

Montreal, July 22.—Flater's wild throw in the tenth inning gave Montreal the only run of the game. The Newark pitcher was in great form till the final, when he passed Joyce, hit Cockill and threw Corcoran's bunt to the bleachers before a man was out.

New York, July 22.—A wild throw of Chance's grounder by Pitcher Wiltz in the first inning, following a pass to Evers, and a lucky hit by Shreckard, enabled Chicago to score two runs to-day and put Chance on third. The Chicago manager tallied on Steinfeldt's sacrifice fly. This three run lead New York could not overcome, as Reulbach was in grand form and pitched his ninth successive victory. The score:

WHITE SOX FIFTH STRAIGHT.

Chicago, July 22.—Chicago scored its fifth consecutive victory to-day by winning a close game from Philadelphia, 4 to 3. Plank, usually a puzzle to the locals, was knocked off the slab in the seventh inning. Outfielder Welday, of Chicago, was released to the Providence Eastern League Club. Score:

|---|---|---|---|

CITY LEAGUE NOTES

The City League games will lose an enthusiastic rooter and the Cobalt country will be enlivened to-morrow by the departure from Peterborough of Ed. "General" Tighe, who left to-day for Cobalt. He will be a spectator at the Cobalt-Haileybury game to-morrow in which Yebbie Flaherty and Bill Cinnamon will be the Haileybury battery.

• • •

That T. A. S.-Park St. game to-morrow should be packed from top to bottom with excitement, and people with weak heart action are advised to stay at home. The Abstainers are weakened and leaderless, but they say that they will make Park St. think they have been in a ball game anyway. A win for the blue and white team sends them up on a level with the T.A.S.

• • •

The complexion of affairs in the City League has changed considerably during the last week. At first the T.A.S. looked like winners all over. They started out with four victories in succession, while the other teams were beating each other and for a while it looked as if they would gallop away with the championship without a defeat. A totally unexpected defeat at the hands of the Strathconas last Saturday, coupled with the defeat of the West Ends by the Park St. team, and the fact that three of their men are out of the city for to-morrow's game, makes the race a good deal tighter and anything is liable to happen. Park St. claim to see their way clear to the championship, but from here the Abstainers look like the one best bet, even if they happened to drop Saturday's game. Their opponents next week will be the demoralized West Ends, while the Park St. team will met the Straths, who just now are playing as good ball as any team in the League.

• • •

The Abstainers have four games to play, two with Park St., one with the Straths, and one with the West Ends. Two wins for them and a loss for Park St. will give the Abstainers the championship, and with their full team on again, the Coldwater team should easily win half of the remaining games of the schedule. However, as the poet says, there is no telling, and the developments of the next few Saturdays will be watched with interest.

• • •

The West Ends and Strathconas will play the 2 o'clock game to-morrow, and the Park St.-T.A.S. fixture will follow.

• • •

The team to represent the West Ends against the Strathconas in to-morrow's City League game will be as follows: Dawson or Menzies c, Rose or Kirn p, King 1b, Halpin 2b, Kirn or Rose ss, Gibson 3b, Fallon lf, Dickie cf, Seymour rf. The Westerners will make a big effort to stop the Straths.

• • •

The Straths team for to-morrow will be as follows: Andrus c, Ryan, Gorham or Hickey p, Heaslip 1b, Weatherstone 2b, Kendry ss, Ray 3s, Shaw lf, Curtis cf, Sheridan rf.

• • •

The T.A.S. team will be chosen from the following: McFadden c, Hayes, O'Brien, Callaghan, Cahill, C. Giroux, F. Derocher, Doherty, Corkery, Conroy, Neary.

PROCEEDINGS AT THE POLICE COURT

Number of Cases To-day and Fines Were Handed Out.

Variety was the feature of the police court proceedings this morning. Roland Carton was blacklisted in East Peterborough, and on a charge of being found drunk in a public place he was assessed $2.00. Had he been a resident of the western half of the county his roll, if he had any, would have been more heavily taxed.

Harold Clancy and Harry Larone were charged by Walter Kitney, caretaker of the Nicholls Oval, with having given him trouble, in the form of upsetting benches and general impudence. These boys, with two others, Melville Turner and Russel Long, were sitting on a bench watching a tennis game, when Clancy suggested that they go down town. All arose but one, and Clancy and Turner upset the bench to get him away from it. Turner then raised it on end and about that time Mr. Kitney hove in sight and ordered them to put it down. The boys gave him impudence, told him he had no authority, and when one of the tennis players reminded them that Mr. Kitney was caretaker they as much as asked him what he was "butting in" about.

Clancy was fined $2.00 and costs, amounting to $5.75, and Larone was discharged. Magistrate Dumble remarked that the boys must be taught to conduct themselves in their best manner in public places and horseplay had to be frowned down.

Two Dogs—One Tag.

Harry Brault and Roland Butcher had two bitches, but there was only one tag to show for them. Brault bought the tag and kept the receipt. In some manner the bitches were interchanged and Butcher got the one with the tag. Police Constable Meharry found a bitch at Brault's residence and noticed that it was tagless. Brault explained the matter in court and produced his certificate of purchase.

The affair seemed to be slightly mixed and to make matters short Magistrate Dumble asked who bought it. Butcher had not purchased a tag and he had to suffer for that negligence. "Two dollars and costs, altogether $4.60," was the decision, and Butcher had to buy a tag as well. The court suggested that the honest way was the better without exception, even in the simple matter of dog taxes. Butcher did not have the loose change and was given five days to get it.

Another "Blacklisted."

Robert Irwin, one of the blacklisted brethren, was found in the land of peaceful dreams produced by intoxication, on July 17. He had been listed 5th of May, and as this was his first offence he was fined only ten dollars and costs, amounting to $14.25 to be paid in ten days.

You Can Defy The SPRING FATIGUE

And nervous exhaustion, if you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood.

Are you going to go through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system?

It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blod, overcomes the fatigue, the weakness, the feelings of depression, and discouragement which come with spring.

The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest spring medicine because it is the greatest of all nerve restoratives. It forms the new, rich, red blood from which vigor, energy and nerve force are created.

If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, sharpen the appetite, improve digestion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint.

Mrs. John P. Shannon, Whitesides, N. S., writes: "I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down system."

There are three handsome cups offered for competition in the dinghy and canoe sailing races and silk pennants, gold and silver medals and other handsome trophies will be given as prizes in the other events. ## FFATURES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

FLATER LOST HIS OWN GAME.

Montreal, July 22.—Flater's wild throw in the tenth inning gave Montreal the only run of the game. The Newark pitcher was in great form till the final, when he passed Joyce, hit Cockill and threw Corcoran's bunt to the bleachers before a man was out.

Batteries: Savidge and Kirtchell for Montreal; Flater and Crisp for Newark.

ONE EASTERN GAME.

Toronto, July 22.—Rain prevented the Jersey City game in this city yesterday, the Providence game at Rochester and the Baltimore game at Buffalo.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

REULBACH HAD THE GOODS.

New York, July 22.—A wild throw of Chance's grounder by Pitcher Wiltz in the first inning, following a pass to Evers, and a lucky hit by Shreckard, enabled Chicago to score two runs to-day and put Chance on third. The Chicago manager tallied on Steinfeldt's sacrifice fly. This three run lead New York could not overcome, as Reulbach was in grand form and pitched his ninth successive victory. The score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 3 | 5 | 1 |
| New York | 1 | 4 | 2 |

Batteries — Reulbach and Archer; Wilts, Crandall and Myers and Schlei. Umpires—Klem and Johnstone.

Cincinnatti-Philadelphia two games postponed, rain. One game to-day, two on Saturday.

PIRATES PUT ON A FINISH.

Boston, July 22.—After being held to one hit for seven innings Pittsburg hammered out nine, including a double, triple and home run off White in the last two innings of to-day's game, and won easily by 9 to 0. The score:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pittsburg | 9 | 10 | 1 |
| Boston | 0 | 4 | 2 |

Batteries: Maddox and Gibson; White and Graham. Umpire—Rigler.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

TWO HITS OFF DOYLE.

Cleveland, July 22.—New York shut out Cleveland, 1 to 0, to-day. The game was twice interrupted by rain before finally being called at the end of the sixth inning. Cleveland lost a chance to tie the score when Hinchman was thrown out at the home plate in his effort to stretch a triple into a home run. A double-header will be played to-morrow. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cleveland | 0 | 2 | 0 |
| New York | 1 | 4 | 0 |

Batteries: Joss and Charles; Doyle and Kleinow. Umpires, Kerin and Sheridan.

WHITE SOX FIFTH STRAIGHT.

Chicago, July 22.—Chicago scored its fifth consecutive victory to-day by winning a close game from Philadelphia, 4 to 3. Plank, usually a puzzle to the locals, was knocked off the slab in the seventh inning. Outfielder Welday, of Chicago, was released to the Providence Eastern League Club. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chicago | 4 | 8 | 0 |
| Philadelphia | 3 | 8 | 0 |

Batteries — Smith and Sullivan; Plank, Bender and Thomas. Umpires—Evans and Perrine.

WADDELL IN PINCHES.

St. Louis, July 22.—Poor pitching caused Washington's defeat by St. Louis to-day, the count being 1 to 5. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| St. Louis | 5 | 5 | 0 |
| Washington | 1 | 9 | 0 |

Batteries—Waddell and Stephens; Groom, Witherup, Collins and Street. Umpires—O'Loughlin and Hurst.

KILLIAN TIGHTENED UP.

Detroit, July 22.—To-day's game was a great struggle until the eleventh, when Detroit mixed three hits with two passes and an error of judgment by Wolter and scored five runs. Boston could not hit Killian with men waiting to score. Score:

| | R. | H. | E. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Detroit | 6 | 8 | 0 |
| Boston | 0 | 6 | 1 |

Batteries—Killian and Schmidt; Arellanes, Wolter and Donohue. Umpires—Egan and Connelly.

CITY LEAGUE NOTES

The City League games will lose an enthusiastic rooter and the Cobalt country will be enlivened to-morrow by the departure from Peterborough of Ed. "General" Tighe, who left to-day for Cobalt. He will be a spectator at the Cobalt-Haileybury game to-morrow in which Yebbie Flaherty and Bill Cinnamon will be the Haileybury battery.

• • •

That T. A. S.-Park St. game to-morrow should be packed from top to bottom with excitement, and people with weak heart action are advised to stay at home. The Abstainers are weakened and leaderless, but they say that they will make Park St. think they have been in a ball game anyway. A win for the blue and white team sends them up on a level with the T.A.S.

• • •

The complexion of affairs in the City League has changed considerably during the last week. At first the T.A.S. looked like winners all over. They started out with four victories in succession, while the other teams were beating each other and for a while it looked as if they would gallop away with the championship without a defeat. A totally unexpected defeat at the hands of the Strathconas last Saturday, coupled with the defeat of the West Ends by the Park St. team, and the fact that three of their men are out of the city for to-morrow's game, makes the race a good deal tighter and anything is liable to happen. Park St. claim to see their way clear to the championship, but from here the Abstainers look like the one best bet, even if they happened to drop Saturday's game. Their opponents next week will be the demoralized West Ends, while the Park St. team will met the Straths, who just now are playing as good ball as any team in the League.

• • •

The Abstainers have four games to play, two with Park St., one with the Straths, and one with the West Ends. Two wins for them and a loss for Park St. will give the Abstainers the championship, and with their full team on again, the Coldwater team should easily win half of the remaining games of the schedule. However, as the poet says, there is no telling, and the developments of the next few Saturdays will be watched with interest.

• • •

The West Ends and Strathconas will play the 2 o'clock game to-morrow, and the Park St.-T.A.S. fixture will follow.

• • •

The team to represent the West Ends against the Strathconas in to-morrow's City League game will be as follows: Dawson or Menzies c, Rose or Kirn p, King 1b, Halpin 2b, Kirn or Rose ss, Gibson 3b, Fallon lf, Dickie cf, Seymour rf. The Westerners will make a big effort to stop the Straths.

• • •

The Straths team for to-morrow will be as follows: Andrus c, Ryan, Gorham or Hickey p, Heaslip 1b, Weatherstone 2b, Kendry ss, Ray 3s, Shaw lf, Curtis cf, Sheridan rf.

• • •

PROCEEDINGS AT THE POLICE COURT

Number of Cases To-day and Fines Were Handed Out.

Variety was the feature of the police court proceedings this morning. Roland Carton was blacklisted in East Peterborough, and on a charge of being found drunk in a public place he was assessed $2.00. Had he been a resident of the western half of the county his roll, if he had any, would have been more heavily taxed.

Harold Clancy and Harry Larone were charged by Walter Kitney, caretaker of the Nicholls Oval, with having given him trouble, in the form of upsetting benches and general impudence. These boys, with two others, Melville Turner and Russel Long, were sitting on a bench watching a tennis game, when Clancy suggested that they go down town. All arose but one, and Clancy and Turner upset the bench to get him away from it. Turner then raised it on end and about that time Mr. Kitney hove in sight and ordered them to put it down. The boys gave him impudence, told him he had no authority, and when one of the tennis players reminded them that Mr. Kitney was caretaker they as much as asked him what he was "butting in" about.

Clancy was fined $2.00 and costs, amounting to $5.75, and Larone was discharged. Magistrate Dumble remarked that the boys must be taught to conduct themselves in their best manner in public places and horseplay had to be frowned down.

Two Dogs—One Tag.

Harry Brault and Roland Butcher had two bitches, but there was only one tag to show for them. Brault bought the tag and kept the receipt. In some manner the bitches were interchanged and Butcher got the one with the tag. Police Constable Meharry found a bitch at Brault's residence and noticed that it was tagless. Brault explained the matter in court and produced his certificate of purchase.

The affair seemed to be slightly mixed and to make matters short Magistrate Dumble asked who bought it. Butcher had not purchased a tag and he had to suffer for that negligence. "Two dollars and costs, altogether $4.60," was the decision, and Butcher had to buy a tag as well. The court suggested that the honest way was the better without exception, even in the simple matter of dog taxes. Butcher did not have the loose change and was given five days to get it.

Another "Blacklisted."

Robert Irwin, one of the blacklisted brethren, was found in the land of peaceful dreams produced by intoxication, on July 17. He had been listed 5th of May, and as this was his first offence he was fined only ten dollars and costs, amounting to $14.25 to be paid in ten days.

You Can Defy The SPRING FATIGUE
And nervous exhaustion, if you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood.

Are you going to go through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system?

It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blod, overcomes the fatigue, the weakness, the feelings of depression, and discouragement which come with spring.

The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest spring medicine because it is the greatest of nerve restoratives. It forms the new, rich, red blood from which vigor, energy and nerve force are created.

If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint.

Mrs. John P. Shannon, Whiteside, N. S., writes: "I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down system."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

LINDSAY CHIEF HAS HARD TUSSLE WITH A TRAMP

FINALLY LANDS HIS MAN

Lindsay, July 22.—Chief of Police Vincent had an exciting encounter last evening, which was a very strenuous effort to say the least.

For some days the Chief has been on the look out for a hobo who has been hanging around the Ops swing bridge and in the woods opposite the Riverside cemetery.

For several nights the man has made his quarters in the Ops C.P.R. station and the residents of the southern part of the township became somewhat uneasy owing to his presnce there.

Last evening Chief Vincent started out in search of the individual, and about 9.30 ran across the tramp in one of the snow ploughs on a siding near the Grand Trunk station. He answered the description of the tramp seen in Ops and was a strapping fellowo with a bad look in his eye. The Chief ordered him to vacate the plough and in complying with the request he immediately threw the officer over the end of another plough. The Chief was quickly on his feet. Out came his baton and a few blows administered had the effect of cooling the man down for a time. He closed in on the Chief again but was given a few pointers on the manly art of self defence, which had a tendency to make him less pugnacious.

In walking along the track, however, the tramp picked up two large boulders with the intention of committing another assault upon the officer. The night being dark the chief would not have been able to dodge the stones had they been thrown. He therefore, pulled his revolver, and fired in the air, following up the fusilade with a charge on the hobo. A few blows administered on the solar plexus then brought the man to his senses, and with lamb-like meekness he agreed to go along with the officer to the cells.

It was an exciting struggle while it lasted and those who saw the tramp state that he was big enough to pummell two ordinary men. However, he ran up against a snag when he attempted to cross words with Chief Vincent.

A Stiff Sentence

This morning the tramp came up before Police Magistrate Jackson. Two charges were preferred against him—assault and vagrancy. He was given a six months term in central prison on each charge.

Rural Daily Mail Service For Smith And Ennismore Farmers

Arrangements have been made with the mail carrier between Peterborough and Ennismore to deliver a daily mail to all the farmers along the road he traverses, who have secured a letter box from the department and have complied with the simple requirements of placing it upon a post in front of their gates. Already there are thirteen farmers along this particular stage route who have secured boxes to enjoy this daily mail service, which they will readily appreciate as also the efforts of Hon. J. R. Stratton, M. P., who has been instrumental in having it established. The farmer pays three dollars to the department for a letter box which then belongs to him, and should he move he has the right to take it to his new residence. He is required to provide a post about 8 inches in diameter, 4 feet 3 inches above the ground and extending down three feet.

A canvas of the farmers along the stage route between Lakefield and Lakehurst was taken and only three signified their desire to have a daily mail service. It was therefore decided not to make any arrangements with the mail carrier along that road. The service between Peterborough and Warsaw will be established as soon as the farmers along the route signify their desire to have a daily mail and farmers residing on any existing daily stage route may obtain a daily mail service by taking the necessary steps and notifying the department that they desired mail boxes for daily service.

Several Ribs Broken In A Speedy Runaway Yesterday

Matthew McMahon, driver for the Central Milling Co., is suffering today from general bruises sustained in a runaway yesterday afternoon on Roger street, and Charlie Hewson, the littleson of John H. Hewson, head miller for the Central Milling Co., who was on the seat with Mr. McMahon, sustained severe injuries, having several ribs broken. One of the horses of the team had had a sore shoulder, which was almost better, but as a turn was made to Roger street the pole renewed the hurt. The animal kicked several times and one leg straddled the pole. Both horses became nervous and to make matters worse the pole was broken. They started to run away, but Mr. McMahon tried to steer them towards a pole. Instead they swerved across the street, the pole caught in the road and the waggon was thrown to one side, with young Hewson pinned beneath it. The horses continued on their way, almost pulling Mr. McMahon's left arm from the socket, the lines having been wound around his hand. Both are feeling better to-day, but it will be some time before they are entirely recovered.

WILL BE IN EARNEST

Corps Against Corps in the Military Tournament at the Canadian National.

The military display and tournament at the exhibition will have more features of real interests this year than anything of the kind previously attempted in Canada. In such competitions of the Victoria Cross and wrestling on horseback corps will be arranged against corps, the Royal Canadian Dragoons, stationed at Toronto, against the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, stationed at Kingston. The rivalry between these corps is very keen, so much so that the men are anxious to also mix things up a bit with the single stick in the Balaclava Melee, if the permission of the officers can be obtained. However, the officers have not yet decided. Some think a few hard knocks would not hurt the men, while others are inclined to think that the competition would resolve itself into something too much like actual warfare.

Be that as it may, the rivalry will give a spirit to the competitions that will make them doubly interesting.

Another thing that will add interest, is that the soldiers will all be living under canvas on the prounds and will parde through the crowd to the stand before each performance.

Golf

Six members of the Peterborough Golf Club journeyed to Port Hope on Wednesday afternoon ad played a friendly game with the Port Hope Club, winning by one up. They were well entertained and had an enjoyable visit. Following was the score:

SPECIAL NOTICE

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its Pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE, up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST there.

"THE CURSE OF GOLD"
A most interesting dramatic picture, showing how fond a miser is of his money, how he wrongs his wife and daughter, how he steals from even the poor beggars on the street, and how a just God punishes him at his death, as all misers should be punished.

"MY FRIEND MR. DUMMY"
This is one of the funniest pictures to be seen. A man stayed too long at his club, took a Dummy at a Clothing Store to be a friend, and you should see him spend the evening with him.

"THE COLOURED STENOGRAPHER"
A very funny picture describing the troubles of Mr. Bunk with his stenographer, but more especially with his wife. It is full of funny situations and will make anyone laugh.

"MARY JANE'S LOVERS"
A very funny story of Mary Jane's lovers, and she had many, and then her mistress had a few, and things get mixed up and there is lots of fun, and the poor loving Policeman gets the worst of it.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest illustrated songs to-night.

Monday will be Fan Day at the Royal, be sure and get a Fan Souvenir.

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

GLIMPSES OF LIFE AND CONDITIONS IN ENGLAND

English Politics Are Touched Upon---Suffragetes Are Uncommonly Busy---Chester and Some of its Most Picturesque Features---A Very Quaint Little City.

(Written for The Examiner by Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse.)

The blue ruin cry which has been continuously ringing in my ears ever since my landing at Liverpool has been most vigorous and incessant. It may be that my sense of right and justice has grown obtuse since my residence in Canada, but for the life of me I cannot follow the reasoning of my Tory friends. I used to think at one time that if equitable judgment and sound reasoning were to be found anywhere on this globe, they were to be found in England, but that opinion has been considerably modified by my short stay on these shores. There is just as much clap-trap, just as much vituperative eloquence expended on their political antagonists by the Conservatives of this country as there is in Canada. Mr. Lloyd-George's budget, is of course, the great source of offence at the present time, and the "doleful dirge of the dilapidated duke" (as Winston Churchill not inaptly expressed it) and the woeful wail of the land owner are heard throughout the land. One would imagine, to read the frantic outbursts in the newspapers that the future of England's greatness lay in the prosperity of her great landowners, and that the needs of the untold millions who pay with their blood and sweat for the upkeep of the great manorial establishments was quite a secondary consideration to deal with. The aristocracy of England is a great and necessary power in the land. There is no getting away from that fact. But, it is only right that those who have most to lose and who have most of the wherewithal to provide against losses, should contribute their proper quota towards the needs of the treasury.

There seems to be a well-defined idea that the budget will not pass. This I have heard, not only from Conservatives but also from Liberals. Time will prove which is right.

The suffragettes are uncommonly busy at the present time and are making themselves very ridiculous by their foolish vagaries. Their cause, notwithstanding their persistency does not seem to be making much headway. The net result of their campaign so far seems to be an accession of a few hysterical females to the ranks and a decided accession of hostility to their proposals from the powers that be.

A few days ago, in one of the last of my trips to interesting places in England, I visited Chester, one of the quaintest little cities in the country. The fame of its walls, its Rows, its picturesque streets and its Roman treasures is world-wide. What adds greatly to its charm is the fact that the whole of the city within the walls is built over and upon the remains and ruins of another city in which for centuries the Roman legions lived and died. It is scarcely possible to scratch the earth to the depth of two or three feet without coming upon evidences of the daily life of our ancient conquerors.

The unique effect of Chester is more largely due to the Rows than to anything else. For the benefit of those who have never seen them, I shall endeavour to describe what they are. They are covered ways, raised the height of the ground floors, above the street level and covered by the flooring of the storey above. The fronts are open, protected by balustrades, and the floors above are supported by pillars, mostly of oak, black with age, some rough, some elaborately carved. At the back are lines of shops of all descriptions and the quaint effect produced is absolutely unmatched elsewhere.

The Cathedral which is built of red sandstone, has of late years been almost entirely renovated, a sum of considerably over £80,000 having been spent for this purpose. The ruins of St. John's Church really represent the ancient cathedral. They are most interesting to visit and the Bible which is to be seen in the new portion is the one which was used at Queen Victoria's Coronation Service.

There are many other items of interest I should have liked to include in this letter, but these will have to wait till a later issue of the Examiner.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

Kryptok Bifocals are the only perfect invisible, double vision lens made. There is no crack or split to gather dirt, and being made of one piece of Glass, it forms no line between the near and far sight. No cemented double vision lens is entirely satisfactory, because the cement will come loose in time. The Kryptok lenses are fused and welded in such a way as to become one solid lens of perfect optical qualities. We have issued a Booklet on these lenses, which covers the question of Bifocals thoroughly, and explains why the Kryptok Bifocals are much superior to the ordinary cemented lens. # VALUABLE HORSE WAS KILLED IN A RUNAWAY

Special to The Examiner.

Indian River, July 24.—The farmers are busy putting in the hay now, and most of them report rather a poor crop, owing no doubt to the dry weather we had in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Faux have gone to their cottage at Rice Lake for the summer months.

The young people enjoy very much the ice-cream that is to be had at Mr. Kidd's restaurant every Saturday evening.

Mrs. Gordon Faux, Villiers, was a guest at the home of Mrs. Arthur Fife, Jermyn, on Wednesday last.

Mr. Walter Kidd was the guest of Mr. John Borland on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Patterson have returned from their wedding trip from Scotland. We wish the young couple every success in their future lives.

We are all very sorry to hear of the runaway of Mr. John Graham's fine chestnut team last week. While drawing in hay it seems the spirited animals took fright and commenced to run, throwing Mr. Graham off the empty waggon-rack into a fence corner, one of the animals fell and broke one of its hind legs and sprained the other, and to prevent it from suffering Mr. Graham was forced to end the poor brute's life by shooting it. The other horse was bruised and cut severely, but it is now under the care of Dr. Graham and we have strong hopes for its recovery. Mr. Graham, himself, it is almost miraculous to say, was not at all injured.

Misses Mabel and Ada Elmhirst were guests of Miss Janet Breckenridge last week.

A few of our young men, viz., Mr. Bert Robertson, Messrs. Albert and Willie Elmhirst, and Mr. Stuart Elmhirst, have decided to hold an excursion on August the fifteenth. This excursion will leave John Elmhirst's wharf at 8 o'clock, a.m., sharp, and will proceed down this picturesque stream over the locks at Garnet's Bridge to Rice Lake, and thence to Jubilee. The boat will call at Garnet's and at Walker's Landing, and will land again in the evening at about 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Miss Susie Weir, accompanied by Miss Madge Shaw, of Lakehurst, passed through here last week on their return trip from Belleville.

Mr. Stuart of Kingston, who has been acting as station agent here for the last month, has gone home.

ENTOMBED EIGHT DAYS; ITALIAN IS STILL ALIVE

Berne, July 23.—An Italian miner who was entombed in the collapse of the Braggwald tunnel eight days ago is still alive.

His feeble cries were heard, and an engineer succeeded in creeping sufficiently near to speak to him. The entombed man, whose name is Giovanni Federzoni, aged 22, is lying under some beams which fell against the side of the tunnel and saved him from being crushed. He said he was suffering terribly from thirst and hunger.

Rescue work has been renewed with redoubled vigour, and, in spite of the great danger to the workers, it is hoped that the imprisoned men will be freed.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1903, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

"By Saint John of Beverley!" cried the merchant. "I came hither from the North Country, and they are said to be shrewd at a deal in those parts; but I had rather bargain with a synagogue full of Jews than with you, for all your gentle ways. Will you indeed take no less than a hundred and fifty? Alas! you pleck from me my profits of a month. It is a fell morning's work for me. I would I had never seen you!" With groans and lamentations he paid the gold pieces across the counter, and Nigel, hardly able to credit his own good fortune, gathered them into the leather saddle-bag.

A moment later with flushed face he was in the street and pouring out his thanks to Aylward.

"Alas, my fair lord! the man has robbed us now," said the archer. "We could have had another twenty had we stood fast."

"How know you that, good Aylward?"

"By his eyes, Squire Loring. I wot I have little store of reading where the parchment of a book or the pinching of a blason is concerned, but I can read men's eyes, and I never doubted that he would give what he has given."

The two travelers had dinner at the monk's hospitium, Nigel at the high table and Aylward among the commonalty. Then again they roamed the high street on business intent. Nigel bought taffeta for hangings, wine, preserves, fruit, damask table linen and many other articles of need. At last he halted before the armorer's shop at the castle-yard, staring at the fine suits of plate, the engraved pectorals, the plumed helmets, the cunningly jointed gorgets, as a child at a sweet-shop.

"Well, Squire Loring," said Wat the armorer, looking sidewise from the furnace where he was tempering a sword-blade, "what can I sell you this morning? I swear to you by Tubal Cain, the father of all workers in metal, that you might go from end to end of Cheapside and never see a better suit than that which hangs from yonder hook!"

"And the price, armorer?"

"To anyone else, two hundred and fifty rose nobles. To you two hundred."

"And why cheaper to me, good fellow?"

"Because I fitted your father also for the wars, and a finer suit never went out of my shop. I warrant that it turned many an edge before he laid it aside. We worked in mail in those days, and I had as soon have a well-made thick-meshed mail as any plates; but a young knight will be in the fashion like any dame of the court, and so it must be plate now, even though the price be trebled."

"Your rede is that the mail is as good?"

"I am well sure of it."

"Hearken then, armorer! I cannot at this moment buy a suit of plate, and yet I sorely need steel harness on account of a small deed which it is in my mind to do. Now I have at my home at Tilford that very suit of mail of which you speak, with which my father first rode to the wars. Could you not so alter it that it should guard my limbs also?"

The armorer looked at Nigel's small upright figure and burst out laughing. "You jest, Squire Loring! The suit was made for one who was far above the common stature of man."

"Nay, I jest not. If it will but carry me through one spear-running it will have served its purpose."

The armorer leaned back on his anvil and pondered while Nigel stared anxiously at his sooty face.

"Right gladly would I lend you a suit of plate for this one venture, Squire Loring, but I know well that if you should be overthrown your harness becomes prize to the victor. I am a poor man with many children, and I dare not risk the loss of it. But as to what you say of the old suit of mail, is it indeed in good condition?"

"Most excellent, save only at the neck, which is much frayed."

"To shorten the limbs is easy. It is but to cut out a length of the mail and then loop up the links. But to shorten the body—nay, that is beyond the armorer's art."

"It was my last hope. Nay, good armorer, if you have indeed served and loved my gallant father, then I beg you by that memory that you will help me now."

The armorer threw down his heavy hammer with a crash upon the floor. "It is not only that I loved your father, Squire Loring, but it is that I have seen you, half armed as you were, ride against the best of them at the Castle tilt-yard. Last Martinmas my heart bled for you when I saw how sorry was your harness, and yet you held your own against the stout Sir Oliver with his Milan suit. When go you to Tilford?"

"Even now."

"Heh, Jenkin, fetch out the cob!" cried the worthy Wat. "May my right hand lose its cunning if I do not send you into battle in your father's suit! To-morrow I must be back in my booth, but to-day I give to you without fee and for the sake of the good-will which I bear to your house. I will ride with you to Tilford, and before night you shall see what Wat can do."

So it came about that there was a busy evening at the old Tilford Manor-house, where the Lady Ermyntrude planned and cut and hung the curtains for the hall, and stocked her cupboards with the good things which Nigel had brought from Guildford.

Meanwhile the Squire and the armorer sat with their heads touching and the old suit of mail with its gorget of overlapping plates laid out across their knees. Again and again old Wat shrugged his shoulders, as one who has been asked to do more than can be demanded from mortal man. At last, at a suggestion from the Squire, he leaned back in his chair and laughed long and loudly in his bushy beard, while the Lady Ermyntrude glared her black displeasure at such plebeian merriment. Then taking his fine chisel and his hammer from his pouch of tools, the armorer, still chuckling at his own thoughts, began to drive a hole through the centre of the steel tunic.

CHAPTER VIII.

The King and his attendants had shaken off the crowd who had followed them from Guildford along the Pilgrims' Way and now, the mounted archers having beaten off the more persistent of the spectators, they rode at their ease in a long, straggling, glittering train over the dark undulating plain of Heather.

In the van was the King himself, for his hawks were with him and he had some hope of sport. Edward at that time was a well-grown, vigorous man in the very prime of his years, a keen sportsman, an ardent gallant and a chivalrous soldier. He was a scholar too, speaking Latin, French, German, Spanish, and even a little English.

So much had long been patent to the world, but only of recent years had he shown other and more formidable characteristics: a restless ambition which coveted his neighbor's throne, and a wise foresight in matters of commerce, which engaged him now in transplanting Flemish weavers and sowing the seeds of what for many years was the staple trade of England. Each of these varied qualities might have been read upon his face. The brow, shaded by a crimson cap of maintenance, was broad and lofty. The large brown eyes were ardent and bold. His chin was clean-shaven, and the close-cropped dark mustache did not conceal the strong mouth, firm, proud and kindly, but capable of setting tight in merciless ferocity. His complexion was tanned to copper by a life spent in field sports or in war, and he rode his magnificent black horse carelessly and easily, as one who has grown up in the saddle. His own color was black also, for his active, sinewy figure was set off by close-fitting velvet of that hue, broken only by a belt of gold, and by a golden border of open pods of the broom-plant.

With his high and noble bearing, his simple yet rich attire and his splendid mount, he looked every inch a King. The picture of gallant man on gallant horse was completed by the noble Falcon of the Isles which fluttered along some twelve feet above his head, "waiting on," as it was termed, for any quarry which might arise. The second bird of the cast was borne upon the gauntleted wrist of Raoul the chief falconer in the rear.

At the right side of the monarch and a little behind him rode a youth some twenty years of age, tall, slim and dark, with noble aquiline features and keen penetrating eyes which sparkled with vivacity and affection as he answered the remarks of the King. He was clad in deep crimson diapered with gold, and the trappings of his white palfrey were of a magnificence which proclaimed the rank of its rider. On his face, still free from mustache or beard, there sat a certain gravity and majesty of expression which showed that young as he was great affairs had been in his keeping and that his thoughts and interests were those of the statesman and the warrior. That great day when, little more than a school-boy, he had led the van of the victorious army which had crushed the power of France and Crecy, had left this stamp upon his features; but stern as they were they had not assumed that tinge of fierceness which in after years was to make "The Black Prince" a name of terror on the marches of France. Not yet had the first shadow of fell disease come to poison his nature ere it struck at his life, as he rode that spring day, light and debonair, upon the heath of Crooksbury.

On the left of the King, and so near to him that great intimacy was implied, rode a man about his own age, with the broad face, the projecting jaw and the flattish nose which

EVERY TEN CENT PACKET OF WILSON'S FLY PADS
Will kill more flies than three hundred sheets of sticky paper and even the generally mendacious of chronicles ascribe to a magnacious nature. His complexion was crimson, his large blue eyes somewhat prominent, and his whole appearance full-blooded and choleric. He was short, but massively built, and evidently possessed of immense strength. His voice, however, when he spoke was gentle and lisping, while his manner was quiet and courteous. Unlike the King or the Prince, he was clad in light armor and carried a sword by his side and a mace at his saddle-bow, for he was acting as Captain of the King's Guard, and a dozen other knights in steel followed in the escort. No hardier soldier could Edward have at his side, if, as was always possible in those lawless times, sudden danger was to threaten, for this was the famous knight of Hainault, now naturalised as an Englishman, Sir Walter Manny, who bore as high a reputation for chivalrous valor and for gallant temerity as Chandos himself.

Behind the knights, who were forbidden to scatter and must always follow the King's person, there was a belly of twenty or thirty hobblers or mounted bowmen, together with several squires, unarmed themselves but leading spare horses upon which the heavier part of their knights' equipment was carried. A straggling tail of falconers, harbingers, varlets, body-servants and huntsmen holding hounds in leash completed the long and many-colored train which rose and dipped on the low undulations of the moor.

Many weighty things were on the mind of Edward the King. There was truce for the moment with France, but it was a truce broken by many small deeds of arms, raids, surprises and ambushes upon either side, and it was certain that it would soon dissolve again into open war. Money must be raised, and it was no light matter to raise it, now that the Commons had once already voted the tenth lamb and the tenth sheaf. Besides, the Black Death had ruined the country, the arable land was all turned to pasture, the laborer, laughing at statutes, would not work under fourpence a day, and all society was chaos. In addition, the Scotch were growling over the border, there was the perennial trouble in half-conquered Ireland, and his allies abroad in Flanders and in Brabant were clamoring for the arrears of their subsidies.

All this was enough to make even a victorious monarch full of care; but now Edward had thrown it all to the winds and was as light-hearted as a boy upon a holiday. No thought had he for the cunning of Florentine bankers or the vexatious conditions of those busybodies at Westminster. He was out with his hawks, and his thoughts and his talk should be of nothing else. The varlets beat the heather and bushes as they passed, and whooped loudly as the birds flew out.

"A magpie! A magpie!" cried the falconer.

"Nay, nay, it is not worthy of your talons, my brown-eyed queen," said the King, looking up at the great bird which flapped from side to side above his head, waiting for the whistle which should give her the signal. "The tercels, falconer—a cast of tercels! Quick, man, quick! Ha! the rascal makes for wood! He puts in! Well flown, brave peregrine! He makes his point. Drive him out to thy comrade. Serve him, varlets! Beat the bushes! He breaks! He break! Nay, come away then! You will see Master Magpie no more."

The bird had indeed, with the cunning of its race, flapped its way through brushwood and bushes to the thicker woods beyond, so that neither the hawk amid the cover nor its partner above nor the clamorous beaters could harm it. The King laughed at the mischance and rode on. Continually birds of various sorts were flushed, and each was pursued by the appropriate hawk, the snipe by the tercel, the partridge by the goshawk, even the lark by the little merlin. But the King soon tired of this petty sport and went slowly on his way, still with the magnificent silent attendant flapping above his head.

"Is she not a noble bird, fair son?" he asked, glancing up as her shadow fell upon him.

"She is indeed, sire. Surely no finer ever came from the isles of the north."

"Perhaps not, and yet I have had a hawk from Barbary as good a footer and a swifter flyer. An Eastern bird in yarak has no peer."

"I had one once from the Holy Land," said de Manny. "It was fierce and keen and swift as the Saracens themselves. They say of old Saladin that in his day his breed of birds, of hounds and of horses had no equal on earth."

"I trust, dear father, that the day may come when we shall lay our hands on all three," said the Prince, looking with shining eyes upon the King. "Is the Holy Land to lie forever in the grasp of these unbelieving savages, or the Holy Temple to be defiled by their foul presence? Ah! my dear and most sweet lord, give to me a thousand lances with ten thousand bowmen like those I led at Crecy, and I swear to you by God's soul that within a year I will have done homage to you for the Kingdom of Jerusalem!"

The King laughed as he turned to Walter Manny. "Boys will still be boys," said he.

"The French do not count me such!" cried the young Prince, flushing with anger.

"Nay, fair son, there is no one sets you at a higher rate than your father. But you have the nimble mind and quick fancy of youth, turning now from the things that is half done or of summer time beyond. Now would we fare in Brittany and Normandy while my young paladin with his lances and his bowmen was besieging Ascalon or battering at Jerusalem!"

"Heaven would help in Heaven's work."

"From what I have heard of the past," said the King dryly, "I cannot see that Heaven has counted for much as an ally in these wars of the East. I speak with reverence, and yet it is but sooth to say that Richard of the Lion Heart or Louis of France might have found the smallest earthly principality of greater service to him than all the celestial hosts. How say you to that, my Lord Bishop?"

A stout churchman who had ridden behind the King on a solid bay cob, well-suited to his weight and dignity, jogged up to the monarch's elbow. "How say you, sire? I was watching the goshawk on the partridge and heard you not."

"Had I said that I would add two manors to the See of Chichester, I warrant that you would have heard me, my Lord Bishop."

"Nay, fair lord, test the matter by saying so," cried the jovial Bishop.

The King laughed aloud. "A fair counter, your reverence. By the rood! your broke your lance that passage. But the question I debated was this: How is it that since the Crusades have manifestly been fought in God's quarrel, we Christians have had so little comfort or support in fighting them. After all our efforts and the loss of more men than could be counted, we are at last driven from the country, and even the military orders which were formed only for that one purpose can scarce hold a footing in the islands of the Greek sea. There is not one seaport nor one fortress in Palestine over which the flag of the Cross still waves. Where then was our ally?"

"Nay, sire, you open a great debate which extends far beyond this question of the Holy Land, though that may indeed be chosen as a fair example. It is the question of all sin, of all suffering, of all injustice—why it should pass without the rain of fire and the lightnings of Sinai. The wisdom of God is beyond our understanding."

The King shrugged his shoulders. "This is an easy answer, my Lord Bishop. You are a prince of the Church. It would fare ill with an earthly prince who could give no better answer to the affairs which concerned his realm."

"There are other considerations which might be urged, most gracious sire. It is true that the Crusades were a holy enterprise which might well expect the immediate blessing of God; but the Crusaders—is it certain that they deserved such a blessing? Have I not heard that their camp was the most dissolute ever seen?"

Camps are camps all the world over, and you cannot in a moment change a bowman into a saint. But the holy Louis was a crusader after your own heart. Yet his men perished at Mansurah and he himself at Tunis."

"Bethink you also that this world is but the antechamber of the next," said the prelate. "By suffering and tribulation the soul is cleansed, and the true victor may be he who by the patient endurance of misfortune merits the happiness to come."

"If that be the true meaning of the Church's blessing, then I hope that it will be long before it rests upon our banners in France," said the King. "But methinks that when one is out with a brave horse and a good hawk one might find some other subject than theology. Back to the birds, Bishop, or Raoul the falconer will come to interrupt thee in thy cathedral."

Straightway the conversation came back to the mystery of the woods and the mystery of the rivers, to the dark-eyed hawks and the yellow-eyed, to hawks of the lure and hawks of the fist. The Bishop was as steeped in the lore of falconry as the King, and the others smiled as the two wrangled hard over disputed and technical questions: if an eyas trained in the mews can ever emulate the passage hawk taken wild, or how long the young hawks should be placed at hack, and how long weathered before they are fully reclaimed.

Monarch and prelate were still deep in this learned discussion, the Bishop speaking with a freedom and assurance which he would never have dared to use in affairs of Church and State, for in all ages there is no such leveller as sport. Suddenly, however, the Prince, whose keen eyes had swept from time to time over the great blue heaven, uttered a peculiar call and reined up his palfrey, pointing at the same time into the air.

"A heron!" he cried. "A heron on passage!"

MORE THAN EVER

Dishonorable and disreputable pharmaceutical concerns are flooding the market with cheap and worthless preparations designed to be imitations of "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry."

Some of these are even labelled "Extract of Wild Strawberry," "Wild Strawberry Compound," etc., in the hope that the public may be deceived and led to purchase them, thinking they are getting the genuine "Dr. Fowler's."

Are you willing to risk your health—perhaps your life, to these no name, no reputation, likely dangerous, so-called Strawberry Extracts?

For sixty-five years "Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry" has been used in thousands of families for Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Summer Complaint, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum and all Bowel Complaints.

Do not let the dishonest or unscrupulous dealer humbug you into accepting one of these cheap substitutes, to the detriment of your health and gain to his pocket.

Ask for "Dr. Fowler's" and insist on getting what you ask for. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price 35 cents.

MILLIONS GAMBLED

Interesting Figures of the Amounts Staked on the Gaming Tables in the French Watering Places.

THE PROFITS ARE GREAT

Special to The Examiner.

Paris, July 23.—Dr. Jacques Bertillon publishes some interesting figures with regard to the amounts staked on the gaming tables in the French watering places. The figures for Paris are not obtainable, the play taking place in private clubs. In the watering places, however, the casinos are controlled.

From 1st November, 1907, to October, 1908, the profits derived from sports and baccarat in the watering places amounted to nearly £745,000 and from petis-chevaux to over £400,000. With regard to the two first card games, the casino takes a sum varying from one-twentieth to one-tenth of the total amoun staked. Taking the casino's share at one-fifteenth this would give the amount staked as over 14 millions sterling whilst at petis-chevaux the casino is certain to win each time one-ninth of the stake, so that the amount put down totalled over three and one half millions sterling, all staked in one and two franc pieces.

The total for cards and petis-chevaux is therefore not far short of 15 millions sterling. Nice probably accounts for about a half of this sum.

As for gambling on horse-racing, last year the amount received and distributed by the pari-mutuel was over 12 millions sterling, while in 1907 it was about a million more.

THE PENNY BANKS DURING VACATIONS

Port Hope Considers They Should be Kept Open.

Port Hope, July 24.—Since the Penny Bank has been in operation in Port Hope schools it has been most popular. Not only in the amounts the children have saved, but also in educating them in business methods.

It has been urged that teaching the children to save money is instructing them to be miserly. This is not at all the case, but rather the opposite. Children who have saved money are proud to have it in their power to draw enough money at a time to buy Christmas presents or birthday gifts of their own choosing, and it is surprising how well some of them will lay out their cash to meet all such needs. We have seen children empty their bank accounts entirely and do it cheerfully and delightedly—the only anxiety being to have enough to enable them to remember all their friends.

On the other hand, there are, no doubt, children like grown up people who dislike to disturb their bank account to pay even their honest debts, but they are few. This seems to be a result of later experience.

There is, however, one point on which there could be an improvement in Port Hope. There should be some arrangement made whereby deposits could be made of money withdrawn during the vacation, we understand this is the case in the city.

Boys and girls, don't enjoy being always idle—in fact have to be doing something. They can't play all the time and many of them in town and country do odd jobs for neighbours or friends. During the vacation when they earn money or have it given them they either spend it, perhaps foolishly, at the first temptation or lose it before they have a safe place to put it.

Then if they are going from home during the vacation they have no bank account from which they can draw to meet their private needs, and what they had earned is gone in "dribs" or else lost.

The School Board should arrange for banking during vacations.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS DEADLY TO LITTLE ONES

At the first sign of illness during the hot weather months give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours the child may be beyond cure. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the well child, and will promptly cure these troubles if they come unexpectedly. For this reason Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. Mrs. P. Laroche, Les Fonds, Que., says: "Last summer my baby suffered severely from stomach and bowel troubles, but the prompt administration of Baby's Own Tablets brought him through splendidly." # NO SALE OF ICE CREAM ON SUNDAY

Toronto Magistrate Does Not Regard the Frozen Dainty as a Food.

Toronto, July 23.—James Mumby and John Liston, restaurant keepers, were charged yesterday with selling ice cream to some Sunday customers. They both admitted it, and though Mr. Curry pleaded that they were within the law, having licenses as victualing houses.

One of the officers swore that he went in Mumby's shop, paid his ten cents, and ate his dish of ice cream.

"Did you ask for anything else?" asked Mr. Curry.

"No."

"Do you know that they serve meals there, and have for years?"

"I didn't see anything but ice cream."

"Did you look in the refrigerator?"

The special officer had not gone that far.

"Then you won't swear that there were not supplies of meat and potatoes and onions there if you wanted them?"

No, he couldn't swear.

"Is ice cream a food?"

The constable didn't think so.

"If you couldn't get anything else wouldn't you eat it?"

Oh yes, he would.

Chief Inspector Archibald now continued the cross-examination of the officer. Mr. Curry entered a vigorous portest.

"I object, your Honour, to the Chief Inspector examining the witness after me. He has no more right to do that than anyone else."

The Inspector made reply, Mr. Curry retorted, and quite a breeze ensued.

Mr. Mumby, whose parlour is on Queen street, readily admitted that he sold ice cream Sundays, and sold it alone if the customer didn't ask for anything else.

"Glad to know that," smiled Mr. Curry. "I may want a meal some Sunday of nothing but ice cream. I'll know where I can go now."

Both Mumby and Liston were fined $1 with costs.

Hecla Furnace

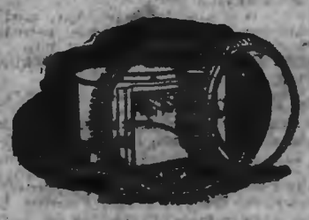
½ Of Your Coal Bill Saved By This Invention



This is the Hecla Steel Ribbed Firepot—one of the greatest fuel-saving inventions ever made in furnace construction.

The firepot of a Warm Air Furnace throws off or radiates a large part of the heat. The greater the radiating surface on the firepot, the more heat given off for the fuel consumed.

By means of our patented process of fusing steel and castiron, we succeeded in fusing steel ribs into the outer surface of the "Hecla" firepot—thus giving the "Hecla" Furnace two and a half times as much radiating surface as any other furnace firepot made.

A three years test proved that this one invention saved 13½%, or more than one-eight, of the coal bill.

And this is only one of a dozen inventions and improvements that are exclusive features of the "Hecla" Furnace. They are all fully described in our new Catalogue—sent free on request. 84

WOULD YOU CONVICT—

ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

THE MONEY BEARER

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1908, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

CLARK BELL, one of the best known lawyers of the country, who has served thirteen terms as president of the Medico-Legal Society, says:—

"All evidence has been for centuries classed as either direct or circumstantial. By direct evidence we mean that testified to by witnesses or established by documents or writing; and, generally speaking, the term circumstantial evidence might be properly applied to all other forms of evidence. The courts in the past have regarded direct and circumstantial evidence upon the same footing as regards admissibility. But circumstantial evidence, whether conclusive or presumptive, is, in its nature, as original as direct evidence acting along separate lines, fully independent of each other.

"Direct evidence has sometimes been supposed to be superior to circumstantial evidence, but oftentimes a chain of presumptive evidence has a very decided advantage over the direct testimony of a limited number of witnesses.

"It has been well said in comparing direct evidence with circumstantial evidence that, while facts do not lie, their narrator certainly may and often does; and, further, that our inferences from facts may be false, and that affirmative action must follow mental certitude, based on the only evidence possible in the nature of the case, or the law must refuse to act. In the case of direct evidence, if the facts testified to be true, the ultimate proposition is established, while in the case of circumstantial evidence the facts testified to may be entirely accurate, and the consequent inference, which established the proposition in issue, be utterly fallacious.

"In my opinion circumstantial evidence has in many instances a value and cogency peculiar to itself and fully equal, if not superior, to direct evidence. For example, direct evidence is subject to fabrication and improper motive, and, where many witnesses concur, it is largely cumulative, while, on the other hand, the necessary correlation of facts under the conditions of the time, place, environment and causation renders a successful fabrication of circumstantial evidence an exceedingly difficult proposition.

"But we must take care on this side of the question to consider that it may be fairly said that facts apparently remote and isolated may, by unexpected and oftentimes accidental irrelevancy or by accurate adjustment of outside circumstances, give to circumstantial evidence a force far in excess of its intrinsic value. This teaches us that we should be very careful not to convict of capital crimes on circumstantial evidence alone; but circumstantial evidence, if complete, is often more reliable evidence than direct evidence itself.

"The courts have held that circumstantial evidence is equally trustworthy with direct evidence. Chief Justice Steven, of the Supreme Bench of England, was of the opinion, and right in his suggestion, that these distinctions between direct and circumstantial evidence should be abandoned."

THE two young tradesmen had observed the well dressed stranger, apparently a traveller like themselves, with uneasy interest since he had taken a seat at a table near their own. Aside from evidences of wealth and distinction which he bore on his person he offered more unusual attraction to a vagrant attention from his immediate occupation. He had unstrapped a leather pouch which he had carried into the room and had taken therefrom a large quantity of gold coin. This he was now engaged in counting with care and method.

After watching this remarkable performance for some minutes in silence, during which time they exchanged inquiring glances, the two young men exchanged a few words in an undertone. The elder then turned to the stranger with a polite apology for intrusion.

"I hope you will believe that I have no motive but casual friendliness," he said, "but it is clear to my friend and myself that you are exposing yourself to an unnecessary risk in your show of so much money. We recognize, of course, that it is none of our business."

The man addressed looked up from his glittering piles with an expression half startled, half smiling. From his answer it was apparent that he was a foreigner, probably a Russian, though he spoke correct English.

"I had not thought of that," he said pleasantly, "Is it then unsafe in these parts?"

"Not unsafe, perhaps," returned the other, smiling in his turn at the naïve question, "but it may be said with truth that no place where men meet and live is safe when criminals may be tempted by the tangible display of large sums."

"True. It was unwise of me," returned the stranger soberly. He swept the money into a pouch, strapped it tight and slipped it under his coat.

"Perhaps you can tell me whether or not this house bears a good name," he added, not unwilling to continue the conversation with men of such clear honesty and good will as his chance companions. "I am no coward, but you have convinced me that I have been foolish. In fact I had quite forgotten where I was when I set out to straighten a tangle in my accounts."

The tradesmen found the stranger a most likable fellow, with a frank and engaging manner and a simplicity that astonished while it charmed them. He was under thirty years of age, well proportioned and garbed as might become a prosperous member of a profession or a man of leisure. At his invitation they left their table and joined him. The elder, still under the constraint of his well meaning interference, introduced himself and his comrade with a touch of formality that might serve to offset any suggestion of boldness.

"This is Richard Cobwell, younger member of a well known firm of London drapers," he said. "I am Henry Upham, engaged in the lumber trade in Liverpool."

The stranger bowed affably and shook hands with "Ivan Broca, of St. Petersburg and Paris, at your service," he returned.

The Russian's Story.

"You ask if the house has a good name," said Upham, harking back to the question. "So far as I know there is no breath against it. Jonathan Bradford, who keeps it, has been known for years as a worthy man. Many of my friends who have business in this section stop here and have always been dealt with fairly. But who is to say that all are honest who come to this particular hotel?"

"Do not remind me further of my folly," said the foreigner, with a laugh. "I have already made up my mind that it was a thoughtless and childish thing to do. In truth, I have heard so much about the safety of travel in your land and the excellent protection of the police and the laws that I abandoned the care I would have exercised elsewhere when once I stepped upon your shores."

"You rate us too highly," said Cobwell. "There are thieves and villains enough in England to make one slow to carry such wealth as you do now."

"It is not so much," said the other, carelessly. "I had no time to exchange money for a letter of credit. But you are doubtless right. I will seek out a bank to-morrow."

"From what you say I judge this is your first visit to England," observed Upham, "though your way of speech does not bear it out."

"You are kind," answered Broca, "but this is indeed my first time across the Channel. "You stare, but you must know that my mother was an Englishwoman. My father was French, and I have lived much of my life in Russia. It was so, perhaps, that I grew up to regard England as a place where none need fear for his person or possessions."

Cobwell noticed that the glasses had been drained and rapped on the table. The door into the rear room, where was the bar, opened quickly and Jonathan Bradford, the proprietor, appeared. A stout, well fed man, he bowed to the three suavely and took their orders. After a few more rounds to the accompaniment of a desultory conversation on general topics the Russian excused himself, saying that he must rise early next morning, bade the tradesmen good night and withdrew.

"A curious man," said Upham, as the door closed upon Broca. "What do you make of him?"

"He is either a great knave or a great fool," answered Cobwell, bluntly. "In fact, when I first saw him playing at building blocks with his gold I imagined that he was some sharper and that his intention was to inveigle us with some game or some tale of wondrous fortune."

"I think you are wrong. He made no attempt to draw us with the money. As to his being a fool, perhaps his explanation of being a stranger here will cover his recklessness. For the rest, he is pleasant and well mannered. I confess to a distinct liking for him, though there is a touch of mystery about him I cannot fathom. He said nothing of his present business or his destination."

"Probably the result of belated caution," was the dry answer, and there the matter rested between them. Soon afterward the two men retired to their room.

It was well past midnight when Upham found himself sharply and suddenly awakened. There was no light in the place and he lay for some moments collecting his thoughts and striving to determine what had disturbed him. His first, dim impression had been of fear and horror, but he was unable to discover its source. He could hear the steady breathing of Cobwell from the bed across the room.

Murdered in Bed.

Then, as if borne upon a palpable breath that stirred the hair on his head, came a faint sound as of a stifled moan. Sensible and sound minded man of affairs though he was, he yielded for a moment to the suggestion of the supernatural. But the chill lifted from him when the moan was repeated more distinctly. At first it might have come from any direction, but now he was able to place its source as behind the partition at the side of his bed. He rose quickly and strode over to Cobwell, shaking him by the shoulder.

"There is some one in pain," he whispered, "come."

The younger man struck a match and lighted the candle. The moan was heard again and the two started for the door. Upham delayed for a moment to open his valise and take from it a loaded pistol. They flung open the door and paused for a moment on the threshold.

The hall showed dark before them, but ten feet toward the front of the house a door stood ajar and a thin pencil of light drew a sharp, bright line upon the floor and opposite wall. As they looked the ray widened suddenly and was as quickly obliterated. They had a confused impression of a vague, white figure that vanished toward the further end of the hall. It was gone and the single ray from the crack of the door once more shone as the only break in the picture. Another moaning sound hurried them forward, Upham with his pistol ready.

They pressed into the room together. The apartment, as was immediately evident, was the one adjoining their own. A candle with flaring wick stood upon a table. There was but one bed and this was occupied by a figure wrapped in the bed clothes. Scattered garments and the contents of several valises covered the floor. Approaching the bed with dread and hesitation they saw the face upon the pillow was that of the Russian traveller, Ivan Broca.

Recovering from the feeling of awe that restrained him, Upham leaned over and drew back the coverlet. The man's breast and the sheets were drenched with blood. A welling gash showed that his throat had been cut from ear to ear. As they stood, stricken with horror, the body shuddered slightly and was still. There were no more moans. The man was dead.

At the inquest next day Upham and Cobwell were submitted to a severe examination as to their relations with the Russian. They related, clearly and in detail, the manner in which they came to speak to him, the subsequent conversation and the discovery of the body. It was clear that the authorities of the town regarded their connection with the murder as being of the utmost importance and they were required to produce witnesses who could vouch for their standing and character. Cobwell was worried by the too evident desire to cast suspicion upon himself and his friend, and even Upham was not proof against the unpleasant suggestions thrown out. Having given their testimony they retired to the rear of the inn parlor, where the hearing was held, and here they were approached by a tall, elderly man of dignified demeanor. He introduced himself as Inspector Trumbull, of Scotland Yard.

"Just happened to be in the neighborhood," he said, in a friendly manner. "I was interested to observe the methods adopted by those in charge of this affair. They bothered you a bit, eh? Well, suppose you tell your story to me and you'll find me a better listener."

Encouraged by the impression of complete confidence in their own innocence which the detective managed to convey, the young men repeated their story in undertones. Under these happier conditions they were able to give a much more satisfactory and comprehensive account. When they came to that part of the narrative describing how they came to leave the room Upham, who was talking, mentioned the fleeting glimpse of a figure in the hall. Trumbull caught him up eagerly.

"You say you saw some one there?"

"I saw something," said Upham doubtfully. "But it was gone in a flash. The shock of finding the body knocked it out of mind until just now."

Tracking the Crime.

"You did not include it in your testimony," said Trumbull, "but you need not be alarmed. It may be best so."

He questioned Cobwell, who also retained the picture of a swiftly opened door and a white figure. After that he heard them out in silence and then left them to make himself known to the authorities. Neither of the young men was named in the verdict, but they were informed that Trumbull would regard their continued presence in town as a favor and they stayed.

The first move of the detective was to inspect quietly and without ostentation the employes of the hotel and the visitors, all of whom had been detained. There were three maids and two men servants. The quarters for the hotel staff, he found, were on the upper floor, where was also the room occupied by Jonathan Bradford. Broca and the two tradesmen had slept on the third floor, the one below. He discovered that the stairs leading to the top floor were at the front of the house for the last flight.

Of the remaining rooms on the third floor forward from Broca's only one had been occupied on the preceding night. An elderly couple, a country banker and his wife had been its tenants. Eliminating them from his inquiry, there remained only the stairs to the upper floor as the point toward which the mysterious white figure seen coming from Broca's room had moved.

Trumbull chose an hour during the afternoon when, as he assured himself, Bradford and all the servants were below stairs. He mounted to the top floor and began his investigations. One large room at the front of the house, it was evident, was occupied by the two men, tapster and hostler. He went over its scant furnishings carefully but quickly, examining the mattress, the garments that hung from the walls and the flooring with observant and practised eye and searching hand. Finding nothing of value to his purpose he passed on through two rooms in which Bradford and his wife lived.

If possible, he gave more care to his examination of these apartments, having in mind a certain well defined remembrance of a shifty eye and uneasiness of movement on the part of the inn keeper during his testimony at the inquest. Such might easily, of course, be the result of the scandal in which the worthy man's house had been involved, but Inspector Trumbull was alert to every possibility.

He went over all the articles of furniture, turned back the rugs and tapped the walls. He looked closely on the floor and bed clothes for stains. A chest of drawers and an iron bound box, which was not locked, were searched. Still he found no clew. He was about to proceed to the rooms of the maids when he returned to take a final look into a recess of the wall used for clothing and concealed by a curtain. He made sure again that it held nothing of interest. In stepping back his foot struck a shoe, of which there were a number upon the floor of the closet. Stooping, he picked up the article to restore it to its place. Something rattled within it. He felt inside and drew out a short knife with a razor edge. It was covered, shaft and blade, with blood. The stains had scarcely dried.

Sure of being on the right trail now, the detective sought further evidence. He bethought himself of the night garments of the Bradfords and sought them. He found a woman's gown, but the other was missing. Once more he made a round of the rooms, then headed back into the closet again. Since one shoe had been so productive another might prove to be. After examining them all he found the garment he sought stuffed in one of a pair of high boots. The right sleeve was blood stained and the side where the wearer's knee might have pressed against a bed was also marked.

The One Puzzling Point.

But one point now remained to puzzle Trumbull. The leather pouch described by Upham and Cobwell had been found on the table of Broca's room, empty. The two men, although they had not seen the money closely, estimated that it must have held five hundred pounds, supposing the coins they saw to have been sovereigns. This made a heavy and a large amount to hide, but further searching in the rooms failed to reveal the slightest clew as to its disposition. The detective decided to delay arresting Bradford until the last possible moment in the hope of receiving some inadvertent hint as to the location of the treasure. Meanwhile he removed the knife and the night gown, fearing that the inn keeper would take the first opportunity to remove the proofs of his guilt.

On returning to the first floor Trumbull was informed by the local police officer in charge of the case that one of the maids had indicated that she had information of importance bearing on the murder. She had not been called at the inquest. Her revelations had been delayed in order that the Scotland Yard inspector might be present. She was taken to a rear room in the presence of several of the authorities and asked to tell what she knew.

"After the house had been roused and the murder made known," she began, "I went back to my room. It must have been about two o'clock. I heard nothing, but felt moved in some strange way to look out of the window. It was dark, but there was a moon. The sky was clouded. After a while the clouds parted and the garden was lighted for a few minutes. Out under the big elm I saw what I took to be a man, digging. I only got a peep at him, for the clouds came back. No, I could not say who it was. It was a big man. No, I could not say that I put a name to him or that I thought it was any one I knew. I was afraid it was only a vision, like, and I went back to bed."

As the detective and others of the party passed out to the garden of the inn Trumbull hung back a moment and exchanged a few words with a constable. The man turned into the bar, where Bradford was dispensing in person, and took up his position near the door.

It was found that the sod near the foot of the tree had been disturbed, and, a mattock being obtained, men were set at work excavating at that point. News of the strange occupation of the authorities was quickly abroad about the place, crowded as it was with curious hangers on and idlers. The rumor reached the bar that "some one was digging in the garden." At the word Bradford dropped a glass he held and stepped hastily to a window overlooking the proceedings outside. With the one glance he turned and made for the door. The constable stopped him. The inn keeper's face turned to a horrible blue mask of hate and fear. He raised his powerful arm to strike, but found himself confronted by a revolver and fell back. In another moment he had been overpowered by officers, handcuffed and locked in the pantry.

Trumbull heard the report of Bradford's arrest just as the men who were digging uncovered a slab of wood. This proved to be the cover of a small, solid box, which was quickly lifted out and placed upon the grass. The detective untied a cord with which it was fastened and threw back the lid. The receptacle was half full of new, bright sovereigns.

The Scotland Yard man went over the case with the local authorities and placed them in possession of his facts and his evidence. The story he constructed was simple and clear. Bradford had seen Broca counting the gold through the partly opened door into the bar and probably had listened to the conversation with Upham and Cobwell. Both the young men recalled the promptness with which he answered to the latter's call for drinks. The inn keeper had entered the room of the Russian, cut his throat, taken the gold and returned to his room up stairs. Later, when the alarm had been given and all was confusion in the hotel, he had slipped out and buried the treasure. It was likely that he had prepared the pit for it earlier in the evening, certain of his success in carrying out the crime.

All Counterfeit Coin.

During the conversation among the officials concerned Upham and Cobwell were present to fortify each point in the matter with which they were connected. Cobwell was standing near the table on which the box containing the money had been placed. While Trumbull talked the young draper picked up one of the coins and studied it curiously. Just as the little ceremony was closing he ventured an interruption.

"If you'll pardon me for posing as an expert, which I am surely not," he said, "I'll merely make the assertion that this coin is counterfeit."

All the members of the group moved in about him at this startling announcement and each examined one of the sovereigns for himself.

"It cannot be that all are counterfeits," said Trumbull in amazement.

"And yet they are," answered Cobwell. "The best counterfeits I have ever seen, heavy, well stamped and right to the touch, but still worthless."

The officials after careful scrutiny were forced to admit that the Londoner was right. There was not a sound coin in the collection. The proceeds of the foul murder were to be valued at so much brass. The detective's keen mind moved ahead on the new scent.

"I imagine that the government, gentlemen, would like very much to know more about the previous history of the unfortunate young Russian, Ivan Broca, of St. Petersburg and Paris."

In fact, during the interval preceding the trial the full machinery of Scotland Yard was set to revolving about the identity of the victim. It was learned that he had crossed to Dover but a week before and had journeyed by slow stages to Bradford's inn. No confederates could be found nor was it discoverable that he had had communication with any one since landing. At Calais the Continental trail stopped abruptly. The police of no city in Europe had ever heard of Ivan Broca. Neither did they know of a counterfeiter answering his description. Nor was any one of his description missing or wanted for any crime whatsoever. The most persistent efforts failed to get back of the simple, ascertainable facts that a young man carrying more than five hundred counterfeit sovereigns had been murdered.

In this amazing situation the course of justice as relating to Jonathan Bradford played but a minor part and the criminal proceedings attracted slight attention as compared with the mystery. The inn keeper made a stout and sullen defence and was convicted in short order on the case prepared by Trumbull. He was duly sentenced and executed.

* * * * * * *

It so chanced that the two tradesmen, Upham and Cobwell, were together in the town where they had been actors in this tragedy nearly two years later, staying at another hotel this time, for Bradford's had been closed and deserted since his death. The papers contained an account one day of the confession of a notorious criminal, dying in a London jail. He said that he was the murderer of Ivan Broca and that Bradford had been innocent.

According to his statement he had seen Broca in a hotel in Dover, where he had displayed some gold, and had followed him to the town in question. He had determined to kill him here and, obtaining access to the inn, had hidden himself in one of the empty rooms on the same floor with the Russian. He had stolen into Broca's room at night, cut his throat and obtained the money. While transferring it to a bag he had found that it was counterfeit. Alarmed at a noise overhead he had fled, leaving the coin on the table and escaping from the window of the empty room by means of a rope.

The two friends read this account of the affair incredulously, recalling the many absolute proofs of Bradford's guilt. They continued the discussion into the evening, when they took dinner with a clergyman of the place. Their host heard them in silence until after the meal, when he revealed the explanation as to Bradford.

"I attended Jonathan Bradford to the end," said the reverend gentleman, "and I have since been expecting some such confession as has just been published. The inn keeper was innocent, not as to intention but as to fact. He told me the truth before he went to the gallows.

"It is true that he planned to kill the Russian. Having seen Broca count the coin through a crack in the door, he became, in that moment, a bloody minded criminal. Knife in hand he crept to the young man's room that night. He was surprised to find a light in the apartment and more so to see the 'gold' spread out upon the table. His resolution still held, however, and he crept over to the bed. Turning back the coverlet and lifting his weapon to strike he was stricken with fear and terror to observe that he had been the second to plan the act that night. In his emotion he dropped his knife, which became stained. His gown also was marked when he recovered the telltale weapon. He summoned courage, before creeping back upstairs to sweep the 'gold' into the slack of his garment, and later in the night he buried it. The missing acts in his narrative have now been supplied."

The clergyman's hearers heard the completion of the astounding story in silence, each forced to admit to himself that every objection to its truthfulness had been answered. It was Upham who spoke first.

"Aye," he said, "that serves to show us that Jonathan Bradford was innocent before the law and that justice erred. But it goes no further toward solving the strangest question of all in this strange business. Who was Ivan Broca?

And the others were forced to admit that it did not

Dangerous and Painful Operation Avoided by Taking "Fruit-a-tives."

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 6, 1908.

I suffered for many months with dreadful Stomach Trouble, with vomiting and constant pain, and I could retain practically nothing.

My doctor stated that I must go to the hospital and undergo an operation of scraping the stomach and be fed by the bowels for weeks. All the medicine the doctor gave me I vomited at once. I was dreadfully alarmed, but I dreaded an operation and had refused.

I had heard of "Fruit-a-tives" and the great success they were having in all Stomach Troubles, and I decided to try them. To my surprise, the "Fruit-a-tives" not only remained on the stomach, but they also checked the vomiting. I immediately began to improve, and in three days the pain was easier and I was decidedly better. I continued to take "Fruit-a-tives" and they completely cured me.

WHY DOGS GO MAD WHEN CHILDREN DON'T

Here is a powerful story in a picture.

These dreadful summer days make all nature yearn for water. As doctors will tell you, "The greatest thing in the world is water!"

Human beings, children especially, who exist in the bake-oven streets of the cities, get quickest relief from the heat and burning dust through copious draughts of refreshing water. In the torrid season it is their salvation.

But not a bit less do animals crave water at such periods. And of all animals, dogs are the most susceptible to evil effects from thirst. They go raving mad!

And here is the tragedy that dooms the poor dumb creatures. They cannot ask for water in words. They cannot help themselves to water. Mankind, in its selfishness, does not ordinarily provide water where it is available to dogs at all times.

This picture tells the story.

The children, better endowed for self-help in this direction, are cooling themselves at the fountain. The water is within their reach. They can drink and replenish the vital fluids lost from their bodies by evaporation. They will not go mad.

But the dog cannot get to the water. The preventive of rabies is without his reach. Yet he will be expected to romp and run and remain just as good natured as ever, when in fact he is in torment from thirst. The children will chase him to and fro over the heated pavement, and in agony from drouth the poor dog may sink his hot, dry fangs into the tender flesh of one of them. And the children will not understand, and the parents will not understand. And they will shoot the unfortunate dog for a mad beast. Just because he couldn't get water.

Give the dog water. Even if he is not your dog, give him water. Keep water where he can get it. Furnish every kind of suffering animal with abundance of water in summer.

Save the dogs from madness. It is humanity that pays.

Tragic Suicide Of Two School Girls

Seventeen Year Old Friends Resolved to Die Because Illnatured Gossip Had Been Busy About Them--Allowed Themselves to be Asphyxiated With the Fumes of Six Stoves.

Special to The Examiner:—

Paris, July 23rd.—From Nice comes an account of the tragic suicide of two girls of 17, who were close friends, at the house of one of them. About four o'clock the little sisters of one of the girls on leaving school returned to their dwelling for the light refreshment which she was in the habit of dispensing to them at that hour, and tapped repeatedly at the door without meeting any reply. They went back after a while, only to renew the same experience. The poor children waited on patiently until their father had returned from his place of business. As son as he heard their story he became extremely alarmed, and without a moments hesitation he broke a pane of glass, opened a window, and climbed in. He noticed nothing of unusual character in the dining-room but when he entered the children's bed-room he started back in horror. The room was filled with noxious fumes emanating from as many as six stoves ranged at the foot of the bed, on which lay the two girls side by side, and quite dead.

They had made their arrangements for their suicide with wonderful calmness and calculation, even buying that morning ribbons to adorn their tresses, and also a large piece of crepe, which they had placed at the head of the bed. Each of them had written a leter, which was carefully laid on a table. In these letters they explained the reason of their fatal acts. They said that they had resolved o die, as ill-natured gossip was busy about them.

UDDER TROUBLES

From Farm and Dairy.

Considerable is lost each year from udder troubles, and for that reason I have made quite a study so as to bring out some method by which we could save a large per cent. of these udders that are caked soon after calving. We find very often a very good cow that had a diseased quarter, the quarter becoming diseased after the first or second calf. The usual methods that are adopted are something like this: They put on only a hot fomentation, or a liniment, or some kind of vaseline and then when the system becomes clogged they will use what is known as a probe, sometimes a darning needle, and with that kind of material they usually ruin the udder. They will have a large quantity of bloody milk and then in a little while there is no flow from that quarter at all, and the result is the cow is spoiled.

"Now, the udder is to be considered something like a sponge," says Dr. Peters, Nebraska State veterinarian. "It is very porous, full of holes, and for that reason it is a very delicate member, and it wants to be treated in that way. I am not a dairyman, but I am told that some milkers have a less gentle touch than others and there is an irritation caused, and this irritation will produce serious results by clogging up these little tubes, and the result is that the quarter will be gone, if not the entire udder. Now, then, the question is what to do. You have probably tried a great many things, but I have found this the best remedy, and it is something that farmers can do. The secretary told me recently that the greatest trouble with us veterinarians is that we try to give the farmers something to do that is hard for them to do. I have here an ordinary milk tube with a little bibb at the end of it. I use a rubber tube something like an ordinary hand bicycle pump. Now, I insert this tube carefully into the quarter that is affected and I fill it up with air. I do not probe in there with darning needles and other kinds of instruments, but I fill up this spongy organ with air, and it is like filling a sponge with water. If the udder is caked, you put in as much air as you can. Then you massage or work with your hand, and work that air all through the quarter, and you will hear the bursting of these little vesticles—these little tubes. You can burst all of them in two or three applications of that kind, and you will generally restore the udder. I have treated several hundred very bad cases and I know it works all right, and any one of you can easily do it.

"Now, where the entire udder soon after calving has become caked, we use what is known as the compress. We take a piece of heavy cloth and put it on so that it lifts the entire udder, and tie it on top. We usually use straw with it, so that we do not chafe the back of the animal. That is to relieve the pressure. You will noticed that the udder is very heavy and that the pressure must be relieved before anything else is done. If you want to assist, take several small, five or ten pound bags, and fill them with bran, keep them hot, and apply them to the udder. This is the treatment that we use where there is a very great amount of congestion. Now these are about the simplest methods of treating diseases of the udder that I can explain — the massage for the diseased quarter and the compress for the whole udder."

DOCTORS ADVISE MEDICATED AIR

It Cures Catarrh, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Throat Troubles, Hoarseness.

For diseases of the lungs, throat and nasal passages mountain air has always been deemed salutary because of its pureness and freedom from disease germs. The air of pine forests, laden with minute particles of volatile germ-destroying principles, has enjoyed an almost unexampled reputation in these diseases also.

A MARVELLOUS DISCOVERY.

After years of exhaustive study a chemist devised a means of supplying right at home a healing balsamic remedy that is even more effective in catarrhal diseases than the air of the pine woods. Of course, this remedy was copyrighted in every civilized country and was at once offered to the public under the name of "Catarrhozone." Its success has been phenomenal.

Just think of it! A healing, soothing substance capable of destroying these noxious organisms which excite and maintain disease. Capable, also, of allaying congestion and of stimulating the healing processes of nature, which are combined in that invaluable compound so well and so favorably known to the medical world as "Catarrhozone."

CATARRHOZONE CURES.

Catarrhozone is simply the concentrated qualities of the air of pine woods. If you breathe it you will derive more benefit in one hour than you could possibly get from the woods in a year.

This great advantage arises from the fact that, in addition to those healing emanations from pine, other ingredients distilled from the vegetable kingdom are so united as to give results that could not possibly be derived in the simple form in which nature supplies medicated air.

20,000 PHYSICIANS ENDORSE IT.

For all diseases of the nose, ear, throat, bronchial tubes and air passages—for catarrh in every form—cure is certain with Catarrhozone, which is not a nostrum, but a high-class scientific treatment. Large size, sufficient for two months' use (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size 50c, at all dealers or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE VALUE OF FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

From Farm and Dairy.

Persons suffering from rheumatism, nervous diseases and nervous dyspepsia should eat celery.

Turnips are beneficial when persons are suffering from nervous disorders and dyspepsia.

Onions are almost the best nervine known; will quickly relieve and tone up a worn-out system, and are beneficial in cases of coughs, colds, influenza, quinsy, gravel and liver complaints.

Lettuce, taken by those who suffer from insomnia is beneficial.

Let those who need iron for a tonic eat spinach and let the iron (drug) alone. Spinach is also beneficial to those suffering with gravel.

Let those who need increased perspiration to relieve overworked lungs and kidneys eat asparagus.

Carrots should be eaten by persons suffering from asthma.

Honey is wholesome, strengthening, purifying, healing and nourishing.

Ripe watermelons are diuretic.

Cranberries used externally are proper diet for those suffering from erysipelas.

Lemons satisfy and cool the thirst in fevers.

Blackberries are a tonic. Blackberry cordial is the proper remedy for diarrhoea.

Persons who are bilious, who have indigestion and dyspepsia, conditions for which calomel is usually prescribed, should let the calomel alone and eat freely of ripe tomatoes.

Let those who have rheumatism and need an aperient eat pieplant.

The apple, excelling other fruits in phosphoric acid, is an excellent brain food. It is aperient and diuretic, and hence obviates indigestion and dyspepsia and assists kidney secretions and prevents gravel. It cleans the mouth.

Let all persons who use drugs classed as aperients, laxatives and cathartics, stop their use and eat freely of apples, figs, pieplant, tomatoes, onions, bananas, strawberries, raspberries and blackberries.

HER BABY HAD ECZEMA

Mrs. F. Clark, Belmont, Man., writes:—"My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to help her. Hearing of some remarkable cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made we began using it and with the third application the sore began to heal. The cure was thorough and complete and we give all credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

THE FRUIT CANNING SEASON

From Farm and Dairy.

ABOUT CANS AND RUBBERS.

Almost everywhere rhubarb is in season, strawberries are still with us and cherries and currants are at their best, even with a late season in many localities. So, get ready to fill up some of those cellar and closet shelves with cans of good things for the winter now so far away. Here is the combined, co-operative wisdom of a number of helpful housewives. They know what to do and they are passing it on. First comes an excellent hint.

WHY CANNED FRUIT SPOILS.

Whenever any canned goods spoil it is usually because some air was in the can when it was sealed, or entered afterward through imperfect sealing. So shake well, run a clean silver knife through the contents, in order to break and scatter bubbles. When you are sure there are no bubbles left, fill the can to overflowing and seal while hot.

ABOUT RUBBERS.

The same good housekeeper says it is usually false economy to try to use rubbers a second season, although occasionally where the best quality rubber was purchased at first they are safe to use a second time. If they seem brittle and break easily, discard them, and, in any case, soak for 30 minutes in warm water, to which a little baking soda has been added.

AN EXCELLENT IDEA.

It is a good plan to have ready for use in holding and wiping cans several holders and clean cloths, because fruit stains are so difficult to remove from towels.

SIMPLE CHEESE SALAD

Sprinkle finely grated cheese over small, crisp lettuce leaves, add hard boiled eggs, thinly sliced, then another layer of the cheese, and serve with mayonnaise dressing, garnished with stuffed olives.

TO CLEAN CURRANTS.

Put them in a sieve or colander, and sprinkle them thickly with flour, rub them well until they are separated, and the flour, grit and fine have passed through the strainer. Place the strainer and currants in a pan of water and wash thoroughly; then lift the strainer and currants together and change the water until it is clear. Dry between clean towels. It hardens them to dry in an oven.

RADNOR POTATOES.

Slice while raw half a dozen good sized potatoes. Cover the bottom of a baking dish with a thick layer of the potatoes; add small pieces of butter, a little chopped onion, and salt and pepper. Add another layer of potatoes, butter, onion and seasoning, and repeat this process until the dish is full. Cover with milk and bake slowly for 2 hours.

PRUNE PIE.

Soak the prunes over night in the usual manner. In the morning, stew them until soft; then rub through a coarse sieve to remove seeds and to every quart of pulp add a lemon, seeded and chopped, and one cup of sugar. Bake in puff paste shells in a quick oven, making three pies. Or you may cover three pie tins with a thin layer of puff paste; prick it full of holes and bake in a quick oven. When done, spread the prune mixture between, and ice the top crust or layer.

RASPBERRY JAM.

To 2 qts berries add 1 qt granulated sugar. Mash well together and put into jars, but do not seal. Tie a cloth or paper over the top and set in a dry place. Do not cook. May be made from blackberries, red raspberries and other sour berries by using equal parts sugar and berries. Keeps all winter.

I'll Explain Why I Always Drive a GENDRON

"You see the breaking of the springs causes us baby drivers more trouble than any other weakness in carriage cars. But there is no spring weakness in the GENDRON car. Note that double curve. It is exclusive with the GENDRON. It so distributes the strain that the spring never breaks.

And then the wheels,—you see they are specially welded, and cannot warp or break.

Note also that little rubber cap over the nut of the axle. Sometimes when I have a restless passenger, I want to drive the car around the house without scratching the furniture—it is a little point, but a good one. The materials for all the GENDRON cars are the very best in the bodies, tops and every other part. There is style and service in every GENDRON model—Canadian made, so that any unexpected accident can be easily remedied."

WARM WAVE TO CROSS THE EAST ABOUT END OF MONTH

Foster Expects Disturbance About That Time, Followed by a Cool Period---Not Much Rain is the Prophesy Next Week, But it Will be Good Crop Weather.

Washington, D.C., July 24.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 21 to 25, warm wave 20 to 24, cool wave 23 to 27. This disturbance was expected to bring moderate weather conditions with less rainfall than during preceeding weeks of the month. Storm forces were expected to be moderate, increasing after 24. Last disturbance of July will reach Pacific coast about 27, cross Pacific slope by close of 28, great central valleys 29 to 31, eastern states August 1. Warm wave will cross Pacific coast about 27, great central valleys—longitude 105 to 85—about 29, eastern states 31. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about 30, great central valleys August 1, eastern states 3.

In many features this disturbance will be of unusual importance. The cool wave due to cross continent 26 to 30 will bring unusually low temperatures, preceded by light rains. The cool wave will be caused by an extensive high barometer with clearing weather and a few days of quite pleasant weather.

As this last disturbannce of July approaches a great hot wave will sluggishly moe eastward across the continent and we may expect another heated term. Excessie rains may not be expected and in many localities some anxiety will be felt for want of rain.

Not much rain is expected last week of July on any part of the continent but as a rule god crop weather will prevail, particularly for corn and the northwestern spring wheat. The hot wae last of July will be good corn, cotton, wheat and flax growing weather.

As August crop weather will have such a great influence on all crops that mature during and after that month I have concluded to go over the calculations again. My crop weather calculations were made last December and I have learned some valuable things about making the calculations since then.

By publishing my general forecasts of crop weather next week I will have time to make calculations of the September frosts which might have much to do with maturing crops. Corn, cotton, spring wheat and flax are largely dependent on August crop weather, and the first three on September frosts. You may look for these forecasts in my bulletin dated July 31.

The great comet is showing up in splendid form but can be seen only through the large telescopes. It is building another house for the habitation of animal life and some millions of years hence will have rounded its orbit, quieted its atmosphere and become one of the family of planets that will continue on through eternity in its ceaseless revolutions around the sun.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED

Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

HE CANNOT FIND HOTEL WHERE HIS MONEY IS

Unhappy Plight of Mr. Boehi, of Kentucky, on His Vacation Trip to The Seashore.

Atlantic City, N.J., July 24.—G. Henry Boebi, a visitor from Louisville, Ky., has lost his hotel, and unless he is able to remember its name to-morrow he will probaly be forced to take a train back to his home on the stub of his ticket, which is at present his only asset. Mr. Boehi forgot the name of the hotel after he had left it for a stroll within an hour of his arrival last night. He searched throughout the night and all to-day to relocate his seashore stopping place, where his baggage remains, and he has even called the assistance of the police and the newspapers without result.

Sorrowfully Mr. Boehi admits that he remembers neither the name of the hotel nor its location. He came in on a late train, carrying the name of the house on a slip of paper given him by a friend. He was taken there in a bus, whose driver kept the directing slip. He was assigned to a room where he placed his bags, which contain most of his supply of vacation money. He believed he could easily return to the place, but when he strayed from the boardwalk he was unable to discover its whereabouts, and then he discovered that he had also forgotten its name.

This was about midnight, since when, with the assistance of those who heard of his plight, he has patrolled the hotel avenues of the resort, without success. Detectives have taken up the hunt, and Mr. Bochi is also awaiting returns from advertisements which offer a reward for the discovery of his stopping place.

THE PROBLEM OF THE UNEMPLOYED IN LONDON

Nowhere is Squalid, Ragged and Starving Poverty so Forcibly Thrust Upon the Attention of the Passer-by—Pitiful Scenes and Incidents of Life in the World's Metropolis.

Unemployment and the resulting poverty, bringing thousands — how many it is impossible to compute—to the starvation line, is a far more pressing evil, even a more immediate danger in England than is probably realised either at home or abroad by the general public. Early last autumn, it is not too much to say, the British Government looked forward to the coming winter in a spirit almost of panic.

Unemployment and distress were reported on such a scale from all parts of the kingdom even then that alarm, and very serious alarm, was felt as to what might be the result when the real pinch of winter should come. As is happened the most serious part of the year went by without anything more alarming coming to pass than previous years have witnessed, but the widespread unemployment, poverty and distress remain, and with them the question of what they are to lead to.

Nowhere more than in London is squalid, starving and ragged poverty so forcibly thrust upon the attention even of the casual passerby.

In the warm weather the turf of every public park is thickly strewn throughout the day with the sleeping forms of the unemployed, among them, no doubt, a certain proportion of deserving poor and unfortunate people. When the days are cold there does not seem to be a street in London that has not at every yard a ragged and hungry looking beggar to open the door of a cab and beg, articulately or mutely, according to the distance of the nearest policeman, for a copper.

Thousands of these are wastrels, unemployed because they are unemployable. Excluding them and the ever increasing number of youths who have learned to do no sort of work, and the pitiful army of broken women, 5,000 of whom made a pathetic spectacle shuffling through the streets of the West End on the day of the opening of Parliament, there must be, it is calculated at least 25,000 unemployed men in London who have the will and the ability to be hard working citizens but are yet near enough to starvation thousands of them, to take advantage of the several schemes, public and private, which provide them with their little food once in the twenty-four hours. Day after day and night after night the Church Army feeds thousands of these derelicts. The Thames Embankment near Charing Cross is the assembling place. Here are some impressions gathered personally not many nights ago; what is true of one night is true of every other; the people and the weather change, but the picture is otherwise always the same:

One Man's Dilemma

It was an hour before midnight, a cold winter night with the snow lying on the street and a bitter east wind blowing that had driven into shelter all that had shelter to seek; but already a long shivering queue of men and youths are waiting and every moment adds to their number.

Policemen are there in charge, but their services are never wanted. The hungry crowd waits in silent, orderly misery, and no late comer tries to filch the place of one who has arrived before him. Take them all round, these men do not give the impression of being useless wastrels, neither drunkards nor criminals.

The marks of pain, hunger and sickness are stamped on nearly all. A talk with some of them may be taken as giving the measure of the rest. Their talk is free from pose or hypocrisy, for their interview is there in the guise of one who, like themselves, is waiting for his meal ticket.

The first man spoken to still showed considerable traces of better days. This, in short, was his story:

"I am 48 years old and since my seventeenth year I worked as a boiler riveter. My wages rose to an average of fifty shillings a week; with a family of six I put little by for a rainy day.

"Ten months ago I was dismissed with many more from the firm with which I had been working for eleven years—the reason was simply slackness of trade. For eight months we kept the home together, then it went.

"You can guess the rest. The parish guardians are looking after the children, my wife is in the workhouse infirmary, and 'Full up' or 'Trade's scarce' is the answer when I ask for any kind of work. I walked about looking for work two days and two nights without any food or shelter before I could buck up any courage to fall into these ranks, but I'm glad I've done it; it has helped to keep the body and soul together, and I'll manage to regain my feet somehow this summer."

Pen Pictures of Poverty

The next spoken to was a man who loked in poor health. His wife and two children were being cared for by an aunt, poor enough herself, while he searched for work. A brass founder by trade, he had been six years in his last employ when dismissed.

"They told me how they were sorry to part with me and some others, but they had to as orders were slack. I am a trade union man," he added, "and that's been my curse.

"It's like this: If I try to get some work at my trade I must not take a job unless they give me £2 a week. If I worked for less I should lose all the benfits of my club, which I have paid these sixteen years.

"For the first twelve months I was out the club allowed me four shillings a week; now I get nothing, and I have ben out seventeen months. If it wasn't for the insurance on my life I should have broken with the union before this and probably been at work now at my trade though on a smaller wage. I know others just in the same fix."

This man's story is very common. Unable to get work at his trade union wage, he must remain idle or lose the benefit of years of insurance.

One of the most dilapidated looking men in the whole crowd, his clothes a mere amorphous bundle of rags held together with pins and string and his footgear nothing but wrapping or sackcloth, was certainly a hopeless case. Neither a drunkard nor unwilling to work, he confessed that, to judge from what possible employers had told him, he was "nothing more or less than an encumbrance."

Four years ago he was possession of an inherited income of £2,500 a year. Finding it insufficient, he got into debt, tried to recoup himself by speculating on the Stock Exchange and now found himself destitute and helpless.

Salvation Army's Good Work

At midnight an officer of the Church Army arrived and gave every man a slip of paper which was good for a bowl of soup, with the proviso that he should do a certain amount of work. A quarter of an hour's walk brought the whole contingent to the Church Army tents. As this lot arrived about one hundred men were departing.

Throughout the twenty-four hours the tents are filled with shifts of men, each shift remaining three hours. On entering each man receives a pint and a half of thick soup and a thick bread. After eating this they are put to sawing and chopping and tying up the small bundles of kindling wood that are universally used in London.

At the end of three hours each man again receives the same quantity of food he had on entering, and on going out he gets a ticket entitling him to a bed for that night in some lodging house.

In the number of unemployed whose lot was followed on this particular night were severa lAmericans. They were men who had either come over on a single ticket with little or no money to go on with their arrival or had crossed as cattlemen and found themselves entirely without resources and unable to get a passage back.

The Chuch Army, which is, of course, entirely supported by voluntary contributions, feeds about six hundred men in this fashion twice or three times a day. The work done by the men helps to pay expenses, but the deficit on each man aided is sixpence a day, the weekly loss since November averaging about £70.

The Salvation Army is the other great relief organiation. From 1 a.m. to 3 a.m. Salvation Army officers distribute soup tickets to the crowds of starving and semi-starving men that assemble on the embankment and elsewhere. This ticket is good at any of its halls for a bowl of soup, a slice of bread and an hour's rest in a warm, well-lighter room.

One Meal in Twenty-four

No applicant is refused, and as in the case of the Church Army no questions are asked. It is assumed that no man will stay out in the open till midnight in bitter winter weather for a basin of soup unless he is in desperate need. On some nights over a thousand men are fed at the hall visited by the writer in the same week that Church Army tents were visited.

The same kind of men were seen only in the bright electric lighted hall of the Savation Army the desperate misery of the crowd was more plainly to be seen. It was easy to pick out a great number whose loks and bearinog showed they were still trying hard to keep themselves from out of the utter depths. Old men, young men and mere boys were there.

There were three things that were perhaps more immediately noticeable than anything else; first, the desperate hunger of many, shown by the wolfish way they seized upon their food; secondly, the utter physical weariness of those who had been tramping day after day in a vain quest for work—no more eloquent proof of this could be needed than to see a man in the prime of life fall last asleep sitting on the bench in the warm room before his lips had touched the food he held in his hands; thirdly, the almost complete silence of them all as they seemed to hug their brief spell of shelter and warmth.

Before touching upon the other London relief work of the Salvation Army there are two or three other charities which may be mentioned, the sole object of which is to give a meal to a desperately hungry man. Scattered over London are a number of soup kitchens the organisers of which sell books of tickets at three halfpence each to the public, who distribute them among the poor.

One meal in Twenty-four Hours

There are numerous other societies which first aim at the one meal in twenty-four hours for men who would otherwise go foodless the whole day. The resources of every one of them are stretched to the utmost, but all combined they hardly do more than just touch the surface of London's starving poor.

The Salvation Army makes a serious attempt to find regular employment for the likely men whom it collects on the Thames Embankment and elsewhere. It has a labour bureau which keeps in touch with employers to whom selected men are sent as vacancies occur. It has five workshops of its own in which it starts men at paper sorting, finding for as many as there is roo mfor work which covers the cost of board and lodging and an average of about four shillings weekly in money.

To those men the way is always open for promotion in the Salvation Army organisation itself, and outside employment is also found for many, thus making room for others from the streets.

Last year the Salvation Army in London found employment for 23,493 persons and 4,177 in its own factories.

But with it all, and much more than has been even indicated in what has ben written here, the problem of handling the unemployed poor of London and the other cities of the United Kingdom is not really so much as even approached.

FLAG WITH A HISTORY CHANGES HANDS

Paris, July23.—A flag with an extremely interesting history has just passed into the hands of an English visitor at France, Mr. J. Jeffcock, who recently visited the chateau of Asay le Rideau, in Touraine.

He was shown the treasures of the chateau, and among them were two old flags marked "For sale." "How much?" asks dthe visitor, and on being informed that the price was 800f. (£34) he immediately purchased them. One of these trophies is an old flag belonging to the Berkshire Regiment, formerly the 49th, which was taken by the French under Gen. Donselot in 1814, together with three other flags, in the course of the fighting round Corfu.

Gen. Donselot kept these trophies when he abandoned the inland, and when he died they were passed on to his heirs, eventually coming into possession of M. de Ricard, the general's grandson. The two flags bought by Mr. Jeffcock were given as security to the conceirge at the chateau for a sum of £24 which he had advanced to M. de Ricard. M. de Ricard is stated to be a poet, which may explain his need of ready money.

The Matin states that Mr. Jeffcock proposes to present the flag of the old 49th to the Colonel of the Berkshire Regiment. The other flag appears to be a Dutch one.

If You Rid Poisons FROM THE BLOOD

By overhauling the liver and kidneys, you will be freed of pains, aches and the tired spring feeling.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood. Pains and aches have the same cause.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood when the liver and kidneys get torpid and slow in action and when, as a result, the bowels become constipated.

Get the liver and kidneys working right and away go the poisons. That is their work, to rid the blood of poisons.

When they fail because of the excessive accumulation of poisons in the spring, use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they will soon resume their natural functions with renewed energy and vigour.

No other organs of the body can filter the poisons from the blood so you must get the liver and kidneys active if you are going to restore healthful digestion, regular bowel action and free the body of pains, aches and feelings of fatigue and depressing.

It is only natural that the liver and kidneys should give out in the spring, when the blood is usually loaded with impurities, but you can quickly and certainly set them right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This is the greatest of spring medicines because it is unique in its direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

Put it to the test this spring, and you you will be astonished at its wonderful prompt and thorough action on the digestive and excretory systems. You can be certain that it will move the bowels, awaken the action of the liver and kidneys and completely purify the blood. # ONE OF THE PERILS OF A BIG CITY WITHOUT WARNING BUILDING FALLS

Wreck of the United Gas Improvement Co. Structure in the Heart of Philadelphia's Business District, Which Fell, Burying a Dozen People.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24.—Here is another peril of the city.

Here is a great five-storey building, which without an instant's warning crumbled and crashed to the pavement.

A dozen men, some working in the building, others walking unsuspecting on the sidewalk below—were crushed to death.

The building was being remodeled within. Had it been occupied—as it would have been a week later with the hundreds of employees of the United Gas Improvement Co.—the loss of lives would have totaled one of the greatest disasters of the century.

A slight rumbling and grinding was the first warning. Then one whole side of the building—the one nearest the street—began to shake and quiver.

Then, while people watched, paralyzed with fear, the structure swung slowly, majestically, gathering impetus every minute, then downward it broke in a roar that echoed through the city.

The building was old and built of brick. The fall, it is thought, came from long-weakened girders giving way, or by the accidental blow from a derrick working back of an adjoining building.

Incidents Which Were Not Brought Out In The Trial Related By Evelyn Thaw

Says She Would Probably Have Been Quietly and Happily Married Now If She Had Not Gone to New York—Domestically Inclined—How Harry Thaw Flogged a Bell Boy for Stealing a Coin.

HER ONLY INTERVIEW

Evelyn Thaw gives a lengthy interview to the New York World in which she tells the story of her life with facts that were not brought out at the time of the trial. The following is a portion of her recital:

"But to tell the story I have made up my mind to tell I must begin way back when I was a child of fifteen, in the chorus of "Floradora." I was flabbergasted by it all. The lights and the music and the cabs and the suppers—they left me wondering if I were standing on my head or my feet. Remember I had always been in more or less want for actual necessities—and I was only a child besides.

"It isn't strange then that when Stanford White singled me out and bought me a pearl drop that cost a thousand dollars and let every one know he approved of me—it isn't strange. I thought he was the most wonderful man in the world. But mistake No. 1 comes right here—and, by mistake, I mean the popular impression that was gained from my cross-examination on that first trial.

It's True She Was Drugged

"You will remember I swore on the stand I was given a drug by Stanford White that left me unconscious at the of a minute. I also said I recovered from the ill effects of that drug in less than three hours; dressed, and went home. At the time I knew as well as any one else that every one doubted the truth of that statement. But it wasn't untrue. And, what is more, District-Attorney Jerome has told me since he had discovered what he had believed was impossible—that there is not only one drug, but three drugs that can do this.

"When I found out how widespread was the disbelief on this point I consulted one of the most eminent physicians in New York and got from him the three drugs that can produce unconsciousness without deleterious after effects and work within sixty seconds of their introduction into the system.

"Thaw stole me away from White, just the same as men in the Stone Age stole women, if folk lore says such things happened, and I understand that is the way the old tales go. For more than a year before that Christmas night in 1906 I had seen White only occasionally. But he was my protector, my patron, if you will, and I loved him more than I ever had any man or woman in my life, my mother and father not excepted.

When With Thaw, Saved White

"He was giving me a birthday party the very night Thaw appeared with a revolver in my dressing room and told me he would kill White before he would allow him ever to take me away from him. There was nothing for me to do under the circumstances but go with Thaw. I hardly knew him. I did not like him. It was simply a case of go or be killed. That was the nature of the beginning of our love affair. What an awful blow to the sentimentalists of the evening newspapers with their 'angel child' talk this is. But it is the truth.

"Before I begin the story of my life with Thaw, though I must tell just what happened about Jack Barrymore. He was a dear, sweet, wholesouled fellow and the first man anywhere near my own age I had ever known since I began to understand the way of the world. But Stanford White opposed the idea as hard as he could.

Calls Thaw a Miserable Man

"And right here, before we get to the rest of it, let me say it was not easy—what I forced myself to do on that witness stand. Do you think I followed my inclinations when I sat there and looked at that grinning Thaw down below me, that miserable man whose life I was searing my heart to save, and told secrets I would have kept from the world at the cost of my own life? It wasn't easy. But it was following out a determination I had made with the flash of his revolver that night on the roof garden. That's all.

"After Thaw took me away from Stanford White, after I found myself entirely dependent on Thaw's beneficience, life took on a very different aspect for me. Never once in all the years that came along, after that Christmas night, when he took me out of the dressing room in the Garden Theatre, was Thaw generous to me.

"It didn't matter so much as it would have if I had been a different kind of girl. But just as now I despise the type of man who wants to deck me out in beautiful gowns and cover me with jewels and parade me up and down in restaurants to be gazed at by less expensively dressed women, so then I hated show. If I had never come to New York I should have settled down in Pittsburg and married some shoe clerk and had beautiful children and been peacefully happy. I am naturally domestic, I love to dust my own room. I clean the keys of my piano. I hate lobster and champagne. I like cheese sandwiches and beer.

Thaw Not Generous to Her.

"And so it was Thaw's pecuniary tendencies did not strike me as forcibly as they might have otherwise. But sometimes it would strike me as unreasonable, after he had refused to let me buy a pretty hat that I had seen in a shop window, for him to come home and boast of having swept all the cut glass off a bar in the Hoffman House and having settled for it with a check for $300.

"All the time before our marriage while we were travelling in Europe, Thaw treated me with all the consideration a big man would show to a child. Did I awake in the night with a nightmare from eating too much camembert cheese, a dozen physicians would appear at the hotel the next morning and prescribe a rigorous course of diet and baths. Did I have a headache, a specialist would come and insist on my being treated like a real invalid for a month afterward.

Always "Absolutely Stingy."

"The story that he beat me in the castle in Germany that Mr. Jerome tried to make me admit when he sprang the Abe Hummel affidavit in the first trial was also absolutely untrue. Except that he was absolutely stingy with me at all times Thaw never abused me in all the time we were together before our marriage.

"In Paris he refused to allow me to go to see any of the things all Americans take in. He said if I hadn't seen them it wouldn't hurt me to miss them. He took me to just two places, the Cafe de Paris and the Rat Mort, and those who know say that they are Sunday Schools compared with what may be seen in Paris. I do not say this in a complaining spirit. I want to be fair to Thaw. I honestly believe it was because he wanted to keep me from all such things.

"But see what happened next. We went to London and stopped at the Hotel Carlton. Thaw told the clerk always to send him a certain one of the pages, the youngest, in answer to his calls. He tipped him extravagantly and seemed to be terribly taken with the child. One afternoon he placed a big heap of golden guineas on the table in our sitting room and then rang the bell.

"When the boy came Thaw told him to stay in the sitting room while he went in the bedroom ostensibly to write a cablegram. The poor little fellow saw the guineas spread out on the table. Thaw was watching through the portiers. The page fell into the trap and put two of the coins in his pocket. Thaw rushed out on him and told he would not send him to prison but would punish him himself. He dragged the scared little fellow into the bath room, stripped him and flogged him with a horse whip until the child was bleeding all over his body. Then Thaw put him in a bath tub and rubbed salt into his wounds.

"This is one of the things the people are going to bring out in the White Plains trial now under way. It is the first of the proofs they are going to advance in support of their contention that Thaw is a paramiac. The same incident will figure in the suit of Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's counsel of record in the first trial, when Mr. Hartridge's suit against Mrs. William Thaw comes into court.

Thaw Settled for Thousands.

"The boy's mother brought suit against Thaw in London, and he settled out of court for several thousand dollars.

TO THE WORKHOUSE RATHER THAN PRISON

London, July 22.—A pathetic story of a former parliamentary candidate's downfall was told at Grimsby Police Court recently when Robert Day Melhuish elected to go to the workhouse rather than to prison for drunkenness.

Melhuish was at one time one of the wealthiest fish merchants in England, but he squandered his money recklessly. He was idolised by the people of Grimsby, and served on the town council, school board, and the board of guardians. His only check in public life was when he opposed Sir Geo. Doughty, M.P., as Independent Conservative candidate.

He turned his business into a company, and lived extravagantly on the proceeds. Ultimately he came to penury, and was only saved from entering the workhouse he had governed as a guardian by the action of friends, who subscribed to provide him a home in the country.

A policeman found him hopelessly drunk in the gutter on Thursday, and yesterday he was brought for judgment before a bench of his former colleagues of the council and guardians.

Speaking with emotion, the mayor told Melhuish that the magistrates were determined to send him to prison unless he consented to go to the workhouse. He chose the workhouse.

BAD MEAT ON WARSHIPS CAUSES MUTINY OF CREWS

Paris, July, 22.—A mutinous outbreak is reported to have occurred among certain of the crews belonging to the Northern squadron. The main complaint is the bad quality of the food.

On board the Dugetit-Thuars nearly two hundredweight of diseased meat was thrown overboard.

On the Marseillaise the crew refused to eat for 24 hours, alleging that the meat served was bad, and several men have been taken ill on board the Dessix after eating tripe and mashed potatoes.

Incidents have also occurred on the Gueyon and the Friant, whose stokers declare that they need good food after being overworked during the manoeuvres.

NARROW ESCAPE OF SUBMARINES

Paris, July 24.—A submarine has saved itself from disaster by a remarkable diving feat. During manoeuvres off Toulon the Grondin suddenly found herself in the course of the battleship Massena, a hundred feet away. The tiny submarine seemed doomed, but her commanding officer, with the presence of mind, sent her below the surface in the nick of time. She dived like a fish and the watch of the Massena saw her disappear beneath the battleship. A few moments later the submarine came safely up to the surface astern of the Massena, cheered by the battleship's officers and crew.

BAD FEELING IN ITALY IS REVIVED

Legislation Favouring Genoa Leads to Bitterness and Serious Trouble is Feared.

Rome, July 24.—A very serious situation has been created in Italy by the aMritime Convention Bill before the Chamber. The Bill was framed in such a way as to favour the interests of Genoa, to the detriment of the interests of other Italian ports, in particular Naples and Palmero. This, of course, provoked the protests of those ports, and the agitation is now so strong that it seems likely to cause the fall of the Ministry.

Signor Giolitti thought he could have the Bill passed by his usually docile majority, but the deputies have rebelled against their chief. The Premier has now promised some alteration in the Bill, but a Ministerial crisis sooner or later seems inevitable.

The worst feature of the matter is that the apparent favouring of Genoa has revived the old distrust and animosity between North and South.

Excitement in Naples and Palmero is very serious indeed, and had led to violent demonstrations, during which hundreds of arrests have been made. The secretary of Signor di Tradis, the representative of Palmero in the Chamber, has been assaulted and cut about the face with razor. Grave disorders are feared.

EGYPT TO STAMP OUT SLAVE TRADE

Cairo, July 24.—For some considerable time past the Government of Egypt has been inquiring into the "white slave traffic," the only slave market is Constantinople. As long as harems exist, the slave traffic will probably continue. It has been for long the custom of certain rich persons in Egypt to purchase slaves in Constantinople and bring them into Egypt as servants. But of late times, it has been discovered that certain slave agents in Egypt have introduced Circassian, Georgian and Armenian girls into Egypt, not always for harem purposes.

Several persons have lately been summoned to attend either a special court, or the ordinary tribunal for having dealt in slaves of various colours; both as vendors and purchasers. There is no doubt that in Constantinople slaves of both sexes, but more often females, can be bought freely. The Circassians, Georgians and Armenians come from small eastern ports in the Black Sea, and the ships which import them are rarely caught by Russian guarships. Blacks filter through by the Persian Gulf, through Tripoli, across the Red Sea, or the Aegean Islands.

FOUR HUNDRED PAINTERS WILL INVADE THE CITY ON TUESDAY FOR THEIR BIG ANNUAL CONVENTION

Prominent Members of the Craft From All Parts of Canada Will Be In Attendance—Programme for the Three Days Will Include Social Events—The Entertaining Committee is Active.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING

Peterborough will be deluged by artists for three days of next week when four hundred of the Master House Painters and Decorators of Canada will meet in convention on Tuesday and will continue until Thursday, the 29th. The committee has been very active and arrangements have been made to give the visitors a good time and to send them away with the impression that Peterborough is a good place. The painters will begin to arrive in the city on Monday night, and will be looked after by the members of the craft here.

The Painter and Decorator refers to the convention as follows:

This is the last call for the Peterborough convention. Before the next issue of the Painter and Decorator, the convention of the Canadian Association of Master House Painters and Decorators will be an event of the past.

It is up to the master painters of Canada to make the coming convention at Peterborough on July 27th, 28th and 29th the largest and most successful in the history of the Association.

This can only be done by the members taking a special interest and arranging to be present in large numbers, prepared to enter enthusiastically into the discussion, thereby making the various sessions not only lively and entertaining but likewise instructive and inspiring.

This gathering should mean much to the craft throughout the Dominion. Already the beneficial effects of these conventions have been most marked. The trade has been placed on a higher plane and general conditions have been greatly improved wherever local associations have been organized.

The Executive Committee have arranged a splendid programme, which should attract every practical opportunity and are placed in capable hands. Here is the programme:

1. Call to order.
2. Prayer.
4. Address of Welcome.
4. Roll Call of Officers.
5. President's Address.
6. Appointment of Committees—(a) Credentials, (b) Resolutions, (c) Auditing, (d) President's Address.
7. Minutes of Last Convention and Executive Board Meeting.
8. Reports of Officers.
9. Demonstration in Cut Out Work—W. J. Bolus Co., Toronto.
10. Demonstration in Ornamental Glass Work—Fairclotb & Co. and Hughes & Co., Toronto.
11. Tinting in Water Colour and Relief Work—Professor Nelson.
12. Competition in Graining—Prizes by Association.
13. Practical Oil Tests—A. M. McKenzie, Hamilton.
14. Practical Lead Tests—J. B. Thomson, Toronto.
14. Paper "Period Decorations"—Member London Association.
16. Paper—"Colour Harmonies"—J. W. Freeman, Windsor.
17. Paper—"Painting on Cement"—E. J. Linington, Toronto.
18. Paper—"How a Shop Should be Conducted"—F. Patte, Oshawa.
19. "Painters of Our Town"—By a member from each town represented at the convention.
20. "Question Box"—To be in charge of experts.
21. Unfinished Business.
22. Election of Officers.
23. Adjournment.

The convention will not be tied down hard and fast to business only but many very pleasant social features are being arranged. Amongst these perhaps the most delightful will be a trip through the Kawartha Lakes, which takes place on the last day of the convention. The scenery of this district is second to none on the continent, in the world for that matter, being a continuous panorama of fascinating delight.

Then in addition to all the other special features there will be the opportunity of meeting two of the foremost leaders of the painting craft of this generation, Mr. John Dewar, of Pittsburg, Pa., ex-president of the International Association, and Mr. W. E. Wall, of Boston, Mass., late secretary-treasurer of the International Association. Mr. Dewar is an able and entertaining speaker, to whom it is a pleasure to listen, while Mr. Wall is well known to every master painter who has been in attendance at the annual conventions as one of the most capable and brilliant speakers on all subjects relative to the painting profession.

Mystery Of Proud Family Hangs On Words Of Woman And Missing Boy

MRS. MINNIE CABANNE-BRANDENBERG, AND HER SON, WHO HAS VANISHED FROM ST. LOUIS IN A SECOND MYSTERY.

St. Louis, July 24.—Another chapter has been added to the remarkable career of Broughton Brandenburg, magazine writer and adventurer, by the second disappearance from this city of his little stepson, Jas. Shepard Cabanne III. Brandenberg already stands accused of kidnapping the child once and taking him to San Francisco. It was there he was arrested on a charge of selling a forged interview with the late Grover Cleveland.

Cleared of the forgery charge in a New York court, Brandenburg had to stay in a cell here until bail was procured for him on the kidnapping charge.

Jas. Shepard Cabanne, father of the child, has left St. Louis also. His whereabouts are concealed by members of the aristocratic Cabanne family, the oldest west of the Mississippi.

It is a strange story, this of the Cabannes, aristocrats of a great city, and Brandenburg, adventurous world traveler, with a long record of exploits to his credit, as well as a record of imprisonment in many places.

Through it all one can se a repetition of the old story of how a womans' love for a man will lead her to the end of the earth for him.

Brandenburg married Mrs. Cabanne after a divorce sensation. The boy vanished, was brought back by officers, then vanished again. The second time the family feared a kidnapper was holding him for ransom. A man was seen talking with the boy near his home, on Cabanne ave., and this man was supposed to be a member of the black hand.

Now the child's mother and Brandenburg are believed to hold the secret of the boy's present whereabouts. The child will return and testify for Brandenburg, it is believed, when the trial of the author for the first kidnapping is held, in September.

Gossips say, too, a truce has been declared between Cabanne, former husband, and Brandenburg, present husband, of Mrs. Minnie Cabanne-Brandenburg. She has adjusted the enmity between the men and now becomes the central figure in the case.

Cohanne will not appear, his lawyer says, and the word of a woman with a romantic past will be depended on to save Brandenburg, whose life story reads like an ancient chevalier's exploits.

What ill-star has followed Brandenburg? And why has he escaped all his accusers after bitter fights?

Is it the charm of his wife, who forsook her place as mistress of a proud family's household for a career of adventure with the traveller and writer?

St. Louis society never will know unless she tells the story herself when her husband faces his accusers here.

One Month In Jail For Using Axe On House

Harry Raymond's Little Hatchet Helped to Provide Firewood When the Shed Was Empty —But Finally Got Him Into Trouble.

IT WAS NOT HIS HOUSE

Because his wood pile had thinned down during the cold weather that was no reason why Harry Raymond should have pulled boards off the barn, torn collar joists out of the garret and cut down posts in the cellar of the house he had rented on Edinburgh St. Added to that he paid $2.50 for his tenancy from January 14 until he left in March. This morning Magistrate Dumble reminded him of the fact that this destructiveness was criminal and Raymond was sentenced to one month in gaol.

The house was a double one, Charlie Clark occupying one-half and Raymond the other. The rent "per half" was five dollars a month, and Raymond paid $2.50 down before beginning his tenancy. Considerable evidence was taken and Magistrate Dumble was satisfied that Raymond had shown little respect for the house. Landlords were protected against such a class of tenants and the accused had used his little hatchet too freely.

THE EVANGELISTS

Rev. Mr. Young Gave an Inspiring Address Last Evening.

The meeting last night in the Evangelistic tent was well attended in spite of the disagreeable weather. Mr. Whelan was the leader for the evening and the speaker was Mr. A. C. Young. Mr. Young gave an inspiring address from I Chronicles, speaking on the heading, "Humility and Prayer," the necessary preparations and conditions for spiritual life. The speaker closed with an earnest appeal for those present to accept their personal responsibility and to employ their spiritual life without delay.

To-night there will be a special service for men with Rev. R. Pogue as the speaker, and Mr. McCann, leader.

TWO GIRL SLAVES ARE HELD BY CHINAMEN

Almond-Eyed Maidens Tell of the Brutal Treatment They Have Received—Were Sold by Their Relatives and Taken to New York's Chinatown To Live.

New York, July 23.—Two round-cheeked little maids, their almond eyes very, very wide, their straight bangs brushed flat across their foreheads, their black braids, laced with scarlet silk, hanging precisely down the middle of their backs, stood demurely before Justice Wyatt in the Children's Court to-day, and swore to a story which left little sympathy in those who heard for two elderly celestial merchants, who reported their "children" missing to the police last Wednesday night, for both little girls, who can make themselves understoode in English, swore they have no parents living in America, and they have been held here against their will as household slaves, harshly treated, and forced to work long hours. They were accompanied by an agent of the Children's Society, who had found them on the day of their disappearance from the Chinamen at Eastside Parish House, with Miss Mary E. Bank, their Sunday school teacher, whom they had recently accompanied on a week's outing to the country. To the Superintendent of the society the two made a sworn statement, in part as follows, which was read to-day in court:

Sold by Her Grandmother

"My name is Moy Yum Toq. By Chinese reckoning I am fifteen; by American, fourteen. My father died when I was very young, and my mother married again, and left me alone with my grandmother, who was very, very poor, and I was sold to the wife of Moy See Chai, and she brought me over here to America about two years ago, and I have been with her ever since. I have had to work very hard in the house, making buttons and button loops from early morning until late at night. When I take a rest I get scolded and beaten. Whenever my mistress' boy called to me to do certain things, and when I was not able to do it fast enough the boy would beat me.

"I do not want to say anything that is not true against them; they fed me well. But my mistress once told me: 'If I killed you they could only arrest me.'"

Nineteen Hours' Work a Day

Chin Fing Toy's narrative was similar. She was sold in China for $160, she said, brought to this country and sold again for $500 gold, and has been with her present master ever since, some nine months, making buttons and button loops for the stores.

"Some mornings," her statement reads, "I had to get up at 7 o'clock and sometimes work every night on until 2 o'clock in the morning. I was not allowed to go out.

"If I don't work all the time I get beaten. I had to do all the washing—sheets and all. The only teaching I ever received was by Miss Bank, who taught me for an hour or so every Monday.

"I would rather dies than go back to Mott street."

West Peterborough Protest Mr. Burnham Seeks More Delay

A motion was made before the Hon. Mr. Justice Magee at Osgoode Hall Toronto on behalf of Mr. Stratton to compel Mr. Burnham to attend for examination for discovery and to compel him to answer certain questions which Mr. Burnham refused to answer on his examination on the 28th of June, and also to compel Mr. Burnham to produce certain documents which he failed to produce on his examination.

The material used on the motion showed that the examination for discovery took place on the 28th of June and that it was adjourned without any objection on the part of Mr. Burnham, until the 6th July, when for the first time Mr. Moore, on behalf of Mr. Burnham, attended on the examination and stated that he was not prepared to go on with the examination during long vacation.

The above motion was thereupon made by Mr. Stratton and came before the court on the 13th inst. Mr. Burnham's counsel secured an adjournment until the 20th inst. and Mr. Smith on behalf of Mr. Stratton, protested against an adjournment because it might result in the postponement of the trial, and that it was of the utmost importance that the examination he proceeded with, and that Mr. Burnham be forced to attend and answer the questions and produce the documents so as to enable the respondent, Mr. Stratton, to prepare for trial.

The motion again came on before the court on the 20th inst., and at Mr. Burnham's request was adjourned until the 23rd inst., in spite of the objections offered on behalf of Mr. Stratton, that it would probably result in the postponement of the trial.

The motion again came before the Court on the 23rd inst., and at the request of Mr. Burnham's counsel, was again adjourned until the 28th inst., on the ground that he desired to secure an affidavit from Mr. Burnham to give reasons why he refused to answer the questions and why he declined to produce the documents in question. To the granting of this adjournment Mr. Smith, on behalf of Mr. Stratton, offered very vigorous objections, stating that it was handicapping Mr. Stratton in preparing for trial on the 7th of September and that it would probably result in the postponement of the trial, but in spite of these protests Mr. Burnham's counsel takes chances on the trial being postponed.

Another motion in these protest proceedings was heard before the Hon. Mr. Justice Magee at the same time and was argued at length for the purpose of compelling Mr. Burnham to furnish definite particulars of his charges against Mr. Stratton. It was alleged on behalf of the respondent that many of the charges were vague and indefinite and should be struck out or else fuller particulars given so as to enable the respondent to prepare to meet them at the trial. After a lengthy argument of three hours the Judge reserved judgment upon the last mentioned motion.

LAUNCH BADLY DAMAGED TO-DAY

Special to The Examiner 12.30 p.m.

Kingston, Ont., July 24. — The launch Capriee, run by gasoline, exploded last night, the explosion damaging the boat and badly injuring A. Turcotte and W. Little, working on her. The craft is owned by Mr. R. W. Travers, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Peterborough, who brought it here from Brockville, to be forwarded by rail. The men were getting her ready by lantern light, when a leaky gasoline tank caught fire and the explosion followed. Turcotte's burns are serious.

Mr. Travers stated to the Examiner this morning that the boat was insured. She was finished in mahogany, hunting style.

The men were pumping out a leak when Turcotte pushed a lighted lantern into the cabin, filled with Naptha. The top of the cabin was blown off by the terrific explosion. Little fell into the water and Turcotte was rendered unconscious. The damage was $700.

Former Resident Of North Monaghan Has Chatham Call

The Amherstburg Echo contains the following item:

"John Wilson and John Bertrand, elders of the Presbyterian Church, supported the call to Rev. Dr. Campbell at the Chatham Presbytery in Chatham, Tuesday. The call was sustained and Mr. Campbell has accepted. The reverend gentleman has been recived very warmly by the Harrow congregation, and under his pastorate, no doubt the church will enter upon a new era of prosperity. Mr. Campbell is a native of Peterborough. He was educated at Toronto University and Knox College, and was first called to the Presbyterian church at Ottawa. He was there for some years when the church burned down, and he then went south, becoming pastor of the Norfolk, Va., church, which he retained until recently. Mr. Campbell's educational attainments and experience fit him to be an exceptionally acceptable pastor in Harrow."

Rev. Doctor Campbell was a former resident of North Monaghan, and his friends in this locality will be interested in learning from the foregoing that the Reverend Doctor has returned from Norfolk, Va., to his native Province.

Another Old Resident Of The City Has Passed Away

The hand of death has removed another old resident of Peterborough, in the person of Miss Bridget McMahon, whose death occurred yesterday afternoon after a compartively long illness. The deceased, who was eighty years of age, had been a resident of Peterborough for a very long term of years, and was well known to a large number of citizens who will regret to learn of her demise. She has been ill for some time with a complication of diseases.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Hardwick, of Lindsay.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock, from her late residence, Lake street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

MEANINGLESS WORDS.

Sir James Whitney is a strong talker and in making statements does not hesitate to draw the long bow to the feather. Speaking at the Conservative picnic at Jackson's Point on Wednesday, he declared that wicked persons had been fibbing about the Government's Power Act, "and further that its legislation does not take away from any man his property without compensation, does not prevent and has not prevented him from carrying to the highest court of appeal any claim for or to property of any kind, aid does not shut off anybody from appealing to the highest court in the realm." This is a bold quasi official statement by the head of a government who accuses others of lying about his government power act. How does it square with the facts. For instance a Toronto man found that before he could proceed against the Hydro-Electric Commission he must, under Sir James Whitney's, obtain the permission of the Attorney-General; because the power act prevented any citizen from bringing suit against the Commission without the Governments' fiat. He applied for this fiat. Sir James Whitney personally heard the application and refused to grant it. Some other suits were brought by aggrieved citizens, in which this legislation was involved.

Sir James then put through an act specifically declaring that "Every action which has been heretofore brought and is now pending * * * calling in question the jurisdiction, power, or authority of the Commission * * * to do any of the acts which the said recited acts authorise to be exercised or done by the Commission * * * shall be and the same is hereby forever stayed." How does the fact that persons having suits "pending," are "forever stayed" from attempting to secure the recognition of what they consider just claims in the courts, compare with Sir James' statements, that his legislation "does not prevent and has not prevented any man from carrying to the highest court of appeal any claim and does not shut off anybody from appealing to the highest court in the realm." Either Sir James' Act does not mean anything or he does not mean what he says. In either event the public are at sea as to the meaning of plain words of the English language? His language is meaningless to the bulk of the people who read it. In the way of legal quibble his statements may be regarded as justifiable expedients of special pleading.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY

We are told that the water falling drop by drop will wear the hardest rock away. Continual agitation and urging are necessary , where popular apathy and civic indifference obstruct the various processes that are concerned in the making of the city beautiful. We, in Peterborough, still cling to the idea that we have the most progressive city in Ontario. That is true in many ways. There are, however, occasional developments, in regard to other cities of lesser size and lesser natural and supplied advantages, which tend to shake our complacency and lead as to revise our point of view.

The Water Commissioners have returned from a little jaunt and, aside from the specific object of their visit, they did not have their eyes shut. Chatham has much less than our population and has inferior transportation facilities and inferior advantages of site, and is industrially and commercially less important, as shown by the fact that it has only 12,000 of population as against Peterborough's 16,000, that in 1908 the value of Chatham's manufactures was 3,500,220, and that for Peterborough, 11,648,895. Yet the Water Commissioners tell us that Chatham excels Peterborough in its municipal buildings and the conditions of its principal streets. Chatham has fourteen miles of streets paved—the business streets with vitrified brick and the residence streets with bitulithic.

This is a distinct advance over Peterborough where we have not a single foot of paved streets. Our streets have only one thing to be proud of; one thing that is a potent factor in city beauty—splendid lines of splendid shade trees. We need them there to distract the gaze from our neglected and disreputable and vicious streets—for they are guilty of obtaining money on false pretences— that is they fail to account in the way of condition for the large sums that they swallow up year after year. It only needs a little saunter after the rain of Friday to notice the neglected condition of our streets. Where configuration of surface, favours perfect drainage, we had standing pools of water and mud, gutters, that if attended to would carry off water, dammed with rubbish and last year's heaps of leaves, or by the hump of a slovenly-filled sewer or gas or water works service trench.

Under such conditions prevailing all over the city why should not our streets be untidy and unbeautiful? These conditions are the result of criminal neglect and masterly indifference, and represent besides a waste of public money.

Abutting such streets we find lines of disfigured boulevard, mingled with trim well kept ones, extending the frontage of a few finely kept lawns and overhung by shade trees, glorious as to leafage, but neglected and untrimmed or improperly trimmed, broken, however here and there by unsightly gaps where trees have died or been destroyed and not replaced.

This indicates that to insure the greatest beauty of civic effect we should have our shade trees placed in charge of something like a park commission. This would insure their proper care and training. Trees are almost invariably planted upon our streets too closely together. In time they become a shapeless mass, one tree crowding on another with the result that both are injuriously affected, lawns become too much shaded and the quality of turf becomes deteriorated. Trees like children should be trained and "trimmed"—in the literal and figurative sense — from infancy. Every year some trimming should be done, and not left till it is forced, when huge limbs have to be sacrificed to the injury, of the vitality of the tree sometimes even unto death.

Where uniformity is to be aimed at, as in street lines, trees should be planted in straight rows, and boulevards should be of uniform width and level. The same should also apply to the level of lawns on unfenced streets. On almost every street in the city one sees lawns, at half a dozen different levels—up and down—to the destruction of the smooth uniform sweep of green, well shaven turf which would result if there were uniformity in this respect.

The same applies to the site of residences. On the same residence street one will see one house set ten feet back from the pavement, another twenty, another thirty and another fifty feet, as could be shown on certain typical streets. This is destructive of good results and the beauty that comes of uniformity in these and similar regards. But in another respect there is a deadly uniformity. sameness of style. One man builds a house of a certain style, his neighbour follows his example till all over the city we have a deadly dullness of sameness. The wives of these men would rather have no new dress at all than one like her neighbours'. But builders don't seem to have any pride of originslity in building lines; one house is a slavish copy of another. In street lines and in the lines of residences uniformity and straight lines make for beauty, but for the sake of variety,variation in architectural style is demanded as 'accidentals" are introduced into music to emphasize the beauty of the melody.

This is a matter, however, that cannot be controlled by any authority. People have a perfect right to build where they like, and what the like on their property. The only way to produce desirable results is to rouse the spirit of co-operation and develop in sense of responsibility of each citizen towards his neighbour and towards the public. But in the matter of clean well-paved streets, well drained, and kept clean and tidy, the city has the power to produce the most delightful and satisfactory results. We can't expect these things under the present municipal system. With constantly changing personnel of councils and Boards of Works, the adoption of system in difficult, if not impossible and till we get that we shall not have good streets and good value for our money nor a city beautiful as to its streets and worthy of its splendid avenues of beautiful trees and the beautiful lawns or private grounds sheltered behind them.

In a word we must have co-operation—working together with a common object. Those who feel the responsibility of contributing to the beautification of the city must infuse their zeal into others. The city authorities must be brought to work in harmony with the citizens at large. If we can accomplish this we shall have one of the most beautiful cities in fact—as it is in possibility—in the Dominion.

If everybody would do a little to add to the attractiveness of his premises or refrain from doing things that mar their attractiveness; if the city would only take a half decent interest in treating the streets in a similar spirit, Peterborough would be revolutionized in beauty of appearance and attractiveness as a home in a single year.

BURLEIGH FALLS POWER

The City Council is acting wisely in not plunging in the matter of acquiring the Burleigh Falls power privilege while the acquirement of additional power by the city is imperatively necessary; the situation is not presently so urgent as to lightly assume the great financial responsibility involved in the purchase of the lease of the company now in possession. If we are to pay $120,000 for a power, held at so small a yearly rental, we should be certain that we get the power we are assured we are getting. It is therefore only ordinary business prudence that suggests minute examination by an independent engineer. The people will want to be convinced that the Burleigh Falls power is "all there," before they sanction an expenditure of $120,000 to acquire a lease which is partially expired, not to speak of the additional cost that must be incurred before power for transmission is available. The people refused to incur an interest charge of some $600 a year by expending $15,000 to develop power in connection with the new Water Works dam and they will have to be well assured that they are getting value for their money before they will consent to the expenditure of $120,000. One thing is certain; Peterborough must have additional power and the chief question is its acquirement on the best terms. Since the negotiations with the Burleigh Falls people began, the Healey Falls power has come into the market by the cancellation of the lease to the Central Ontario Power Company. This widens the whole field and suggests the possibility ofn egotiating for the acquirement of power on reasonable terms.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

The feasability of government and municipal ownership of public utilities is still in the tentative stage, still on trial. Australia has been regarded as a pioneer in this matter, and opinion is divided as to its desirability. We have the testmony of a Canadian as a contribution to the evidence on this subject.. Col. John Steacy, a former resident of St. Thomas, Ont., but for the last five years a resident of Sydney, Australia, is paying a visit to his old home in this country. An interview with this gentleman published in the St. Thomas Times, of June 18th, 1909, gives some interesting information regarding conditions in our sister colony of the antipodes. Amongst other things he says:

Progress is retarded by government control of the chief industries. The railways, telephones, telegraphs, street railways, etc., are all owned by the government. Anyone with experience in Canada in the old days of the Intercolonial can form a pretty good idea of what government ownership of industries of this kind means.

"The average government employee takes it pretty easily, although there are cases of over-worked employees, which came out in the evidence given to the many royal commissions appointed from time to time to inspect the unbusiness-like control of the various institutions. The telephone service, which which is in a wretched condition, is being investigated in this way at the present time"

This bears out the palpable truciism that government ownership is as effective as private operation, only when it is as well managed. It is all a matter of administration. In private or corporate management of utilities operated ostensibly in the public interest or for the public use, there is the tendency to "take it out of the public. In Canada this tendency is neutralised effectively by our having placed railways, express companies, telegraph and telephone systems under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission. In respect of the safeguarding of public rights and the protection of the public from extortionate rates and undesirable treatment, every advantage that could be expected from public ownership, with the avoidance of the disadvantages that attend government operation, is gained. There is a clear limit to what governments and municipalities can do, and that limit seems to be easily reached in the comparison of the success as from a commercial—profitable —point of view of the relative efficiency of government or municipal and private or corporate operation.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

This is, says the Ottawa Free Press, distinctly a year of triumphs for Canadian woman authors. The Navy League prize for the best essay upon Imperial defence was won by a Toronto lady, and now it is announced that the prize offered by the Canadian edition of Colliey's for the best national anthem to the air of "O Canada" has been won by a woman, and more than that the three best songs, selected out of hundreds entered in the competition, were by women. Good for la belle Canadienne!

A CREDIT TO LIBERAL GOVERNMENT.

(Brantford Expositor.

The final acceptance by the French chambers of the Franco-Canadian trade convention is a decided triumph for the Fielding Government, and will be of great value to Canadian agricultural implement makers in their competition with United States manufacturers. Out of $1,000 of such machines imported into France in 1907, there were $6,000 of American make and 11,000 of Canadian. In the new situation made by the Canadian agreement, Canadian makers will have an advantage of $3.85 on a mower, $4.62 on a reaper, $8.20 on a binder, and $1.91 on a hay rake. This assurance from Washington, based on the reports of consular agents, will not cause any regret in this country. It will have one result, if no other, namely that of inducing American makers already established in Canada to do a larger portion of their work for the foreign trade in their Canadian factories.

CHECK FORGER HAS BEEN CAUGHT

Rubber Die Used to Mark Checks "Accepted" Cannot Be Located—Anderson Was Presenting a Big Check When Arrested — He Is Wanted In Several Cities In United States and Canada.

Toronto, July 24.—After a holiday extending from March 9 last, John Alfred Graham Anderson, former ledgerkeeper of the Bank of Montreal, Portland and Queen street branch of this city, was yesterday landed by the police at the Hotel Vancouver, in Vancouver. He was caught while attempting to cash a check for $1,900. The "accepted" stamp of the Bank of Montreal, which was the chief instrument in his forging, has not been found. He is wanted here and in many cities in the United States and Europe for forgeries upon which he secured amounts which run into several thousand dollars. He attempted to pass a check at the hotel in Vancouver and was reported to the bank. Detective Murray will leave immediately to bring him here for trial.

Anderson, who had been employed in the bank for a number of years and was widely and favorably known, being the son of a well-to-do doctor at Newcastle, Ont., left the bank in March, saying that he was tired and wanted a holiday. He said that he intended to travel and was given a send-off by his friends. When he went he took with him the stamp with which he marked checks "accepted." This has been his great asset in his series of swindles. "Accepted" checks upon reputable banks are easy to cash the world over.

Shortly after his disappearance the worthless checks began to arrive, yet it was not for some time that he was suspected. It would appear that he cut down into the States and thence crossed the ocean. In April checks were cashed for $15 at the Dominion Bank, Windsor, and the National Bank, Detroit.

Others come in from the New Denison Hotel, Indianapolis, Ind., April 16, for $35; from J. L. Brandis & Son, Omaha, Neb., for $450; from Chicago, for $200; from Los Angeles, Cal., for $300; from San Francisco, where he made his biggest haul of $750; from Burlington, Va., where he secured $15 from the Y.M.C.A.; in Boston, from the Bank of Nova Scotia, he secured $15. Then from Paris, France, came a check through the Bank of France for $250.

In Canada, he cashed checks at the Royal Bank, Montreal, for $75; at the Quebec Bank, Pembroke, $15; at the Imperial and Commerce Banks, Galt, for $25 and $15 respectively, and also at Gananoque and Toronto.

He is known to have been at Gananoque a few days ago and must have been taken in Vancouver shortly after arriving there.

Big Bank Merger.

London, July 24.—The directors of the London and Westminster Bank, Ltd., and the London and County Banking Co., Ltd., have agreed to amalgamate subject to the consent of the shareholders.

The two concerns have a combined capital of $110,000,000 and their deposits aggregate $360,000,000.

The banks together cover some 106 branches in Greater London, while the London and County Banking Co. maintain nearly 200 branches in the provinces.

Want Roosevelt for Mayor.

Paris, July 24.—John S. Wise, jr., of New York, who is now visiting Paris, says that former President Roosevelt, just prior to his departure from New York on his African hunting expedition, promised him and other Republicans in New York that he would return in time for the mayoralty campaign.

Mr. Wise says he has not given up the hope that Mr. Roosevelt will head the mayoralty ticket in New York this autumn.

CANUCKS HAVE A GOOD CHANCE

Canada Has Still a Good Shot for Winning Blue Ribbon of Rifle Competitions—Huggins and McGinnes Stand at the Top of Remaining Canucks — Other Prizes Won Yesterday at Bisley, Eng.

Bisley Camp, July 24.—Staff-Sergt. Stack of Truro, N.S., in the shoot-off for a place in the King's Prize, third stage, was successful in winning one of the two places, which were competed for by 28 others.

The total score in the third stage over the three ranges is 150—ten shots at each range. Sergt. Stack can equal last year's winning score of 325 by making 149 out of the possible 150 in this stage.

There are now the following seven Canadians in this final stage, which is shot off to-day: Sergt.-Major Huggins of Hamilton, Corpl. McGinnes of Edmonton, Lieut. Morris of Bowmanville, Sergt. W. A. Smith of Ottawa, Sergt. Blackburn of Winnipeg, Sergt. Freeborn of Hamilton and Sergt. Stack of Truro.

This is the present standing:

| | 1st Stage. | 2nd. Stage. | Tot. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Sgt.-Maj. Huggins | 96 | 91 | 187 |
| Corpl. McGinnes | 95 | 94 | 189 |
| Sergt. Blackburn | 95 | 94 | 189 |
| Col.-Sergt. Freeborn | 99 | 89 | 188 |
| Lieut. Morris | 100 | 88 | 188 |
| Sergt. Smith | 95 | 91 | 186 |
| Staff-Sergt. Stack | 95 | 90 | 185 |

The third stage, open to the 100 competitors making the highest places in the first and second stages combined, is at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards (aggregate), ten shots at each distance. The places of all competitors in the second and third stages will be decided by the aggregate of the scores made by them in all the stages in which they fire.

It is interesting to note that the man making the highest score in the first and second stages of the King's Prize has not yet managed to win the great trophy. Canada still has a good chance to lift it.

The highest score yet made in this competition, that of 385, made by Pte. J. Gray of the 5th Scottish Rifles last year, can be equalled by either Sergt.-Major Huggins of the 13th, Hamilton, or Corpl. D. McGinnes of Edmonton, if they make only 135 out of 155 at the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges of this third stage. To equal this score, also, Sergt. Blackburn of Winnipeg must make 136, and Col.-Sergt. Freeborn of Hamilton and Lieut. Morris of Bowmanville 137 each, out of 155.

Lieut. Mortimer was first in the "Range Prizes," competition at 500 yards, in the first stage of the King's Prize, and won a rifle presented by the Birmingham Small Arms Co. and $25. Sergt. Russell was second, winning a rifle and $25; Staff-Sergt. Bayles, 4th, $5; Corpl. Albert Sprinks, 26th, $5.

In the "Range Prizes," at 600 yards in the King's Prize, Staff-Sergt. Mitchell was 18th, winning $5; Sergt.-Major Huggins, 19th, $5; Col.-Sergt. Freeborn, 31st, $5.

In the King's Prize list those who failed to get into the third stage rank are as follows: Sergt. Russell, 166th; Major Jones, 141st; Sergt.-Major Creighton, 165th; Corpl. A. Sprinks, 194th; Sergt. Kelly, 200th, and Pte. H. D. Gougeon, 236th.

Russell, Jones and Creighton win $30; Sprinks, Kelly and Gougeon, $15.

In the Corporation of the City of London, open only to Indian and colonial volunteers, Col.-Sergt. Freeborn was 2nd, winning $75; Staff-Sergt. Mitchell, 4th, $50; Sergt-Sergt. Richardson, 5th, $37.50; Lieut. Smith, 6th, $37.50; Corpl. McGinnes, 7th, $25; Sergt. Smith, 8th, $25; Sergt.-Major Huggins, 10th, $25; Lieut. Morris, 12th, $25.

Lieut. Smith is second in the Elkington Cup competition, winning $10; Sergt. Smith, 40th, also won $10.

The Elkington prizes are awarded to the competitors whose respective scores in the Secretary of State for War, Duke of Cambridge, Imperial Tobacco, make up the highest aggregates.

The portfolios of War and the Navy will be filled to-day. These have been offered respectively to Gen. Brun and Admiral Roue de la Payrene, and both are expected to accept.

The post of Under-Secretary of Posts and Telegraphs, which was held by M. Simyan, whose resignation was demanded during the recent strike of postmen and telegraphers by the Socialists, will be suppressed. An Under-Secretaryship of Finance will be created and the office given to Rene Renoult. M. Dujardin-Beaumetz will remain as Under Secretary of Public Works, Instruction and Beaux-arts.

M. Briand had considerable difficulty in appeasing the appetites aroused by the fall of the Cabinet and only satisfied the Radicals, who charged him with being a Socialist, by the statement, "I intend to complete the work of the Clemenceau Cabinet and carry out the wishes of the President and form a Republican Cabinet committed to Republican policies."

First Crossing Order.

Ottawa, July 24.—The legislation of last session providing for the gradual elimination of level crossings has been put into effect by the Railway Commission in the case of the Raglan street crossing at Renfrew.

The commission orders that it must be protected by gates and by a watchman. Twenty per cent. of the cost of erecting the gates will be paid out of the Federal fund; the balance must be paid by the C.P.R. The watchman is to be paid half by the company and half by the town.

Arson the Charge.

London, July 24.—Edward N. Mara, a farmer of McGillivray Township, was arrested Thursday on the charge of burning a barn belonging to Geo. Cater on June 25.

The Attorney-General's Department were notified and Thursday Provincial Detective Rebern and High Constable Hughes went out and arrested Mara. He appeared before Squire Chittick, who remanded him for a week.

Prince Renounces Throne.

Lisbon, July 24.—Prince Miguel of Braganza, eldest son of Duke Michael, the pretender to the Portuguese throne, yesterday renounced forever his rights to the throne of Portugal in order to marry Miss Anita Stewart, daughter of Mrs. James Henry Smith of New York. The prince's engagement to Miss Stewart was announced on July 9.

Gatineau Store Burns.

Ottawa, July 24.—Defective electric wiring early yesterday morning caused the destruction of the general store owned by Wm. Smith at Gatineau Point. The loss is about $15,000, with insurance of only about $5,000.

Storm Destroys Town.

Velasco, Texas, July 24.—The storm practically destroyed this town. Not more than a dozen houses stand. The big hotel on the beach is a mass of debris. The gulf waters were driven inland for nearly three miles.

WRESTLING WITH TARIFF.

U. S. Senators Are Engaged In a Mighty Struggle.

Washington, July 24.—While no agreement was reached by the tariff conferees yesterday on coal, lumber, hides, oil, iron ore, the cotton schedule or wood pulp and print paper, it was said last night, by the conferees after an adjournment for the day that the prospects of settling these big questions to-day were excellent.

Should the conference complete its work to-day, it would be impossible to report it before Tuesday as the House, which agreed to the conference on the tariff bill and therefore, under rules must receive it before the Senate, adjourned yesterday until Tuesday.

Heroic measures were put into operation yesterday in an effort to compose differences existing between the Senate and the House on the tariff bill and to carry out President Taft's program for a reduction of duties on raw materials.

All except the actual conferees were excluded from the chamber and it was agreed that discussions leading up to a settlement of any of the subjects familiarly termed "national issues," should be regarded as confidential.

As the question of hides is giving the committee more trouble than any other of the schedules that have claimed the attention of the conference, it was discussed first.

After adjournment, Senators Lodge and Crane, and Representative McCall of Massachusetts had a long consultation with Senator Aldrich. It is not known what understanding, if any, was reached, but it would surprise very few outside of the conference chamber if an agreement is reached to-day substantially reducing the duties on hides and all leather goods.

Five Years for Labor Leader.

New York, July 24.—Cornelius P. Shea, the former president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, who was found guilty on Wednesday of attempting to murder Alice Walsh, a former Chicago waitress with whom he had lived, was sentenced yesterday to not less than five nor more than twenty-five years in prison.

"Your services for humanity are urged in your behalf," said the court, "because you have been active in the affairs of organized labor. There is a prejudice against organized labor, because such men as you dominate it with your brutal methods and your coarse, offensive personality, and a part of the community has come to look upon organized labor as being composed of brutes and securing their victories by brutal methods. But that is all wrong, I believe I am helping the cause of organized labor by ridding it of one such as you, and sending you to state prison."

Alleged Robbers Arraigned.

Ottawa, July 24.—Howard C. Conrad and Charles A. Wood were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday morning on a charge of stealing a tray of diamonds from MacMillan's store.

They have been positively identified by the clerks as two of the men who were in the store at the time of the robbery.

The third man, James Maward, alias Howard, is still under surveillance in the cells. He has not recovered from his morphine debauch, but has already given out statements which seem to positively identify him as being one of the gang. The fourth man, who escaped, leaving a watermelon behind him on the train, is supposed to have the goods on his person, and every effort will be made to locate him. He is believed to be either in Montreal or Toronto.

Largest Output Since Strike.

Glace Bay, N.S., July 24.—The coal company officials claim that the strike situation is satisfactory from the company's standpoint, and that the company is slowly but surely gaining ground. The output is showing a substantial daily increase, while a considerable number of men are returning to work.

The output Thursday was 9,502 tons, which is the largest of any day since the strike started. The normal output it about 14,000 tons daily.

Connaught Resigns.

London, July 24.—According to The Daily Express, the Duke of Connaught has resigned the inspectorship of the Mediterranean forces on the ground of "the ineffective nature of the work and the useless expense to the nation involved therein."

The Duke of Connaught was appointed in January, 1908, to a command comprising the garrisons at Malta and Gibraltar, and all the British troops in Egypt, the Soudan, Crete and Cyprus.

Drowned on His Farm.

Paris, July 24.—Richard Lawson, aged 60, of Falkland, was drowned in the River Nith on his farm yesterday morning. He went out to work in the wheat field at 6.30, and shortly after was missed and was found lying in a foot of water half a mile from the wheat field, in which he was working.

Dr. Mills Recovering.

Guelph, July 24.—Dr. Mills of the Dominion Railway Commission has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to leave the city. Accompanied by his family yesterday morning he departed for Forest Nook, on the Magnetawan River, Muskoka, where they will spend the remainder of the summer.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Considerable damage was caused by the storm at Hamilton and Huntsville.

The report of the Conciliation Board on the Springhill mines dispute is in favor of the company.

Robert Smith of Cornwall, Ont., was found dead of gas poisoning in his room at Andover, Mass.

The indications are that the British Government will order four greater Dreadnoughts immediately.

A foreigner, supposed to be one of the gang who robbed the bank at Rainy River, has been arrested at Winnipeg.

A peculiar disease has broken out among horses in the Peterboro district and several deaths are reported. The outbreak is a serious one.

A deal was consummated by which the T. Eaton Co., Ltd., of Toronto will occupy the entire three top floors of the new J. A. Jacobs building at the corner of St. Catherine and St. Alexander streets, Montreal, and adjoining the Princess Theatre.

Earl Grey Returns.

Quebec, July 24.—Earl Grey arrived yesterday morning on the Empress of Ireland. He was met at the landing by Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lieutenant-Governor Sir Alphonse Pelletier.

His Excellency is the picture of health. He was driven to the vice-regal quarters at the citadel and left at 2 o'clock for Ottawa.

A young woman from London, Eng., named McMillan, 28 years of age, died on board the Empress of Ireland during the voyage. She was accompanied by her husband and two children and was en route for Vancouver.

Among the passengers by the Empress of Ireland was the Lord Bishop of Chichester, besides a number of prominent Canadians.

Fight Died In Parliament.

Melbourne, Australia, July 24.—At 3 o'clock yesterday morning, after an all night sitting, Sir Frederick Holder, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was seized with a fit and fell to the floor. The House immediately adjourned. He died in the afternoon.

Hon. Sir Frederick William Holder, K.C.M.G., J.P., M.P., was the first Speaker of the Australian House of Representatives, and was appointed in 1901. He was a native of Australia, and served on many important commissions during his political career. He was Premier and Treasurer of the Commonwealth at various times, his first term being 1904 to 1901. He was elected to the Federal Parliament for South Australia in the latter year.

Big 'Phone Merger.

Pittsburg, July 24.—Absolute control of the Central District & Printing Telegraph Co., the local Bell Telephone concern, is to pass into the hands of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

In discussing the deal, M. H. Buchleg, general manager of the Bell Telephone Co., said:

"This is the fourth deal in a movement which will eventually extend over the entire country. The local deal has been pending for some time, and is but a part of a movement on the part of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to consolidate all the Bell companies in the United States under one head."

Boys Soap Track.

New York, July 24.—Mischievous boys soaped an inclined track on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit System in Brooklyn Thursday night, causing a heavily loaded flat car to slide off and crash into a trolley car.

Three persons were so badly injured that they will die, and twenty others were hurt. There was a panic among the passengers, who were on their way from Coney Island. Men, women and children fought their way out of the wreck and it was only by good fortune that the casualties were not greater.

Smith Pleads Guilty.

Guelph, July 24.—Wm. Smith, the harness thief, arrested in Toronto recently, charged with the wholesale theft of nearly a score of sets of harness at various points throughout the province, appeared before Judge Chadwick yesterday morning, after pleading guilty before the police magistrate to three charges of stealing in Guelph and vicinity. He again pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

King Peter Ill.

Vienna, July 24.—Private telegrams from Belgrade, Servia, say that the condition of King Peter is arousing great anxiety. It is added that his sudden death would cause no surprise.

BAGS OF GOLD USED AS BARRICADE IN A FIERCE FIGHT

Madrid, July 24.—A night watchman who entrenched himself in the underground strong room of the national pawn shop kept the entire police force of Madrid at bay a few nights ago. He ended the siege by committing suicide.

The watchman, whose name was Jose Navarro, quarrelled with another watchman named Thomas Gomes, and mortally wounded him.

Navarro then took refuge in the strong rom of the pawnshop, where ten rifles and 2,000 cartridges are kept for the use of the nightwatchmen who guard the building. The door of the strong room was opened, and Navarro piled bags of gold and packages of valuable articles in front, and fired at his pursuers from behind this barricade.

When the other watchmen hurried into the basement, accompanied by the governor of the institution and a score of police, Navarro greeted them with a succession of shots.

The police and watchmen returned the fire, and a continuous fusilade soon attracted a large crowd. Additional police were summoned, until the streets around the pawnshop, which is in the heart of Madrid, were filled with them.

Navarro ignored all commands to surrender. At last the police sent for his sister and his sweetheart, but they too, failed to move him or elicit any reply, save more shots.

At one o'clock in the morning the governor ordered the electric light wires to be cut, and the strong room was in darkness. Navarro continued to fire blindly.

At four o'clock he realised that prolonged resistance was useless. The police, who was entrenched in other parts of the basement, heard Navarro stumbling over his barricade. Then he threw a handful of gold and silver coins in the direction of the besieging force, shouting as he did so, "This is my requiem mass. Let us have done with this farce."

Then two reports ware heard. The police waited for an hour in silence, and then Navarro's brother made his way to the open door of the strong room. He found the dead body of the watchman lying at the foot of his barricade.

LOVE LEADS TO A TRAGEDY

Viennna, July 24.—A strange tragedy took place on the Danube steamer Josef Karl when it arrived at the Roumanian port of Ziurgievo recently.

A Turk, named Asan, one of the crew, had fallen in love with a pretty Roumanian peasant girl who was one of the passengers. When she rejected his advances he declared that he would land with her.

The girl appealed the captain, who ordered the crew to prvent Asan from leaving the steamer. Thereupon the Turk drew a knife and killed a sailor and wounded two others who tried to stop him from crossing the gangway.

Asan was then placed in irons, but he managed to reach the side of the steamer after it left Ziurgievo, and threw himself into the water. He was drowned before he could be saved.

CANADA AS SEEN BY THE PEOPLE OF RURAL ENGLAND

The Work Being Done by the Canadian Emigration Department's Touring Car—Mr. Frank O. Chapman Gives An Interesting Account of the Progress Being Made.

A recent issue of The Canadian Gazette, published in London, England, contains a very interesting article on "Canada in Rural England," in which is given an account of the work in the Old Land of Frank O. Chapman, a Canadian boy, who is now in charge of the Canadian Emigration department's touring motor van. The article is as follows:

A prominent and popular feature of many of the agricultural fairs held annually throughout rural England is the large 40-h.p. motor van maintained by the Canadian Emigration Department for the dissemination of information regarding the great Dominion. This motor van weighs about five tons, and is thirty-two feet long by eight feet wide and eleven feet high. It is filled with maps and pamphlets for distribution, and in the centre is a huge pyramid containing bottled small fruits; the doors are trimmed with grain.

A representative of the Canadian Gazette had an interesting chat with Mr. F. O. Chapman, who has had charge of the van during the last five seasons. Mr. Chapman combines with his knowledge of "things Canadian" an extremely useful practical knowledge of the mechanism of motor cars, and is consequently never nonplussed either by the most pointed questions of shrewd agriculturists or by the van in its occasional refractoriness.

"I am starting off again in a few days for the East and the Midlands," remarked Mr. Chapman, "making Chelmsford my first stop. The season lasts for eight months, and during that time I manage to work the country pretty thoroughly.

"When I arrive in a town the first thing I do is visit the chief of police or the mayor for the purpose of securing a prominent site for the van. I invariably find these officials most courteous and obliging and frequently get a position in front of the town hall. I try to pick up as many market days, shows and fairs as possible, as by doing so I naturally get in touch with more people than I otherwise would. The van proves a source of attraction and big crowds congregate around it, especially at night time, when it is illuminated by sixty electric lights. I have had as many as four thousand around the car during the course of an evening.

"I distribute pamphlets among those interested and answer all questions. Occasionally a détractor makes his presence known in a crowd, but as a rule the people are most attentive. The farmers even take off grain to inspect the kernel, and, if a request is specially made, I give away little sample bags of grain. Considerable interest is shown in the samples of fruit, which seem a source of wonder to many who never associated Canada with fruit growing. The inquiries are generally relative to the fares to Canada, the assurance of constant employment, and particularly to homesteading regulations and cost of operating. The last is a point of interest to farmers' sons who are in a position to go on a homestead without the necessity of working for others for some time, as the average laborer would have to do. I also find the farmers' sons are very anxious to meet me in the hotels where I am staying, after the van is shut down for the night, for the purpose of having private chats. In many cases they do not wish to make their inquiries in the presence of others and from 9.30 until 11 o'clock I am ready and willing to meet them and to give all information desired. Newspaper men often call around and have a chat with me. The van and its purpose make good 'copy' I presume, and naturally I am only too pleased to meet the representatives of the press.

"A leading feature of my work is the distribution of wall maps among the schools, and schoolmasters are very appreciative indeed in this respect. They also bring their scholars around for object lessons on Canada, and the children show great intelligence. I talk to them and present each scholar with an atlas, asking him or her to study it. The teachers are unanimous in stating that no other publication of its nature gives such full and comprehensive information as this Government atlas.

"I also find the vicars taking great interest, and they show a desire for knowledge. Vicars in country districts, you are aware, are called upon on all occasions for advice and guidance, and they wish to know exactly the conditions in the Dominion, to enable the mto be of assistance to their parishioners who are interested in Canada as a field for emigration.

"The van is, of course, left outside during the night, but there is never any cause for fearing damage. As I have said before, the police officials are particularly obliging, although there is little, if any call for their assistance. Occasionally, at a hiring fair towards the end of the day, when the boisterous element of the crowd is apt to get out of bounds, the chief of police will place a policeman at either side of the door to protect the wheat trimmings, but the behavior of the crowds, is, as a rule, most praiseworthy. During my tours, I met with the utmost courtesy, interest and attention, and undoubtedly the van has proven a most desirable medium for making known among the class which the department is desirous of reaching the opportunities offered in Canada to British settlers."

German Duellist A Human Target In Affair Of Honour

Each Took Turns With Gun and Had to Stand While the Other Deliberately Aimed and Fired—Remarkable Coolness Displayed

A DEGRADING "INCIDENT"

Berlin, July 24.—The cables gave the brief announcement of the fatal result of the duel between Lieutenant Schweitser and Lieutenant Granier, which was fought because of a quarrel between the two army officers over a question of politeness to a woman, but the dispatches gave none of the ferocious details that marked the encounter.

Lieutenant Granier was the challenger, and the encounter took place under the following mortal conditions:

1. Ten paces distance.
2. Allowance of thirty seconds to take aim.
3. Alternative shooting until one of the combatants was disabled.
4. Challenger to have the first shot.

Although duelling is illegal, this combat between the two officers wearing his Majesty's uniform took place so to speak, with the assistance of the State. Two doctors were present, and the scene of the duel, was guarded by two detachments of troops.

How the State Helped.

At the adjoining railway station a locomotive and ambulance car, both belonging of course, to the Prussian State Railways, stood in readiness to convey either of the combatants who should fall, to the nearest hospital at Halberstadt.

One of the strange features of this duel was that the comnatants did not, according to the set of conditions, fire simultaneously, or as nearly simultaneously as possible, but one after the other. The challenger, Lieutenant Granier, had the first shot, so that Lieutenant Schweitser was obliged to stand inactive while his opponent took aim at him for thirty seconds and fired.

Those who witnessed the duel declare that Lieutenant Granier took careful aim at Schweitser's head, but notwithstanding the distance between them was only ten paces he missed his opponent, but the bullet almost grazed Lieutenant Schweitser's ear. It was then Lieutentant Schweitser's turn to shoot, and Lieutenant Granier was obliged to stand equally passive while his opponent aimed at him for thirty seconds, and then fired.

Grim Human Target.

Lieutenant Schweitser's pistol, however, failed to discharge itself, but the seconds nevertheless decided that this must be counted as an accomplished shot. Again it became Lieutenant Schweitser's turn to stand still and inactive while Lieutenant Granier took another shot at him. This time Lieutenant Granier took equally careful aim, obviously putting the pistol somewhat lower, and the bullet passed through Lieutenant Schweitser's right lung, and remained in his body.

The wounded lieutenant fell to the ground and received first aid from the two doctors present. He was then conveyed to Halberstadt Hospital, where he died during the ensuing night. He was a young married man and the father of a two-year-old child. He left a widow.

His funeral at Helberstadt gave rise to silent demonstrations of profound sympathy, as the young officer enjoyed general popularity and respect. The distress of his young widow was indescribable.

DREADFUL CARNAGE FIGHT CONVICTS

St. Petersburg, July 24.—Full particulars have been received from Vilna of the desperate attempt at escape made by a number of convicts interned in the Government prison.

At 7.30 a.m. a few days ago one of the wardens entered the cell in which four prisonrs were confined. He had scarcely opened the door when they made a combined rush upon him, and one of them cut his throat with a knife. They took his keys and revolver, and proceeded to release four other convicts from a neighbouring cell. The eight prisoners then dashed along the main corridor, and attacked and killed two wardens, who attempted to stop them, cutting their throats and taking their revolvers.

On reaching the courtyard they shot down a warder who was stationed there, and started climbing the prison wall. The sentinel at the gate opened a fire upon them with his carbine, killing one of them on the spot, and severely wounding another. The survivors got clear of the prison, and ran out into the streets. Two of them attacked with daggers the first policeman they met, and inflicted mortal wounds upon him in the neck and throat.

A short distance further a second policeman drew his sword, and ordered them to stop. A furious fight ensued, as the result of which the policeman cut down two of the convicts, one with a slash across the head, and the other with a blow which almost severed the arm at the elbow. Both convicts were killed, the first falling a tthe policeman's feet, and the second expiring in the courtyard of a neighbouring house, to which he just managed to stagger.

The remaining four refuges, pursued by a strong force of wardens, police and soldiers, sped along a river bank. One of them soon became exhausted, and sought to conceal himself in a private house near by, but was discovered by the pursuers and shot. The three others espied a number of workmen bathing in the river, and they hastily threw off their prison garb and attired themselves in the clothes they found on the bank.

By the time the change was effected their pursuers were almost upon them. The convicts continued their flight, making a brief halt in some brushwood and endeavouring to hold the pursuers at bay with their revolver fire. They wounded a warden, but one of their own number was killed by the hot fire which was poured into the bushes. The last two convicts fled further into the woods, which were accordingly surrounded by a cordon of troops.

Firing was renewed and one of the convicts was badly wounded. Realising that he had no chance of escape, he cut his throat and died. His companion succeeded in eluding the vigilance of the cordon and has not yet been recaptured.

EVERYBODY DELIGHTED.

PRISON TRAGEDY IN BELGIUM

Brussels, July 24.—A terrible drama has just occurred in the convict prison at Termonde. One of the prisoners, a man named Van Belleghein, succeeded in escaping from his cell. He made his way to the office of the prison-keeper, where he found a loaded revolver. Possessing himself of this weapon, he sallie dout into the quadrangle and attempted to scale the prison wall. He was seen by some gendarmes, and in reply to their summons to surrender, he opened fire with his revolver, and shot one of the policemen dead. The gendarmes then began firing at the prisoner, who presently fell from the wall with a shattered arm, and was promptly seized and taken back to his cell.

SOME SUGGESTIONS TO THE LOCAL BOARD OF TRADE

Fire Chief Howard Points Out Some Methods by Which an Improvement Might be Made—Should Have Membership of 300.

"BOOST! NEVER KNOCK"!

The following letter has been received by the President of the Peterborough Board of Trade:

Peterborough, July 21, 1909.

Mr. Geo. A. Gillespie,
President Board of Trade:

Dear Sir,—By invitation of your secretary I attended a meeting of the Board of Trade last night, and was very much surprised that the Council Chamber was not crowded. There appears to be a lack of interest in public affairs which most certainly is a drawback to the City of Peterborough.

I would like to offer a few suggestions that may possibly be helpful to you, as the presiding officer, and I trust you will not consider it impertinent on the part of a civic servant to do so. I have had the honour of being a member of the Board of Trade in two other cities, and I would gladly give you and your colleagues the benefit of what little experience I have had. The Board of Trade should be a valuable auxiliary to the council. There should be no friction between the two bodies, and they ought to work hand in hand for the benefit of the general public. A good Board of Trade can do more to advertise and build up a city than any other medium I know of, and to accomplish that end the watchword and motto should be "Boost, and Never Knock." Every merchant, manufacturer and business man should be an active member. I would like to see a membership of not less than 300, and to accomplish this requires a vigorous campaign on the part of the officers. I would suggest that you invite the superintendent and foreman of every factory to join the Board of Trade. They can render valuable assistance of they can be persuaded to interest themselves in public affairs.

Every barber in the city should be a full fledged member. They have the time to discuss public affairs, and they should be in a position to discuss them intelligently.

Special efforts should be put forth to entertain visitors from other cities so that they will carry away with them the best impressions. And there are numerous other ways whereby the city at large can profit by an enthusiastic and hardworking Board of Trade.

I would be pleased to have you and the officers of the Board meet in my office for the purpose of discussing this subject. I may be able to throw out a few hints that would be of assistance.

Trusting you will accept this letter in the spirit in which it is given, I am,

Yours respectfully,
W. A. HOWARD,
Chief Fire Dept.

Many More Cases Of Disease Among Horses Of The District

During the past week the Examiner referred to the epidemic that has been raging among the horses of this district. Since that time it has not abated, but has assumed somewhat alarming proportions. Dr. Johnston, who has had considerable experience with this equine malady, states that during the past eight days he has treated about 160 cases, on an average of 20 cases a day. Thursday was particularly busy. The disease is a form of typhoid, which, it is stated, is the result of eating grass. At this time last year there was a similar outbreak and Dr. Johnston had sixty-seven cases. The symptoms were identical and it is considered the same disease.

Dr. Johnston has stated to the Examiner that the rain of the past few days would cause the epidemic to disappear and in a week or so it would probably be gone entirely. Of the large number he treated Dr. Johnston lost only two cases. One horse belonged to Mr. Robert Hambridge, and another to Mr. Tedford, both of whom reside on the River Road below the locks. Mr. Pugh, who lives near Keene, is the only farmer in that neighbourhood who has reported the disease. Last year there were not so many near the city. At present there are many cases reported from Ashburnham and a number of animals have been lost. It is strange that this disease is not heard of in other districts. It seems to be confined largely to Peterborough and the countryside within a radius of five miles.

'ROUND THE STORES

With the bargain tables full of remnants of all sorts of pretty organdies, muslins, and other thin materials for summer wear, a deft needlewoman should be able to fashion herself a dainty summer gown. Let our lady readers look through the page advertisement of The Turnbull Co., Limited, which appears in another part of to-day's issue, and abundant offerings will be found for practical money-saving. These offerings are not confined to one or two lines of goods, but appear in all departments of this busy representative store.

• • •

A splendid chance for a bargain in ladies' summer wash suits is offered by Harry Adams. They are in two lots and prices, in each case the selling price being nearly one-half off. One or two of these coats and skirts make an acceptable acquisition to the summer outfit.

• • •

Some sensible summer suggestions are advertised by The Best Stove and Hardware Co., next the Post Office. Some of these are excellent makes of refrigerators at same clearance prices; the "White Mountain" ice cream freezer, and coal and oil stoves in simple, handy devices at prices from 75c up. See their advt.

• • •

Robert Fair & Co. are sti" holding their notable July sale of Women's summer costumes and other goods, which is attracting a large number of customers. This sale includes offerings in muslin dresses, short dress lengths, wash dresses, serviceable shirt waist dresses, fancy summer hosiery and other merchandise. Excellent values are to be found by shoppers any day during this sale.

• • •

The Peterborough Bookstore shows an extensive assortment of artistic postal cards. To the shopper who can spare the time, the variety will interest for hours. The line of Peterborough postals with views of prominent places, and a score of motto cards, appropriate for various occasions, will be found attractive.

"Having a good time" is an expression that might be made more real, if people were a little more sensible about the clothing they wear on their vacation. Where, for instance, is the comfort of a "boiled shirt" in a sizzling sun, with the thermometer away up in the nineties? Real hot weather calls for neglige attire—the kind one can feel at ease in all day long. Summer raiment for just such purposes, in the latest styles and at fair prices is now to be had in great variety, for both ladies and gentlemen, at Cressman's. Read to-day's advt.

• • •

Feet ache in hot weather is what most people know something of. Many complain of tired, sore and aching feet, when the shoes are frequently the cause. A well-fitting shoe, made of good leather will not "draw" the heat like poorer material. The moral is, don't look to the druggist for relief, but to the shoe man. A really good pair of shoes may be bought at Stenson & Son's, which, if properly used, you'll need no foot powders, washes, or lotions. You will find style and elegance, too, together with shoes that are durable.

• • •

There is probably not much difference between summer reading and spring, autumn and winter reading. People who demand light reading in August usually demand light reading in February also. A man who wants heavy reading in January as a rule demands the same heavy variety in July. Men really do not change their reading habits as they change their flannels. The nature of a person's reading is determined nearly always by his taste and not by his thermometer. A person who likes fiction in summer likes it as well in winter; and the scholar who reads philosophy over the register in January will read it also in a hammock in July. Books are the canned fruit of the intellect; and it is the work of the librarian and bookstores to distribute these canned goods. Try Cubitt's bookstore for any range of literature your taste suggests.

BERRIES IN PLENTY

Wild Red Raspberries Selling at Ten Cents a Quart Compared With the Tame Berries at Two Boxes for Twenty-Five Cents

CHANCE FOR THE FARMER

The season for wild, red raspberries is now at its best, and the farmers say they are busy picking them for winter use. There are not many wooded lots near the city, where they seem to be becoming scarcer and very few of the citizens are able to secure them. There are a few of the town people who drive out to berry patches and spend the day generally filling every pail and basket they brought with them. Others walk and looking at it from the standpoint of the labour expended the berries are bought dearly.

Fred Simpson was in the city several days ago and remarked to the Examiner that many of the Hiawatha Indians were busy picking, and they were easily disposing of them to the farmers in the neighbourhood.

"How much do the Hiawatha people get for them, Fred?"

"Ten cents a quart," he replied, "although they are mostly sold at one dollar a pail, containing ten quarts."

Among the up-town grocers tame raspberries opened at 16 cents a box. They were imported from Leamington and other fruit towns. The present price is generally 12½ cents or two for a quarter. It has been stated that two boxes are equal in measure to a quart, but there are many who consider that three or nearly three are required. It is a simple calculation to compare the cost of a quart of wild raspberries with the price of a quart of the tame variety. A pail of the wild berries costs less than half of the cost of the same quantity of the tame. For preserving the wild berry is much preferred by many households, but there are scarcely any offered for sale in the city. The wild berries are kept at home by the farmers and the city residents can buy the tame berries from their grocers for they have no opportunity to obtain the other variety.

LESSONS THE PITTSBURG CAR STRIKERS HAVE LEARNED

The Need of Organization Has Been Strongly Pointed Out to Them During the Present Disturbances—Opinions of An Authority on the Subject

(By J. V. Knight.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 24.—Labour has learned its lesson from the great strike of foreigners who worked like serfs at the Pressed Steel car works in McKees Rocks until blood and bone could stand it no longer.

It is one that always has to be learned where the old choice of work or death is presented to a man with a family.

The lesson is called "Organization." There were 5,000 men on strike at the grimy steel mills. Those 5,000 men toiled to keep the car works, which, of course, is a branch steel trust, paying fat dividends to fat directors. Scarcely 50 men in the mills gave orders. The other 4,500 understood only to obey, no matter what it meant to them and their tired wives and sick babies.

Then something snapped. These 5,000 men swept through McKees Rocks and would have demolished the big car mills if they had not been stopped. In short order they were practically harmless under the rifles of the state's guards. They seized the only weapon they knew—violence, a poor weapon.

They would have told their bosses they had no right to work them like slaves, and might have had a chance to win recognition, if they had been organized.

Down at the mill gates when the men struck a score of constabulary were idling on their horses. Their bridles hung loose. At the right hand of each was a riot gun, made especially for man killing. At the left was a club, much like a policeman's billy, only longer, being for the purpose of beating men over their heads from saddle seats.

When these hungry, harsh-voiced, iron-muscled men poured into Schoenville, which is the car works' private town, they were stopped by the mounted man-killers. Some foolish labourer, who probably was nearer slavery than any black-skinned man during civil war days, said something to one of the men on horseback. The state's soldier leaned over in his saddle to take good aim with his riot gun and shot this foolish person. The hospital filled rapidly then, and now this institution, a part of the car works, smells heavily of iodoform, and is filled with the groans of victims of strike violence.

And all because the men lacked organization. They had the right on their side, the mayor and the newspapers and the public were with them but the steel trust won. It is rich and it has organization.

More than all else this strike has opened the eyes of Pittsburg to the iniquity of the steel corporation.

One of the men in Andrew Carnegie's old cabinet was F. N. Hoffstot, who now is the head of the works. Hoffstot, the strikers say, is a coward. When he has a strike on his hands the men are treated like so many flies—brushed away to make way for other flies.

"If any strikers come to see me," Hoffstot stormed in his office when the men went out, "do you know what I'll do? I'll send word to every striker in Schoenville that they have no jobs—never will they have jobs again in the car works."

Then Hoffstot thought of a good scheme. He would break down these men and break the hearts of their wives at night. After dusk a train load of coal was switched into the series plant. Firemen banked the coal in the furnaces and under the boilers. The glare from the six huge stacks sent a chill through McKees Rocks.

"They're running the mills," was the word that went from mouth to mouth in the Slavish tongue.

But they were not. It was the Hoffstot trick to take the heart out of the men he already had barred from working for him.

Jos. G. Armstrong, former coroner of Allegheny co, now director of public safety in Pittsburg, told the corresponent of this paper that the Pressed Steel car works has killed on average of a man a day during his administration, which closed last April.

"Human life is the cheapest thing about that plant," he said. "They have a system of life insurance that they take out from the men's wages, when anyone is killed.

"I never could get any reports on the deaths in the mills. They use lots of cranes there, run by young fellows who think it's fun to let the heavy cranes fell on the 'Hunkies.' Over 50 were killed that way, and I wouldn't say all deaths were accidental.

"When a 'Hunkie' is killed the company, which promises to bury him, doesn't even have the body embalmed. They just sent the bodies to the morgue. Sometimes there were so many 'Hunkies'' bodies there that I had to call a halt to it.

"I couldn't understand how so many people could be killed there, and I told them the county would not pay the expense any longer."

And the former coroner, used to talking of death, shuddered when he recalled the dozens—even scores—of bodies of maimed, friendless workingmen that the Pressed Steel Car Co. had sent to the public morgue.

The best tea can be utterly spoiled by exposure to contaminating influences, as bulk teas so often are. The sealed lead packets of the "Salada" Tea Company give you tea fresh and fragrant from the gardens to the tea-cup. 62

DAIRY EDUCATION

Some Valuable Information Furnished at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The educational features in connection with the Dairy Department of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, promise to be of unusual interest this year, not only to farmers, but to consumers of milk in cities and towns as well. The demonstration work and lectures in the Dairy Ampitheatre will be under the immediate charge of Mr. Geo. A. Putnam, director of dairy instruction for the province, and the Dominion department will also furnish a man to give some definite instructions along the cow-testing line.

The proper care and handling of milk will be one of the subjects dealt with, and it will be accompanied by demonstrations of milk testing as well as charts showing the value of cow-testing associations.

Dr. Roberts, of Waukesha, Wis., U. S., an expert on diseases of live stock, and especially tuberculosis, will also be engaged for one or more lectures on the latter subject.

ALD. PHELAN'S EXPLANATION OF THE THREE BY-LAWS TO BE VOTED UPON NEXT THURSDAY

Chairman of the Board of Works Gives Some Useful Information Concerning Smith St. Bridge, Water Front and Street Extensions Measures.

REASONS FOR BY-LAWS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly give me space to make some explanations regarding the By-laws to be voted upon on Thursday next, as we wish the ratepayers to understand the matters submitted to them as fully as possible, so that in voting they may have full information and exercise their judgment in voting.

The Smith Street Bridge

The By-law to provide for building a new bridge over the river at Smith street authorizes the borrowing of $32,500 for that purpose. The ratepayers, I think, all understand the location of the bridge, and the need for it, to provide for the traffic to and from the northeast part of the city and to and from the part of the county which lies in that direction. The present wooden bridge cannot be longer used, as it has been repaired time and again to make it last as long as it has.

The bridge now proposed will be a reinforced concrete, with 18 feet roadway and sidewalks. The Board of Works also had a plan prepared for a bridge with steel superstructure, and prices for the steel were obtained, when it was found that the steel bridge would cost within $2,500 as much as the concrete bridge. It is believed that the concrete bridge is preferable because (1) the cost of maintenance will be practically nothing, while the exposed steel work would require painting at least once in two years, at a cost of $400 to $450, and frequent adjustment of rods owing to the variation in temperature; (2) at least 82 per cent. of the cost of the concrete bridge will be distributed in the city and vicinity in wages and material, and give employment to a large number of men, whereas, in the case of the steel design only 47 per cent. of the cost would be distributed here and a proportionately smaller number of men employed, and (3) the vicinity of the bridge, for which nature has done so much, is worthy of some consideration, and also the fact that there is a public park on each side of the river, and the concrete bridge will present a much more pleasant appearance than the other.

The difference in the cost of the bridge now proposed and the one contemplated in January last is largely made up of a narrowing of the road way and to the contract entered into for supply of cement for this season being at the most favourable price ever obtained here.

The Council has not only the opinion of the City Engineer regarding the bridge, but also that of Mr. W. J. Francis, now of Montreal. You have published Mr. Francis' report on the plans, in which he says they, "will provide a reinforced concrete structure eminently well suited for the site and first-class in every respect." The structure will be permanent in character and will require practically no maintenance. It will be economical in first cost. The general arrangement and appearance will be very pleasing." Mr. Francis also says that there is no question as to the strength of the bridge and that as compared with steel under our conditions he considers the reinforced concrete arches preferable.

With the opinion of Mr. Hay, who designed the bridge, and that of Mr. Francis it does not appear that any mistake will be made in authorizing the construction of the bridge.

The Street Extensions

This matter goes back several years. The Council several years ago decided that there were several places where, in the interests of the city, streets should be opened. One was the continuation of George street from Westcott to Lansdowne avenue (at the Exhibition grounds) and widening it between Lake and Westcott streets, and another the opening of Aylmer street from Lake street to the King Edward School, south of Rosmine street. Hunter street was extended to the Lift Lock, a spot visited in hundreds by excursionists and citizens, and a short street was opened opposite Barnardo avenue, between George and Water streets, making a break in the very long block extending from Smith street to Argyle street and which was needed especially on account of the large school on Barnardo avenue.

George street was also extended at the north end. It was opened north of Argyle street, but there was a "blind end," and land was purchased to open it to Hilliard street, thus extending it to the city's property, the Hilliard farm. A small expenditure of $100 was also incurred to extend Bethune street to Aberdeen avenue. A by-law was submitted which authorized the borrowing of $6,000 for street extensions, but largely owing to the increase in the value of property which took place and to the cost of grading Hunter street to the lift lock, this amount was greatly exceeded. The cost of opening George street, south, was $4,601.43; Aylmer street, $11,704.82; George street, north, $926.29; Hunter street to the lift lock, $2,920.40, which, with Barnado Avenue, and Bethune street, and interest, etc., made the total $22,685.31. Then, $2,310 was received for the sale of some of the land, and $74.36 for earth sold, leaving net $20,300.95, and taking out the $6,000 which was provided, leaves a balance to be provided for of $14,300.95.

While the city opened Aylmer St. from Lake street to the school, property owners in laying out lots opened it through Park Lots one and two. There is still about 220 feet through which it is not opened, and which is needed to give a through street to the boundery, which the Council believes should be done. It is also desirable that Benson Avenue, leading to the Normal School and over which many visitors will go, should be made the regular width, and land for this can be obtained for $500. An amount of $1,200 is placed in the By-laws for these purposes.

Filling in Water Front.

Several years ago the City procured from the Ontario Government the water front for a small sum. In 1906 the Dominion Government arranged to do dredging in the river, and arrangements were made with the Government to deliver the material across the Canadian Pacific railway tracks to fill up the city's property. This costs the city nothing, but the material had to be conveyed to the city's property and placed upon it. The Council thought that this was an opportunity to get cheap land, which the ratepayers would not want them to miss, but a by-law was not submitted for two reasons, action had to be taken at once and no estimate could be formed of the quantity of material that would be dredged and delivered to the city, and consequently of what it would cost to spread it. In 1906, $1,508.88 was expended in making this land, in 1907, $2,116.94, in 1908, $533.30, and in 1909, $813.05, making a total of $4,972.17. In the By-law provision is made for borrowing $6,000 for this purpose, so that if the Government does further dredging a further sum may be expended. This is needed because it would be advisable to complete the filling at least as far as King street, to have this large block of land and to get rid of the water lying there now.

Upon giving consideration to the matters dealt with in the by-laws it would appear that it would be decidedly in the interests of the city that they should be carried.

Yours very truly,
HARRY PHELAN,
Chairman Board of Works.

DEMONSTRATION OF FORD AUTOS BY COMPANY'S REPRESENTATIVE

A demonstration of the Ford automobiles was seen this morning on Simcoe stret in front of Drummond and Duffus' store. Mr. F. J. Fox, of Toronto, representing the Ford Co., was in the city and six autos were assembled at one time. Three of them were new having been unloaded from a car at the station; the others belonged to Peterborough and Lakefield people, who have purchased Ford machines. It was the largest assembly of cars of the same manufacture that have been seen in Peterborough and the company scored well by the display. A parade was planned for this afternoon.

A Picturesque Pamphlet For Painters' Convention

The Dominion Master House Painters and Decorators of Canada will hold their annual convention in Peterborough on July 28th-30th, and the local members are preparing to make the visit of the outside artists pleasant as well as profitable. The modern masters, are rivalling to "Old Masters" in the production, in commemoration of the occasion, of a beautiful and artistic booklet descriptive and illustrative of the commericial capabilities, beauty and attractiveness of Peterborough. The book is a creditable creatio, artistic in conception and execution and worthy of the artists in whose interest it is published. It is splendidly illustrated, with group pictures of the City Council, Board of Trade officers, and a striking group picture of the Master City Painters themselves, as well as pictures of principal streets, factories, schools, hospitals, and other public buildings, parks, and beauty spots from photos taken especially for this work. These beautiful pictures, printed upon fine paper, are enclosed in an artistic cover in imperial purple corticiform paper, ebearing upon the front leaf an embossed palette in pearl gray, containing the title of the pamphlet. The whole work; in conception and execution, is artistic and appropriate for its purposes, and was done at The Examiner Company's printing establishment.

HEAT DISTRIBUTING

Winnipeg Will Try the System Which Was Spoken of Once for Peterboro'

At the Board of Works meeting yesterday afternoon, in accordance with the report of a sub-committee on the matter, the city solicitor was instructed to prepare a by-law granting a franchise to W. E. Skinner for a steam heating and distributing plant.

According to the proposed by-law the concern will pay nothing for the franchise for the first three years, but will pay 2½ per cent. on the gross receipts after that time. A bond of $155,000 will be put up guaranteeing the city against damage to the streets in the installation of the plant.—Winnipeg Free Press.

DOG OWNERS PAY

Taglaw Canines Bring Trouble To Those Who Are Responsible.

Procrastination is not only the thief of time, but it gets away with one's money now and then as several dog owners have recently experienced for delinquency in securing tags. Mrs. Windover was fined $2.60 this morning and she was moreover ordered to get a tag right away. This is only one of numerous cases. Magistrate Dumble is evidently of the opinion that the people were given sufficient warning and if they neglected to get tags it was not because they did not know their duty.

The police are on the trail lately and there may be others to be brought to trial.

WEDDING BELLS

RUSK—EYRES.

The wedding of Miss Jennie Wilhelmina (Jean) Eyres and Mr. John J. Rusk was solemnized in the presence of a few relatives at high noon to-day, July 24, at the residence of the bride's father, Wm. Eyres, 168 Antrim street, city. The bride, who was unattended, was becomingly attired in a princess dress of panels of embroidery with Valenciennes insertion and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of cream roses. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Coon, pastor of Mark Street Methodist church, city, after which a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Rusk left by the 1.40 train for a trip through the Thousand Islands and down the St. Lawrence. On returning they will spend a week in Peterborough before leaving for their home in Gainsboro, Saskatchewan. The bride's going-away gown was olive green cloth, with hat to match. Among the many beautiful presents were a pearl sunburst from the groom and a piano from the bride's father.

IS RE-ELECTED SECRETARY OF ASSOCIATION

Rochester, N. Y., July 23.—The Photographers' Association of Canada held a business session recently, at which its officers were re-elected. They are: President, J. Frank Jackson, of Barrie; Vice-President, Walter Dickson, of Toronto; Secretary, F. L. Roy, of Peterborough; Treasurer, A. A. Gray, of Toronto.

The delegates of the National Convention were entertained in the evening at Ontario Beach Park.

STRATTON TROPHY RECEIVED

The Stratton-Spaulding trophy, the silverware for which the Senior City League teams are battling, has been received by Mr. A. H. Stratton, and is on exhibition in the window of the Peterborough Bookstore. It is a splendid cup, handsomely engraved, and marked "1909." Mr. Stratton deserves the thanks of the league for the interest he has taken in this matter, for it was principally due to his influence with the representative of the Spaulding Co. that the cup was secured.

GERMANY'S RICH DIAMOND FIELDS

Berlin, July 24.—As a result of the complaints evoked by the German Government's policy in regard to the diamond industry of German South West Africa, Herr Dernburg, the Colonial Secretary, has explained the situation to some German Deputies.

According to the Minister, the value of the diamantiferous deposit in South West Africa amounts to £50,000,000. An essential point of his policy is that he has handed the 4,000 to 5,000 persons interested in the trade into a coalition, the importance of which may be gathered from the fact that after this circumstance became known a representative of the De Beers Company applied to Herr Dernburg with an offer of reciprocal prices. The Minister refused, for, as things stand in South West Africa, he believes he can fix prices independent of De Beers and if necessary dictate prices to the latter.

OSTEND GAMBLERS WIN OUT

Ostend, July 24.—After two years' litigation the Court of Appeal at Ghent has quashed the conviction against M. Marquet and the Committee of the Ostend Kursaal on the question of allowing gambling there. The Kursaal Club Prive is to be re-established. This decision has caused great rejoicing at Ostend, as the previous judgment had meant serious loss to the municipality.

PARSON'S STOLEN LOVE MAKES STRIFE

Vienna, July 24.—A singular church boycott caused by a love affair has just come to an end in Buda-Pesth.

Benjamin Haypal, the pastor of the Reformed Church at Buda-Pesth, a married man with several children, who was formerly immensely popular, fell in love with the wife of a civil servant. The latter ultimately divorced his wife, but Haypal continued his intrigue.

The pastor's conduct caused such indignation that meetings were held, and his congregation decided not to attend church as long as he remained in office. The effect of this boycott was that when Haypal officiated or preached there was absolutely nobody in the church but himself and the sexton. The elders and heads of the church tried to induce Haypal to renounce his ministry, but he refused, and continued to preach sermons to the sexton, while his parishioners went to other churches. The boycott lasted four weeks, when the public authorities interfered, and ordered Haypal to be taken to an asylum.

REVOLTING DEATH OF RUSSIAN GIRL

Paris, July 24.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Patrie telegraphs details of a savage and revolting case of lynching which occurred recently in the village of Volochki, in the government of Volhynia. A young and beautiful woman living in the village had succeeded in incurring the hatred of the other women in the village by her flirtations with the men of the neighbourhood, both married and single, the women's hatred for the girl reaching a climax when it became known that on her account one of the young men of the village had broken his promise to marry another girl.

On coming out of Church on Sunday the women, both old and young, threw themselves upon the flirt, and, in spite of her cries for mercy, tore all her clothes off. Then they dragged her through the village by the hair of her head, beating and stoning her mercilessly. At first the men laughed, but when they saw how savagely the girl was being maltreated they attempted to rescue her. The infuriated women, however, drove them off, and then dragged their unhappy victim, who was by now a mass of wounds, to a large tree just outside the village, when they hanged her to one of the branches, and then lighted a fire of brushwood under her. When the police arrived on the scene they found the victim of the women's fury lying dead under the tree, blackened to a cinder.

HEROISM OF YOUNG BOY

London, July 24.—The papers devote considerable space to the heroism of a fourteen year old lad in connection with the work of rescue at the West of the Alexandra dock at Newport where a number of the workmen were burned, and many terribly injured. Four names, however, stand out from among the roll of workers. Three are doctors, and one is a small fourteen-year-old newspaper seller.

His name is Tom Lewis and he picks up an odd living with his papers round the docks. Curiosity drew him to the trench when the news of the disaster was known, and as he stood watching among the agonised crowd his opportunity came.

A rescuer, looking down a long crevice, had seen a living boy thirty feet below, pinioned by the hands. No man could have wriggled down the gap. Would a boy dare?

Tom dared. Head first, with a saw in one hand, and a chisel in the other, he was lowered down. He put out his hand in the darkness and touched a dead man. A few inches away, and his fingers dabbed in the blood of a living one. Then he found the imprisoned boy.

For two hours he struggled with the beams which held the victim captive. It was one saw and chisel against tons' weight, but the saw and chisel began to win. Lewis reached one hand free, and nearly the other, chatting the while with the living man near by, who lay patient in his agony, hoping that the small rescuer would soon be able to reach him.

Ten minutes more would have finished the work. But there was a move among the timbers above, the herald of another fall of timber. Hastily the men above hauled their boy helper up, leaving his work unfinished, just as the crevice along which he had come closed up.

He came to the surface scarlet and torn, stood up a minute and fell into the hands of the men before him. He awoke slowly and half dazed, until the memory of his ordeal—and that it failed—came back with a flood of hysterical tears.

SUICIDE OF POLISH PRINCE

Vienna, July 24.—Much sympathy is caused among the Austro-Polish aristocracy by the death of Prince Stanislas Jablonowski, who committed suicide on his Burstyn estate in Galicia by shooting himself with a revolver. He belonged to one of the most distinguished Polish families.

Prince Stanislas, whose extravagance threatened to dissipate his great wealth, was for a long time under guardianship, and lived for some decades in complete retirement. Of late years this amiable and gifted Prince was the victim of melancholy, and committed suicide at the age of 63, when left for a moment unguarded by his family.

RHODESIA MAY GO TO UNITED SOUTH AFRICA

Talk of Buying the Country from Private Company for £20,000,000.

Capetown, July 24.— A report is in circulation at Buluwayo that General Botha, the Transvaal Prime Minister at the request of the South African National Convention, will make an offer to the British South Africa Company for the taking over of Rhodesia by United South Africa.

The 'Buluwayo Chronicle' says it believes the report to be correct, and mentions £20,000,000 as the price.

The British South Africa Company received its Royal Charter on Nov. 29, 1889 and the territory it administers extends from the Transvaal northward to the Congo State and German East Africa, Southern Rhodesia (Mashonaland and Matabeleland) has a white population of about 15,000 and a native population of 850,000. It has a large and increasing gold output and over 2,000 miles of railways.

The capital of the company has been gradually increased from one to six millions sterling, and there are £1,250,000 of debentures. The administrative revenue in 1907 was £754,144 and expenditure £873,355.

ROBBERS CAPTURED THROUGH A BROKEN WATCH GLASS

London, July 24.—An amazing story of the fraud by means of which Henry Clifford, alias Conrad Harms, is said to have obtained £1,637 from the Notting Hill Gate branch of Parr's Bank was related at the West London Police Court a few days ago, when Clifford was brought before the magistrate.

It disclosed that the fraud was actually discovered before the money was obtained—in fact, a messenger was on his way to warn the bank when the money was being drawn—and that but for a broken watch-glass and detective work worthy of Sherlock Holmes an arrest might have never been made.

In May, Mr. Lyon, of J. E. Bache and Co., New York, came to Europe, and part of his duties consisting of filling in the bodies of bills of exchange drawn by Bache and Co. on the Swiss Bankverein in London, devolved on Harms. A bill for £1 10s. 2d. was drafted on May 7. Herms destroyed this, and substituted a bill for £1,637.

With the forged bill and a forged letter of advice Harms opened an account with Parr's Bank, who collected the bill from the Swiss Bankverein.

Early on the morning of June 1 (Whit Tuesday), aHrms presented himself at the Notting Hill Gate branch and drew £1,437, chiefly in notes. The extraordinary thing is that the fraud had been discovered in the meantime.

The Swiss Bankverein had notified Messrs. Bache of the letter of advice, and the New York house saw at once that something was wrong. They cabled to the bank on the Saturday, but in consequence of the intervention of the Sunday and Whit Monday no steps could be taken until Tuesday.

Early on that day an official from the Bankverein proceeded to Parr's Bank, but he was just too late. The money had already been obtained, and Harms had vanished.

One of the £500 notes which Harms had obtained was cashed the same day at a money-changer's in Victoria St., Mr. Muir continued. "It was a curious happening in the money-changer's office that put the police on the track of Harms.

While he was changing the note he produced a watch, and mentioned that he had bought it at a shop in the Strand. The police went to that shop and gave the jeweller certain instructions on which he was to act if a certain thing happened.

That certain thing did happen. Harms broke the glass of the watch, and went to the shop to have it replaced. He was asked to return in half an hour, and when he returned he was arrested.

While he was in Vienna he made love to a girl, and he brought her to Dover, where he married her. The question of bigamy will be dealt with later on."

DOUBLE MURDER AND CREMATION

Lisbon, July 24.—A terrible tragedy is reported from Vallaroid. A merchant named Ibanes, who suffered from fits of depression, was seized with madness.

Securing a revolver and hatchet, he rushed into the streets half naked, firing and striking at all who came within reach. The terrorised people flew in all directions. Two persons were shot dead and a child's head was cut open.

A force of Civil guards appeared on the scene and the madman rushed back home and barricaded himself in the house. Then he soaked the furniture with petroleum and set a light to the building, which was soon a mass of flames. The guards endeavoured to force the door, but they were received with shots and had to retreat.

The house was now blazing like a red-hot furnace, and from the room in which the madman was came fearful yells and shrieks. At last the building collapsed and buried the unhappy victim.

MANY WILL HAVE TO RE-MARRY

Brussels, July 23.—A strange incident has just occurred in Liege. It has been discovered that a municipal magistrate, M. Ruffin, who has been acting in that official capacity for several months, is not a Belgian, but a German, his father having never been naturalised. The curious point in this is that this gentleman has married more than 300 couples, and these marriages are now, from a legal standpoint, devoid of any value. The couples will probably have to be married again.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

PIRATES ARE PICKED TO WIN NATIONAL LEAGUE FLAG

Baseball Expert Makes a Critical Analysis of the Pittsburg Team—Clarke the Greatest Manager of the Day and Age.

LACKS NOT AN ESSENTIAL.

"Pittsburg has one of the strongest teams ever moulded into a diamond machine. In my judgment the Pirates are lacking in nothing that constitutes a well-balanced baseball aggregation. I would pick them as National League champions for 1909 even if they did not occupy first place by a good margin at this date, and will substantiate my judgment for this statement by what appear to me as irrefutable facts."

This statement is made by D. L. Reevs, sporting editor of the Philadelphia Ledger, who continues:

"In the first place, I consider Fred Clarke the greatest manager of the age and day. His record corroborates this strong assertion. He lacks nothing that constitutes an ideal manager. He is a student of the game, is diplomatic, aggressive, brainy, and, by his all-round excellencies as a player, sets an example worthy of emulation by all of his players. In other words he can do anything on a field that he tells his players to do. As an outfielder he has no superior and only one peer—Magee. The inspiration of his leadership, his hard hitting, daring base running, superb fielding and unexcelled throwing make him, in my judgment, the most valuable man playing ball to-day.

"Associated with Clarke as the directing genius are Wagner and Leach, the three constituting the greatest baseball triumvirate of the day. The brains, skill and experience of this inimitable trio can hardly be estimated in considering Pittsburg's present position and their ultimate success. No three players on the same team in America combine the winning skill, strategy and ability possessed by this invaluable trio. In them alone Pittsburg has a valuable pennant asset. Around these three kings of the diamond are men who may not shine with such conspicuous brilliancy, but their steady work completes the necessary chain in the smooth-working machinery that Clarke has developed. In many respects I consider that little Barbeau and big Miller have 'made' the team. They just fit in the positions they fill. Not only have they enhanced Pittsburg's fielding, but their hitting, especially that of Miller, has been a material factor in the team's success. In Abstein Pittsburg also has found a man to fill first base satisfactorily, the first since the days of Bransfield.

"In the matter of battery strength I consider Pittsburg the strongest in the National League. While not so showy as some catchers, Gibson probably has no superior in his position. The only man to rank with him in the National are Dooin and Bresnahan, and, considering that Gibson is catching day after day, it is questionable whether he is not more valuable to the Pirates than either the St. Louis manager or the red-topped Quaker. Willis, Leifield, Maddox, Camnitz and Phillippe outeless any five pitchers on any other team in the league. In their superior work I think the Pittsburg public may safely intrust the hour of bringing the pennant of 1909 to Forbes Field, the most complete, most imposing baseball structure in the world.

And, finally, I consider Pittsburg's chances of winning this year's pennant superior to all other competitors because the team, as a component, is the hardest hitting, the best fielding, the fastest base-running and the most competently managed combination in the National League. It lacks not an essential and is weak in no position. Eliminating accidents, Pittsburg should win the National League flag, and if they enter the world's series with the present personnel I care not what team in the American League opposes them, it is my judgment that they will capture the blue ribbon title in baseball—the world's championship. Such a triumph would be a fitting honour and reward to Colonel Dreyfuss, who stands to-day the most liberal and respected baseball magnate in America, and also a brilliant post-season dedication of Forbes Field."

The complete scores of the third test match between the Australian cricketers and England have not yet come to hand, so that the tale of woe cannot be given in detail. At the conclusion of the second day's play England's looked good as eight Australian wickets were down in the second innings for 175, the old countrymen being thus 181 runs behind. The chief scorers for the visitors were Gregory 46, Ransford 45 and 24, M. A. Noble 31, Armstrong 21 and 45, Bardsley 30, and for England Tyldesley 55, Sharp 61. An accident to G. L. Jessop placed England under a severe handicap. After picking up a ball and in wheeling round rapidly to return it to the wicket-keeper, he badly strained the muscles at the base of the spine. He had to leave the field at once, and had to be taken in an ambulance to his hotel and was unable to play for the rest of the match; indeed, Jessop may not make his appearance on the cricket field again this season.

A scheme is on foot to hold a "Professional Olympic games" in London at the latter end of September. It will be, if the thing goes through, the greatest assembly of runners, cyclists wrestlers and boxers ever held in the world. The promoter has offered $50,000 for the Stadium at Shepherd's Bush for one week as rental. The programme includes a boxing bout between Sam McVey and either Johnson or Ketchel, and a wrestling match between Gotch and Hackenschmidt. Ketchel is, however, matched to meet Langford at Ely, Nev., for a $20,000 guarantee on Sept. 6. It is hardly likely that Gotch will cross the ocean to meet his old foeman, so that these two events can hardly be decided.

Bayardo, the champion two-year-old of last season, is being installed a hot favourite for the St. Ledger to be run on Sept. 8, and the King's colt Minoru has gone out in whatever betting there has been on the big classic. Directly following his victory in the Sandringham Foal Stakes at Sandown park, several bets were made that Bayardo would win at Doncaster. The St. Ledger should prove the race of the year. The Irish Derby at the Curragh was won easily by Bachelors Double, a colt by Tredennis and Lady Bawn, and it has been decided to send him across the water for the race.

George Sargent, the winner of the United States open golf championship, has been appointed to the Hyde Manor Club, Vermont. Sargent's rapid rise to fame is in reality a triumph for England. He was a native of Surrey and a former assistant to H. Vardon, at Ganton. He left England three years ago, and was until recently professional to the Ottawa Golf Club.

An effort is being made by F. L. Murray, the honourary secretary of the New Zealand Hockey Association to induce the English Association to send a team to New Zealand next season. It is proposed to play about 25 matches, including three tests.

One of the chief backers of R. Arnst the world's sculling champion, is at present on his way to London to try to arrange a match with Ernest Barry, the English champion, on the Wanganui River for $5,000 a side. Very liberal terms are offered Barry, but failing a match in New Zealand efforts will be made to row on the Thames some months hence.

There may be serious trouble between football players and controllers of the association game in England this fast approaching season. The members of the players' union were recently ordered by the football association to cease their connection with the association, but far from doing so they are determined to show that they are wage earners and will not be ruled. At a large meeting held in Manchester a resolution was unanimously passed deciding to ignore the demand. Some of the players announced their intention to return to their ordinary employment rather than forfeit their legal rights.

The seven-mile swimming race through Paris was won for the third year in succession by Billington, the crack English swimmer in spite of a ten-minute handicap. The finish was intensely exciting, the Englishman beating Estrade, the young French champion by a second.

English polo players will undoubtedly make an effort to regain the lost international trophy which is returning to its old home in the States. It is voiced as the general opinion that the mug has gone for a long time to come as no representative team could be found to make the lengthy and expensive journey in quest of its conquest. The Field has initialed a fund subscribing $5,000 and says: "The Briton is at heart a sportsman, whose pride will not permit him to tamely take a second place, and so long as the cup remains in the unchallenged possession of another country he must perforce content himself with the subordinate degree. The America's cup has been held too long as an international trophy ever to be displaced as the premier prize the polo world has to offer; it is therefore akin to the cup which Sir Thomas Lipton has spent so many years in vain attempts to win, and must perforce inspire the ambitions of those who aspire to the degree of championship. Polo players are for the most part rich men, who require little assistance in the way of money and the necessary period of absence has been reduced to a minimum by the magnificent liners which now complete the journey in something over four days. Even Messrs. Buckmaster and P. W. Nickalls, busy men as they are, could afford the time for such a delightful holiday, and Capt. Herbert Wilson and Mr. Freak could well bestow a portion of their leisure upon so important a trip. These things considered it is not too much to say that the British sportsmen would in the event of necessity travel far to regain the blue ribbon of polo, and would never submit to the suggestion that the cup once gone has gone forever.

An English cricket team will sail for South Africa in November and will probably be composed of six amateurs and eight professionals. Five test matches will be played—three in Johannesburg, one in Cape Town and one in Durban. The English team which will be under the leadership of H. D. G. Leveson-Gower, will not be a representative one.

The raid by English racing owners on the big French prizes has ended in disaster. Jerry M. failed in the steeplechase, Pitsea was a bad third in the hurdle race and William the Fourth and Valena were defeated in the Grand Prix of Paris. Verdun, the winner of the latter race, belongs to Baron Rothschild, who sent Borax over to England for the Lincolnshire Handicap and City and Suburban. The total winnings of the French three-year-old this season are considerable over $110,000, so that he is the champion money-spinner of the year.

The county cricket championship competition has rarely been in a more interesting position half way through the season than it is at present. When the Australians are over as a rule the competition hangs fire a little, but the reverse is the case this summer. The decline of Yorkshire from their unbeaten position of 1908, and the coming back to form of Lancashire, has brought about a keen local rivalry in the north of England, while both followers of the "Roses" are united in an endeavour to keep the spoils away from the south. With, however, Middlesex still unbeaten and Surrey, Kent and possibly, Sussex still having to be reckoned with, there is every material for a prolonged fight right to the end of August. The positions of the counties are as follows:

| | P | W | L | D | Pts | Pct |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Middlesex | 9 | 4 | 0 | 5 | 4 | 100.00 |

The matches between Essex and Leicestershire and Essex and Middlesex, both at Leyton, were abandoned without a ball being bowled and are not included in the above table.

BASEBALL

The Pittsburg Club is somewhat worried over Leifield's arm. Manager Fred Clarke will likely send the big left-hander to see Bonesetter Reese of Youngstown, in order to have him look over his pitching arm. The Pirates will miss him, as he was doing some excellent work.

Mike McCabe, centre fielder of the New Britain Club, and Catcher Eddie Bridges of the Northampton team, both of the Connecticut League, have been signed by the Pittsburg Club. The players will report to the Pirates at the close of their present season on Labour Day. McCabe led the league in batting last year, and is again at the top of the list.

Jack O'Connor, who is now managing the Little Rock team, is credited with the announcement that he has signed a contract to manage the St. Louis Browns for five years, beginning 1910. It is said further that he was requested to take charge of the team immediately, but that as his contract with the Little Rock Club does not expire until the end of the season he could not do so.

The latest rumour in Brooklyn streets is that Willie Keeler will be the manager of the Brooklyn club next season. It's only a rumour, as nothing has been said by the Brooklyn club officials, but the chances of the story being right are good, as Keeler will probably retire from active work on the baseball field after this season.

Despite the fact that Rochester has been leading the league for two months, the only members of the team likely to go to the major leagues are Erwin and Berger.

It turns out that Detroit has an option on Pitcher Lavender of Providence, in return for turning over Lafitte to Hugh Duffy.

Pitcher Chapelle of Rochester has been fined $25 by Manager Gansel for breaking the club rules. This big fellow has been hard to hold since he beat the Royals twice in one day.

Toronto's new southpaw pitcher, Wyatt Lee, reported yesterday, and will be given a chance next week to deliver the goods.

President McCaffery of the Toronto Club returned yesterday from Detroit where he saw Managers Jennings and Stallings of the Detroit and New York teams respectively, but there was nothing doing.

The Cincinnati Club has exercised its option on Pitcher Sam Smith of Montreal, and Smith will be taken over for a sum said to be $4,000 at the end of the season. As part of the deal, Pitcher Egan, the former Fordham College Star, was a week ago loaned to Montreal for the rest of the season.

The Orioles are somewhat crippled just now. Catcher Heame is out of the game with a busted digit, and in one of the recent games Outfielder Jackson had to go to catch. Byers had a bad streak at Rochester. It is said that a hurry call has been sent to Wilbur Robinson, to join the team. Robinson is a stockholder in the club.

Buffalo Courier: The physicians attending Malarkey's injured hand stated that the plaster cast will be removed to-day or to-morrow. Bill won't be back in the game for some time, though. It was announced last night that Pitcher Knapp had been released to Elmira of the State League. The Wilkesbarre Club immediately secured another twirler when Knapp was recalled, so Levi had to get another berth. He didn't have the goods for the Eastern League.

New York club has protested Wednesday's game with Detroit, which was won by the latter. Stallings' action is based on the umpire's refusal to allow Laporte to return to the game after he had been spiked by Bush. After the spiking Laporte went to the club house to have his foot repaired, and New York had Knight take his place at second, the umpire announcing it to the stand, but before the game was resumed Laporte returned, but Umpire Connolly refused to let him continue.

"Wild" Bill Donovan, the star of the Detroit Tigers last year, showed little of his last season's form in Tuesday's game between the champions and the New York Highlanders. Donovan lived up to his name and was so wild he could not get the ball near enough to the plate to be called strikes for much of the game and eight of the eastern men were walked to first. Jennings kept Donovan in the game from first to last, however, and it is possible the veteran will be able to overcome his wildness if he is kept at it long enough. The Tigers have been weak in the pitching department all the spring, but the great batting of the outfield has kept the champions in the lead. Many of the games they have won have been won in ninth inning rallies, which have been started by McIntyre, Crawford, or Cobb.

Jack Johnston Says His Check Talks Longer Than He Cares To

Naturally the first question fired at Jack Johnson in Toronto was as to whether there will be a fight with Jim Jeffries for the world's championship.

Johnson said that it was an old query to him, and he could give nothing but a stereotyped reply. Said he:

"My certified check for $10,000 was posted at New York when Jeffries was there, and is now in Chicago with the sporting editor of the American. That check talks louder than I care to. Jeffries will never meet me in the ring. That's as sure as two and two make four. I have done all that can be expected of me to get a match. My money has been posted for three months, but I don't see any of his going up. Let the public who pay to see the fights decide who is side-stepping."

You will notice that Johnson puts all the blame on Jeffries, and charges that the "undefeated champion" has no intention at all of fighting him, but is merely talking for the sake of keping himself in the limelight during his theatrical tour.

Johnson says that Jeffries, who is worth anywhere between two hundred and four hundred thousand dollars, could have no difficulty in raising the money, and he wonders why the delay until next week. Johnson has a match on with Ketchell in October with forfeits and side bets up, which he thinks will be easy.

The coloured champion holds the same opinion as Jeffrids regarding Tommy Burns. He says:

"Burns is a good little man, but the little fellows can't lick the big fellows. Burns has a hard right hand wallop, which won him some decisions. He would make a great fight with Ketchell, who is about his size and speed, and at that I believe Burns would whip the Michigan scrapper. They talk about Ketchell meeting me. I'll fight him. I'll fight anybody with a legitimate right to a battle. I don't think I would have much trouble with a man like Ketchell who is a fighter of the Burns stamp."

Johnson weighs at present 265 pounds, and says that the only man at present in the ring who could give him a hard battle is Sandy Ferguson, the Boston heavyweight, with whom Ed. Bartow had a run-in some years ago, when he was managing the Detroit team. Johnson is worried over the serious illness of his aged mother at Galveston, Texas, who has just been operated on for cancer. It was while in Toronto a year and a half ago that Johnson's father died.

THE CANADIANS WHO ARE SHOOTING FOR KING'S PRIZE

Sergt.-Major S. J. Huggins, of the 13th Regiment, Hamilton, is an old shot who has many times proved his efficiency at the ranges of the Ontario Rifle Association and Dominion Rifle Association. Huggins is regarded here as a strong, steady shot and quite a possibility for the coveted King's Prize. He is an old Bisleyite.

Corporal D. McInnes, a rough-rider and sharpshooter, of the 19th Albertan Mounted Rifles, of Edmonton. McInnes is no stranger to the rifle ranges of Eastern Canada. At Long Branch and Rockliffe he has more than once captured good things and taken them back West with him. "The King's Prize stands a good chance of going to Hamilton," say McInnes' friends here.

Lieut. F. H. Morris, of the 46th Regiment, Bowmanville, has a great record, although a comparatively young shot. He won the grand aggregate at Bisley last year, including the classic Gold Cross and a big cash prize. He was on the Bisley team in 1907 and 1908.

Sergt. W. A. Smith, of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa, has shown up well in the previous matches at Bisley this year. He was at Bisley with the team, too, in 1902, 1906, 1907, and 1908. He shot second at the Bisley aggregate in Ottawa in 1906. He has already won the Daily Graphic Cup this year.

Sergt. W. A. Blackburn, of the 90th Rifles, Winnipeg, is with the Bisley team, but not of it. He is what is known as an unattached man at Bisley at his own expense. But the other day he managed to capture the Prince of Wales Prize and $500. His shooting is regarded as extraordinary, as he is practically new to the old Canadian rifle shots.

Col.-Sergt. J. Freeborn, another man from the 13th Regiment, of Hamilton. He was on the Bisley team last year, too, and stood well up for the King's Prize. In 1902 he won the Governor-General's match shooting against the famous Ommundsen, who was here that year from England.

CHANCE SAYS ITS THE CUBS

Says Next Series With Pittsburg Will Pull the Pirates Down From the Top Rung.

New York, July 21.—Frank Chance of the Chicago National League Club, declared to-day that his club would undoubtedly win a fourth pennant and that the coming games between the Pittsburgs and Chicagos would send Pittsburg toppling from the top rung of the championship ladder.

The Chicago manager spoke regretfully of the accident to Pitcher Christy Mathewson, who had a finger on his left hand broken yesterday, saying:

"It's bad for the game, for New York was putting up a fine fight. Chicago expects to win out with her pitchers. In this department of the game we have Pittsburg beaten."

The Chicago club is said to have purchased Joe Heath, a semi-professional shortstop from North Attleboro, Mass.

Story Of The Perseverance Of The Wright Bros. In Aviation

Had Natural Bent for Inventing Things and Turned Their Genius to the Conquering of the Air—Early Attempts Laughed at by Villagers.

REASONS FOR SUCCESS

Among the anecdotes of the Wright brothers which one picks up in Dayton to-day is the story of a huge tandem bicycle which they built, and upon which they rode all over West Dayton, says the American Magazine. It was made out of two old high wheels, which were connected by a gas-pipe fifteen feet long. "It was a better sight to see than a circus," the proud townsmen tells you.

It seems to me it was the most natural thing in the world that they should become interested in flying. It happened in this way: Wilbur, always a great reader, and Orville, always an enthusiast, got interested in the Summer of 1896 in the experiments of Lillenthal, a German forerunner of successful aviation, who died that year. They read everything they could lay their hands on. It is possible that the memory of the flying toy which their father brought to them from New York in childhood, and the recollection of the great kites which they built and flew all through boyhood, may have held a share in attracting them to the subject. It is much more probable, however, that their eager minds were simply seising upon a new idea, as the case has been so often before.

They took hold of the thing together. They had done everything together from the days of their childhood, when Wilbur, the older by four years, used to "make up" stories and pour them out in a stream for the entertainment of Orville, each separate story ending, "And then the boiler burst." For five years they studied the theory of the flying machine at odd times. But still for fun. And still no machine of any kind. In the meantime they kept up their bicycle business, earning a fair income and living regular, every-day, reasonable lives.

Although the most useful information they gained was obtained from books and from practical work on the problem carried on in their shop, they also observed the birds and the winds. For hours and hours of a Sunday afternoon they would lie on their backs oon a hill outside Dayton and watch buzzards soar on rising currents of air. Indeed, it was their first idea that man would never do more in the aid than soar in some sort of gliding machine, just for fun, and as long as he could keep up. They also watched many other birds, both large and small, and were continually arguing about what they had seen. A man who has often been in their shop told me that more than once he has seen them rush to the window to have a look at a passing flock of birds. All this, together with their innumerable observations of small whirl-winds making their way through a cornfield or across a dusty road did not help materially toward the solution of the problem. But, according to Orville Wright himself, it was a never-ending stimulation. It helped to keep their enthusiasm undimmed in the face of discouragement.

It was not long after they took up the study before every moment of their leisure was given to it. In 1900 they decided they must have an experiment station. So they decided to go down to Kill Devil Hill in North Carolina and establish an "experimentation camp." So far they had given about the same amount of time and money to flying as other boys do to a trip "up the lakes," or "to the World's Fair"; but now the matter assumed more serious proportions. One can imagine how many a father would have discouraged these strenuous absorbing efforts given to a mere amusement, would have advised "sticking to something that paid." But I cannot help believing that Bishop Wright watched his boys' efforts to fly with as much interest as they felt themselves, and they needed his interest, for often they were discouraged. In 1901, the year after they had begun to experiment in North Carolina with a gliding machine, they returned pretty well played out. On that trip they discovered that the tables of calculation previously made by all the authorities upon whom they had depended were wrong, and that, if they were to succeed, they must work out the whole theory from the bottom up. At that time Wilbur Wright expressed his solemn conviction that man would not fly for a thousand years. But that belief did not detain him and his brother from tackling the job. This is the point in their career where they best showed the stuff they are made of. They not only worked out a scheme for balancing and controlling the machine, but they developed propellers for their machine on information which they had discovered for themselves. Further than this, and more important, they had to work out new tables showing the pressure of the air against various surfaces at various angles. Without all this technical information, the collection of which was a task scarcely conceivable, they could never have solved the problem.

Probably their method of work saved them from failure at this stage of the undertaking. It was this: When one made a suggestion the other attacked it—but not without reasons, of course. The outcome was that frequently a whole day's discussion—and they often talked at home until the women folk felt like sweeping them out with a broom—would result in each one accepting the position of the other. Then the next day the whole thing would be gone over again, until they had got the truth and both were persuaded. In this manner they undoubtedly avoided "going off on a tangent" and also stimulated each other's determination. And for this reason everybody in the family, and everybody in Dayton, is satisfied that neither brother could have mastered the thing alone.

On December 17, 1903, after the boys had made hundreds of experimental flights in their gliding machine (nearly a thousand in September and October in 1902 alone), their first machine to carry a gasoline engine made a successful flight. This was at Kill Devil Hill, in the presence of five persons, and it was the first time in the history of the world that a power-driven heavier-than-air flying machine, with a man aboard, ever left this planet in successful flight. The first flight lasted only twelve seconds, but later the same day the machine flew for fifty-nine seconds, covering a distance of 852 feet against a twenty-mile-an-hour wind.

The time to celebrate had arrived. So the boys went to a telegraph office and wired the news home with the dollar which the good bishop had given them to spend for that purpose if they met with success.

A NEWSPAPER GUY

I see a man pushing his way through the lines
Of the cops where the work of the "fire field" shines.
"The Chief?" I enquire but a fireman replies:
"Oh, no! why, that's one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man walk through the door of a show
Where great throngs are blocked by the sign, "S. R. O."
"Is this the star that no ticket he buys?"
'Star nuthin'! He's one of those newspaper guys."

I see a man start on the trail of a crook
And he scorns the police, but he brings him to book.
"Sherlock Holmes?" I enquire, someone scornfully cries:
"Sherlock H——! Naw, he's one of those newspaper guys."

And some day I'll pass by the great "Gates of Gold,"
And see a man pass through unquestioned and bold,
"A Saint?" I'll ask, and St. Peter'll reply:
"No, he carries a pass—He's a newspaper guy."

SPECIAL NOTICE

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its Pictures; it will be an EXCLUSIVE, up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST there.

"AUTOMOBILE RACES AT WEST POINT, INDIANA"

This is a wonderful picture, showing the speed of the fastest Autos in the world, the cars going a 100 mile an hour clip, the many accidents that happened, and the stretchers carrying away the injured. It is a most thrilling picture and one to be enjoyed by everyone. The race took place only a month or so ago, so the picture is up-to-date.

"THE CURSE OF GOLD"

A most interesting dramatic picture, showing how fond a miser is of his money, how he wrongs his wife and daughter, how he steals from even the poor beggars on the street, and how a just God punishes him at his death, as all misers should be punished.

"MY FRIEND MR. DUMMY"

This is one of the funniest pictures to be seen. A man stayed too long at his club, took a Dummy at a Clothing Store to be a friend, and you should see him spend the evening with him.

Mr. Loftus will sing a new Illustrated Song: "Cheating".

Remember, to-day is Fan Day and Night, so take away a Souvenir Fan with you.

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS

Kryptok Bifocals are the only perfect invisible, double vision lens made. There is no crack or split to gather dirt, and being made of one piece of Glass, it forms no line between the near and far sight. No cemented double vision lens is entirely satisfactory, because the cement will come loose in time. The Kryptok lenses are fused and welded in such a way as to become one solid lens of perfect optical qualities. We have issued a Booklet on these lenses, which covers the question of Bifocals thoroughly, and explains why the Kryptok Bifocals are much superior to the ordinary cemented kind. These Booklets we give away free of charge as well as our Antiseptic Lens Wipers. Call and ask for one

THE KING OBJECTS

The King Holds Firmly to the Law Regarding Full-Blooded Princesses Entering the Roman Catholic Church and Vetoes the Proposed Match — Queen Ena Is Not Considered Ebenburtig.

London, July 26.—A story that became public about a prospective betrothal between Princess Alexandra of Fife and King Manuel of Portugal was something more than mere rumor.

But the idea was very severely discountenanced in court circles. The main difficulty was that the princess would have to enter the Roman Catholic Church, and for all English princess who are what dynastic jurists have called ebenburtig—of unblemished royal blood—that is an unsurmountable obstacle.

King Edward is known to attach great importance to this consideration. The precedent of Queen Victoria of Spain seems at first sight to tell against this argument, but, as a matter of fact, the Battenburgs are not held to the ebenburtig in a strict sense, owing to the morganatic origin of their father. It is the same with the Teeks. Whether, strictly speaking, Princess Alexandra of Fife is ebenburtig may be open to question, for her father does not enjoy that privilege here.

However, the view of the King prevails over the subtlies of jurists. Princess Alexandra is his eldest granddaughter and that suffices for him.

FRENCHMAN CROSSES ENGLISH CHANNEL IN TINY MONOPLANE

Like a Giant Hawk Louis Bleriot's Airship Appeared to the Few Who Watched it Approach the Dover Coast Where a Safe Landing Was Easily Made—Flight in 30 Minutes.

Dover, July 26.—This sleepy old seaport town experienced the keenest thrill known in a generation when a white-winged, bird-like machine with loudly humming motor swept out from the haze obscuring the sea toward the distant French coast, and, circling twice above the high chalky cliffs, a portly and red-moustached man of 37 descended from the saddle, limping on a bandaged foot, which had been burned on his previous overland flight. Immediately two compatriots, who had been waving a big tri-color flag as a signal for the landing place, fell upon him enthusiastically, embracing him, shouting and pounding him on the back. They, with a few soldiers and others who happened by chance to be on the scene, were the only persons to witness the finish of a most remarkable feat. It was M. Bleriot, the first aviator, to cross the English Channel.

Bleriot left Les Barraques, three miles from Calais, about 4.30 a.m. On one of the smallest monoplanes ever used he crossed the channel in a little less than half an hour, twice as swiftly as the fastest sailboat. His speed average more than forty miles an hour, sometimes it approached 60 miles. He kept about 250 feet above the sea level for ten minutes, while about mid-channel, was out of sight of both coasts and the French torpedo-boat destroyers, which followed him, with his wife and friends aboard.

The wind was blowing about twenty miles an hour and the sea was choppy. The aviator was swathed in a single garment of drilling, impervious to the wind, only his face showing. He wore also a cork lifebelt.

By his achievement yesterday Bleriot won the prize of $500 offered by The London Daily Mail for the first flight across the English Channel, and stole a march on his rivals, Hubert Latham and Count de Lambert, both of whom had hoped to make the attempt yesterday.

Bleriot, who speaks little English, described his successful flight very modestly.

"I arose at 3 o'clock," he said, "and went to the aeroplane shed. Finding everything in order on the trial spin, I decided to make the flight. The French torpedo-boat destroyer, which was in attendance, was signalled and it put out about four miles. Then I rose in the air and pointed directly to Dover. After ten minutes I was out of sight of land and had left the warship well behind. For a few minutes I could not see either coast nor any boat, I tried to keep at an average height of 200 feet. I might easily have gone higher, but it would have served no purpose. This was about the right height, I thought, to clear the Dover cliffs safely.

"The machine dipped toward the water several times. I put on more petrol once. I estimate that the propellers were going from 1,200 to 1,400 revolutions a minute. The first objects I saw were ships off the English coast; then I observed DeDal and I discovered that the wind, which was southwest, was carrying me thither. I veered to the southward to Dover Castle, and then saw friends flourishing a flag in a valley suitable for landing. I made two circles while lessening the speed, and then dived down, but I came in contact with the ground sooner than I expected. Both the machine and myself were badly shaken.

"A few persons quickly assembled and I was helped out as my injured foot was painful. I am exceedingly glad to be here."

The sailors on the ships in the harbor were the first to discover that Bleriot was approaching. They heard the buzzing of the motor two or three minutes before they could discern the aeroplane. Then what looked like a big white butterfly glided over their heads, as fast as a train of cars and with almost as much noise. It reached the cliff near the grey turrets of Dover Castle, swooped around twice in broad curves and disappeared.

Bleriot is one of the oldest and most popular aviators in France and is the winner of the Osiris prize of $100,000 in conjunction with Gabriel Versin, the aeroplane manufacturer, for their contributions to the progress of aviation. Only Saturday he was decorated with the legion of honor. He is a graduate of the celebrated technical school of France. He became interested in the problem of aviation in 1900.

M. Bleriot returned last evening to Calais aboard the destroyer. He was met by a cheering crowd and escorted to his hotel, where many speeches of congratulation were made by the vice-mayor, M. Berquet, and President Hemon of the auto club of Calais. M. Bleriot in response said: "All I can say is that I am radiantly happy at my success."

Gypsy Children Had No Voice In Marriage—Parents Arranged

Cupid does not have to take any hand in gypsy marriages if all are arranged on the same plan as that of Katrina Miguel, aged 12, and Spero Sterrio, also aged 12, of the Ottawa and Hull gypsy camps respectively. It came out in the evidence in the case of the kidnapping of little Katrina Miguel at Hull magistrate's court yesterday, when her alleged kidnappers Eli Stokes and John Stokes of the Ottawa camp were tried before Magistrate Goyette, that the marriage was arranged as a matter of convenience between the parents without consulting the children.

The two Stokes were ultimately committed for trial, later asking for a speedy trial. From the evidence the kidnapping itself proved a very mild affair, the matters leading up to it being of far more interest. Verbal evidence made out a strong case on behalf of the prosecution undertaken by the Hull gypsies through Mr. Louis Cousineau, that there was a wedding contracted at the camp in Peterborough on June 20th, with gypsy rites, between Katrina Miguel, aged 12, a Bulgarian, and Spero Sterrio, aged 12, son of Christo Sterrio, a Mexican The consent of the pair, according to Bohemian rules, was not necessary, so long as the parents were agreed as to the convenience, financial and otherwise, of the match. So the little girl of twelve and the little boy of twelve were mated with certain celebrations, but gypsy formula did not require any written contract. Thus no papers could be handed up to Magistrate Goyette yesterday, but witnesses from the Hull camp to which the Lilliputian husband belonged swore to the marriage.

Through The Long Chain Of Kawartha Lakes By Steamer

An excursion that is seldom taken and which combines all the beauties of Kawartha's chain of lakes is that from Lindsay to Peterborough by boat. The Lindsay Woodmen of the World's annual outing was over this route on Friday which is reported as follows in the Lindsay Post:

The beauties of the trip from Lindsay to Peterborough have to be seen to be enjoyed. After the boat enters Sturgeon Lake and until it steams up to the wharf at Peterborough, the scene is one continuous panorama of nature's beauties. Many who have sojourned in the Highlands of Ontario and the Thousand Islands are unanimous in declaring the Kawartha Lakes superior to those resorts, while many who have seen the far-famed Lakes of Killarney, state that they cannot excel the beauties of the route taken by the excursion on Friday.

Stops were made during the trip at Bobcaygeon, Burleigh Falls, Buckhorn, Young's Point and Lakefield. After leaving Burleigh, the excursionists had a splendid opportunity of viewing the beauty and grandeur of its innumerable islands and pretty summer cottages.

The trip down the canal from Lakefield to Peterborough, through some half a dozen locks, including the famous Lift Lock was enjoyed by the excursionists, and the boat landed safely at the Wolfe St. wharf, a few yards from George street, early in the evening, giving the excursionists ample time to visit Peterborough friends. The G. T. R. nine o'clock train was afterwards boarded for the trip home.

The excursionists are loud in their praises of the captain and crew of the steamer Otonabee, as well as the genial manager of the Otonabee Navigation Company, Alderman R. Hicks.

Auditorium Roller Rink Was Re-opened Under New Managers

The opening of the Auditorium Roller Rink on Saturday afternoon under new management was a gratifying success to those who have taken it over to provide a pleasant pastime for the lovers of roller skating. The floor was in good shape and a large detachment of the 57th Band provided delightful music. The attendance was good and the opening was most encouraging.

This evening the doors open at 7:30 o'clock and the band will arrive at eight. A good programme of music will be rendered. Mr. Gene Hurtubise, as manager, is looking after the comfort of the patrons of the rink and everything will be found enjoyable.

THE LIMITLESS NORTHWEST.

We don't yet know the grain growing and agricultural limit of our northwest possessions—don't know how near the Arctic will they stretch. Areas in the Peace River country compare favourably with any part of Canada. From the Rocky Mountains to Peace Point, a distance of about 800 miles, following the windings of the river, there is an average of seventy-five miles of width on each side of the Peace River that is equal to the soil on any similar length of the Saskatchewan. Much of this land is clean prairie, and all of that country would be good for stock. Slough and upland hay is abundant, while the pea vine and all the small fruits which grow in the North-West flourish in the Peace River country. It will not be long before this district will be pierced with railways, as the primary condition of occupation, cultivation and productiveness. We must have transportation to carry in the stream of immigration, and to bring out the products of the soil.

BRITISH ELECTION BAROMETER.

Bye-elections in Britain are generally regarded as indicating the political trend, and the coming political storm or calm for the skipper of the Government craft. Recently the bye-elections have been going against the Government; but the latest three bye-elections seem to mark the turn of the tide. They are to be regarded, under the circumstances, as signal victories for the Liberal Government—signals of improvement in the popular political attitude. It is not long since the high tariff politicians were having their innings. The return of the people to a saner mood is shown by the fact of the government retaining the three seats lately contested. It is true that the majorities were reduced; but this condition also promises to be overcome. The budget of Lloyd-George is something new to the people; in a sense it was sprung upon them and sufficient time has not elapsed for a popular understanding of its measure, and of the incidence of the taxation it proposes. When the people see the privileged classes are not, under the new tariff, to escape bearing their share of the burden of national maintenance, they will feel differently. As time passes the process of learning the details of the budget will go on, and when the people understand what it means—that landlords and other lords are to be taxed instead of bread, the popular response will not be against the present government. The public, if they know it, will not vote in favour of a retrograde movement and against the law of self preservation.

COLD STORAGE SHIPMENTS

The Dominion Government has always been solicitous for the advancement of the interests of all the industries of the farming community. It was the first to introduce a practical system of cold storage transportation, and it has been improving upon it ever since, so that thanks to refrigerated cars on railways and cold storage chambers on ocean-going steamers, the products of the orchard and dairy are carried to the British markets in the best possible conditions and prices and profits to producers and shippers have proportionately enhanced the advantages of the farming community. The bulletin is as follows:

Last year this Department arranged to have one cold storage chamber reserved on four steamers sailing weekly from Montreal to London, for shipments of early apples and tender fruits, the Department guaranteeing the earnings of the whole space. Similar arrangements have been made for the present season, with the exception that the steamers will sail from Montreal alternately to Glasgow and London. The Department has issued a bulletin giving full information to shippers and though this may not be of the greatest practical interest to local shippers its reproduction will be of interest as showing how anxious an interest the Government takes in providing facilities of the first order. The steamers and sailing dates will be as follows:

Hesperian, Allan, August 21st, Glasgow.

Cairnrona, Thomson, August 28th, London.

Grampian, Allan, September 4th, Glasgow.

Hurona, Thomson, September 11th, London.

Hesperian, Allan, September 18th, Glasgow.

One chamber on each of these steamers will be available for shipments of fruit at the regular rate of freight, to be paid to the steamship companies in the usual way. A proper temperature will be maintained in these chambers regardless of the quantity of fruit which may be offered for shipment. In each case these steamers will sail on Saturday morning so that shipments should reach Montreal not later than Friday morning of the same week.

The Department of Agriculture will assume no responsibility in connection with these shipments but there will be the usual supervision by the Cargo Inspectors at Montreal and at port of destination. Thermographs will be installed in these chambers so that a complete record of the temperature on each voyage will be secured.

As the space in these chambers is limited, shippers who intend to take advantage of the facilities offered on these five steamers must notify the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, Ottawa, before making shipments, and freight will be accepted in the order in which the space is booked. Applications for space should state the number and size of the packages which are to be shipped.

In connection with these sailings the Department has arranged with the Grand Trunk Railway Company to run an iced car weekly from St. Thomas to Montreal to pick up whatever shipments of fruit may offer at the different stations between St. Thomas and Hamilton, via Jarvis, the car to be sealed at Hamilton and forwarded to Montreal by fast freight. Shippers will be charged the usual less than carload freight rate without any extra charge for the icing or for the special service. This car will leave St. Thomas at 7:20 a.m. on Wednesday of each week, commencing August 18th, and ending September 15th. Following is the proposed schedule for this car showing the time it will be due at the different stations named. Freight, however, will be accepted at any station on the route between St. Thomas and Hamilton:

Leave St. Thomas 7:20 a.m., No. 72, Wednesday.

Leave Aylmer 8:05 a.m., No. 72, Wednesday.

Leave Tillsonburg 8:50 a.m., No 72, Wednesday.

Leave Delhi 9:45 a.m., No. 72, Wednesday.

Leave Simcoe 11:15 a.m., No. 72, Wednesday.

Leave Jarvis 12:15 p.m., No. 72, Wednesday.

Leave Hagersville 2:00 p.m., way-freight, Wednesday.

Leave Caledonia, 4:00 p.m., way-freight, Wednesday.

Arrive Hamilton 7:00 p.m., way-freight, Wednesday.

Arrive Montreal 3:00 a.m., No. 94, Friday.

Thus it is seen that the most complete details that can contribute to the shippers' advantage are furnished.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

While much has been written in praise of Prince Rupert and its admirable harbour, few details have been published regarding that valuable national asset. The entire harbour, from the entrance to the extreme end of the upper harbour, a distance of fourteen miles, is free from rocks, and of a depth to afford good anchorage anywhere. The entrance is straight, and is two thousand feet wide in the narrowest part, with a least depth of thirty-six feet at extreme low tide. For a width of fifteen hundred feet there is a least depth of sixty feet, something that shipowners and shippers and even insurance underwriters, it is hoped, will appreciate.

CANADA STEALING A MARCH.

(Finance Chronicle.)

The alleged indifference of the United States Congress to trade relations with France is by no means shared by all United States manufacturing and commercial interests. This was evident from American press comments following French ratification of the Franco-Canadian trade treaty a week ago. As it is taken for granted that the treaty will be accepted and ratified by the Dominion Parliament when in session next fall, its practical bearing is being discussed in trade circles—especially by those concerned with the export of agricultural implements. And in the Congress conference this week, the terms of the Franco-Canadian rapprochement are likely being instanced by those who, like President Taft, are opposed to fence-heightening.

As to tariff revision in general, Uncle Sam's Senate thus far seems to have taken as its motto that classic couplet from the Bigelow papers:

"We could talk agin tariffs but vote for a high un,
And call on all parties to build up our Zion."

President Taft, by his recent stand for free raw materials and lower duties has shown, to quote his own words, "a broader point of view than that of a single member of Congress in respect of the articles produced in his district." His theory is by no means that of the "insatiate protectionist." Instead, he holds that after an industry is protected by a duty equal to the difference between the cost of production in the United States, the energy and enterprise of American business men and capitalists, the effectiveness of American inventors under the impulse of competition behind the tariff wall, should reduce the cost of production; and that with the reduction in the cost of production the tariff rate becomes unnecessarily high and ought to be lowered.

THE GLORY OF WAR.

(Bystander in Weekly Sun.)

Those who think of war as a glorious spree may be edified by the following account given by an eye-witness of Beauregard's retreat from Shiloh:

"Fortune had denied to Beauregard victory. He was compelled to retreat. An eye-witness, an impressed New Yorker, says: 'I made a detour from the road on which the army was retreating, that I might travel faster and get ahead of the main body. In a ride of twelve miles alongside of the routed army I saw more human agony and woe than I trust I shall ever be called again to witness. The retreating host wound along a narrow and almost impassable road, extending some seven or eight miles in length. Here was a long line of waggons loaded with wounded, groaning and cursing, and piled in like bags of grain; while the mules plunged on in mud and water belly-deep, the water sometimes coming into the waggons. Next came a straggling regiment of infantry, pressing on past the train; then a stretcher borne upon the shoulders of four men, carrying a wounded officer; then soldiers struggling along with an arm broken and hanging down or other fearful wounds which were enough to destroy life. And, to add to the horrors of the scene, the elements of heaven marshalled their forces, a fitting accompaniment of the tempest of human desolation and passion which was raging. A cold, drizzling rain commenced about nightfall, and soon came harder and faster. It turned to pitiless blinding hail. This storm raged with unrelenting violence for three hours. I passed long waggon trains filled with wounded and dying soldiers, without even a blanket to shield them from the driving sleet and hail, which fell in stones as large as partridge eggs, until it lay on the ground two inches deep.'

"Three hundred men died during this awful retreat. Their bodies were thrown out to make room for others, who, although wounded, had struggled on through the storm, hoping to find shelter, rest, and medical care."

SPELL PROPERLY.

The Ottawa Free Press, under the heading "Spell Them Correctly," has the following:

The Peterborough Examiner rises in its wrath to inform the world that there is no such place in Canada as "Peterboro." It is "Peterborough." So please, be careful the next time you write the name of the county represented by Hon. J. R. Stratton.

And while you are about it, couple the Peterborough Examiner with the Moncton Transcript in the denunciation of careless spelling; for just as The Examiner insists that Peterborough must be spelled with an "ough," so the Transcript is insistent that the big New Brunswick county is "Westmorland," and not Westmoreland." It is just as well to be right, especially when it takes so little trouble to be right.

The Examiner did not "rise in its wrath" in respect of the mispelling of the name of this important city; it only wished to enter a protest against the tendency to corruption of word forms and spelling, which is becoming much too prevalent. The way to avoid bad habits in morals, in spelling, and literary form is to avoid beginnings. The little hole in the dyke is the danger. The laziness, that will not employ the infinitesimal exertion to use all the letters necessary to the proper spelling of a word, that will not take time to give proper value in pronunciation of every syllable in a word, is the father of corruption in language and speech forms. Indulged it leads to carelessness and indifference of the right way of doing things generally, and paves and oils the way to slang and rowdy speech and writing. As the Free Press says: "It is just as well to be right when it takes so little trouble to be right."

MYSTERIOUS SICKNESS AMONG THE SOLDIERS

St. Petersburg, July 24.—It is stated that 500 men of one of the regiments sent to guard the railway near Kieff for the Imperial journey to Poltava, have fallen ill with a gastric malady, due to bad food. The Novoge Rusa, in referring to this, says that while soldiers are set to protect the railway another had better be appointed to protect them from the tainted viands of the Kieff Commissariat, especially in time of cholera.

J. A. TULLY PROMOTED FROM SPECIAL AGENT TO MANAGER

Oddfellow Relief Association Appoints Him General Manager for New Western District.

It will be no surprise to those who know Mr. J. A. Tully and his work in connection with the Oddfellow Relief Association and the interests of the Order generally, to learn that he has been promoted, a testimony to his efficiency and a recognition of his zeal and adaptability to the work. At the annual meeting of the Oddfellows Relief Association in Kingston on the 21st inst., Canada was divided into two districts, east and west, and Mr. Tully was appointed general manager for the western section, including Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and British Columbia.

Mr. Tully's headquarters will be in Calgary, to which he will remove his family later. At present Mr. Tully goes west to enter upon his new duties. He will go first to Edmonton to attend the Grand Lodge meeting of Alberta on August 10th. From there he will go to British Columbia and later will attend the annual meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge at Seattle, on Sept 10th. After that he will work his way east through the Crow's Nest Pass to his headquarters at Calgary.

Mr. Tully has spent several years as special agent of the Relief Association and has done excellent work, an authority stating that he has in some cases, done and done well, the work of two men. His new appointment is therefore no surprise to those who know what he can and did do. While it involves greater responsibility it brings with it larger reward and "Jimmy's" many friends in Peterborough, both in and out of the Order, feel sure that he will meet the increased responsibility successfully. As is to be expected by those who know his integrity, zeal, energy, and enterprise he will succeed in the west. Congratulations and best of good wishes go with him.

LAKEFIELD CHURCH PIC-NIC A SUCCESS

Was Held to Sandy Point, Clear Lake, Where Big Ball Game Was Pulled Off.

Lakefield, July 26—The annual picnic of St. John's Sunday School of this village was held on Friday, July 23rd, to Sandy Point, Clear Lake. The afternoon was featured by a baseball game between Young's Point and Lakefield. During the nine innings, Lakefield piled up 18 runs, while the opposing team could only get nine. There were many grand stunts pulled off and it was regretted that the teams were not playing before a big league crowd. Rev. W. Creighton made a sensational double play that was a scintillator. Other outstanding work was Jim Mahood's batting and Andy Wilson's base running. The teams lined up as follows:

Young's Point—Rev. C. Spencer, r. f.; A. Wilson, 1b.; E. Stuart, p.; Steve Dunk, c.; A. Reed, 2b.; G. Stuart, 3b; W. Johnson, l.f.; R. Wilson, c.f.

Lakefield—W. Hampton, r.f.; Rev. W. Creighton, 1b.; Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, p.; E. Cumberland, c.; K. Cumberland, 2b.; G. Hilliard, 3b.; K. Mackenzie, l.f.; I. Hampton, c.f.

Mr. G. B. Hilliard fulfilled the duties of umpire most efficiently.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S SERMON

Thieves In Paradise—Text: "Verily I Say Unto Thee To-day, Thou Shalt Be With Me In Paradise."

(Saint Luke 23, 43.)

Seattle, Wash., July 25.—Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, addressed the Bible Students' Convention twice to-day. We publish one of his addresses from the text, "Verily I say unto thee to-day, thou shalt be with me in paradise" (Luke xxiii, 43).

The theology which came down to us from the dark ages was wonderful in its extremes. It pictured Divine wrath as unsatisfied with anything short of an eternity of torture for the sinner, and in the next breath assured us of a Divine mercy which would take the vilest sinners to an eternity of glory without character development, merely at their request. One would suppose that neither of these doctrines could command support amongst reasoning, intelligent people, but they do; and the only explanation of the matter is that by reason of the fall the balance of human judgment, on moral questions particularly, is sadly undone. It is fair, however, to suppose that the majority of intelligent people have never so much as given these subjects consideration. Receiving them through the various creeds from childhood's hour, they have swallowed them without reflection, taught that to doubt them would bring the doubters under the ban of Divine displeasure, and make sure that Divine mercy should never reach them.

It is difficult to measure the bad results which have flown from the misinterpretation of our text. (1) The Divine character and government have thereby been traduced and measurably brought into contempt as unphilosophical, unreasonable, arbitrary, instead of wise and just. Two vagabonds gambled and quarreled, drew their revolvers and shot each other. The more contemptible of the two killed his antagonist instantly, while he himself lingered in consciousness for a few minutes, during which he had opportunity to say, "God be merciful to me a sinner." The creeds of Protestantism tell us that the one who used the magical words was instantly ushered to heavenly glory and companionship with the pure and holy throughout eternity. The other, we are told, though less vile, went instantly to eternal torture and despair, without a single ray of hope.

Is it any wonder that such unreasonable conclusions have driven many of the brighter minds of Protestantism unto infidelity, and led others back to the teachings of the Church of Rome, which, to say the least, is more consistent, in that it would put both of the culprits into "Purgatory," where after centuries of torture and instruction in righteousness they might be prepared, either or both of them, for heavenly glory. We are not advocating either infidelity or Romanism; we are defending the Bible, but incidentally must admit that our Protestant views of some portions of Holy Writ has been very unsatisfactory and very baneful.

(2) Who can measure the evil effects of this doctrine upon thousands, leading them to believe that whatever their crime, a few magical words of repentance will straighten it all out? Can it be doubted that this wrong theory is accountable for much of the wickedness committed by those who know better, who reside in civilized lands? First of all they doubt the doctrine of eternal torment, being unable to imagine how any one could burn forever and yet not be destroyed. Secondly, if there be such a place of eternal torment, they reason, it is quite improbable that they will die so suddenly as not to have time to offer a petition for mercy—a petition which, if offered, will surely be heard and answered, and bring them to the regions of the blest.

The further reasoning is, that while heaven is certainly desirable, it is useless to seek it via the strait gate and narrow way and self sacrificing experiences of Jesus and the Apostles and all the saints. The reasoning is, that these saintly ones may indeed occupy a higher position in heaven than those who are saved after a life of sin and carelessness by a momentary prayer in the dying hour; but the philosophizing is, that the pleasures of sin for a season more than compensate for the higher glory of the saints, since even the sinners are to get to paradise at the small cost of nine words—the supposed teaching of our text.

Before proceeding to discuss the principles involved as between the right and the wrong interpretation of our Lord's words, let us notice what he really did say and really did mean, and how it happened the true meaning was lost sight of and the erroneous one adopted generally. The Bible teaching that "the dead know not anything," together with the doctrine that the resurrection of the dead is the Divine provision, has long been lost sight of. Our Lord's own words that "No man hath ascended up to heaven" have been overlooked, and so has his teaching respecting his Kingdom—that the blessing of the Church and of the world awaits his second coming, when he will establish his Kingdom under the whole heavens in power and great glory. Losing sight of these truths has led directly to the acceptance of the general error respecting our text.

Let us begin the investigation by noting what the dying thief requested. He had heard his companion beating our Lord, saying, If thou be Messiah, save thyself and us. He had sufficient character to realize the dishonesty of classifying our Lord with evil doers. He spoke up, reproving his companion; and then turned to Jesus, and, as a reward asked, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy Kingdom." He did not ask to be remembered in heaven, nor that day, but when our Lord, who was then being crucified, should attain to his Kingdom.

As the thief's request was a reasonable one, our Lord's answer was no less reasonable. He said, in the words of our text, Verily (truly) I say unto thee to-day (this day of my agony and rejection by Israel, and crucifixion by the Roman soldiers; this day, when I seem to be an impostor and not at all the Messiah; nevertheless, truly I tell you to-day) thou shalt be with me in Paradise. I do not tell you when you shall be with me, nor have you even asked me to tell you. You have asked to be remembered when I come into my Kingdom, when I shall have fully taken control of the Kingdom under the whole heavens, when the speedy result will be that the entire world will become a Paradise, and you have asked my assurance that you will be there, and I will remember you as requested.

It will be noticed that this different interpretation makes necessary the changing of the comma from before "to-day" to after it. We remark that the punctuation of our text was surely not inspired, for punctuation was not invented until centuries after our Bible was written. Our interpretation, with the comma after "to-day," makes this entire passage reasonable and harmonious—consistent with all the remainder of the Bible, and logical.

Further, be it remembered, that Jesus was not in Paradise on the day he died; nor has Paradise lost, yet been restored. Jesus was dead, and St. Peter declares he "arose from the dead on the third day." He then declared to Mary, "I have not yet ascended to my Father and to your Father, to my God and to your God" (John xx, 17).

As a matter of fact, the other thief also will be in Paradise. All mankind, redeemed by our Lord's sacrifice, will have the privilege of the Millennial blessings. As we read, "All that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth." The Church will come forth to the heavenly glory and condition, for which they have been prepared by the trials, the disciplines, the lessons, the chiselings, the polishings, of this present life. Theirs will be the instantaneous change, or resurrection, from earthly to heavenly conditions. Those of the spirit-begotten ones, all who wilfully walk after the flesh and not after the Spirit, having had their trial in the present life, will be accounted worthy of the Second Death. All the remainder of mankind, not having come to a knowledge of the Truth, not having incurred, therefore, the responsibility of this age, will come forth during the Millennium when Messiah's Kingdom shall be established and his rule of righteousness shall have brought the earth to the condition of Paradise. Both of these thieves, and all other thieves and all other evil doers, all of the heathen, all who have not in the present life come to a clear knowledge of the truth, and sinned against light, against the holy Spirit, will be there—there to be blessed, to be enlightened, to be brought to a knowledge of the Truth, and if they will, to be helped out of ignorance, superstition, sin, weaknesses—mental, moral and physical.

The attaining of eternal life will not be a matter of luck, but a matter of character. It is true at the present time that chance, or luck, would seem to be associated with many of our affairs, except as we are able to view them in the light of Divine revelation. Some of us were fortunate to be better born than others—born of religious parents. Some are fortunate in being born in religious communities, and in a land of liberty and enlightenment. Some are unfortunate in being born in heathen lands, of heathen parentage, etc. But the Scripture shows that during this present time God is exercising his sovereign power in electing a special class of special characters, and assures us that a majority of these are being called from amongst the mixed peoples of Europe and America, and that proportionately few are being gathered from other nationalities.

If all of the non-elect were consigned to eternal torment, or even to Purgatory, a grave injustice would be chargeable against the Almighty Elector. But this is not the case. The Lord is no respecter of persons, but is taking out from the world of mankind, from every nation, those with suitable characters, those upon whom his Truth and Grace exercise a transforming influence. The non-elect, not worthy of a blessing amongst the faithful of the first class now being selected, pass at death to the tomb, to the prison-house of sheol, hades, where there is no wisdom, knowledge nor device, as the Scriptures declare (Ecclesiastes ix, 10). Although unworthy of a share in the blessings now being dispensed, God's love and mercy pursue after these through Christ, and in their interest the Millennial Kingdom will be established. Under its domination Satan will be bound, every influence of evil will be restrained, and every good influence will be brought into captivity, to the intent that all those at present non-elect, and unworthy of the present salvation, may be brought to a savable condition through the rewards and punishments (judgments) of the Millennial Age. The result of the purifying influences of that time upon the willing and obedient will be full human perfection and the reward of everlasting life in Paradise restored—world-wide, under the whole heaven. The result to the unwilling who will resist God's grace and merciful provisions will be eternal death—extinction—the Second Death—Gehenna (Revelation xx, 14, 15).

The Bible, in harmony with sanctified common sense, teaches that character is a prerequisite of Divine favor and eternal life. Whoever is called during this Gospel Age and fails to develop character, will fail to attain the reward of life eternal. Similarly, in the world's trial time, or Day of Judgment, the Millennial Age, character will be the test. All the intelligences of the great Kingdom of Messiah will be exercised with a view to the development of character, and only those properly exercised thereby will get the reward of earthly life eternal.

The question properly arises here, What kind of character will meet with the Divine approval and be granted the reward of life everlasting? We answer that God has but one standard, which is fully set forth in the Scriptures. The Law of God is the standard. That Law standard is, "Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy heart, with all thy mind, with all thy being, with all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself." As our Redeemer testified, on these two commandments hang all the Law and the prophets; all the divine blessings and promises and covenants are to those who develop the character here described.

The Scriptures show a difference as between God's dealings with the Church in this age and the world in the next age, even though there be but the one Law or standard of character for both. During the Millennium, when everything will be favorable to human uplift, during the "times of restitution of all things which God hath spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began," actual obedience to the Divine Law, and actual attainment of this standard of character, will be required. Not all at once, however. The poor world, "born in sin and shapen in iniquity"—in sin did their mothers conceive them—are "prone to sin as the sparks to fly upward." Steeped in degradation they will require years, if not centuries, of determined resistance of sin and cultivation of the principles of righteousness to develop in them absolutely the character required by the Divine Law—Love supreme for God and Love for the neighbor as for oneself.

During the Millennium the weaknesses and imperfections of the race will be conceded by the great Teacher, Christ and the Church—Jesus the Head and the Church his members. The more degraded the will, the more undermined the character, the more perverted the conscience and judgment, the more difficult will be the ascent of humanity from the horrible pit of sin and death, even with the assistance of the Redeemer. The less degraded the mind, the less perverted the conscience, the stronger the will for righteousness, the easier will be the ascent along the Highway of Holiness, of which it is written, "The redeemed shall walk thereon" (Isaiah xxxv, 9). The laggards will receive the "stripes" of correction for their assistance; the zealous will receive the smiles and blessings of the great High Priest, the great Teacher and Mediator like unto Moses, of whom it is written, "And it shall come to pass, that every soul which will not hear (obey) that Prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people" (Acts iii, 23). All the reformation must be made during the allotted time—the thousand years of Christ's reign. Sin must be put down—not only outward sin, but inward sin, even in the very thoughts and intents of the heart. Sin must be eradicated, even to the extent of the destruction of the wilful sinner in the Second Death.

If the thieves and liars and evil-doers in general would realize that they are either making character or undermining character every day, what a helpful influence it would have upon the social and political and financial life of the world! The effect would be the very reverse of that which is now made by the false interpretation of our Lord's words to the thief, which we are seeking to correct.

If every pernicious word uttered were realized to be as much of an undermining influence, if every pernicious thought were similarly recognized, with what carefulness would mankind come to guard their thoughts and their words, as well as their deeds. They would attentively learn the great general lesson set forth in the Scriptures, and also in the book of nature, namely, "Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Who shall says that there would not be less "sowing of wild oats" if all were assured that a proportionate crop would be unavoidably reaped, and that no mere prayer of repentance would constitute an "open sesame" to heavenly glory to the one who had lived a life deserving reprobation and punishment.

Her Martyrdom.

"I tell you," said the man who likes to wrangle, "that woman is on a different plane. She's given special privileges. She doesn't have to toil and venture and dare and starve. The woman of to-day is never called upon to suffer any martyrdom."

"Then what," inquired the suffragette mildly, "do you call living with a man?"

They GUARANTEE "Little Digesters" to cure. If they fail, you get your money back, promptly and without question.

THE WORD "FELLOW."

Its Source From the Unexpected Into Everyday Life.

The word bachelor means originally "beshipy," a youth who looked after the cow, from the few Latin words and through the classical Latin vacca. In course of time the term was given in scorn to voluntarily unwedded men by ladies who had sharp tongues. The word was taken over by the universities in the middle ages, and the degree of bachelor was not supposed to be given to any man who had entered into the state of matrimony.

The word "fellow" has had a somewhat similar fate as far as the ladies and the universities were concerned. The universities of Oxford and Cambridge, to name but two, grant fellowships worth from $2,500 to $5,000 per annum at the various colleges to unmarried honor graduates of high distinction. If a fellow should enter into matrimony he still loses or forfeits his fellowship. As the "fellows" were generally men of apparent opulence or at least comfort in regard to living and dress, they readily attracted the attention of ladies who were thinking of settling down in life. When an acquaintanceship was formed between a "fellow" and a marriageable lady things usually went very delightfully until the fair schemer discovered the academic status of the man. Then the expression "Pooh, he is a fellow!" came very naturally to her lips. And so it crept into secular or lay life and began its unkind meaning. But, of course, if the graduate was willing to sacrifice his fellowship and its emoluments for the sake of the fair lady's lovely eyes and favors—why, he became a "good fellow," which is a horse of a totally different color.

What He Said.

A gentleman and his son were walking down a street the other day. As they passed by the eye hospital the son said:

"What is that place, dad?"

"That, my son," he replied, "is the ophthalmic hospital."

"What's that for?" the little fellow inquired.

"Why," the father said, "that is for people who suffer with their eyes."

"Why don't you go there?" he asked his dad.

"I don't have any trouble with my eyes. Why should I go there?"

The son then answered:

"I heard ma tell the next door neighbor that you were nearly blind last night."

Now his ma won't let him go out with his father any more.—London Tit-Bits.

THE AMERICAN VOICE.

Oscar Hammerstein Tells What Makes a Prima Donna.

The ideal prima donna must compass three requisites to deserve her name—head, heart and vocal chords—and no two are worth much without the third.

It is strange that no woman reaches her full meaning in the world, especially if she expresses that meaning musically, without passing through a sorrowing, struggling past. It is that which molds her, says Oscar Hammerstein in the Delineator. If in the speech of the soul in the child song, in the mother song, the hero song that shuts out the world and helps us to breast the tides which bear us to some new and truer sense of life's vast possibilities. This soul speech is never learned save through one teacher, experience, and, alas, by the time the pupil is perfect in the lesson and knows what it is all good for she is no longer young.

All the possibilities are embodied in the American girl, never heard of in grand opera fifty years ago, but with a record during the latter half of the nineteenth century which foreshadows the future. A few more years will see her a radiant combination of character, beauty, dramatic ability and voice, the ideal queen of song.

When the great people of America, not a few capitalists and devotees of fashion, demand grand opera and make its support the same serious business which continental Europe has done for three centuries we shall not send abroad for our dramatic singers. It was in A. D. 1691 that Tuscan Margarita de l'Epine inaugurated the fashion in England so industriously copied by Patti in America, an annual "positively last appearance." In A. D. 1991 Mary Smith may just as reasonably be expected to hold the Italian populace in thrall by the magic of her American voice.

MR. KENNEDY'S SALES ON TORONTO MARKET

The following is the report of Mr. H. P. Kennedy's business on the Toronto market last week:

Receipts from all sources by rail were 1482. The market for them was the strongest of the season. H. P. Kennedy reports buying 1500 this week at $8 f.o.b. cars at country points; $8.25 to $8.35 fed and watered and $8.50 to $8.60 off cars.

H. P. ## POST CARD COLUMN.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I am in accord with those who favour the passing of the by-law about to be submitted to a vote of the people, but as to the one respecting street extensions, there is no reason why we should pay for opening up other people's property and they get the benefit of it by thus increasing the value of their property. If such parties are unreasonable and would suggest that the right of way be expropriated when the law would only allow them the depreciation of their land (if any) which in no case would be appreciable.

Yours truly,
TAXPAYER.

Editor of the Post Card Column:

The quiet peace of a Sabbath evening was shamefully disturbed by a gang of young ruffians acting in a most shocking manner on Stewart street, north. Must the people of this neighbourhood tolerate Sunday after Sunday this sort of disorder? The chief reports that are only six officers. Surely this city can well afford one extra to guard its citizens and their property.

Y.M.C.A. Boys Of Port Hope To Spend Holidays At Rice Lake

Expected at Lee's Point To-day for Two Weeks—Two Peterborough Men Upset Near Campbelltown —Thursday Trips are Popular—Recent Visitors.

NEWS FROM THE RESORTS

Examiner Special

Rice Lake, July 26.—August promises to be a splendid month from the standpoint of the tourist traffic. The different resorts announce that they have received applications from many persons who will begin to arrive during the first week in the month. There will be busy times around the lake from now until Labour Day, when the season will be practically over.

The last two weeks have provided poor fishing. Few catches were made and even the old timers have had poor luck. Bass are good, in fact there have been fine reports from the still fishermen, but trawling woefully fallen off. Some say the 'lunge are losing their teeth. That may be the case and a probable explanation for their loss of appetite. A decided improvement is predicted for August, and many are waiting until then to take their holidays.

A party of ten arrived at Idyl Wild on Saturday night from Rochester.

Two Peterborough men, Messrs. J. J. Howden and W. D. Morris, are reported to have met with an upset near Campbelltown, towards the end of last week. It is not known how the accident occurred, but the two gentlemen received a thorough wetting before they reached shore, where they emptied their canoe.

Hatrick's Point is considered to be one of the prettiest and best located situations on the lake. At the east end of the bay at the mouth of the eastern channel of the Otonabee it overlooks the favourite 'lunge beds, and in rough weather, when the lake is rolling high, it is easy to reach the river, owing to the breakwater, formed by the rice bed. The fishermen can either trawl up the stream or throw out an anchor in the neighbourhood of the lighthouse and fish for bass. There have been several parties camping at the point this summer.

Mr. R. C. Braund and family are having an enjoyable time camping on the river near the city, just below Crawford's Grove.

The Thursday afternoon trips from Peterborough seem to be very popular. This week the Otonabee brings the Knights of Pythias first excursion The holidays will continue throughout August.

The Port Hope Y. M. C. A. boys are expected to arrive at Lee's Point on the lake to-day for two weeks. Among the party are A. Bletcher, H. Brown, C. Clark, E. Conroy, C. Daniel, N. Haultain, F. Hugh, A. L. Lord H. J. McLean, V. Morrison, J. Ralph, E. Strathy, H. Strathy, R. Sandercock, R. C. Wilson.

Mr. G. Galley will be in charge, and a fine time should be enjoyed.

A new wharf is being built at Bewdley, at the head of the lake by the Dominion Government, which will be a great convenience to those living in that district.

Dr. McIlmoyle, Toronto, is taking charge of Dr. V. H. McWilliams' practice at Keene, while the latter and Mrs. McWilliams are enjoying a holiday at Burleigh.

Mrs. Boxbright and Miss Simmons, Colborne are at Glenovy, Gore's Landing.

Mr. W. J. Clark, of Toronto, was among the week's visitors.

Mrs. Thomas Weir, Toronto, is at Hastings with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip, Elmhurst.

Miss Kennedy, Toronto, is a guest of Hastings friends.

Dr. Redmond, Edmonton, is staying with friends at Keene.

Mrs. V. Louden and Mrs. E. Lacey Camborne; Mrs. and Misses Cooper, Port Hope, are staying at Cosy Nook.

Mrs. Lawson, of Toronto, is at Hastings, with her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Burns.

Dr. James Campbell, of the Toronto Asylum staff, was a recent visitor at Gore's Landing.

Mr. Percy Kelley of Toronto, is with his brother, Mr. Wm. Kelley, at Margaret's Island.

Mrs. E. M. Kerwin of Toronto, is staying with Hastings friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong, of Toronto, are guests of Mrs. J. J. Moore at Keene.

A handsome summer cottage is being erected on Hickory Island by Mr. Rowe.

Tips to Fishermen.

A Gore's Landing fisherman, who has had great success fishing, gave out the following advice to an eager group of amateurs: On a dark day use a silver bait and on a bright day use a brass one. One secret of successful fishing is to keep your hooks very sharp. The best bait for bass is frogs or crawfish, or eel flies. Black bass will bite well after sunset. The best times to try for maskinonge are about 9 o'clock in the forenoon, between 1 and 2 in the afternoon, and a couple of hours before sunset. He farther states that thunder stops the fish biting.

The Huffman party from Peterborough spent the week at Jubilee.

Prefers Steel To Reinforced Concrete For Smith Street Bridge

Writer Points Out That the Foundation Is Great Factor In Cement Bridges—Possibility of Poor Brand of Cement, Etc.—Steel Bridge Cheaper by Ten Thousand Dollars.

CITES SEVERAL EXAMPLES

Peterborough, July 26.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice that a By-law is about to be voted on by the ratepayers for a concrete arch bridge on Smith street. I would like to point out that the ratepayers should consider the matter well before recording their vote. As to the plans submitted by your city engineer, which also have been recommended by Mr. Francis, C. E., I have no doubt they are all right and no fault can probably be found, but the point I wish to bring out is that there are locations, which are not adapted for concrete arches, and that cannot be depended upon to a certainty to keep their position after erection. I think the Smith Street bridge may be classified as one of those. Any concrete bridge, where it is necessary to drive piles for its support, cannot be said to be a sure and immovable structure even allowing that the engineering is the best available; another and important point is the chance of poor concrete, which sometimes creeps in both from a desire of the contractor to save money or through some detail which has failed to come directly under his eye. I also feel it to be a duty to point out that a number of concrete arch bridges have failed, which were built in less lengths of span than the one now proposed, why? They were built on a pile foundation, and after completion and subject to the strain of traffic the footings settled and as concrete will not stand twisting strain or elongation to any great extent the consequence is it has to separate at wherever the weakest point is, the least settlement of foundation is sufficient to cause a fracture.

I believe a steel structure is the most desirable, for the steel will adapt itself to a wonderful percentage of any movement of the foundation compared with the other. I also hold that the steel bridge with concrete piers and abutments can be built for about ten thousand dollars less, and that a well designed plan would not lack in beauty or general appearance. Another advantage is you can always adjust and level up the steel for any displacement of piers or abutments whereas if such a thing transpires in a concrete arch it is a failure pure and simple. It is the opinion of a great many engineers that concrete arches to be an undoubted success should be built on a positive rock bottom or something as good.

Looking at the proposed By-law I think it would have been well to have allowed the ratepayers recording their votes to have had the option to vote for either a steel bridge or a concrete arch, and possibly save ten thousand dollars.

Trusting I have not encroached too much on your valuable space, I am,

Yours truly.
CHARLES L. BREWER.

Crops In Better Condition Than The Farmers Reported

The reports from the country regarding the crops are somewhat unstable. They change with the weather and recently the change has been a marked one. With a prolonged dry spell which was terminated just a week ago by a heavy downpour of rain the farmers were almost in despair. Their hay was and probably is yet, a poor crop, and the grains were unpromising. The roots, too, were suffering and in many cases in this county there were farmers going to bed at night worried about the continued drouth which was sapping the verdure of the standing grain, and was daily meaning a loss in dollars and cents. Then came the change. The rain arrived a little late, they said, but the situation was practically saved. Some had cut their hay and now they are sorry for it.

Those who are acquainted with the conditions state that the fields that were left uncut have taken on a new growth and are springing up again with a rapidity that is taking the farmer's breath away. Those who saw their hay fields thin and poor, and who gathered in the excuse for a crop are sorry. The other man has every prospect of getting an average yield and his grains are heading out in splendid manner. The roots are coming along, the fruit trees are beginning to manifest evidences of burdens which will soon begin to bend the limbs and all is bright and hopeful from the front fence to the edge of the wood in the farthest meadow. Dame Nature plays with the farmer in her most coquettish and tantalising manner and causes him many a pang and misgiving. But with all her seeming fickleness she is true to him and particularly when she trusts him most. The world rolls on just the same as it did in the B.C.'s. The terrestrial ball will have its four seasons which will spend themselves very much according to the prescribed manner. The old order in this case will not give place to new for then God could not fulfill Himself. Probably a latter generation of tillers of the soil will realise that Nature very rarely forgets herself to the extent of leaving man without sustenance, which she, alone, can provide.

DON'TS FOR MEN

(By a Young Woman.)

Don't just be a promissory note or she will become tired of meeting you.

Don't forget that the most interesting book you can give your wife is a bank book in her own name.

Don't think that absence alone makes the heart grow fonder. Presents have been known to have the same effect.

Don't fail to give a women credit for those things she does not possess. Praise Venus for her cleverness and Minerva for her beauty.

Don't try to mould a woman according to your ideal, but remould your ideal according to what she is.

Don't be satisfied with the background. Always make yourself the centrepoint of a woman's thoughts.

Don't forget the little courtesies and thoughtful attentions. They count more than the big things with a woman.

Don't let a woman know the extent of her power over you or she may rule instead of serving.

Don't be too affectionate. The account at the Bank of Love is soon overdrawn if one tries to cash all one's checks at the beginning. Try to live on the interest rather than the principle.

Don't let a woman see that you are jealous of her. It will make her so proud that she may eventually give you a serious reason for it.

Don't give a woman the satisfaction of letting her see you lose your temper. When she quarrels keep cool and enjoy the scene. The effect is marvellous and instantaneous.

Don't pry into the mysteries of your wife's dressing room. Remember that Balzac said only a fool or a philosopher should have the courage to do so.

Don't be too slow. Men, like clocks are better a little too fast than too slow.

Don't talk only of subjects that interest you. Remember she may have interests of her own.

Don't break your word. A promise that is kept weighs more than a bunch of flowers that is sent later.

Don't let go the reins. A woman plays with an obliging man, but respects a masterful one.

Don't stop trying to please her. If you stop someone else may begin.

Don't make love with too great an amount of proficiency, or she will guess that you've been there before.

Don't swear at the waiter, or she will be afraid you'll swear at her some day.

Don't kick the dog. She might say nothing, but she'll never forgive you.

Don't let a woman see you look ridiculous. A love can survive misfortune, but succumbs to ridicule.

Don't ask for everything you want. If you're wise and it is within reason, you'll take it.

Don't forget that you once offered "to lay down your life for the woman you love." As that probably won't be required of you, why not compromise by donning your dress suit and taking her out occasionally.

REAL SECRET OF HAPPY MARRIAGES

Those where there is equality of station, somebody else will say. Certainly, a great inequality of position makes any marriage more of a risk; but the mere social level does not secure happiness by any manner of means.

Another will tell you that people's tastes should be similar. It undoubtedly is a great point when this is the case, for it increases people's mutual interests.

But, on the other hand, some of the happiest marriages on record have been those where not a single tast in common was shared by husband and wife; and some of the most miserable have been where people have said beforehand, "What a perfectly assorted pair."

"Happy the wooing that's not long in doing," says one proverb; while another tells us that if we marry in haste, we shall most probably repent at leisure—so that cannot be taken as an invariable truth, it would seem.

Some people say there is more chance of a happy marriage if people have known each other all their lives; others say that people who have not long known each other will most probably get on best together.

An article in a recent periodical stated that when a man married his first love, the marriage was sure to be a satisfactory one, and then some one came out, in another paper, and declared that it was only after people had been in love a dozen times that they were capable of making a wise and judicious choice.

What then makes the happiest marriage? Those in which there is sympathy, forbearance, consideration between the two, are undoubtedly the happiest to the eyes of the outside public, and it is quite true that outsiders see most of the game.

And what brings about that state of affairs? Can well-invested money do it, or the fact that both sides have known each other nearly six months and a half, or have been engaged a fortnight, or have been in love before, or both like Sullivan's operas? Will any one of these things, or all of them, produce that state of domestic harmony, that mutual toleration and understanding and friendship that alone make the wheels of marriage run smooth? No, it is absurd to suppose or suggest it, there is only great promoter of this state of happiness, and that is mutual love.

Then the marriages where love is are the happiest marriages? Undoubtedly; for nothing else helps to smooth away the inevitable jars and jolts of the chariot of life, and makes its wheels run without a hitch.

All lives have their trials and troubles, but only love can make them endurable and help the sufferers to support their weight.

No couple who love each other truly have ever been heard even to hint that marriage is a failure. They would laugh at the very idea.

They know that marriage is not exempt from trials, any more than the other phases of this mortal life. But they also know that where love is marraige halves one's sorrows and doubles one's joys.

"Where love is, marriage halves one's sorrows and doubles one's joys."

Some people will tell you that, after all, a comfortable income is a great sweetener of life, and with a good balance at one's bankers, nobody can call their married life miserable. It is rather odd, after having these facts dinned into our ears, that the marriage de convenance so often turns out a failure, and that the people whose lives serve as a warning against matrimony to others, are, more often than not, in prosperous circumstances.

Ford Automobiles Made Good
Showing In Spite Of The Rain

Although the weather and the roads on Saturday afternoon were not ideal from the motorist's viewpoint, it gave the Ford cars an opportunity to present themselves under the most trying conditions. The procession of these honking up and down the main street was a good advertising coup.

Messrs. Drummond and Duffus received a shipment of three cars Saturday morning from Walkerville, Ontario, where the Canadian factory is in operation. The machines were ordered by Dr. Halliday, T. A. Finlay and A. L. F. Hall and is an evidence of the popularity of this car. Mr. F. I. Fox, manager of the Toronto branch and general salesman for centre and eastern Ontario, came down for the day, and renewed acquaintances. It was intended that the new purchasers and their friends should enjoy a spin around the country and return in time for luncheon, but the wet weather prevented this programme being carried out.

The 1909 model T. Ford car is claimed to be the equal of any car at twice the price. A feature of its mechanism is that storage battery or dry cells are used as the electricity is generated by fly wheels. The sales for this season show an increase over last year of 27 per cent., and the Canadian factory is kept busy turning out enough machines to meet the demands.

Those in the district owning Ford cars of 1909 model are: Messrs. H. E. Sherin, A. T. Butcher, J. A. McConnell, Dr. Halliday, A. L. F. Hall, Drummond & Duffus, A. O. Mulholland, and T. A. Finlay.

THE DIFFERENCE ONE LITTLE ZERO MADE

Typographical Error Made 1400 H. P. 14,000 in Report of E. J. McLaughlin on Burleigh Power.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In your report of the meeting between the Directors of the Central Ontario Power Company and the City Council, in your issue of the 22rd, there is a clerical error. I am reported to have said that the reservoir would develop 14,000 horse power. What I said, or intended to say, was that the reservoir, Lovesick Lake, above the dam, would enable the water to be stored during the portion of the night, when little power was used, and sufficient additional water could be used during the time when the power was needed to increase the effective horse power by 1,400. This could not be done if the power was on the river, and Lovesick Lake, not immediately above it, and the additional 1,400 horse power, thus available, that could be developed in that way with little additional expense, was worth more than the whole price asked for Burleigh.

Yours truly,
R. McLAUGHLIN.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

IS IT RAG-TIME

Silvio Hein, the composer, and Marie Cahill, have applied to the Supreme Court for an injunction to restrain Charles K. Harris from publishing a lyric entitled, "There Is a Woodpecker Knocking at My Family Tree."

The plaintiffs claim that this song is a direct infringement, so far as the music is concerned, upon "The Arab Love Song," sung by Miss Cahill in "Betty and the Boys."

The application was made to Justice Bischoff and, with the papers was submitted the musical score of both lyrics. Hein's song claims priority of copyright.

"Your Honour will recognize the similarity of the two tunes," said the attorney for the applicant.

"Is this rag-time music?" asked the Court. "If it is, I think I can decide the matter quickly. In August, 1900, I had occasion to express my views on rag-time music in a decision."

The attorneys hastened to assure the Court that both compositions were "superior" in musical qualities.

The justice took the matter under consideration until he could hear the music played.

AL. LEACH COLLAPSES

Al. ## ENJOYABLE CONCERT HELD AT VIAMEDE LAST THURSDAY

Season at its Height at This Popular Resort---House Filled With Guests---Card Parties, Dances and Concerts Held ---Extremely Wet Weather Kept Many to Their Homes--- Latest Happenings at Stony Lake.

Stony Lake, July 26.—The past week at the lakes has for the most part been a most disagreeable one, it being one continuous downpour of rain from Wednesday until early Sunday. The cottagers have been kept to their homes and the summer visitors have had to spend their time in playing cards and reading. The pavilion, in the evenings, has been deserted, and very few gathered for the hop on Saturday night. Not for years have the residents of Stony Lake experienced such a wet period. However, Sunday was an ideal day and the weather promises to be finer. A large number of picnics from the various resorts have been planned for this week.

At Juniper Island yesterday Divine service was conducted by Mr. W. F. Harris, a divinity student from Toronto; and a sacred solo was sung by Miss C. Reesor, of Peterborough.

At Viamede.

This beautiful resort has been the scene of much gaiety during the past week, despite the rainy days. Euchre parties, dances and concerts have been the order of the day, and a most delightful holiday has been enjoyed.

The fishing also has been excellent and many fine catches have been made. On Friday and Saturday Mr. Sam C. Bell, of San Antonio, Texas, caught his limit of bass. Mr. Clarkson Taylor and others have also been exceedingly fortunate in landing some fine 'lunge and bass.

Viamede Regatta.

The annual Viamede regatta will be held some day this week. The house is full of guests at the present time, and a fine programme of aquatic events is being arranged.

Last evening, Mr. Harris, of Toronto, conducted Divine service at 8.30 o'clock in the pavilion. Mr. Waldon of Toronto, sang a solo in excellent voice.

Concert Held.

On Thursday evening last a very enjoyable concert was held, when an excellent programme of vocal and instrumental numbers, recitations and dances were rendered. Mr. Taylor, of Cincinnati, acted as chairman, and the programmes consisted of the following numbers:

Fishermen At Hastings "Kick" Because Fish Bite Too Well

The fishing is so good on the Trent River, near Hastings, that the natives refrain from speaking of it, fearing to be put down as genuine Ananiases. That's the explanation the Star modestly makes in its last weekly issue. The article is as follows:

Almost every day we see in out-of-town daily papers accounts of some person landing a 'lunge or string of bass, especially in the Trent waters. Of course among those who appear to be lucky fishermen are a great many American visitors who come especially for this sport and seem to think it something to get up in the night and write home about if they land a decent mess of game fish. Sometimes we think we may be lax in reporting catches in the river, here, not a mile from town, but if we once started to report good fish catches we would half fill the paper most weeks in the summer and gain a reputation as a fish prevaricator that would get us a job selling lightning rods or something of that sort. It is such a matter of course that no one ever thinks anything about it here at home to see the limit of bass and 'lunge being brought in day after day, by local and visiting fishermen. One old hand last summer one day was on his way in his punt down to the mud beds for mud cats, and showed us three good 'lunge he landed on the way, in less than a mile and a half's paddling, not to speak of one hundred and forty mud cats when he got there, and he said it wasn't as good luck as he had the week before, when he got one more lunge and a couple of bass before the mud cats started biting. Only a few days ago one of our local fisherman was kicking at his luck because he had caught the limit of bass off the dam in twenty minutes and had to stop fishing before he was well started. This is only a sample of fish yarns we could deal out and prove, but what's the use, only at some of these points on the Trent, where they catch a couple of 'lunge and mess of bass think they should proclaim a half holiday and celebrate, according to newspaper reports, but it's every day in this vicinity, and it makes us kind of tired when these poor deluded folks don't really know what good fishing is.

THAT AWFUL PAIN IN THE BACK

Is a Sure Sign of Congestion of the Kidneys. Take "Fruit-a-tives."

Lots of men, and women too, are limping about the house—groaning in easy chairs—or tossing about the bed—because of that nagging pain in the back. The old standbys—hot vinegar, porous plasters, liniments, etc.—don't do any good any more. You see, you are a bit older now. The kidneys are not as strong as they used to be. And even those "blistering" liniments and plasters won't stimulate the kidneys.

Your trouble is kidney trouble. The kidneys are not diseased, they are overworked and strained. The bowels and skin—which help the kidneys to rid the system of waste matter—have not been doing their share of the work. The kidneys have had to do too much.

What you need is a medicine to cure the bowels, liver and skin. This medicine must cure the Constipation by acting on the liver and thus make the bowels move regularly and naturally. This medicine must heal and strengthen the kidneys, and thus relieve the congestion. "Fruit-a-tives" is this medicine. It is the most effective Kidney Remedy known, and keeps these vital organs in a vigorous, healthy condition. For aged people, for those who work hard, for tired-out women, "Fruit-a-tives" never fail to stop that severe pain in the back and build up the whole system. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Italian Discovered New York?

New York, July 26.—On the strength of their claim that Giovanni de Varrazzano sailed through the Narrows and landed a boatload of men on Manhattan Island in 1524, Italian and French citizens of the United States have secured the incorporation of a Franco-Italian celebration in the Hudson-Fulton proceedings here next September.

Varrazzano was an Italian navigator in the employ of the French Government, and inasmuch as Hudson admittedly did not enter the river which now bears his name until 1609, the Latin-Americans who are pushing Varrazzano's claims convinced the Hudson-Fulton committee that the very least that could be done in justice was to grant them a place in the coming celebration for a glorification of Varrazzano on their own account.

Alfonso Is In Disfavor.

Madrid, July 26 (via Bayonne).—Owing to the grave situation here, especially the revolutionary propaganda, among the troops, a strict censorship has been established over all telegrams. It is impossible to send anything direct from Madrid. The revolutionary activity has assumed astonishing proportions, characterized by fierce attacks upon King Alfonso for being subject to foreign—that is, English—influences. He has therefore cancelled his projected visit to Cowes, greatly to the disappointment of Queen Ena, who had been building on it for some time. The King's action in punishing his cousin, Don Alfonso Bourbon, for his romantic marriage with Princess Beatrice of Coburg is actually, also, made a ground of attack.

Death List Grows.

New Orleans, July 26.—With definite reports yesterday of thirteen additional deaths as the result of the hurricane and tornado of Monday, Wednesday, the death list last night totals 41. Also six previously reported are still unaccounted for.

Despatches yesterday from Angleton, Texas, confirmed the report that Maurice P. Wolfe, his wife, six children and negro servant had been drowned at Christmas Bayou.

While the various towns and cities which suffered damage in the hurricane have reported property losses aggregating in the latest reports over $2,000,000, the absence of crop damage makes impossible anything like a correct measure to the total damage.

Falls From Roof; Unhurt.

Chatham, July 26.—Gideon Jewell, a South African veteran, while shingling a barn Saturday, met with a thrilling and remarkable experience while going up the roof of a barn. The scantling upon which he was resting gave way and he fell to the ground, a distance of 20 feet, alighting on his shoulders. He received only a few bruises and was able to continue his work on the roof immediately afterwards.

The crowd in the park probably approximated 500,000 people.

PROTRUDING PILES
Read the evidence that this distressing ailment is cured by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Some people find it hard to believe that anything short of a surgical operation will cure bleeding piles. The doctors have brought about this belief. There is any amount of proof that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for this as well as all other forms of piles.

Captain Wm. Smith, Revelstoke, B. C., writes:

"It is with much pleasure I state that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching, protruding piles of many years standing, and it has completely cured me. I had previously tried many other remedies but they did me no good. I would strongly recommend this Ointment to those suffering from this complaint, for it is a good and genuine cure."

Mrs. Captain Climansmith, Salvation Army, Essex, Ont., writes:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two years ago I was taken with a severe attack of protruding piles and became so bad that I had to keep my bed and could lie in no position except on my stomach. Doctors could give me no help and the various oils and ointments used proved of no avail.

"One Saturday night when I was suffering untold agony my husband went to the drug store for a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I had heard of as a cure for piles. Although I had almost given up hope, to the wonder of those around me, I was able to be up on Monday and have had no difficulty from piles since. As a treatment for all kinds of sores and burns, Dr. Chase's Ointment works like magic."

CHURCHILL IN TROUBLE.

Young English Minister Made Indiscreet Statements.

London, July 26.—The budget is proving a far more difficult legislative nut to crack than the American tariff bill.

The measure has been hung up for a fortnight while the Government revises its entire program. Its dilemma is very awkward. It is now an open secret that the House of Lords will reject the land tax proposals if they are sent to it. Many believe that the Cabinet will postpone this scheme until next year and pass the bill without its most contentious features. This, however, would involve a revolt in the Radical end of the Liberal party.

A disgraceful episode last week was the outcome of one of the fire-brand speeches of Winston Churchill, President of the Board of Trade. He declared that if the House of Lords altered the budget in any form the Government would immediately appeal to the country. This utterance by a Cabinet Minister, although intended as a threat, was widely welcomed by the Opposition and the country at large. A question was asked in the House of Commons if the declaration was official. Prime Minister Asquith replied, quoting Mr. Churchill as denying having made such a statement and adding that his words were only a platitudinous affirmation that the country would have to decide the issue if such a constitutional question was raised.

Mr. Churchill's denial is wholly untrue. His 2,000 auditors and a corps of reporters who recorded his words all know that he was correctly reported. Now it is said that Prime Minister Asquith and a majority of the Cabinet are so disgusted by this latest indiscretion of the enfant terrible in politics that his retirement will soon be announced.

Diamond Rings Found.

Ottawa, July 26.—Hidden in the bathroom of the Ottawa House in Renfrew, Detectives Culver and O'Meara of the local police department Saturday afternoon discovered the missing McMillan diamonds.

The rings, ninety-four in number, were concealed in the woodwork of an old-fashioned boxed-in bath. The thieves had strung the rings on a length of tape. They removed one of the wood panels and pinned the tape on the underside of the wooden strip running around the edge of the bath.

On Friday afternoon, the prisoners, Woods and Conrad, to the chief and Detective Culver voluntarily confessed that they were the guilty parties and declared that on Saturday they would reveal the whereabouts of the missing diamonds, and announced their willingness to accompany the police to Renfrew. In the bath-room the missing rings were revealed by Woods. Only one was missing and both Conrad and Woods are unable to account for the loss.

Drome Flight at Petawawa.

Petawawa, July 26.—Everything is ready at Petawawa Camp for the initial flight of Douglas McCurdy's aerodrome, "Silver Dart," which is scheduled to take place to-day. Rain interfered with the intended test on Saturday and a delay in arrangements will not permit the trials until late in the week.

It is understood that the Militia Department is keeping in close touch with Mr. Baldwin and several officials including Major Maunsell, Dominion director of engineering services, will arrive to witness the first flight.

Douglas McCurdy, the aviator, seems to be well pleased with the ground surface here which will be favorable to the "flying start" required by the Bell drome. He is enthusiastic regarding the approaching tests and is hopeful that the "Silver Dart" under his guiding hand, will perform in mid-air as never-before.

Drowned at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, July 26.—Ralph Gambell, an Englishman about 30 years old, employed on Capt. James Delaney's farm, lost his life while bathing in the waste weir at lock 7, new canal, yesterday morning. Gambell was unable to swim, but had secured a pair of water wings. The wings slipped from beneath his body, becoming entangled in his arms, his head immediately dropping about six inches under the water, as he was found in this way about ten minutes later by Mr. McFarland, lock tender at lock 7. McFarland endeavored to fish the unfortunate man from the water with a grappler but this pierced the inflated wings and Gambell sank, but was soon taken out.

Cruiser on Sand Bank.

Hartvich, Eng., July 26.—The British protected cruiser Blenheim grounded on a sand bank while entering the harbor Saturday morning. The position of the warship is not serious.

The Blenheim is the cruiser that brought the body of Sir John Thompson to Canada.

[illegible] for Beggars.

Bombay, July 26.—One hundred thousand dollars were distributed to the beggars of this city during the funeral on Saturday of Naoroji Wadai, the last of the old Indian navy shipbuilders.

Arrest In Hudson Bay Case.

Cobalt, July 26.—Inspector Joseph Rogers and Provincial Constable Woods arrested at New Liskeard Andrew Kelvey, director of the Hudson Bay Mining Co., charged with giving a bribe of $25,000 to John Piche, who was arrested some time ago after a chase over half the continent. Kelvey was released on $4,000 bail.

Spaniards Lose Heavily.

Madrid, July 26.—The general staff Saturday published its report of the casualties in Friday's fighting in front of Melilla. It shows that the Spaniards lost heavily. A colonel and five other officers were killed and a colonel and twelve other officers wounded. The report says 200 soldiers were wounded, but the number of soldiers killed is withheld on the ground that the reports are incomplete.

Leg Crushed on Ferry.

Windsor, July 26.—While attempting to dismount from an incoming C.P.R. train at the ferry dock, early Saturday morning, Miss Genevieve Lennon, 23 years old, lost her balance and fell beneath the wheels of a train. The wheels passed over the right leg, just below the knee and mangled it so badly that amputation was necessary.

Stays In Jungle.

Nairobi, British East Africa, July 26.—Theodore Roosevelt will not be a factor in the coming mayoralty election in New York. He has eliminated himself from the contest, and has arranged for the use of every day between now and next March, when he will come out of the jungle into the upper Nile country.

Fourth Week of Strike.

Glace Bay, N.S., July 26.—The third week of the great strike has passed and yet public opinion is divided as to results.

Friday and Saturday shipments were reported at 10,000 tons. Out of this 5,600 tons came from the banks.

A large number of men have been brought in from outside. Every department is working hard and coal is being mined and rushed to the shipping pier.

So far no strikers of any consequence have returned to work. A large part of the foreign element have gone away to railway construction.

Charge Against Minister.

Welland, July 26.—Rev. Frank C. Harper, pastor of Drummond Hill Presbyterian Church, Niagara Falls, Ont., whose conduct has been under investigation by a church committee, has resigned. He is chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Canada. He claims that he is innocent, but prefers resigning in order to end the controversy. The investigating committee will make a report on August 3.

Dined With the King.

London, July 26.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Frederick and Lady Borden and Hon. L. P. Brodeur dined with King Edward at Buckingham Palace on Saturday. Madame Brodeur was prevented from obeying the royal command.

All Unreceipted.

A titled Englishman was speaking of the impoverished nobility of the old world.

"What a German friend of mine said of his family is true of too many families. My friend was a graf. I was visiting his castle on the Rhine. He showed me there one day many proofs of his race's antiquity.

"'Dear me,' said I, stifling a yawn, 'I had no idea you went back so far.'

"He pointed proudly to an old steel bound chest of black oak.

"'Why, my boy,' said he, 'I've got bills in there dating back to the twelfth century.'"

SATURDAY'S GAMES WERE POSTPONED

Rain Again Interfered and Wind Up of League Goes Back Another Week.

Wet grounds Saturday caused the postponement of the two games in the Senior City League and puts the concluding game two weeks farther into August. Jupiter Pluvius incidentally relieved some of the T. A. S. fans, whose visions of a win against Park St., under the existing conditions were somewhat vague. Ab. Quinlan is sojourning in the land of the south and "Lajoie" Derocher is likewise getting a few pointers from the stars of the big leagues. Flaherty was likewise out of commission and Carl Hayes was pulled out for the occasion to do the slab work. It was a ticklish position and to add to Manager Dannard's troubles two others of his men could not get off work until late in the afternoon and the game was scheduled for two o'clock. The Weather Man, however, stepped in and saved the situation. Last Saturday's games will likely be played in the same order next Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

Philadelphia, July 26.—One of the baseball surprises of the year was the announcement made to-day that Mike Donlin, the star outfielder of the New York Nationals, who refused to play with that club because of differences over the question of salary, will manage the Philadelphia National League Club, succeeding Wm. Murray, who has been asked to resign. Donlin will play one of the outfield positions, and will also captain the team.

Donlin comes to Philadelphia, the local management announce, through a deal with the New York Club, but on what basis the deal was made the club-owners will not say. It is said that Sherwood N. Magee, the hard-hitting outfielder of the Philadelphias and Pitcher Fox will figure in the transfer, but this cannot be confirmed.

While it has been known that the Philadelphia Club owners have been dissatisfied with the management of the team by Murray, his summary dismissal was not expected. The team early in the year was heralded as a possible pennant winner, but soon after the season started the players 'slumped. There were many rumours of internal trouble, and changes were looked for among the players. Murray is extremely reticent over the turn of affairs, but it is believed that he sought legal advice and will not give up his position with the club without a contest. So far as can be learned, he has not complied with the request of the management to resign and, so far as the owners are concerned, he is no longer connected with the club. He was on the bench this afternoon directing the players in the double- header with Cincinnati.

THE HOWDEN TROPHY

The Y.M.C.A. meet for the Howden Trophy will be held on Labour Day, in all probability at the Nichpills Oval. An enquiry has been received as to when these sports were to be held and the announcement was made by Mr. Collings before leaving on Saturday for a holiday.

CRICKET

The local cricket players are asked to turn out at the Oval on Wednesday night at seven o'clock for practice. A special effort is being made to keep the game before the cricket lovers and all those interested are asked to turn out.

BASEBALL

Dubby Shea has a batting average of .322 in the Brantford City League. Twelve players are over .300.

• • •

A full turnout of the T.A.S. ball tossers is called for this evening at 7 o'clock at Boswell's field. The team that will go with the C.M.B.A. to Hastings on Wednesday will be picked after practice. The Hastings ball team has been doing fairly good work this summer and the T.A.S. will have to extend themselves somewhat to beat them out.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New York, July 26.—The market opened with a display of fair activity and strength, but this was not long continued and so indecided dullness overtook the general list. The fluctuations on the whole may be disregarded for important interests show themselves ready to support the market whenever it is necessary to keep it out of the hands of the bears and at the same time may be expected to resume bullish operations at a favourable moment. The speculative element is not inclined to extend itself very far, at least until after the Steel meeting. It looks as if the tariff would not be finally settled this week, although any day may develop a distinctly different situation in Washington. As far as the general news is concerned it is almost all of a favourable character. Consequently we continue to advocate a long position on the market believing that from a trader's standpoint the principal profits could be found in buying good stocks on reactions for turns while for the long pull good profits should result.

SALVATION ARMY CITADEL TO BE CLOSED FOR ALTERATIONS

The services at the Salvation Army Barracks next Sunday will probably be the last held in the citadel for some time, owing to the alterations which are to be made and which will be commenced in a short time. The particulars of the changes in the interior and exterior have already been announced. The basement will be devoted entirely to the Sunday School, and will be arranged entirely into class rooms with a general room in the centre. The entrance will be changed and at the rear of the main assembly hall a band room will be fully equipped with individual lockers for the bandsmen. The improvements will take some time before being completed ,and during that time services will be held in the tent in the lot south of the Customs House.

Opposing Lacrosse Players Arrested At Ottawa Saturday

Were Going to the Bench When They Clinched—Police Broke Up Small Riot—Review of Games in N. L. U. With Present Standing.

SHAMROCKS LEADING

Ottawa, Ont., July 26.—For the first time in the history of the National Lacrosse Union the Nationals on Saturday defeated the Capitals in Ottawa, winning a rough-and-tumble match at Varsity Oval by a score of 9 to 6.

The match, itself, however, was only a sideliner to what occurred in the fourth quarter, when Harry Lavelle of the Capitals and Fred Gagnon of the Nationals were marched to the police station by Inspector Gilhooly on charges of breaches of the peace. They mixed it up while going to the penalty bench, and in a minute five or six players were in it. Spectators jumped over the side, and the police also took a hand in the fray, threatening the spectators with their batons, and finally pulling the struggling players apart. The players were not locked up, Lavelle's bail being fixed at $10, and that of Gagnon, who, the police claim to have been the aggressor, at $25.

• • •

Toronto, July 26.—In spite of the rain and mud, a crowd of 5,000 saw a splendid game at Scarboro' Beach on Saturday, when the Torontos defeated Montreal by a score of 5 to 4. It was one of the best games from a spectator's standpoint ever seen in Toronto. To see Toronto come from behind at 4 to 1 at half-time and win a minute or two before the final whistle by a sensational rush by Fitzgerald was a sight to tickle the most rabid lacrosse fan. The scene when the winning goal was scored will long be remembered by those who saw it.

In Montreal the Shamrocks easily defeated Cornwall by 9 to 3, before 1,500 people.

The standing of the league is as follows:

| | Won. | Lost. |
|---|---|---|
| Shamrocks | 5 | 1 |
| Tecumsehs | 4 | 1 |
| Montreal | 4 | 2 |
| Toronto | 5 | 3 |
| Cornwall | 2 | 3 |
| Nationals | 2 | 5 |
| Ottawa | 0 | 6 |

Games next Saturday: Tecumsehs at National, Capitals at Cornwall.

The horse is a high-class animal, standard-bred and registered and can travel at a fast clip. Mr. Simpson has her now in training and will start her in the green races at Toronto exhibition and at all the fall fairs in Ontario.

Mr. Simpson expects to clean up all the green horses this fall and the horse that beats his will know he has been travelling some.—Lindsay Warder.

LINDSAY EXPECTS TO GET THE OTONABEE

Manager R. Hicks Announces Another Steamer Likely to be Put on These Waters.

Manager Robert Hicks, of the Otonabee Navigation Co., of Peterborough, assured a Warder reporter yesterday that he would put a regular boat on these waters early next spring. He has considered the situation carefully and finally decided to run regular trips from Lindsay to Sturgeon Point, Fenelon Falls and Coboconk.

The company has a number of boats including the Manita and Ogemah, that at one time ran on these waters. They are also building a fine new excursion boat, and it is very likely that the Otonabee is the one that will be placed on these waters. In the fall when the water gets low she will be taken off and a smaller one put in her place.

This will be good news to Lindsay and Sturgeon Falls citizens as every person that has been on the Otonabee were much taken with the fine excursion boat. She has returned to Peterborough and will not likely be seen on these waters again this season.—Warder.

REMEMBERED BY THE INTHON BIBLE CLASS

Mr. Robert Howland Presented With Bible and Hymn Book.

A very interesting event took place on Sunday afternoon when the Inthon Bible Class of the George Street Methodist church made a presentation to Mr. Robt. Howland, who is leaving shortly for the West. Mr. Howland has been chairman of the membership committee from the organization of the class and has been a most active worker. He received from the class a Bible and hymn book, accompanied by an address, as a mark of appreciation of his services. The address was read by Mr. W. J. Johnston, and the presentation was made by Mr. F. C. Moore, who is preaching in the church during Rev. Mr. Pearson's absence.

The address was read as follows:

Dear Brother Howland,—It is with feelings of regret that we have learned of your intended departure to the Great West to make it your future home. We cannot alolw you to depart from our midst without expressing to you in some form our appreciation of the great service you have rendered to this class. You have been the willing worker of our class; no duty imposed on you, but has been well and faithfully done, no burden too great in the performance of that duty. Your office will be hard to fill because of the earnest and humble manner in which you have performed the duties of that office. No man can say but that your work has been nobly and faithfully done. May the Lord bless you and reward all your undertakings one hundred fold in your new home is the sincere desire of all the members of the Inthon Bible class and may your associations with other fields of labour be a blessing to yourself and all others with whom you may come in contact. Our loss will be their gain.

We ask you on behalf of this class to accept this Bible and Hymnal as a mark of the very high esteem in which you have been held by its members. Look not upon them for their intrinsic value, but for the loving remembrance of the ties that bind us in Christian fellowship.

We wish you health, wealth and prosperity, and the blessing of Almighty God in your new home and when all your labours on earth are over may we all meet where parting is no more.

Signed on behalf of the Inthon Bible Class of the George St. Methodist Church.

FREDERICK K. C. Moore, Assistant Teacher.

W. D. WARNE, President.

MELVILLE McCARROLL, Secretary.

Peterborough, Ont., July 20, 1909.

Mr. Howland leaves for Regina, Sask., in the course of a few weeks.

DIGGED AT THE BANK FOR MONEY

A young man who apparently was the worse of liquor, was arrested at the Bank of Nova Scotia to-day by P. C. Adams. It appears that he went into the bank and asked the teller for some money. On being refused he became an annoyance and the police were called. He is a stranger in the city.

THE ROYAL has made new arrangements for its Pictures ; it will be an EXCLUSIVE, up-to-the-minute service, and patrons of the Royal will see the latest pictures FIRST there.

'Won in the Desert'
This beautiful melodramatic picture is one of the latest and best yet shown. It tells a story of the love and daring of a young Lieutenant in the Deserts of Africa, and how he won his bride. It is full of interest from start to finish, and should be missed by no one.

"AUTOMOBILE RACES AT WEST POINT, INDIANA"
This is a wonderful picture, showing the speed of the fastest Autos in the world, the cars going a 100 mile an hour clip, the many accidents that happened, and the stretchers carrying away the injured. It is a most thrilling picture and one to be enjoyed by everyone. The race took place only a month or so ago, so the picture is up-to-date.

Mr. Loftus will sing one of the latest new Illustrated Songs.

To-day and to-morrow will be Fan Day and Night, so that our visitors can take away a Souvenir of The Royal.

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

KRYPTOK BIFOCALS
Kryptok Bifocals are the only perfect invisible, double vision lens made. There is no crack or split to gather dirt, and being made of one piece of Glass, it forms no line between the near and far sight. No cemented double vision lens is entirely satisfactory, because the cement will come loose in time. The Kryptok lenses are fused and welded in such a way as to become one solid lens of perfect optical qualities. We have issued a Booklet on these lenses, which covers the question of Bifocals thoroughly, and explains why the Kryptok Bifocals are much superior to the ordinary cemented kind. These Booklets we give away free of charge as well as our Antiseptic Lens Wipers. Call and ask for one

ADDRESS TO THE MAYORS

W. D. Lighthall of Montreal In Address Warns the West Against Ever Selling or Ceding a Water-Power to a Private Company—Giant Trust at Work In America, He Tells the Convention.

Medicine Hat, Alta., July 27.—About seventy delegates arrived in Medicine Hat on Sunday evening and Monday to attend the ninth convention of the Union of Canadian Municipalities.

The morning session opened at 11 o'clock and immediately adjourned until two, to allow the executive to arrange a program to work in with the local arrangements for entertainment.

The members of the executive are: President Ward, Toronto; Vice-President Cochrane, Manitoba; Hon. Secretary-Treasurer Lighthall, K.C., mayor, Westmount, Que.; J. H. McGuire, Toronto; Mayor Patterson, Galt; Mayor Stevely, London; G. McCready, Fredericton, N.B.; Mayor Galt; Mayor Stevely, London; G. McCardale, Blanchard, Man.; Mayor Sanford W. Evans, Winnipeg; Mayor McBryde, Portage la Prairie; Mayor Keary, New Westminster, B.C.; Mayor Milne and W. Cousins, Medicine Hat; Mayor Jamieson, Calgary, ex-Mayor McAra, Regina; Mayor Chisholm, Halifax, N.S.; ex-Mayor Griesbach, Edmonton.

Addresses of welcome were delivered at two o'clock by Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea and Mayor Milne, and replied to by Mayor Hopkins of Ottawa and Mayor Chisholm of Halifax. Afterwards the delegates took in bucking competition for championship of Canada.

The address of W. D. Lighthall of Montreal, honorary secretary of the union, was a splendid review of the organization. In one of his most striking passages he uttered a serious warning with respect to the municipal dangers of the future.

Discussing municipal dangers the speaker said of big money interests: They are seizing with the utmost rapidity all the important water-powers of this continent with the money of three or four groups of capitalists, one of which is that of the General Electric Co. We would utter this vital warning to the west: Never sell or cede a water-power. Always lease them. Do not sell or cede your resources, apart from farm lands. Retain the people's ownership in the heritage of the people.

Mr. Lighthall ended his brilliant address with a eulogy of those like Joshua Dyke of Fort William, Cook of Ottawa, Lavallee and Gelinas of Montreal, George Wilson of Alberta, Oliver-Howland of Toronto, who had given splendid service to municipal interests.

Recognizing the importance of the west, President J. J. Ward of Toronto at the same time recommended that they take advantage of the experience of the east, "so as to combat successfully the many weak points in the government of the latter by safeguarding cities against the encroachment of corporations whose obvious office it is to invade public rights."

"You must be ever on the alert to guard against the granting of concessions which will militate against the future growth and development of your respective cities," he said.

Tiger Attacks Trainer.

New York, July 27.—Mogul, a sulky Bengal tiger, who has been making no end of trouble for his owners ever since he was added to the attractions of Coney Island, a fortnight ago, sprang from the pedestal to which he was chained yesterday afternoon, snapped the links and landed solidly on the back of his trainer, Henry Falkendorth, bearing him to the ground.

Falkendorth struggled bravely. Of the five blank cartridges in his revolver not one exploded as he pulled the trigger. One savage blow from the tiger's forepaw had opened his scalp, and when he was finally pulled through the door of the cage by attendants who went to his rescue with iron prods and burning torches, he was unconscious. At the hospital it was feared he had concussion of the brain and small hope was held out for his recovery.

Old Clothes Means Prosperity.

New York, July 27.—John W. Gates came back from six weeks' vacation abroad, fairly bubbling over with good spirits and bullishness.

"Two years ago," said he. "I said that Americans were going to retrench and wear their old clothes. They have done so, and the money they have saved surprised them all, as is shown by bank deposits the country wide.

"Two years' economy in the United States means a world of money, and I believe the next four years will witness the greatest industrial development in the United States that the world has ever seen."

WILL LOOK INTO CASE

Arrest of Former Mayor McKelvie of New Liskeard on Charge of Bribing Prospector to Leave the Country While Suit Was On Creates Great Excitement In Cobalt—Officials Are Reticent.

Cobalt, July 27.—The Hudson Bay Mining Co. case will come before Magistrate Atkinson on Thursday.

The arrest of Angus McKelvie, vice-president of the company, on a charge of giving a bribe to John Piche to clear the country, by which the company was able to get title to the property, has caused much excitement. He was one of the most prominent men in this northern country. He was mayor of New Liskeard for two terms, and was the Liberal candidate in the last provincial election, being defeated by R. T. Shillington. He is also superintendent of the Presbyterian Church, and is said to be worth close to a million dollars. With Thomas McCamus, another director, he owns a large sawmill and tracts of timber berths in this country.

Piche claims that he received only $6,000 for skipping the country, and that he was to receive $10,000 a year while away. It is said Piche is ready to expose the whole transaction.

Officials Are Silent.

Toronto, July 27.—Neither Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright nor Provincial Inspector Rogers, who arrested Andrew McKelvie, was willing to discuss the matter at the Parliament buildings yesterday, though it was virtually admitted that Piche's confession led to the arrest. They would neither say whether Piche's confession implicated any one else nor if McKelvie had made a statement when arrested. The Attorney-General is out of the city and could not be seen.

Piche will be the star witness at the hearing of McKelvie's case on Thursday, and it is said he will tell all he knows.

The arrest, it is said, undoubtedly followed a full confession by John Piche, who was charged with accepting a $25,000 bribe to abstain from giving evidence in an action between the Attorney-General and one Henry Thompson, a real estate man of New Liskeard, regarding the title to the Hudson Bay Mine.

Other arrests are expected to follow.

Navy Campaign Successful.

London, July 27.—The big navy campaign has won the day, and four additional super-Dreadnoughts are to be added to the current year's shipbuilding program.

Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, officially confirmed this statement in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, saying that after a very anxious and careful examination into the shipbuilding conditions of foreign countries, the Government had come to the conclusion that it was desirable to take all necessary steps to insure the laying down of four additional Dreadnoughts in April, to be completed in March, 1912.

G.T.P. Application Dropped.

Ottawa, July 27.—The application of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission regarding its entrance to Winnipeg and the consequent crossing of the C.N.R. and C.P.R. tracks was to have come before the Railway Commission yesterday afternoon, but was withdrawn.

The transcontinental commission will proceed to Winnipeg next week and an effort will be made on the spot by the interested companies to come to an agreement.

C.N.R. Gets Connection.

Toronto, July 27.—After Aug. 6 the C.N.R. will be able to deliver carload freight from Ontario to points along their western lines, the C.P.R. having agreed to accept the haul between Sudbury and Port Arthur. From Toronto to Sudbury and from Port Arthur to Edmonton the C.N.R. have their own line in operation.

Saved Trouble of Suicide.

Philadelphia, July 27.—Death yesterday prevented John P. Rodet, aged 65 years, a veteran of the civil war, from committing suicide. After climbing on a barrel, tying a noose about his neck and attaching the other end of the rope to a spike in the wall, he was stricken with heart disease.

In Air 11 1-2 Hours.

St. Louis, July 27.—The balloon University City, in which John Berry, pilot; Paul J. McCullough and John S. Thurman ascended here on Sunday night in an effort to capture the Laham Cup, landed yesterday morning at 8.30 o'clock at Savanna, Ill., after being in the air 11 1-2 hours.

Britain's Naval Program.

London, July 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the House of Commons Premier Asquith was asked if the Government's extensive naval program included colonial offers.

The Premier deferred an answer until he has consulted his colonial colleagues.

Eager for Land.

Montreal, July 27.—The details of a C.P.R. land deal in the Bow River Valley have just come out. Some time ago the agents of the irrigated lands in that section announced that they would increase the prices of these lands from $25 to $30 an acre, and in ten days 100,000 acres were sold and so great was the purchaser's desire to close that they purchased from the map, not taking time to go and examine what they were buying.

WINNIPEG MAN LEADS

He Appears In Nearly Every List Where Canadians Are Eligible and Won Some Big Events — Morris Is Second and Bayles, Richardson and Mortimer Are High—Blackburn Second In S.R.C.

Bisley Camp, July 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sergt. A. M. Blackburn of Winnipeg, the "unattached" man with the Canadian Bisley team, is easily the leading prize-winner among the Canadians.

To begin with he has the Prince of Wales' prize, $500 in cash, as well as the Prince of Wales' badge, and N.R.A. badge. With his Birmingham Munition Cup he gets another $125, and he divides the first prize of $175 in the Martin match with another competitor. In the King's Prize, Blackburn got fifteenth place; value $160. His second place in the service rifle championship brought him nothing but glory, and a silver jewel. But Blackburn was an "often mentioned" in the list of minor prizes in other matches. It is quite possible that his winnings will total $1,000 easily.

Next to Blackburn, Lieut. Morris of the 46th Regiment, Bowmanville, is probably next in cash winnings. He takes $400 with his third place in the King's Prize. His Standard of Empire prize includes $105 in cash and his London Small Arms Rifle takes with it $25. Morris also figured well in the lists of winnings in nearly every match in which the Canadians contested.

Staff-Sergt. Bayles of the Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, got $25 with his Wimbleton Cup and has figured up fairly well in other matches. Staff-Sergt. Richardson's All-Comers' Aggregate was a great win, but carried no money with it. Lieut. Mortimer of Ottawa got a good lot of money prizes.

Sergt. Blackburn of Winnipeg is second in the Service Rifle Championship, and Sergt. Mitchell of Hamilton third. Other Canadians stand as follows in this competition: Staff-Sergt. Richardson, Vancouver, 16th; Lieut. Morris, Bowmanville, 14th; Sergt.-Major Huggins, Hamilton, 25th; Sergt. Freeborn, Hamilton, 36th; Lieut. Smith, Chatham, 41st.

Blackburn's prize in this match is the silver jewel. The other Canadians above get a bronze jewel.

The prizes are awarded to competitors with best scores in the grand aggregate (short ranges), Elkington (long ranges aggregate), and Martinis (rapid-firing aggregate).

In the Martin Challenge Cup Competition Canadians were placed as follows: Morris, Bowmanville, 10th, $85; Mitchell, Hamilton, 23rd, $10; Stack, Truro, 41st; Richardson, Victoria, 78th; Mortimer, Ottawa, 96th; Huggins, Hamilton, 107th; Jones, P.E.I., 102nd; all make $10.

In the Harmsworth, Blackburn, Winnipeg, 17th, $5.

Woodstock Hospital Quarantined.

Woodstock, July 27.—Woodstock Hospital is under quarantine from smallpox. The disease developed in the institution on Saturday in a charity patient sent there by the city, and the doctors immediately had the man removed to the Isolation Hospital. The case is a mild one.

Anderson Fights "Mugging."

Vancouver, B.C., July 27.—The police force are greaty puzzled to account for the reason which caused young Jack Anderson, held here for the Toronto police on the charge of cashing scores of bogus checks, in different parts of the world, to fight against having his photograph taken for the Rogues Gallery.

When Detective James Anderson told him that he was going to take his picture the young man wished to leave his glasses behind. He was told he must be taken with them on. So determined was he not to be photographed with his glasses on that he smashed them on the hard cement floor of the jail corridor. A new pair was obtained and he was sucessfully photographed.

Embargo Lifted.

London, July 27.—The British Government yesterday afternoon revoked the orders prohibiting the landing of hay and straw from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. This removes the last of the embargoes ordered at the time of the outbreak of the foot and mouth disease in 1908.

Boy Killed on Track.

Comber, July 27.—Joseph Beaune, 14 years, was killed at the G.T.R. crossing at Stoney Point by the Detroit local express. The boy had waited for the eastbound train to pass and was in the act of crossing the tracks when he was struck by the train, throwing him clear off the track.

All-Red Route Difficult.

London, July 27.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Premier Asquith stated that the all-red route committee has not yet succeeded in removing many difficulties with which the scheme is attended, but there is no reason to assume that these would prove insuperable.

Killed Crossing Track.

Barrie, July 27.—While attempting to cross the track in front of a G.T.R. train, Mrs. John Millett, aged 60, was struck by the train and killed. She sustained only a scalp wound and several minor contusions, and it is thought death was due to shock.

TUESDAY, JULY 27, 1909.

SAVED FROM BANKRUPTCY.

By ESTELLE CLAIRMONT.

[Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Well, they were married and had gone to housekeeping in a cosy little flat, Arthur Lee and Edith Session. It was a love match. Edith knew that Arthur had a thousand dollars and no more to go into the gents' furnishing business in a modest little store, and she knew that she would have everything to learn about housekeeping, as it would be a long time before they could afford to keep a servant.

Everything had gone along splendidly for a few weeks, both at the store and at the flat, when that old maid Miss Headly came poking her nose in one day. She was an acquaintance of both husband and wife and had to be greeted. Of course she promenaded through the five rooms and praised nothing, but neither did she condemn until the bride pointed to a vacant space in the parlor and observed that it was reserved for the piano when they could afford one.

Then the spinster sat down as stiff as a poker with her hands in her lap and replied:

"Well, I expected it."

"Expected what?"

"That you would bankrupt your husband inside of a year by your extravagance. You'll coax him into getting a piano, and then will come a fur coat and opera tickets and rides in a hired auto, and if you tease hard enough he may even buy an auto on the installment plan. I saw the other day that the business failures in the country last month were 478, or 78 more than for the same month last year. The men are not to blame for it, but have been driven into bankruptcy by their wives."

"But we may not get a piano for two years," protested the wife, "and I walk to save street car fare."

"But what are you doing to assist your husband?"

"Why, I'm keeping house."

"Yes, and having nothing to do half the time but read novels. If I was a wife, situated as you are, I'd be earning and saving against the crash."

"Is there a crash coming?"

"Certainly, and it's going to be in the gents' furnishing goods too. I meant to bring along the article I saw in the paper yesterday, but I left home in a great hurry. Edith, do you imagine that men are always going to wear shirts and collars and cuffs? Has it never occurred to you that the time will come when they will make one suspender do in place of two or wear none at all? Are they going to keep on choking themselves with neckties? Are they going to continue to wear socks when all writers on hygiene declare that wearing none at all is the way to avoid colds, catarrh and consumption? I tell you that a great change is coming, and you should prepare for it. Any day your husband may come in and tell you that he's a bankrupt."

"Why, how can men get along without shirts and things?" asked Edith as she turned pale.

"By returning to the simple life. Adam had no use for those things. You may yet see millionaires walking the street, by advice of their doctors, with only a bedquilt wrapped around them."

"And if my husband goes to smash in his business, then—then"—

"Then suppose you had the money in the house to start him in a delicatessen store? There is a business that is not in danger. There are no fashions to menace it. There are no doctors holding out warnings. You simply go in and get potato salad and sausage and come out again. If you are the owner of the store you make 50 per cent profit. Arthur can slice the roast beef and such, while you make the salads. If I were in your place I would not let another day pass without trying to get something to do to save up money for the crash coming, but I wouldn't say a word to Arthur to discourage him and so bring it all the sooner."

Having said her say and been as mean about it as she could, the old maid departed and left the young wife in tears. Something to do? Why, yes. She had always been asked why she didn't develop her talent for painting. She would begin a little picture that very day. She would paint one every day until she had six on hand and then send them to different art stores. Each one would probably be accepted and paid for on sight. She might start her savings account with $200.

The young wife dried her tears, brushed her hair and within an hour had begun picture No. 1. Nothing was said about bankruptcy when her husband came home. She did not even mention that the old maid had called.

Once upon a time, before her marriage, the wife had had occasion to send off a telegram, and a friend had told her that if it was marked rush it would be sent and answered in half the usual time. She remembered this when her pictures were ready to send off. On the wrapper of each she wrote a "rush" in red ink and then waited with bated breath for the checks to come in. The art stores obey the injunction. They rushed the pictures back with a feeling that life and death depended on their haste.

Her artistic career was a failure, and Mrs. Lee had the sense even in her bereavement to recognise the fact. There must be other things at which money could be made, however, and she consulted five or six hundred advertisements and finally found one where persons were wanted to address envelopes at home for liberal pay. That was just the thing. By the time she had addressed thirty or forty millions that delicatessen store would be a sure thing in case of the failure of the other.

She applied at a certain street and number. So did about a hundred girls, fifty old women and a number of boys. The man in the office called her "my dear" and gave her a thousand envelopes to take home that he might see what sort of a hand she wrote. He also exacted a deposit of 50 cents for their return. He also took her for a young widow and remarked on his gladness to see her striving to make an honest living instead of attending champagne suppers at sporty restaurants.

It took the ambitious young wife the best part of two days to address the thousand envelopes, and when she carried them back the man smiled at her in a brotherly way and handed over 20 cents and said:

"My dear, you have only to keep on and you will wear diamonds."

But the striving wife didn't keep on. She was so discouraged and indignant that she left the place without demanding her deposit. Something else must be found. She saw the simple life galloping down on her and shirtless, collarless and sockless men passing gents' furnishing stores with looks of contempt.

That something else was an ad. A bright young woman could make from $3 to $6 a day by calling at such a street and number. Nobody would dare advertise such a thing unless it were true, and young Mrs. Lee called. Lady canvassers were wanted to sell a newly invented corset. It was a corset that would give any woman in the world a willowy form. It would add to her height, straighten the stoop in her shoulders, and she would seem to float in the air as she walked. No canvasser had made less than $3 a day, and some were ashamed of themselves for making only $6.

The caller allowed herself to be talked into the canvassing business and took the rest of that day to study up on points and then made a plunge. "Not at home" met her at the door of the first four houses she called at and "not at home" and "she wouldn't see you if she were" at the next four.

At the ninth house she was admitted, and the lady offered her a job as parlor maid. At the tenth the lady of the house was in bed with headache, but her husband wasn't. He asked the canvasser to sit down for a heart to heart talk and give him her confidence, and when she refused he said that if she had to live on turnips and sleep in barrels all the rest of her days it was her own fault. That ended the corset business.

When the sample was handed in the man in the office threw it down and muttered something that sounded like a swear word—two or three swear words connected by dashes.

There was one more trial for the striving young wife. She advertised to give piano lessons at the homes of pupils. She received postal cards to call here and there, and she called, to be snubbed by servants, winked at by young men and to be told by the lady of the house that her terms were at least one-half too high.

In two cases she was offered castoff dresses in exchange for instructions and called "a sick up" thing when she refused. Mrs. Lee went home with tears in her eyes to find her husband there, two hours ahead of his usual time. The simple life had come! The shirtless, sockless era had dawned at last, and the furnishing store had smashed and there was no money to open the delicatessen!

The poor bride leaned against her husband's shoulder and sobbed.

"There, there! What is it, pet?" he cooed.

"Oh, Arthur, I—I was trying so hard to get money to meet this calamity, and—and I haven't got a cent!"

"Calamity? What calamity do you mean?"

"Why, the smash! Miss Headly said it would come and that we must open a delicatessen store and sell sausages and salads!"

"Sausages and salads be hanged!" he shouted. "Old maids be hanged! Gone to smash be hanged! Why, sweetheart, business is so good that I bought a piano today and have come home to see it delivered. Here it comes now."

"And men are going to keep right on wearing shirts and things?"

"Lord, yes. The dollar shirt at 48 cents is as firmly fixed as the rock of Gibraltar."

"But Miss Headly—why—why"—

"Why did she talk that way? Oh, just because she had taken a contract to stuff and sew a thousand dolls for market and wanted an excuse if you found it out."

A LAUGH FEST.

When Grownups Can Be Children Again Just For a Night.

An evening of laughter is a good thing. It clears away the cobwebs left by work in office or at home and straightens out features rendered set and congested by too much serious thought. A good way to have such an evening is to give a children's party. Send out invitations written on note paper with a colored picture in one corner of each. Have them read in something like the following manner:

"Miss Bessie Brown and Master Billie Brown will give a party on Tuesday, August 9, 1909, at 8 o'clock sharp, and they would like much to have Miss Nellie Sardy and Master Sammie Sardy come. Kindly dress as you dressed when you were a 'couple of kids.'"

An invitation of this sort results naturally in everybody appearing in costumes which render them just as ridiculous as they possibly could look. No matter what form of entertainment may have been arranged, the evening is sure to be a success, for there could not possibly be the slightest formality. The evening is bound to be one of hilarity from beginning to end and one which will be remembered with pleasure by all present. The refreshments should be served on long, low kindergarten tables. A candy pull may be introduced with great success, or any games that were favorites when the people at the party were children will be sure to be enjoyed.

Common Sense In Kitchen.

"Women cook very much as they walk. She of the light, springing step gives a "touch and go" to her cooking and turns out delicious things. She is deft and quick. She has time to think for herself. Remembering her copybook, she reads her documents before signing, which means that she accepts no recipe blindly, but investigates before adopting.

When proportions seem reasonable and the combination sounds attractive, even if novel, she tries it, for she loves to experiment.

No one told her—she just found out for herself—that eggs scrambled in a double boiler are far and away ahead of those done in a pan.

By the way, she never insults the digestion of the family by making "toast" over a flame, serving it burned black outside, soft and "waddy" inside. Instead she uses a gas toaster or the oven and feeds them on slices crisp, brown and tender.

She found out all by herself the very best way to pan broil a chop. It is even better than using a broiler. She reasoned that the fat that tries out as the chop cooks keeps too high a temperature and spoils the meat, so she drains off this fat every once in a while and presents a chop juicy, tender and browned just right.

WARNING TO MOTHERS.

To Have Beautiful Ears Begin With the Baby.

The ear is such a very sensitive, complex organ that the greatest care should be taken in any kind of treatment which it has to undergo, even in the necessary cleansing operations.

The formation of wax in the ears is often very troublesome, and if it becomes hard some drops of warm oil should be poured into the ear at night and a little cotton wool inserted. This will soften the wax, which can then easily be removed next day by syringing with a soapy liquid. The syringing, however, requires to be done with very great care, lest the stream of water should be projected with too great violence and thus injure the drum of the ear.

Children's ears should be treated much more gently than they often are by nurses. The very common habit of twisting up a towel into a sharp point and inserting it in the ear to clean it is a very dangerous one and should never be practiced, as the sharp point may penetrate too far. Only the softest rags should be used for cleaning the ears and nothing hard ever inserted beyond a certain distance. In China and Japan ladies remove the wax with an ear scoop, which, however, has a bead fixed at a proper distance to prevent the instrument penetrating too far.

It is almost as rare to see perfectly shaped, small ears, lying close and flat to the head, as to see a perfect nose. Precautions should be taken with infants to prevent them rolling the ear back when asleep, a habit which results in the ears standing right out from the head. A light bandage over the ears when a child is put to bed will obviate any chance of this occurring, and care should also be taken when dressing them to go out that bonnets and caps are not allowed to get behind the ears and so force them out from the head.

Nothing is more distressing than singing in the ears, which is usually due to a defect of the middle ear. A cooling application to the back of the head and neck will sometimes relieve these symptoms, but it is often due to the accumulation of wax to which we have already alluded.

Deafness is due to so many causes that an aurist should be consulted on the very first symptoms, as something may possibly be done at the beginning to cure the evil.

The possession of an external ear shell is shared with us by the higher anthropoid apes. Our ape progenitors were provided with a muscular apparatus, by which the ear could be turned to all sides and erected in order to hear and guard against enemies. Many animals, such as horses, dogs and rabbits, can prick their ears. Although man still possesses these muscles, they are now unimportant, but some people still occasionally have the power of moving the ear backward and forward, but are unable to erect it.

AIR CARRIES HEALING MEDICINE

That Cures Colds, Catarrh and Diseases of the Throat, Lungs and Bronchial Tubes.

About the healing power of the air of the pine woods everybody knows but to supply it in the form of medicine seemed almost beyond realization. After many years of careful study a scientific remedy, now known as Catarrhozone, has been produced, which enables the sufferer to breathe into his lungs all the healing properties of the balsamic pine woods air. This marvellous remedy has conquered catarrh. It unquestionably does cure it permanently.

CURE IS GUARANTEED.

You cannot fail to be cured by Catarrhozone, because it reaches and destroys the cause of the disease. You simply inhale the antiseptic vapor. It instantly spreads to every part of the breathing organs. The micro-organisms infecting the diseased tissues of your nose, throat, and lungs die instantly. There is nothing left to cause inflammation. Any spots that are raw and sore are quicly healed by Catarrhozone, and you soon are completely cured.

IT RELIEVES INSTANTLY!

It is impossible to breathe through a Catarrhozone inhaler without at once feeling better. Your head is cured of mucous discharge, your nostrils are cleansed of all putrid matter, the phlegm is removed from your throat. Every trace of catarrh is searched out of the system by Catarrhozone, which thoroughly disinfects and purifies every organ of the body.

Catarrhozone is the only natural remedy for catarrh. It cures by cleansing and purifying all diseased tissues, not by deadening the stomach with drugs.

MINISTERS AND DOCTORS USE "CATARRHOZONE."

It is a clean, simple, and satisfactory remedy that is endorsed by the clergy, and universally prescribed by the medical profession because it is scientific and absolutely certain to effect lasting cures.

Don't be misled into accepting a substitute for Catarrhozone, which alone can cure thoroughly. It is so powerfully healing that colds disappear in an hour, coughs in two hours, and even bronchitis, asthma, and chronic catarrh in a comparatively short time. Two months' treatment, $1.00. Small size, 50c.; all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ontario.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

One of the simplest and best cures for enlarged pores is to use a scrubbing brush and pure soap. With this treatment the pores are freed from the clogged secretions and gradually become normal.

Habitually eating soft foods, to the exclusion of everything that is hard or crusty, will not only weaken the digestive organs, but will lead to rapid decay of the teeth. When these are not used in the mastication of harder foods they become weak, just as any muscle will that is not given sufficient work to do. This applies especially to growing, healthy children.

However harmless curling irons may seem, they are ruination if used much. It is undoubtedly true that once in awhile they are harmless and become less likely to cause dryness if the metal is warm and not hot. The trouble is that the irons are not so effective unless the degree of heat is rather great, and this means an immediate drying of the natural oils and consequent dullness and breakage. The best way of attaining curls when nature has not endowed a woman with them is to take to the patent curler that works best.

Cream of tartar is a drink that is helpful at this season, for, like spearmint tea, it is supposed to be purifying and also cooling, the latter fact making it especially liked in warm weather. To prepare it one-half of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar is used to one-half of a pint of water. This beverage must be sipped slowly. Sassafras tea is another drink, though this is credited with being nourishing and taking the place of food. It is ordered in obesity cures sometimes. To prepare take two tablespoonfuls of the dried herb, steep in three pints of boiling water for half an hour, then strain and sweeten slightly. It must be drunk freely through the day.

Utilizing Blood Oranges.

In the late spring blood oranges are quite prevalent. They have distinct flavor and, skillfully used, make attractive dishes.

An artistic looking salad is made by cutting a blood orange in half, removing the seeds, fiber and skin. Set it in a bed of lettuce hearts and cover with chopped celery and a large dab of mayonnaise.

A sherbet made of blood oranges, with a dash of sherry for flavor or with cut preserved ginger through it, is as charming in color as it is delicious.

As attractive a color scheme as strawberries and vanilla ice cream is made by filling a circular mold of ice cream with sections of blood oranges. They are sometimes used to flavor a frozen custard.

The Holdup Man in Mexico.

Now, as a matter of fact, life and property are as safe in Mexico as in Chicago, and one's life is a great deal safer. Mexico has her pickpockets and her sneak thieves, and burglars are not unknown, but the holdup man is an individual with whom the police are not well acquainted. This cannot be said of Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis or New York. It may be because the criminal element in Mexico lacks the bravery necessary for following the holdup's profession, or it may be because the city is extraordinarily well guarded by police. It certainly is well guarded by the police; but, it matters not what the reason is, the fact is that the man who relieves you of your money in Mexico does so in the manner calculated to cause you the least inconvenience.—Mexico Record.

There Was a Limit in Liking.

Little Victor had been naughty and his father had seen fit to administer a spanking. A few minutes later, when his papa had left the room and the little fellow was alone with mamma, he exclaimed between his sobs, "I don't like papa." His mother, of course, told him that was very wrong and that he would have to be punished again if he talked like that. "Well," he added, looking up quickly, "I like papa all right, but I don't like his acts."—Delineator.

A Good Reason.

Little George, aged seven, was given a group of the toy monkeys copied from the famous one in the temple at Nikko, one having the hands over the mouth, the second with the hands over the ears and the third over the eyes. George's father explained that the figures mean "speak no evil, hear no evil, see no evil," and then said, "If you could be one of these monkeys, George, which would you rather be?"

The child looked gravely at his father and then at the toy on the table. Finally he touched the monkey whose hands covered the mouth.

"Why?" said papa.

"Well," said the little fellow very seriously, "I suppose you have to see evil sometimes, and you can't help but hear it, but you needn't speak it." Which sentiment papa thought pretty good for a little seven-year-old.—Los Angeles Times.

Crocodile Tears.

The expression "crocodile tears" can be found in almost every European language, but it is doubtful if one in a thousand of those who use it have an idea of its origin. We are told in the Bestiary of Guillaume le Clerc that when the crocodile finds an unwary traveler it devours him, but afterward weeps over him all the rest of its life. This is very evidently the allusion in "Othello," "Each drop she falls would prove a crocodile."

There is another version of the fable, however, which is more often referred to in literature and according to which the crocodile sheds tears in order to allure the traveler to destruction. Shakespeare alludes to this in the passage where he tells how—

The mournful crocodile
With sorrow snares relenting passengers.
—"2 Henry VI.," 1, 22.

—"Poet's Love."

Why Mrs. Adams Was Not Home.

The Rev. Dr. Smith was acknowledged a great preacher, and he was also a close student. But he was no pastor and had a horror of making pastoral calls. One day he heard an address which convinced the dear old man that by not visiting his parishioners he had not perhaps fulfilled his duties as a spiritual leader. So he determined to call on each member of his church, and, taking the roster of the church, he decided to do it alphabetically. The first name was Mrs. Adams, so to Mrs. Adams' house resolutely went the faithful pastor next afternoon. But Mrs. Adams was not at home, said the maid.

"Not at home?" echoed the pastor.

"N-n-o, sir," answered the somewhat embarrassed girl.

But the pastor, not knowing why she was embarrassed, thought perhaps the girl was "fibbing," so he persisted.

"When will Mrs. Adams return?" he asked.

"I really don't know," answered the maid.

"You don't know?" asked the pastor. "Have you no idea about when?"

"Well, not exactly, doctor," replied the maid. "She may return by 5 o'clock. You see, she's at the cemetery burying her husband."—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Wild Surmise.

"What's the score?"—Sporting Life.

Salting a Diamond Mine.

A man in South Africa while walking one day over his property with a party of prospectors suggested that they assay some of the soil. In the search that ensued eight rough diamonds were found, and offers began to fly through the air at a rapid rate for the land. When the host's wife called out to her husband, "Why, John, where are the other two?" The sequel to the story is left to the imagination.—Boston Record.

COPY GOOD MODELS.

Use Judgment in the Style of Gown You Select.

While the woman in moderate circumstances often follows slavishly the mandates of her dressmaker, the woman of wealth is fortunate in being able to choose masterpieces, creations with lines so charming or unusual and touches so smart that it is utterly impossible to copy them without taking the original to pieces as a child does a toy to "find out how it is made." Then it is doubtful if the ordinary dressmaker would ever be able to put them together again.

The best the woman of moderate means can do who wishes to be modishly clothed with touches of originality about her costumes is to study the frocks of the fashionable fair, to closely scan the pages of the best fashion journals and to watch costumes approaching those shown in the smart shops as models.

If unable to purchase these latter, she may, with the use of good judgment and a good memory, aided and abetted by the journals, enable a plain, everyday dressmaker of the sort sewing at home to evolve a really smart and becoming gown.

One must, however, always be certain of what is and what is not likely to be worn three months after the gown is made, and as much attention must be paid to the details as to the general design and the materials of which it is composed.

It is curious to note the absence of judgment in gowning displayed by many women, and this is seen even in the most fashionable classes.

The probability is that if this class were not subservient to the dictates of designers the results would be no better than in other classes, and certain it is that, even with all their advantages of ability to compare and to purchase anything within reason and to see the fashions at the start, many curious and unbecoming and also dowdy gowns are found among them.

Not all women are gifted with good taste, and often a love of the merely ornamental or the merely useful or comfortable carried to extremes will ruin a woman's costume.

Uncle Paid.

Many years ago Shuter, a popular actor, was engaged for a few nights in a principal city in the north of England. It was in the coaching days, and it happened that the stage in which he traveled (and in which there were only an old gentleman and himself) was stopped by a single highwayman.

The old gentleman pretended to be asleep, but Shuter resolved to be even with him. Accordingly, when the highwayman presented his pistol and commanded Shuter to deliver his money instantly or he was a dead man, "Money!" returned he, with an idiotic shrug and a countenance inexpressibly vacant. "Oh, lor', sir! They never trust me with any, for uncle here always pays for me, turnpikes and all, your honor."

Upon which the highwayman gave him a few curses for his stupidity, complimented the old gentleman with a smart slap on the face to awaken him and robbed him of every shilling he had in his pocket, while Shuter, who did not lose a single farthing, with great satisfaction and merriment pursued his journey, laughing heartily at his fellow traveler.

In Society.

A man requires a certain amount of tact to behave nicely to his wife in society. He should find out how to look after her without hanging on to her too much. It looks bourgeois for a husband and wife to keep together all the evening. It is better for them to separate directly they get inside a room and make themselves pleasant in general society. A husband should not take his wife down to supper if he can help it, but he should try not to take any one else in to supper until he sees that some one else is looking after his wife. He should remember never to precede her. The wife enters a room first and shakes hands with her hostess; her daughters came next and the husband last. "Etiquette Up to Date."

Scared Him.

During the week Brother Gettit had knifed Mr. Lamby in a stock deal, had foreclosed a mortgage on his house, sued him on a demand note and attached his personal property. Sunday morning Mr. Lamby went to church, thinking to hear something that would make his heart more peaceful. After the services Brother Gettit came to him, grasped him warmly by the hand and asked him what condition his immortal soul was in.

"Are you thinking of foreclosing on that, too?" asked Mr. Lamby desperately.

Turkey's Trade.

The total exports of Turkey annually amount to about $70,000,000, and the imports to $110,000,000.

To Keep Knives Clean.

A table may be beautifully set and decorated, but unless the knives are in good condition the general appearance will be spoiled.

The blades of the knives should be cleaned with soft flannel.

If they are a little rusty, use wood ashes rubbed on a newly cut piece of Irish potato. This will remove spots when nothing else will.

Never dip the ivory handles in hot water, as the heat turns them yellow.

Keep the best set, which is only used for company, in a box, wrapped first in tissue paper, then a covering of linen. This will keep out the dust and dampness.

On His Birthday.

It Leaves the Skin Tingling With Health

There is a wonderful difference in soaps. Have you ever noticed how one kind leaves the skin soft and white while another may leave it red and rough?

Both soaps looked alike, perhaps. But the difference was in the material. Let us tell you what we put into Infants' Delight, then decide if you can continue with common soap.

Ceylon is an island in the Indian Ocean, and from there we bring pure cocoanut oil 12,000 miles to our factory. Then we go to France for vegetable oil, and often pay double what we might pay. But our oil is pure enough for your table.

These oils are doubly boiled and then milled by our own special process, after which they fall like flakes of snow into enormous bins.

Then they are crushed under a weight of 30 tons to press out the moisture. Next they pass through granite rollers and come out in miles of silky ribbons. Finally they are dried eight times and then stamped into cakes.

Could you imagine a more delightful soap than this? It lathers into a rich, creamy foam. It wears as thin as a wafer. It leaves the skin as soft as velvet and as smooth as satin. It is the very utmost in perfect soap.

This perfume is the delicate scent of the roses. We pay $100 a pound for pure Otto of Roses, but it requires 3,000 pounds of rose leaves to make a single ounce. The fragrance is simply exquisite—it brings the breath of a million flowers. Use a single cake and learn how delightful it really is—it costs no more than the common, so why not have the best?

10 Cents a Cake At All Dealers

How to Massage

Shave some Infants' Delight into a tub of hot water and let it dissolve. Then immerse your body and remain in the water several minutes. Lather the body thoroughly with Infants' Delight—rub it right into the skin, for it is so pure it will only nourish and soothe. Massage well with the finger tips and the palms of the hands and you will find a most pleasant sensation after the bath is finished.

His Mistake.

The vender of images, who had just been thrown out of a large office building, wept bitterly as he looked at his torn clothes and broken wares.

"Who did this?" inquired the friendly cop. "I'll pinch 'em if you say the word."

"No; it was my fault," said the victim, gathering up the remains of a plaster image. "I insisted on trying to sell a bust of Noah Webster to a meeting of simplified spellers."—Denver Republican.

In the Profession.

Strolling with one of his children on Hampstead Heath one day Mr. Martin Harvey came across a Punch and Judy show, and paused in front of the elevated theatre to see the farcical tragedy out. The seedy man who stood at the side waiting for the time for collecting the spectators coppers looked hard at the actor during the entertainment, and when it came to going round with the hat he carefully avoided him. The actor, however, offered the man a shilling. "Oh, no," said the seedy one, with a vigorous shake of the head; "I've often been into your show on the nod, and it's my turn now!"

Another Admirable Crichton.

Mr. L. M. Balfour-Melville, President of the Scottish Cricket Union, is a name to conjure with. Thirty-seven years ago he figured in the first inter-city match played between Edinburgh and Glasgow, scoring 171 for the former, and scarcely a year has passed without his name figuring in the century-list. As a wicket-keeper, too, he was equally famous, and he proved his versatility by being capped against England in the Rugby International of 1872, and winning the covered court lawn tennis championship.

The Guilty Wretch.

One winter's evening in the city of Belfast, when a water inspector was going his round, he stopped at one of the mains in a busy street to turn off the water owing to some repairs. He had just put the handle on the tap and begun turning when a hand was placed on his shoulder. Looking round, he was confronted by a tipsy gentleman, who said in a drunken tone:

"So I have found you at last, have I? It's you that's turning the street round, is it?"—London Telegraph.

Comic Opera Fire Brigade.

It was stated at the meeting of the Grand Harwood Council recently that the council's fire engine could not attend a fire brigade demonstration, as it had been condemned, but that the men, some of whom were wearing uniforms seventeen years old, rode in a wagonette painted and altered so as to represent a hose tender.

Chinese Filial Piety.

The following Chinese story illustrates the national regard for filial piety: A man and his wife maltreated the husband's mother. As a punishment the scene of the act was openly cursed, the active agents were put to death, and the mother of the wife was bamboozed, branded and exiled for her daughter's crime. The house in which the offenders lived was dug up from the foundations. Moreover, the scholars of the district were precluded from attending public examinations, and even the magistrates were deprived of their offices. These drastic measures were designed to render the empire filial.

Opposites.

Upgardson—Isn't a lawsuit over a patent right about the dullest thing you ever saw?

Atom—Not always. I attended a trial of that kind once that was too funny for anything. A tall lawyer named Short was reading a 6,000 word document he called a brief.—Chicago Tribune.

Spelling.

On a member of parliament being accused of bad spelling Disraeli humorously defended him by declaring that "a man must be an idiot who could not spell a word more ways than one."

Among all other vices there is none I hate more than cruelty, the extremest of all vices.—Montaigne.

Consumption Cured

And all Other Lung and Kidney Troubles By the Wonderful Discovery made by a Canadian Doctor

DR. PELKEY.

Dr. Pelkey, a Canadian Physician, holding medical certificates in France, United States and Mexico, has made a discovery that promises to be the greatest boon yet given to humanity.

His great Consumption Cure is applied by means of an inhaler, the ingredients for which are contained in a tank, and the very first use made of it by the patient brings immediate relief, followed quickly by permanent cure. These inhalers are not sold to the people, but are placed in the home until they are not further needed, and then taken away.

Dr. Pelkey is exhibiting the invention, which is called the Peltier Inhaler, throughout the country. The inhaler is first a platinum tank, divided into 38 compartments, into which various chemicals and drugs are placed. Outside these compartments cold water is placed. The action of the cold water causes a vaporous gas to rise into an eight-part evaporator at the top, where it is purified and forced through tubes for inhalation. The gas forms pure oxygen, tasteless, and odourless, and the patient inhales this. So healing is its effect that it will almost immediately stop a tuberculosis cough.

A gauge registers the amount of oxygen taken by the patient.

Most wonderful of all is the fact that Dr. Pelkey offers to treat his patients with the inhaler free of charge. The only thing for which he charges is a blood-purifier, and building up tonic, which he insists upon the patient's taking. He will even allow the person undergoing the treatment to take home the tank with him and be treated there.

Dr. Pelkey has been for 17 years in Mexico and Central and South America. He has Government certificates from Mexico, Brazil, New Mexico and Canada and many Latin-American republics, testifiying to cures wrought by him with the inhaler. One certificate states that nearly half a troop of Mexican soldiers and American soldiers and Goverment officials of Montreal were cured under his treatment. Another is signed by President Diaz, of Mexico, himself, whom Dr. Pelkey cured. Dr. Pelkey can show hundreds of other testimonials of permanent people of Ottawa who were cured of lung troubles and kidney troubles after suffering for five years.

Write letters fully describing your trouble to The Great Specific Co., or to Dr. Pelkey Ottawa, Ontario.

RHEUMATISM Strikes the Heart and then Kills

Causes: A run down condition of the system, poisoned blood, and Uric Acid. The joints become clogged with irritating secretions and grow stiff. Every movement tortures and racks the sufferer. Cure is not possible until the blood is purified. The most potent blood purifier is Ferrozone. It is a perfect solvent for Uric Acid and an antidote for all other poisons liable to cause inflammation or Rheumatic Pains. But Ferrozone doesn't stop here. It provides the enfeebled sufferer with an abundant supply of pure, invigorating blood. This quickly results in more strength with which to fight the disease, starts a rebuilding of the system, ends in a permanent cure. Mr. Thos. Egan, of 92 Pearl Street, New York, suffered so intensely from Rheumatism that his friends believed he could not recover. "The Rheumatism," writes Mr. Egan, "crippled me for four years. It seemed to run to the joints, which swelled and caused dreadful pain. I wasn't able to walk and my strength rapidly decreased. My heart became so weak I had to be bolstered up in bed. I was at my wits' end when I heard of the wonderful cures of Ferrozone. Twelve boxes cured and I am now strong and perfectly well." There is no better remedy. Severe tests have proved it superlative to all others. If you want the BEST and most scientific treatment for Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, or Sciatica, use Ferrozone. No case too chronic. Price 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists.

TO HAVE PRETTY ARMS

By Harriet Coates

WHILE a handsome arm is a great asset to one's beauty at all times, particularly is this the case in Summer time, when the clothing is so light that it leaves the arms either almost entirely exposed, or shows them as through a film, under some sheer, transparent material.

This is generally the time when one wakes up to the fact that one's arms are not perfect, and need improvement.

The first step to take is to equip the dressing table with the following articles for the especial care of the arms: Firstly, a box of finely powered pumice, then a cake of soap containing sand, or some other substance with a "tooth" or grit to it, a bottle of peroxide, a jar of skin food, a lemon, a cake of mild soap that lathers easily, and is healing to the skin, a massage roller, a brush, which is rather stiff, a box of rice powder, and finally a bottle of glycerine and rosewater.

Arms are often ugly simply for the reason that they are not washed properly. Preposterous as this may sound to some, it is nevertheless true, for, taking it for granted that one does not neglect to cleans the arms thoroughly each day, many persons, not knowing that the skin of not two persons is of the same consistency, go about this cleansing process in the wrong way, and thus often make things worse.

The arms should be a creamy white, a little lighter than the face and a trifle fairer than the neck. If they are red or pink, this is sometimes caused by exposure to the cold, or by incorrect washing, but in most cases on account of sleeves that are too tight at the armholes, stopping the circulation of the blood.

Glove-like fitting sleeves are largely responsible for ill-colored arms.

Tight corsets are, too, for they press upon the big arteries around the belt line, leading the blood into new channels, mostly into the arms.

Applications of rose-water and glycerine should be used, and after this the arms should be dusted over with powder, for relieving them, at least temporarily, of their redness.

For a permanent cure for too much color, many beauty specialists recommend hydrogen peroxide as being very efficient an ingredient in whitening the skin. Citric acid is but the juice of lemons, and, therefore, the following simple lotion given below will be found easy to make, and as beneficial, if not more so, as more complicated ones:—

One wineglassful of fresh lemon juice, 1 pint of rain water and a few drops of attar of roses. Mix thoroughly and keep the lotion in a well-corked bottle; it is to be applied several times daily, and should be allowed to remain on the skin for a few minutes before drying.

The treatment of arms that are yellow is more difficult; massage and a bleaching process is the only course to pursue in this case.

The bleaching is done by means of peroxide (this will also act as a depilatory, first bleaching the hairs on the arms, and finally killing them), and after this has been applied a bandage is placed over the arm (see illustration, No. 1), in order to assist in the bleaching process.

Illustration No. 2 shows an efficient method of treating the arms, that of slapping it. The palm of the hand is brought down with a "spat, spat"—not too gently—upon the flesh, treating the whole surface of the arm in a like manner.

Pinching the arm inch by inch and giving it energetic little nips is also considered helpful.

When there is a regular, systematized massage, performed by rubbing the arm with the hand, from shoulder to finger tips, which is equally good for developing as for reducing the flesh on the head.

In the latter case, if the arms are too flabby, the treatment should, of course, be more vigorous than when they are thin, in which instance the massaging movement must be gentle, and some flesh food should be employed in conjunction with it.

A method of treating the arms, which many consider invaluable, is with the assistance of a massage roller. This is shown in illustration No. 3. It is a rubber roller with a handle, about the size of a small ink blotter, and shaped exactly like one. The entire surface is covered with little concave blunt teeth, which, when the roller goes over the flesh, grip the skin tightly and cause a sort of suction. They not only cleanse the skin thoroughly, taking away with them any impurity clogging the pores, but also increase the circulation quite considerably, making the skin firm and smooth.

Before using it, wash the skin with tepid water and some pure, harmless soap, but do not dry it, as the teeth of the roller will adhere better to the skin while it is still wet.

The final illustration shows the use of the camel's-hair flesh brush on the arms. This serves for stimulating the circulation of the blood, and assists in removing the superfluous hairs that were spared by the peroxyde. Moreover, it will impart that lovely "dull finish" to the arms, taking away with it the highly unbeautiful oily gloss.

The elbows require especial care, being the most sensitive part of the human body. In fact, it is a much abused member, being subjected to most unpleasant knocks and bumps. It generally resents bad treatment, rewarding its offenders by getting out of condition and becoming ugly in appearance, callous and bright red, and oftimes ungracefully pointed.

The elbow to be in harmony with a pretty arm should be washed at least once a day with soap and water, and made plump by means of skin foods and massage, and great care should be exercised to prevent its getting rough.

A Dusty Face.

The skin is a sufferer in Summer from many causes besides the hot sun. One of the chief sources of discomfort is dust. This is particularly bad if one must live in the city and go back and forth to business in open street cars.

Do not attempt to remove this dust with cold water. Carry in your bag a small tube of cleansing cream or a phial of rose water and glycerine mixed. Wipe off the face with either of these cleansers as soon as you come indoors. In this way the pores are not given time to become clogged.

If you feel water to be indispensible mop the face with hot water, using a pure cleansing soap. If your skin can stand it a glycerine soap is a good dust remover.

STRAIN ON THE EYES

By Hebe

YOU must be a little careful about your eyes when you are on your vacation.

We all enjoy the luxury of having plenty of time to read so that we are apt to overdo the matter when we are off at the mountains or shore with nothing particular to do and a tempting supply of reading matter at hand.

I do not deny the fact that one should try to read when one has the chance. Reading not only turns the current of the thoughts, which have closely confined to prosaic business perhaps all the year, but it also broadens the mind.

If one has not much opportunity for keeping up with current literature the rest of the year, now certainly is the time for enjoying one or two good novels with an easy conscience.

But please do not read early and late indoors and in the train and in the glare of the beach.

That is not the best way of spending a vacation, delightful as it sounds.

Make up your mind to read only a certain number of hours a day, and when those hours are at hand do not lie down in a hammock or bed. Take an easy chair, if you like, or prop yourself up in the hammock, but make it a rule not to lie down when reading, if you wish to avoid wearing glasses.

If you want to read on the pier or on the beach, turn your back to the sun and water and keep in the shade where the glare will not strike the page of the book. Otherwise you will come back to town with a disfiguring squint and a frown.

Eyes which are too ruthlessly exposed to glare often actually fade in color—an undesirable result from a beauty standpoint, and in addition to the frown the sight itself may suffer and demand a visit to the oculist in the Fall.

Smoked glasses are not becoming, but if the eyes grow red and inflamed do not hesitate about wearing them at the shore, for the glare of the sun on the water and sand is trying to the strongest of eyes.

A shade hat must always be included in the Summer outfit. Perhaps this advice is superfluous at a time when big hats are the rage, but good advice is never entirely lost, and if you have a broad-brimmed hat, be sure to wear it.

Salt water is a tonic for the eyes, and even if it stings them when they meet with an unexpected wave, no serious damage should result.

Give the eyes a rest when you are away. They need it just as much as the rest of your body—more in fact.

Do not read all during the afternoon siesta. Even if you cannot sleep, seek a shady nook or a darkened room and keep the eyes closed for at least half an hour every afternoon.

The quiet rest will do incalculable good to the body and mind as well as to the eyes, and you will feel repaid for the sacrifice of the time on a short vacation when you note how brilliant the eyes appear after their rest.

The frowns and headaches which often result from unaccustomed walking in the bright sunlight, will all have disappeared after a real siesta—that is if you see to it that you have a sufficient amount of sleep daily.

A vacation, particularly to a business woman, is a means to renewed health and she must get plenty of sleep while she is away.

The eyes will look heavy and show red rims and dark circles underneath if you do not get plenty of beauty sleep, and even the afternoon nap does not always make up for the lack of a long, sound night's sleep.

The luxury of a late breakfast is delightful on a vacation, although it must be confessed that the prettiest part of the day is lost by a late sleep in the morning.

If you can, try to go bed earlier rather than sleep late in the morning, although the writer confesses herself that she does not love early dawn except for the freshness of the air.

Your long walks, if you want them, should be taken at an early hour when the air is cool and the earth is sweet after the night's dew. City folk will find that exercising in the hot sun is difficult at first and that early promenades are more enjoyable.

But to return to the eyes. Bathe them gently with warm water after sea bathing, or if they feel irritated or tired. A little witch hazel in the water is very restful, or boracic acid, fifteen grains to the ounce of water, will relieve strain and reduce inflammation.

A compress of soft linen or absorbent cotton dipped in right hot water and laid on the closed lids for ten minutes is a good remedy and a very simple one.

It is difficult to read on a train. The jolting is bad for the eyes. If you must read rest the eyes every little while by closing them for a few minutes and sit with your back to the engine to avoid the flash of passing objects.

When you look from the car window do not concentrate your gaze upon any objects for a length of time. The rapid progress of the train tires the eyes which must focus continually to watch passing objects. This sometimes results in what we term train sickness, or at least in a tiresome headache.

Never read through a veil. Drape the veil, if you must, over the hat or tie it under the chin, but leave the eyes free when reading. Nothing injures them more quickly than looking through a mesh at fine print.

All this warning may seem very tiresome when you are going away to enjoy yourself, but remember that you have to come home again and that you want to be still more good looking when you get back to town. Nothing makes you look more homely than bloodshot eyes and heavy lids, to say nothing of the injury that may follow.

The Expansive Girl.

Summer is a dangerous time for the expansive girl. She has never adopted the habit of reserve and does not give a thought to the impression she makes on strangers.

It is never a good thing to take the world into our confidence too much. Remember that "in the company of strangers silence is safe."

So when you go off on your vacation this year cut out personalities if possible. You will have just as good a time—and a safer. Do not, because you are attracted to another girl, tell her things about yourself and your family that you may bitterly repent later.

It is no one's business how much your father is worth or whether your parents do or do not live together. The fact that you bought the frock the stranger admired at a sale for next to nothing should be kept to yourself. The other girl will think you an idiot for not letting your clothes live up to their "air."

If you are given to expansiveness remember that a slip of the foot stands not more chance of being mended than a slip of the tongue.

Keep not only your own affairs to yourself, but do not grow expansive with a new friend at the expense of other guests in the hotel. There is not one as plausible or more willing to swear secrecy than the confirmed mischief maker.

Do not feel it necessary to tell your heart's secrets to the girl you have just met. Even though you think she does not know the man who has treated you shabbily, or whom you have loved unasked for years, remember that the world is small. If she does not already know him he may be making love to her next week.

Pray do not be expansive about your health. This is a common fault. Women will give to strangers detailed descriptions of their aches and pains that nothing would induce them to reveal to older friends.

Above all, do not be expansive about another's secrets. Talk of your own affairs if you must, but spare your helpless friends.

HEBE'S HELPFUL ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

Shampoo for Children.

M. A. L. D.:—The best shampoo for children is made by shaving castile soap and dissolving it in hot water. You can add two ounces of alcohol to the quart if you wish to keep it for several weeks. Always rinse the hair until perfectly dry with warm towels before going out. Try brushing the hair every day instead of shampoo it so often.

Broken Nose.

Alice In Trouble:—Your nose should have been attended to as soon as it was broken. Plastic surgery is the only thing that can help you now. Be very sure to go to a good surgeon. You failed to say what color it had left the nose, so I do not know how to advise you about that until you explain more fully. Try steaming the face and massage according to the directions I have so often given in this paper. Write me explaining just how the nose looks and I will try to help you.

Dark, Rough Skin.

S. H.:—Take a hot bath every night before retiring, use a bath brush and a bland soap. Scrub from the chin to the toes, dry and while the body is moist massage with any good cold cream. In the morning take a cold sponge bath, dry with a Turkish towel and rub well. Eat no greasy or fried food. Steam and massage the face once each week. This will soon make the skin smoother and clearer.

To Develop Lower Limbs.

Miss A.:—Walking up stairs would be a good exercise for one of your age, and the following exercise—stand erect with the feet slightly separated, rise slowly on the toes and come back slowly on the heels. Repeat five times the first day, night and morning, increase to ten times.

Physical Exercise.

Margaret:—The best time for taking physical exercise is in the morning before dressing and just before retiring. It saves time, and the expense of a gymnasium suit. In order to get the full benefit of all physical exercise the body must be entirely free from corsets or any tight clothing.

The Nails.

School Girl:—As your cuticle does not grow long you should never cut it. Soak the fingers and loosen the cuticle once or twice a week. This must be done gently. Forcing the cuticle back too much makes an ugly, heavy roll at the base of the nails.

Red Cheeks.

M. E.:—You should be very glad to have red cheeks; do not try to get rid of the color, for the chances are it will leave you all too soon. Walnut stain is for the hair and must never be used on the face. Tight lacing will send the blood to the cheeks. If you are in the habit of lacing tightly, loosen your stays.

To Apply Rouge to Lips.

Mrs. M. T. Y.:—Liquid rouge is best applied to the lips with a pointed stick wrapped with absorbent cotton. Dip it in the rouge and paint the lips carefully only over the red part. If the rouge extends beyond the edge of the lips it gives a thick heavy appearance.

Waving the Hair.

L. D. B.:—It is a mistake to use the iron on either blond or red hair, as it is sure to change the color. You can put your hair up on curlers that you like best, and get a very good effect. With care the curl will often stay in several days. A net will protect the hair and improve the effect of the wave.

Sit Erect.

Dressmaker:—I fear your sitting posture is largely the cause of your backache. Learn to hold the spine erect. If you must lean forward, bend from the hips not the waist. Brace the lower end of the spine against the back of the chair. Sitting in a cramped position strains the back and shoulders, thereby increasing fatigue. It contracts the chest and makes deep breathing impossible. Each morning before dressing practice deep breathing before an open window, then if you will sit and breathe properly all day you will feel much brighter at the end of the day.

Baby's Teeth.

Young Mother:—A child's teeth should be cleaned from the time they appear. At first they can be washed off night and morning with soft linen. When more teeth appear, get a tiny brush and scrub them with clear water, night and morning. The child will soon learn to like it, especially if you let it see you scrub your own teeth, as they always want to imitate their elders. Early care of the teeth will save trouble in after years.

SUMMER AND SLEEP

One reason that Summer is wearing on many persons is that more sleep is lost than is realized. Hot nights easily induce late hours. One dislikes going to bed at ten or half after ten o'clock as is the habit of cold weather, and sits up several hours later than she is accustomed to do.

On hot nights sleep is broken, and the early morning light curtails slumber at the other end of the day. For a week or so this makes comparatively little difference, but by the end of three hot months the continued loss of sleep makes itself felt.

The woman who wishes to get the best rest out of her Summer will go to bed early whether she feels so inclined or not. If her room is stuffy, she will do everything to get a current of air. Many women swelter at night through cowardice. Fearful of robbers, they lock doors rather than leave them open for a cross draft. Much more to be dreaded is fatigue from spending hot, restless, often sleepless nights.

When boarding, an open door is possibly out of the question, but try to induce the landlord to put up—or let you put up—the slat swinging doors, much used now in country houses. These fit in the door jamb, give privacy, but escape floor and top of door by five or six inches, enough to give a current of air and keep out intruders.

Keep a light fan by the bed, one that can be used with little effort. Five or ten minutes slow, regular fanning will generally woo sleep on the hottest night.

Outwitting early daylight is a harder problem for the woman who wakes easily. To shut out the sun means shut out air. With slat shutters the difficulty is more easily regulated. Without them have dark green shades, that can be pulled down and fastened to the inner edge of sill. This prevents blowing, lets in air, but sensibly darkens a room.

One woman keeps a dark green shade such as is worn to shield the eyes from electric light. When the sun shines on her bed in the early morning she dons the shade and quickly falls to sleep again.

The chief cause of sleeplessness on Summer mornings is less sunlight than flies and mosquitoes. Screen in the windows are an economy, if only to give one an extra nap each day. If you cannot afford regular screen anyone can tack up netting outside the window from top to bottom. Remember Summer is more healthful and more endurable if your sleep is not disturbed.

When Baby Is Teething.

If the baby's mouth and gums are sensitive and inflamed from teething, they can often be relieved by having a little cracked ice on the tip of a spoon.

Another way to give the ice is to cover a small lump with a clean piece of soft linen and let the child suck it. There should be a generous end to the linen that should be held by the mother, so that it is liable to choke.

Grecian Food For Dreamers.

Hasheesh, the strange drug which has given our language its word "assassin"—a man so frenzied by the drug that he accomplishes murder—is used by the Persians, Turks and Egyptians in a manner akin to the use of opium by the Chinese. It is the product of a plant grown in large quantities in the Peloponnesus (southern Greece), in the district about Tripolitza. The plant grows to a height of about four feet, and its branches are thickly covered with small leaves and studded with tiny seeds. The entire plant, stalk and branches, is cut within a few inches of the root and laid out in the sun to dry. The branches are then rubbed to separate the seeds, and these in turn are ground into a fine powder, which constitutes the drug. The drug has the power of inducing sleep and producing pleasant and fantastic dreams. Continued use of hasheesh renders its devotees reckless and results in a wreck of their mental and physical constitution.—Montreal Standard.

Anthony Hope, Author.

The popular author of "The Prisoner of Zenda" has had his struggles and disappointments. He began his career at the Bar. Two years of the Temple, however, proving unproductive of many briefs, he began to write, and published his first story himself. This proved a failure. But he persevered. MSS. were hurled right and left, and, boomerang-like, they returned. Then his reward came with "The Prisoner of Zenda." Mr. Hope has no set methods of working. There are days when he does not touch his pen, except to answer correspondence.

Prehistoric Ireland.

Miss Nina Layard, who a little time since secured in Ireland several hundred specimens of prehistoric man's implements, told the Ipswich and District Field Club that she did not now object to disclosing that she obtained them from Lough Larne, in County Antrim, as Irish collectors knew all about their presence in that locality, though few English collectors did. She much desired that English geologists would visit Lough Larne and make further investigations.

Gilding the Commonplace.

"Some people can make even the most commonplace subject interesting," said the loquacious youth.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "Do tell me something of yourself."—Washington Star.

The Foolish Railroads.

The stage fare from Huntsville to Glasgow—twenty-five miles—was $1.50. This stage carried the mail, and it had to go. When the roads were so muddy horses could not pull the stage a double yoke of oxen took their places. It was slow traveling, but they got through. The steamboat fare from Glasgow to St. Louis in the early fifties was $7. That included stateroom and meals, and if the boat was held up a week or two on a sand bar the accommodations went on without extra charge. The steamboat owners never believed the railroads could successfully compete with them. The way they looked at it people wouldn't be willing to travel 100 or 200 miles tied down to one seat in a small car when they might be enjoying the freedom of a big and handsomely furnished boat. "Then how are they going to find room for an orchestra and a dance?" an old river captain wanted to know. "No place to eat or drink; no room to move about; just sit still all day long on a little wooden bench. Why, it's downright foolishness!"—Macon Republican.

Flattered.

"Waal, I swan!" drawled the postmaster at Bacon Ridge. "Thar goes old Dr. Grimes."

"Yaas; the old man is getting to be quite a sport," chuckled one of the loungers—"shaves twice a week, puts b'ar's grease in his hair, wears his mustache pointed like a corkscrew and puts on a b'iled shirt once every Sunday."

"Gosh and hemlock! What's the old man up to?"

"Why, he thinks he's handsome!"

"What in tarnation gave him that idea?"

"Haven't you heard? The pretty schoolteacher from the city passed him on the road and asked him if he wasn't a 'beauty doctor.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Man Eating Lions.

Of African lions Miss Kirkland in her book on Africa writes: "As a rule, it is only old lions which attack human beings. A CANADIAN JOURNALIST.

James Creelman, the War Correspondent, Hails From Montreal.

Few of those who have read the articles of James Creelman, one of the most noted war correspondents and magazine writers in America, are aware that he is a Canadian by birth. Such is the fact, however, and his life has been of the most venturesome description. He was born in Montreal in the year 1866, the son of Matthew Creelman, at that time a prominent insurance man of that city.

His adventures began at the age of twelve—that is to say in 1870, when he ran away from home with the intention of walking to New York. He did walk most of the way, stealing an occasional ride on a railway train. He worked as office boy for a religious journal, became a printer, and, like so many of the old-time printers before the days of the linotype, drifted into journalism. Having a religious tendency his next move was to take a course in theology, rather for the culture of the thing than with any fixed intention of becoming a preacher. Theology did not hold him long, however, and over twenty years ago he went back to reporting and got a position on The New York Herald.

Twenty years ago he returned to his native city of Montreal to accompany Prof. Grinley in the first ascension of Page's iron airship, a now forgotten experiment in aerial navigation. Several aeronauts lost their lives therein, for the ship burst and dragged its occupants many miles before they could be rescued. Old Canadian newspaper men remember the episode well. Creelman was lucky enough to escape with a broken arm and a few bruises, and again he had good copy to write. His next big assignment was to investigate the death of General Custer and interview Sitting Bull and his lieutenants, a feat which he successfully accomplished. Later, he again entered fighting territory by writing up the Hatfield-McCoy feud then at its height and the embers of which still smoulder in Kentucky. He was compelled to seek refuge in the woods from the Hatfields who frequently tried to wing him. All through the eighties he was on sensational assignments until at the age of thirty-one he assumed the managing editorship of the London edition of The New York Herald, an enterprise subsequently abandoned. After this he took charge of The Herald's Paris edition for a few years, and then went into the business of getting exclusive interviews on matters of great public import, visiting all the countries of Europe at various times. Among those who yielded to his tact were the late Pope Leo XIII., Henry M. Stanley, Louis Kossuth and Count Tolstoi. He left the service of James Gordon Bennett in 1893 to become British editor of The Cosmopolitan Magazine but did not succeed in getting on with John Brisbane Walker for very long.

In the Japanese-Chinese war of 1894 he was in the service of The New York World and is alleged to have been the only correspondent who succeeded in getting to the front, although this is disputed by some of the other fellows. He was at one time taken prisoner by the Japs when his British citizenship served him in good stead for he was released by the intervention of English officials. The Turko-Grecian war and the Cuban insurrection also were the scenes of his enterprise. The Spanish-American war, in fact all the conflicts of the twelve years of carnage following 1894, have found him on the spot, and when next the dogs of war are let loose, no matter in what part of the world, it is probable that we shall again hear from this adventurous and middle-aged Canadian.

Reputation Was Safe.

When Prof. Milne was in Canada attending a meeting of the British Association, he was invited to give a lecture, says a writer in T. P.'s Weekly. The clock struck eight as he started, and he went on all right. At a quarter past everything was going splendidly, and he talked till he got to the last sentence. He then looked at the clock, and saw that it was pointing to twenty past eight. He was horrified, and, looking at the serried ranks in front of him, he determined that they should not think that a man who had come from England had said all he had to say in twenty minutes. He saw that Lord Kelvin was looking a bit puzzled, but he went on with the yarn, till some one hit him on the back, and muttered in his ear. "Shut up, Milne! You have been talking an hour and a half; the clock has stopped."

French Trawlers on Banks.

According to information received in Halifax, about thirty-five steam trawlers have left France, several of which will call at North Sydney and others at St. Pierre before proceeding to Grand Banks. The report that such a large fleet of trawlers will operate this season has caused considerable uneasiness in fishing circles at St. Pierre, as their method of catching fish, in the opinion of some, will hasten the depletion of the fishing ground.

New Grand Trunk Steamers.

The engines and machinery for two Grand Trunk Pacific steamers to ply on the Pacific coast have been ordered from the Polson Iron Works, Toronto. For the same railway twenty-five Mogul engines are being built at the Kingston works of the Canadian Locomotive Co. The railway has ordered 22,000 tons of 80-pound rails from the Lake Superior Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

Another Estimate.

It is anticipated that about 300,000 immigrants will go into Canada this year. The arrivals for March of this season showed an increase of 7 per cent.

CONFERRING ON TARIFF.

Failure of Free Hides Will Ruin the Whole New Program.

Washington, July 27.—Hides will be put on the free list if boots and shoes and other manufactures of leather are reduced below the rates fixed by the House bill. Unless the advocates of free hides are able to carry out this bargain the whole program is to be called off.

A decision to this effect was reached by the tariff conferees yesterday.

The conferees adjourned last night, but the House assembled at 10.30 this morning in order that they might lay their plans for executing their part of the agreement. It is expected they will have a report from the House leaders as to the possibility of passing a rule conferring jurisdiction upon them to agree to lower rates on leather than those named in the House bill. Senator Aldrich has informed Senators from northwestern states that he will not consent to the abolition of the duty on hides unless there is a material cut in the rates of boots and shoes and other leather goods. In no other way, he said, can he get the votes necessary for the adoption of the report in the Senate if it carries free hides.

Th program on which the conferees are working is as follows:

Hides, free, as provided by the House, against the Senate rate of 15 per cent. ad valorem.

Sole leather, 5 per cent., the same as in the House bill, as against the Senate rate of 15 per cent.

Dressed upper leather, 7 1-2 per cent. as against 15 per cent. in both the House and Senate bills.

Boots and shoes, ten per cent. as against 15 in the House bill and 20 per cent. in the Senate bill.

Saddlery and harness, 20 per cent. as against 35 per cent. in the House bill and 40 per cent. in the Senate bill.

Jerome Fights Thaw.

White Plains, N.Y., July 27.—Alienists began their slow march across the stage in the Thaw case yesterday. The efforts of Stanford White's slayer to obtain his release from the Matteawan Asylum for criminal insane are culminating in the testimony of the experts, called to prove him sane and when they are through the prisoner will take the stand. His attorney, Charles Morschauser, said that he might put Thaw on this afternoon, but he may not reach the stand till to-morrow.

District Attorney Wm. Travers Jerome, of New York, who at the request of the Attorney-General's office, broke off his vacation to aid the state, appeared in court and took entire charge of the state's case.

Mr. Jerome, deeply browned by the sun, and Thaw, grey-white, with his prison pallor, sat side by side, so close that their chairs touched; and if the prisoner had any fear of the man that sent him to the asylum, his face did not show it.

Pugsley Talks Navy.

Victoria, B.C., July 27.—That Canada has determined upon having a navy to co-operate with the imperial navy in defence of the Empire was stated by Hon. William Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, before the Board of Trade yesterday. He said:

"I look forward to seeing a number of first-class vessels-of-war, of purely Canadian origin and manned by Canadians, stationed on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards.

"The question of the Canadian navy and of drydocks on both the Pacific and the Atlantic will be discussed as soon as the delegates to the imperial defence conference return from England. The outcome of the conference in my opinion will be a decision to construct drydocks on both Canadian seaboards capable of accommodating the largest battleships."

Adam Beck Wins the Day.

London, July 27.—A bylaw to expend $123,700 in securing water from wells under the streets on the bank of the River Thames was carried yesterday by a majority of 1,840 out of a total vote of 2,550.

Hon. Adam Beck, who strongly supported the scheme, addressed the crowd from The Advertiser window, thanking them for eschewing politics in a matter of such importance, and promising that the scheme would be a success.

A bylaw to expend $95,000 on the extension of water mains was defeated by 540 out of a total vote of 2,218.

Irish Should Be Patient.

Montreal, July 27.—Referring to dispute over the succession of Archbishop Duhamel at Ottawa, a "French-Canadian" from the capital writing to Le Canada, says that the Irish element cannot complain of the treatment received at the hands of the papal authorities. He instances the Maritime Provinces, where, although the majority of the Catholic population are French speaking, the bishops are Irish, and also the New England states, where, until quite recently, diocese having a French-speaking majority, remained under the control of Irish bishops.

The correspondent believes that, under the present circumstances, the raising of the race question by the majority in the diocese of Ottawa would simply tend to group the majority against them, and he calls upon all Catholics to wait respectfully for the decision of Rome, when the situation will be fully investigated.

Bonus to Railway.

Dunnville, July 27.—Bylaws granting aid to the Dunnville, Wellandport and Beamsville Electric Railway were carried yesterday in the Townships of Moulton and Gainsboro, each township voting $5,000.

Hogs—Market firm, at $8, f.o.b., cars, at country points, and $8.25 to $8.35, fed and watered, and $8.50 to $8.65, off cars.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 26.—(Special.)—At the Montreal stock yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 26, were 2380 cattle, 575 sheep and lambs, 1400 hogs and 575 calves. The offerings on the market this morning consisted of 1050 cattle, 400 sheep and lambs, 1800 hogs and 500 calves. There has been no important change in the condition of the market for cattle since this day week, the undertone being firm and prices well maintained, owing to the fact that supplies have not been in excess of the requirements and as the quality of the stock coming forward is steadily improving in weight on account of the good pasturing thruout the country, buyers have been more disposed to take larger lots. There was some demand from exporters for top quality steers and a few were bought to complete shipments with, but the bulk of the trade was done for local account and the market was fairly active. Choice steers sold at 6c to 6¼c; good, at 5¾c to 5¾c; fair, at 5c to 5¼c; medium, at 4¾c to 4¾c; common, at 3¾c to 4¼c, and inferior, at 3½c to 4¼c per lb.

The market for hogs was unchanged from last week, prices being firmly maintained at the advance, on account of the limited supplies arriving and the keen demand for the same from packers and dealers. The market was active with sales of selected lots at $8 to $8.10 per cwt., weighed off the cars. Foreign advices on Canadian bacon last week were steady to firm, but packers state that they are doing little business in this direction, as they have all they can do to supply the local requirements. The local demand for sheep continues good and as the receipts are not in excess of the requirements, prices rule steady at 4c to 4¼c per lb. There is no demand for export account, owing to the fact that at present prices bearing realized for them in Liverpool they would lose considerable money. A fairly active trade was done in lambs at prices ranging from $4 to $5 each. Calves are coming forward pretty freely for the season and meeting with a good demand at from $3 to $8 each, as per size and quality.

Bumper Yield Certain.

Winnipeg, July 27.—The Canadian Northern crop report handed out yesterday contains cheering information. The harvest, according to the reports, will be general by August 24, but many points give August 15 as the date of the beginning.

From Saskatchewan points particularly the reports speak of bumper yields.

Her View of Art.

An old gentleman who owned a fine estate not far from the country seat of the Duke of Devonshire (which is open to the public when the duke is not there) one day drove with a party of friends to this famous residence, taking with him his housekeeper, Martha, a good old soul who had been with him a great many years.

Arriving at Chatsworth, they passed slowly through room after room of almost priceless pictures. But Martha spake never a word, although it was evident that she was not missing anything. Each and every picture that her eye lit on underwent a most rigid scrutiny, much to the amusement of the rest of the party.

At last her master turned to her and said, "Well, Martha, what do you think of it all?"

"Why," exploded Martha rapturously, "I canna see a speck o' dust anywhere!"—Lippincott's.

Had an Answer.

This story is being told on a Swede in central Kansas who was given to excessive use of the bottle. He was working at a certain house, doing odd jobs, and the daughter of the house knew of his reprehensible habits. She thought it time for some one to remonstrate with him on the error of his ways.

"Why," she asked, "are you not ashamed to spend all your wages and make your wife take in washing? Why don't you give her some money?"

"Well," he answered, "I have an income besides my wages."

"Oh, is that so?" said the daughter, somewhat mollified.

"Yes," he said, "I have an income from the queen of Sweden."

"What for?" asked the girl.

"For minding my own business," answered the Swede, going on with his work.—Kansas City Journal.

Not Guilty.

"Young man," said the serious person, "don't you realise that the love of money is the root of all evil?"

"Well," answered the spendthrift, "you don't see me hanging on to money as if I loved it, do you?"

The Silk From the Cocoon.

In attaining full growth the silkworm stops feeding and throws out silken thread. The silk is formed in a fluid condition and issues from the body of the worm in a glutinous state, apparently in a single thread. From this silk the worm constructs its cocoon, an interval of from three to five days being required to complete its imprisonment in the envelope. In order that the silken strands may not be subjected to the danger of breakage by the moth emerging from the cocoon the cocoons are steamed till the inclosed insects are dead. After this the silk may be wound off.

Whereupon a friend asked a former Chief Justice of England, who was himself a huntsman, whether any harm would be done if the hounds were allowed to run with pieces of crape round their necks. "I can hardly think that even crape is necessary," was the reply. "It would be sufficient if the hounds were in full cry."

CONVENTION OF PAINTERS AND DECORATORS OPENED TO-DAY

Are Gathered From All Parts of Canada for Several Days' Sessions in Peterborough — Are Meeting in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe Street — Some of the Visitors.

EXHIBITS OF BRUSHES, ETC.

Peterborough is in the hands of the Master House Painters and Decorators of Canada. They commenced to arrive last night on both the C.P.R. and G.T.R. lines and every train to-day has brought a fresh contingent, swelling the number gradually into the three figures and when all have arrived as expected this evening, there will likely be several hundred in attendance at the convention. The Knights of the Brush are in full possession of the city and under the guardianship of the members of the local union they commenced sightseeing this morning.

The convention opened at ten o'clock this morning in the Foresters' Hall, Simcoe street, with an attendance of over one hundred. Mr. Fred Cook, President of the Master Painters of Peterborough, occupied the chair and on calling the meeting to order he welcomed the visitors and expressed the hope that the convention would be a grand success in every particular. He was pleased to see so many attending and assured them that the city was theirs and the wish of every citizen was that the Painters would take away with them only golden pinions of Peterborough and its people.

The City's Welcome

Rev. H. J. Keith lead in prayer after which His Worship Mayor Rush was called upon to address the convention. He extended a civic welcome in the following speech:

Mr. President and Members of the Master House Painters and Decorators' Association of Canada:

Gentlemen,—It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to Peterborough on behalf of the Council and citizens. It is a pleasure to us to have visitors come to Peterborough, and especially when they come, as you do, in a representative capacity, speaking, acting and observing, not only for yourselves, but for large numbers of others connected with your Association and whose representatives you are. We are honoured by having your annual meeting held here. The mechanics of the country are among the most important members of the community. When the natural products are grown, delved or gathered from the earth, they are fashioned and made available for use by the mechanics, whose work provides the comforts for the people and adds to the wealth of the community. And among those whose work is in this way so beneficial you hold an important place, for a house to be comfortable and home-like must be decorated becomingly and with skill. The work of the house painter and decorator is a growth of civilization, and to some considerable extent the advancement and culture of a people may be judged by the taste shown in the decoration of their homes. We hope that your trade will be benefitted by your annual gathering.

We have in our City Council one of your members, Alderman George H. Duncan, who is one of the most careful and useful members of the Council, and this gives us an added interest in your annual session.

While your meeting is a business one, we hope you will be able to take time to see something of our city. Our manufacturing industries are considerable in number and importance, and our educational institutions, including the new Normal School and Collegiate Institute, are worth visiting. We think we are well provided with parks, and the churches and public buildings are creditable structures, while there are many attractive residences. The Lift Lock on the canal should certainly be visited, as it is the largest in the world and these locks are only to be seen in America on this canal.

We hope your meeting will be very beneficial and that your stay in Peterborough will be so pleasant that you will soon return.

Routine of Business.

At the conclusion of Mayor Rush's address a vote of thanks was passed to Mayor Rush for the kind hospitality he had expressed, and to Rev. H. J. Keith, on motion of ex-International President Stewart N. Hughes, of Toronto, and Mr. Jas. Phingemore, also of Toronto.

The Mayor made a brief acknowledgment and retired.

President R. Booth, of London, took the chair, and opened the general business. Mr. Hughes presented the report of a special badge committee. In doing so he produced the badges which were thereupon pinned on President Booth, Vice-President Benj. Goodfellow, of Galt, and A. M. McKenzie, Sec.-Treas., of Hamilton, by International ex-President John Dewar, of Pittsburg.

The formation of committees resulted as follows:

AUTO STRUCK BY STREET CAR No. 13

Ald. Hicks Met With Accident Near Dublin Street That Might Have Had Serious Consequences—Chauffeur Saw Street Car Too Late.

RESULTS OF THE COLLISION

A serious auto accident might easily have been the result of car No. 13 of the Peterborough Radial Railway colliding with Ald. Robert Hicks' motor car last night at 7.30 o'clock, near Dublin street. The auto had not quite cleared the tracks when it was struck by the fender of the car going in the same direction. One of the back wheels was torn off, and although Ald. Hicks and Mrs. Hicks, who was with him, were not seriously injured, this morning they felt the results of the accident. Ald. Hicks had a leg and arm hurt to some extent and Mrs. Hicks received a number of bruises.

The car was coming out of Mr. G. L. Stevens' lane on George street, driven by a new chauffeur. He had looked over the machine and asked permission to try a run with it. Ald. Hicks was agreeable and the "chauff" opened out and started from the lane at a rather sharp clip.

Car No. 13 was going north at the same time and it was stated that the chauffeur, for some reason, did not stop the car, but let it continue. The impact of the two cars was such that the auto, caught by one wheel was turned completely around. It was taken back to Mr. Stevens' and after a new wheel was put on Ald. Hicks himself ran the car down town.

SENTENCED HIMSELF FOR EXCEEDING SPEED LIMIT

Vancouver Magistrate Called Upon to Deliver Judgment in Unusual Case.

Vancouver, B. C., July 27.—Police Magistrate Augustus Williams on Friday morning sat on his own case in the police court and fined himself $5 and costs for overspeeding his automobile. His worship had just disposed of the cases of two well-known citizens for speeding when his own name was called. In vain the magistrate's eye scanned the court room for another Augustus Williams.

"Does that charge refer to me?" asked the magistrate rather meekly of Crown Prosecutor Kennedy, who was smiling broadly.

"Yes," said Mr. Kennedy.

"I think you have a right to try it yourself. It is not worth while making written request to another magistrate." His worship found that he had been going 19 miles an hour, when the by-law allows only eight.

"Williams is ordered to pay $5 and costs," said the court painfully.

MACHINERY ARRIVED

Work of Enlarging Central Mill Proceeding Rapidly.

A large number of men are employed installing the new machinery in the Central mill. To-day the wheat cleaners arrived from Utica, N. Y., and will be installed at once. It is expected that the mill will be again in operation about the first of September, when the capacity will be four hundred barrels per day.

TOURISTS' REVENGE ON GUIDE

Examiner Special.

Fort Frances, July 27.—Two American tourists were convicted yesterday of killing moose out of season, and fined $100 and $50, respectively. The conviction was secured through an information laid by J. McAuley, a guide, who had quarrelled with the tourists over pay. In revenge they laid information against him for abetting a violation of the game laws, as they had used his gun and he had assisted them. The Magistrate thereupon fined McAuley $100 and costs.

HURRICANE WIPES OUT VILLAGE

Examiner Special.

Winnipeg, July 27.—Advices received from the country state that very bad storms have visited various sections during the past forty-eight hours. The little village of Macklin, on the C.P.R. branch line to Wetaskiwin, was practically wiped out by a hurricane on Saturday afternoon, only two stores being left standing. A number of settlers' sheaks were also overturned in that district. Other places reporting damage from the storms are Napinka, Melita, Oak Lake and Pierson.

PETERBOROUGH LUMBER COMPANY'S SAW AND SHINGLE MILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Several Thousand Dollars Worth of Damage Done by a Disastrous Conflagration Early This Morning—One Hundred and Twenty-five Men Out of Work—Eight Million Logs Yet to be Cut—Very Little Lumber Burned—May Be Rebuilt.

A fire that resulted in several thousand dollars worth of damage being done and one hundred and twenty-five men being thrown out of work, occurred here at one o'clock this morning, when the saw and shingle mills of the Peterborough Lumber Company on Burnham Point, East City, were destroyed. Mr. Davidson, manager of the Company, when seen to-day, by the Examiner, stated that the loss could not be properly estimated as yet. The buildings were insured, but he did not care to state the amount until such time as the underwriters make their inspection. The greater loss will be the delay occasioned in getting this season's cut finished. The large number of men out of employment will keenly feel the result of the serious conflagration.

Origin Unknown

How the fire started is a complete mystery. It was first noticed by night-watchman Wm. Clarke, in the north-east corner of the basement shortly before one o'clock. He had been around about fifteen minutes before and could see no signs of fire. Pails were kept in the building for the purpose of putting a fire out but when the nightwatchman returned with water the blaze was too much for him and the flames were then spreading in all directions. The alarm was immediately sent in from box fifty-two but even before that the brigade had started out. The flames had spread with such rapidity that Chief Howard noticed the blaze in the distance and they were on their way when they heard the alarm and they lost no time in getting to the scene of the conflagration.

Experienced Difficulty

But Chief Howard and his men experienced considerable difficulty in their efforts to fight the flames to advantage. It is stated that the hose at their disposal was not sufficiently long to reach from the nearest hydrant to the building. The engine was brought over but was not taken over the bridge into the company's property. Thus their fire fighting appliances proved of little avail and the conflagration was fought chiefly by a bucket brigade. The brigade was at the mill about an hour when the second alarm rang and they had to leave. Fortunately no wind was blowing, as had there been one, the flames would have been disastrous to many places.

Cars Burned

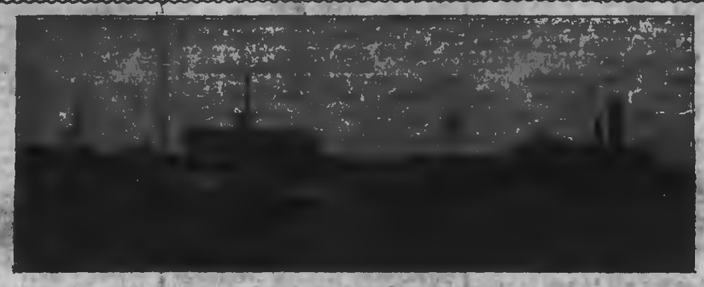
Besides the mill and machinery being completely destroyed, two C. P. R. freight cars were burned, also several waggons and trucks. Very little lumber was burned. The company had a steam pump and three or four hundred feet of hose at the mill but they were ruined before they could be got out.

The night being an ideal one, the fire brought many people from their beds and big crowds witnessed the rather costly illumination.

Mr. Davidson did not state whether the company would rebuild, but he said, that it was not their intention to lie idle. Eight million logs have yet to be cut and one hundred and twenty-five men are out of work.



SCENE OF BIG CONFLAGRATION.
All that remains of the Saw Mill to the Right of the Picture is the Huge Sawdust Stack. The Building on the Left was Untouched. This locality was Formerly known as Burnham's Point.

THE METHOD OF DRILLING FOR OIL AND GAS

Examiner Reporter Visits the Scene of Operations on Old Kincaid Farm—Have Reached a Depth of One Hundred Feet, Sixty of Which Has Been Through Limestone—The Machinery Used.

THE PROSPECTS OF SUCCESS

Approaching the part of the Kincaid farm in North Monaghan, where the first efforts are being made to ascertain whether oil and natural gas can be obtained in this section of the country, the lofty derrick and the wreaths of smoke from the engine which is used in the operations suggest a part of Ohio or Pennsylvania. The solitary, but complete drilling outfit, pounding away incessantly striking into the limestone one hundred feet below the surface is just as if it has been flighted away from a Petrolean or American oil field and set down in our own locality. To one who is unfamiliar with these operations the machinery seems crude and clumsy, but after a short inspection and a closer examination the visitor is struck by the efficiency of the apparatus and the ease with which the work is performed.

An Examiner reporter visited the scene yesterday afternoon and learned that the drill had reached a point one hundred feet down.

The Situation

The location is only a little more than two and one-half miles from the city and is reached by going west on the road from Crawford's grove. The derrick has been erected between the C.P.R. and G.T.R. tracks close to the highway on the south side of the road at what is known as the Wintergreen Patch. It may be also known as the extreme northern limit of the old Kincaid property. The derrick is about fifty or more feet high. At the top there is a pulley over which passes a cable, the use of which will be ex-

KNOWS PULSE BEATS OF WEST

The T. Eaton Co. Receive, at Their Winnipeg Offices, Daily Reports of the Crop Conditions From the Entire Western Country.

REPRESENTATIVE'S VIEWS

The T. Eaton Company, through its Winnipeg store, has its hand on the pulse beats of the great Northwest. By means of a vast mail order business they number among their customers 75 per cent. of the farmers and by another means they have a system of receiving the latest intelligence regarding the crop conditions in every province that is said to be more perfect than any others sent out and it at the same time later than them. Doing business with practically all the retailers, at least with a large number of them, they were either invited or they offered to send to the Eaton Co. at Winnipeg, the latest conditions and prospects. The system has spread wonderfully and each day's change in the outlook in every part of the west is known by the company almost immediately by bulletins received in hundreds. Mr. O. B. Earle, who was in the city yesterday, on a visit to his father, Mr. Barton Earle, explained the system and stated that he had received during the afternoon a brief synopsis of the situation. Mr. Earle makes a trip east about eight times during the year.

The Toronto warehouse and store attends to othe business of Ontario and the eastern provinces, while the Winnipeg house looks after Manitoba and the West, extending as far north as the Yukon. The West offers a splendid field for a good mail order business and the company has spread its lines into every hamlet and even to the lone households.

The business in Winnipeg during the past year has been tremendous, Mr. Earle stated, and the set back of three years ago was overcome and forgotten in one year. The farmers are prosperous and the sources of money have had looser strings during the past year and as a result the progress was stupendous. The effect of another great crop this autumn will be wonderful and will only add to the feeling of security and will strengthen the confidence of the settlers in the entire West.

MERELY A DREAM

(By Walt. Mason.)

I dreamed I went to Paradise, far from this vale so dark, and having reached that happy land, I sought the baseball park; they charged me nothing at the gate, but led me blithely in, and murmured, as I took my seat: "The home team's sure to win." A winged fan beside me sat, within the grandstand's shade, consuming pearly peanuts and ambrosial lemonade; I asked him why the shining hosts all were such happy grins; "In heaven here," the fan replied, "the home team always wins." The game was nicely under way when I fell out of bed, and busted nearly all my slats, and fairly spoiled my head; forgetting I was back on earth, I cried: "How was the game?" The surgeon said: "They shut us out—it was a beastly shame."

Warehouse at Simcoe and Bethune Streets Destroyed by Fire—Loss Amounts to $5000, Partly Covered by Insurance—Was Occupied by D. Florence.

ORIGIN IS UNKNOWN

While the Fire Brigade was fighting the flames at the saw-mill in East City, early this morning, an alarm was rung in from box thirty-three, the large warehouse at the corner of Simcoe and Bethune streets having caught fire. It was a few minutes past two when the firemen arrived at the second conflagration and already it had gained great headway. It was completely destroyed but damage to adjoining places is very slight.

The building which was a strongly built structure was occupied by Mr. D. Florence, who conducted a junk business. The property was owned by Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Manager of the Royal Bank. To an Examiner reporter this morning Mr. Eastwood stated that the building was valued at about $5,000, with insurance on it to the extent of one half its value. The Peterborough Hardware Company will suffer a loss of five hundred dollars, having had stock stored in the building. The large quantities of bones, iron and old rags in the place were rendered unfit for use but it was impossible to ascertain just what Florence's loss will amount to.

The fire was first noticed by some parties going along Aylmer street and the alarm was sent in. But the brigade was all absent at the first blaze. Before the arrival of the firemen, Clifford Howard and Herb. Martin with a number of other young men got out the old hose waggon and by hand, pulled it around to the scene of the fire. They had a stream playing on the warehouse when Chief Howard and his men arrived. Their action is to be highly commended.

The Adjoining Buildings

Seven streams were kept on the building but when it was seen that it would be impossible to save it, attention was turned to the adjoining places. This warehouse was built many years ago and Mr. Eastwood stated this morning that it was constructed of the best timbers and lumber. It was dry and made a quick blaze and Mr. Eastwood remarked today that the firemen must have indeed done very effective work to save the adjoining houses.

At one time the warehouse on the northeast corner was in danger and in the immediate vicinity the buildings became ignited but quick and effective fire fighting prevented any great damage being done.

Firemen Injured.

So intense was the heat that while Assistant Fire Chief Grange, Engineer Rankin and Fireman Jobe were working on the roof of Lowe & Co.'s building, they were painfully injured. Their rubber and inside coats were burned through and their shoulders somewhat badly burned.

PHILANTHROPIC BUSINESS.

A hard-headed business enterprise like an insurance corporation, is not generally looked to to inaugurate humanitarian projects. However, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company of New York has joined with the philanthropists, who are fighting the White Plague. The first step to combatting any evil is the acquirement of knowledge of the nature of the evil, and of the means of combatting it successfully. The Metropolitan may not desire to pose as a philanthropic concern. Its interest is to prolong the lives of its policy holders. This may be business solely, but the way of the Company carries with it a tremendous boon, constituting a splendid combination of philanthropby and number one. On Wednesday, July 28th, the Metropolitan Company will begin circulating the issue of three and a half million copies of a book called "A War Upon Consumption." This book treats of the nature of the disease; its extent, growth, and spread; its cure and preventition, including advice to persons having affections of the lungs. The book is printed and distributed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, for the benefit of its industrial policy holders. It will have an immense circulation. Eleven thousand, four hundred agents, representing 1,100 local offices, are under orders to distribute these three and one-half million copies in an equal number of homes where nine million policies are in force. It is expected that this remarkable distributon, havng its effect on so many persons afflicted with tuberculosis, will be instrumental in saving many lives. At present, it is stated that a Metropolitan policy holder dies of consumption every thirty-two minutes, day and night. In connection with the distribution of this book the Company, on being applied to, will forward information concerning the most economical sanatoria, tuberculosis hospitals, etc., and local agents will be instructed to interest themselves to secure admission for patients and the best of treatment in the proper institutions. The anti-tuberculosis work is the first step in a carefully planned campaign for spreading sanitary knowledge and knowledge of hygiene among its policy holders in order to prolong life—by the care of the body and the preservation of health. While it is good business, for the Metropolitan Life to undertake what may, without cant, be described as a work of mercy, it would be good business for the state and municipalities to take on similar activity, and enter upoh a similar crusade. Consumption annually robs Canada of thousands of citizens, whose lives might be saved or at least greatly prolonged by means of the dissemination of knowledge bearing upon the nature and curative or pallative, treatment of tuberculosis.

THE WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

"Man's inhumanity to man," which Cowper sings about is as nothing compared with man's inhumanity to woman. The white slave traffic, which is confined to no country, no peoples, is the fruit of man's obedience to his unbridled passions. It has reached such alarming proportions, that noo unprotected girl is free from danger. The insidious nature of the operations of its hellish agents is calculated to deceive the very elect. So great is the menace to social safety to home happiness, and the virtue and physical safety of womanhood, so wide-spread is the evil, that civilized countries have joined to endeavour to put in force represisve measures. The last number of the Canada Gazette contains a notice of an international agreement entered into. Each of thirteen Governments names a plenipotentiary to see to its enforcement. The list of countries, British colonies and protectorates, which have decided to adhere to the white slave traffic agreement are: Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Brazil, Denmark, Arythrea, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Norway and Sweden, Portugal, Russia, Spain, Switzerland, Bahamas, Barbadoes, British Guiana, Canada, Ceylon, Gold Coast, Malta, Newfoundland, Northern Nigeria, Southern Rhodesia, Trinidad, Windward Islands. These governments may do much to minimise the evil, but there must be private co-operation, and home training added to secure the best results. While thousands of innocent girls are led into the trap that holds them fast in a life of enforced sin and shame—by answering alluring offers of remunerative employment in strange cities, only to find themselves fatally deceived—there are thousands of others who take risks of being drawn into the vortex of vice under the awful delusion that a life of pleasure is a pathway of roses instead of the highway to hell upon earth. Thousands of girls are led astray by vanity the love of dress and idle pleasures. Money to satisfy these desires cannot be obtained by honest work and—the usual results follow. The tendency of girls in modern times is for an easy life and the pursuit of frivolous pleasures. This disposition is taken advantage of by the unscrupulous and shrewd and the result is always deplorably the same. Home training is very much at fault in all these cases. Mothers allow their daughters too much liberty and fail in their duty of installing into the minds of their daughters high principles of living, fail to give instruction such as only mothers con or should give of the dangers that lie in wait for unprotected womanhood and early girlhood. Governments may do much in mitigation of the evil of the white slave traffic, but if it is ever eradicated, the work of protection and destruction of it must begin in the home and be followed up in society—must begin in the lives and charscter of the possible victims.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The New York Post reminds its readers that Dr. Osler's jest still recoils upon him. At Oxford, on occasion of his sixty-first birth-day, an undergraduate poem ran:

Brothers, I am sixty-one,
And my work on earth is done;
Peace should follow after storm,
Reach me down the chloroform!

Canada has been visited by many of the prominent Labour leaders of Great Britain, including John Burns, and Keir Hardie, and now comes the intimation that Mr. Will Crooks, the member for Woolwich, will shortly be here with a view of attending the meeting of the Dominion Trades and Labour Congress, which will be held in the city of Quebec in September. Afterwards he will continue his journey around the world. The story of Mr. Croks' life was recently written by an English admirer and published under the title of "From Workhouse to Westminster." It reads like a romance.

OXCART COMPETITION.

(Montreal Herald.)

The financial results obtained from the working of the state railways in Cape Colony do not present the advocates of government ownership with very hopeful material for use in their efforts to gain supporters for their cause. From the annual report of the general manager it appears that the taxpayers have had to meet a deficit after the payment of interest charges, amounting to $2,879,305. Canada has no particular reason to be proud of the economic aspects of the Intercolonial, but compared with the government roads of South Africa the I. C. R. makes quite a respectable appearance. The financial side of the case is not the worst at the Cape. The general manager complains that during the year competition by oxcarts was especially severe, and he congratulates himself and the taxpayer on the fact that Parliament has passed a law putting a special tax on oxcart business, so forcing the people to ship over the railways. He says "It is hoped that the action now taken will relegate the ox-waggon to its legitimate sphere—that is, to act as a feeder to railways and not as a competitor." He does not seem to see that his statement of the case presents a rather startling indictment. He shows the ox-waggon in the light of a dangerous competitor to a railway system aggregating upwards of 3,000 miles. Mr. Tait's experience in Australia has demonstrated that railways can be made to give satisfactory results when owned by the state as well as when owned by corporations, but in South Africa the railway systems have been always a source of trouble. The hope of bettering railway conditions has been a strong incentive towards the federal union now practically consummated. Owing to geographical and economical causes the railways have been the sport of politics. A railway question which went under the innocent-looking title of "the drifts" nearly produced a war between the Orange Free State and the government of President Kruger, and one of the things which rendered the old government of the Transvaal unpopular with the coast colonies was its encouragement of the Delagoa Bay line, a short and direct route to the water front. It is the hope of the promoters of the new federal union in South Africa that the colonies may be saved from rate wars which have proved financially disastrous and that it may lead to an equitable distribution of traffic between the lines that run up to the high veldt. In some quarters there was the fear, born of the distrust of Parliament, that the different railways might not be treated with judicial impartiality, and that one combination might be favoured at the expense of another. To prevent this possibility, the railways and harbours are to be administered by a board of commissioners appointed by the union government for a term of five years.

OLD-AGE ANNUITIES.

The Opposition journals are addicted to vigorous, not to say vicious criticism of the Liberal Government—its many alleged wrong-doings and short-comings. They are, however, better debaters than bookkeepers. They fail to make credit as well as debit entries. For instance, we don't see many references to the splendid boon represented by the Liberal Government's Annuities Act of 1908, a truly beneficial provision of comfort and support for the Canadian toiler in his declining days after he has spent a life in building up the country, and earned some consideration at its hands when his strength has failed and his working days are well nigh passed. Everybody should know something—indeed, everything, about this wonderful provision for old age.

Sir Richard Cartwright, Minister of Trade and Commerce, was primarily responsible for the measure known as the Annuities Act, 1908. This act solves the problem of securing comfort and happiness in old age at a very trivial cost, and every one is eligible to share in the advantages which it offers.

Many men have been ruined, or have seen their hard-earned savings disappear through improvident investment or unwise speculation. Others have wasted their savings in many ways. By the purchase of an annuity such experiences are impossible.

Some Advantages.

The statute provides that no holder of an annuity can be deprived of it in any manner by the holder of it, by any other person, or by any process of law. Some important features are that—

"The annuity cannot be seized for debt.

"The annuity cannot lapse, or be forfeited for any cause.

"It is unalienable."

The holder of an annuity may spend the income of it foolishly, but it will come every three months if the holder should live to be 100 years old. The smallest annuity is $50 a year, and the largest $600 a year, no less and no more.

Some Illustrations.

The following illustrations will demonstrate the vastly greater advantages of an annuity over any other kind of investment as a means of providing for old age.

A man beginning at 20 years of age, paying 5 cents a week until he is 60, may provide an annuity (or income) for the remainder of his life of $129.91.

A man beginning at 25, and paying 25 cents a week until he is 60, will receive $99.34 at 60.

A man beginning at 30, and paying 25 cents a week until he is 60, will receive $74.73 at 60.

Buy for Your Children.

If a man has a few hundred dollars for which he has no need, he can purchase an annuity for each of his children. For a boy of 15 a payment of $500 will secure him at 55 and for the remainder of his life, an annuity of $220.60, or at 60 of $323.50. And the same amount at the same age would secure a girl (whose expectation of life is greater), an annuity at 55 of $202.95; or at 60 of $289.05.

Can Be No Less.

The annuities will be paid in equal quarterly instalments, the first payment to be made when the age specided is attained. Should the annuitant die before the first instalment is due, payments will be returned with three per cent. compound interest added.

As an example by comparison of the investment of a stated sum in cash, and an annuity of equal value, compare the following table:

Think This Over.

To secure an income of $100, $2,000 will be necessary at 5 per cent. But first one must have the $2,000.

By paying 3 cents a day, or $10.01 a year between the age of 20 and 60, only amounts to $400, and this secures the same result. To secure an income of $200, $4,000 will be necessary at 5 per cent. But first one must have the $4,000.

Bypaying 5 1-2 cents a day, or $20.02 a year, between the age of 20 and 60, only amounts to $800, and this secures the same result.

To secure an income of $300, $6,000 will be necessary at 5 per cent. But first one must have the $6,000.

By paying 8¼ cents a day, or $30.03 a year, between the age of 20 and 60, only amounts to $1,201.20, and this secures the same result.

To secure an income of $400, $8,000 will be necessary at 5 per cent. But first one must have the $8,000.

By paying 11 cents a day, or $40.04 a year, between the age of 20 and 60, only amounts to $1,601.60, and this secures the same result.

To secure an income of $500, $10,000 will be necessary at 5 per cent. But first one must have the $10,000.

By paying 13 2-3 cents a day, or $50.05 a year, between the age of 20 and 60, only amounts to $2,002, and this secures the same result.

To secure an income of $600, $12,000 will be necessary at 5 per cent. But first one must have the $12,000.

By paying 16 1-2 cents a day, or $60.06 a year, between the age of 20 and 60, only amounts to $2,402.40, and this secures the same result.

Before one can enjoy the income upon a sum of money ordinarily, the principal must be secured and invested, with all the attendant risks, while the annuity may be paid for in weekly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly, or yearly instalments spread over the whole period, and only requires about one-fifth of the amount of capital to produce the same result.

How Does This Read.

How many men does the average reader know at 60 who have $2,000, $4,000, $6,000, $8,000, $10,000, or $12,000 invested at 5 per cent.?

How many men does the average reader know at 20 who could not save 3, 5 1-2, 8 1-4, 11, 13 2-3, or 16 1-2 cents a day, if determined to do so?

Reflect upon the difference between what is necessary to produce an income of $600 if the cash must be provided, and the amount under the annuity system, which will produce a like amount; $12,000 at 5 per cent. produces $600 a year, while under the annuity system it only takes $2,402.40. There is another way of looking at it. $2402, at 5 per cent., will produce $120 a year, under the annuity system it will produce $600 per annum.

The Government assists the annuitant in every way. They look after the instalments, act as bankers free of charge, and there need be no fear of dishonest or extravagant management. The bill passed the House of Commons and the Senate without a dissentient vote.

How It Is Obtained.

An intending annuitant may deposit from time to time in the nearest post office savings bank or money order office, or remit direct to the department at Ottawa as may be arranged, such amounts will be placed to the credit of the annuitant with compound interest thereon at 4 per cent. per annum, to be repaid in the form of an annuity at a date to be hereafter fixed.

How It Works Out.

One may pay in only 25 cents a week, or ten, fifteen or twenty dollars at a time.

One may pay monthly, quarterly, half yearly or yearly, the total cost being the same whichever plan is adopted.

One may start with a lump sum and complete the contract by periodical payments, that is to say, a man of 40 (or other age) may be a single payment pay arrears of premiums between the ages of 20 and 40 and complete the contract as if he had entered at the age of 20.

One may provide by single payments for annuities for self, wife and children, the annuities to begin at some subsequent age.

One may provide for a joint annuity for self and wife, to be enjoyed so long as either live.

One may purchase an immediate annuity and receive the first instalment thereof three months after purchase.

If one has a post office savings bank account, the same may be transferred to the account for the purchase of an annuity, and compound interest thereon will thereafter be allowed at 4 per cent. instead of 3 per cent. as at present.

If contributions are interrupted by sickness, loss of employment or other cause, payment may be resumed at any time.

Should the payments not be continued to the end of the contract such proportion of the original annuity as these payments will produce will be paid.

Absolute Security.

This annuity scheme of the Government should appeal with special force to the wage earner and man of small means. Many people of limited resources find difficulty in securing an investment upon good security. The security in this case is the Dominion Government with its vast resources.

Reasons Why Annuity Should be Purchased.

Because it is the duty of every man and woman to make provision for his or her old age.

Because the investment offered is upon absolute security.

Because it is an absolute provision for the future, with which no man can interfere.

Because you will enjoy the results of your investment while you live.

Because it affords an opportunity to provide against the consequences of unforseen reverses.

Because the profits are many times greater than any other investment will yield.

Because it encourages thrift, checks extravagance, promotes temperance and conduces to the happiness of the family.

Because there is a guarantee that no matter how long a man may live he will reap the benefit of his foresight.

Because the trivial sum required to be set aside, which is probably now unwisely spent, will enable a man to provide for the years when he is unable to earn money.

Because it removes the possibility of becoming a charge upon friends or relations, and in old age brings comfort, independence and freedom from care.

Because it is preferable to a deposit in a savings bank, the interest being four per cent. instead of three, and there is no temptation to withdraw the money.

Because when once a person commences to save money, the habit becomes fixed, and every pay day finds the amount larger.

Because only a Government can give that absolute security and certainty of regular periodical payments which is the essential feature of an annuity

Because the annuity cannot lapse, neither can it be seized for debt or other cause.

The Liberal Government by enacting the Annuities Act, has made it possible for every man, woman and child in Canada to provide for old age at a very trifling expense.

PRINTING OF BANKNOTES.

Uncle Sam's System is Complete as Man Can Make It.

The system of checks employed in the engraving division of the bureau of engraving at Washington to prevent irregularities is as complete as human ingenuity can devise. Each die, roll and plate has a number in sequence stamped upon it, and by said number it is recorded. Each employee receiving a piece of steel to work on is charged with the same by its number and a description of the engraving to be made thereon and is not allowed to leave the building until the same has been returned and checked into the vaults. In the custodian's office complete records and the history of 18,000 dies, 19,000 rolls and 18,000 plates are on file. Once a year this office is audited and checked up by a committee appointed by the secretary of the treasury, each piece of engraved work being identified and compared with the records of the office. The system of checks and rules governing the custody of the work is so perfect that in the history of the bureau not a single plate has gone astray. After the plate is finally completed and approved a proof is taken and filed away, and if it should ever occur that a suspicious bill is presented a comparison with the recorded proof will readily show whether it is genuine or not and if counterfeit the difference between the genuine and spurious.

The busiest room in the bureau is that devoted to plate printing. The operation looks easy, but a great degree of skill is required to produce perfect work, and plate printing is a trade in itself. The printer gives a receipt for the plate form, he receipts for every sheet of paper he receives, the press registers every impression made, and he cannot leave until he returns the plate and accounts for every sheet of paper.

With every order to print 1,000 sheets of bills or stamps 1,050 sheets of paper are issued, as there is the liability of spoiling sheets in the wetting, printing or numbering. After the sheets have been printed and dried they are carefully examined by trained experts, who separate all imperfect sheets, and the accuracy and speed with which they detect imperfections are not the least interesting part of "money making." A spot, a stain, a light or uneven impression that would escape ordinary observation is detected and causes the sheet to be sent to the destruction committee, where it is destroyed with the same safeguards employed in the destruction of old, torn or mutilated currency.

The notes of all national banks are alike as to the outline of the face, but the name, place and charter number of each bank are of course different, while the back of all national bank notes in any one state is alike, yet there is a distinctive back of each state in the 1882 series of notes. The more recent designs issued by the bureau, known as the 1902 series, have a comparatively clear space on each side of the center, such disposition being necessary in order to show clearly the silk fiber imbedded in the distinctive paper. This is considered so important that designers are obliged to conform their work thereto, and the backs of this series are the same for every state. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1908, the bureau printed 1,569,287,805 postage stamps, worth $139,426,811. The stamps to be printed during the present fiscal year will exceed those printed for the year 1908 by 1,000,000,000.—American Institute of Banking.

Hooking the "Crook."

A new kind of self defense is quite common in France among ladies. It is simply the practised use of crook handled umbrella or walking stick. A young lady who was an adept arrested a pickpocket who had seized her bag purse and sent him sprawling at full length on his face on the road, having neatly tripped him up by crooking the right ankle of the human "crook" with her umbrella. Again, when he rose to his feet and sprang at the lady she encircled his neck by the crook of the umbrella and laid him on his face again. Again she flung him by gripping his left ankle and picked up the stolen bag with her umbrella crook. And by this time the police arrived.—Bernard Parsons in Fry's Magazine.

Detachable.

One of the prettiest actresses in Paris was giving a tea one afternoon when her hairdresser was announced.

"My hairdresser, eh?" she said. "Well, show him into the boudoir and tell him to begin at once. I'll be with him in an hour."

His Reason.

Daughter—Pa, why do you hang around the parlor while Mr. Sikes is calling on me? Father—I'm afraid you'll say something to him that'll make him a burden on me for the rest of my life.—Town and Country.

Nervous People

SALT OF THE EARTH

But when overstrained their highly strung systems give way and depression and suffering is intense.

Money is made these days at the expense of brain and nerve rather than muscular tissues.

The successful men and women are often of the highest strung nervous type—keen and active—but with too little reserve force.

A little extra worry and anxiety and away goes the nervous system. Weeks and months are often required before energy and vigour are regained.

Rest helps, so does fresh air and exercise but the blood must also be made rich and red by the use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Much as they may disagree on some points the best physicians are unanimous in claiming that an abundance of rich, red, life-sustaining nerve invigorating blood is positively necessary for the restoration of the exhausted nervous system.

There is too often little sympathy for the nervous sufferer. When as a matter of fact his sufferings are most intense, being of mind as well as body.

Headaches, neuralgia, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, pains and cramps are often the lesser felt because of the depressed spirits and discouragements which come with loss of memory and gloomy forebodings of the future.

The sufferer from nervous exhaustion and prostration can use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with positive assurance that the benefits derived therefrom will be both thorough and lasting.

There is no reaction from this great nerve-builder because it is not a stimulant but a restorative and reconstructor of the wasted nervous system. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Proved His Theory, but Died.

The acme of realism was reached, though by accident, in a criminal trial a number of years ago at Lebanon, O. Two men had a personal encounter. One of them after vainly trying to draw his pistol from his hip pocket turned to flee. A moment later he fell, shot in the small of the back. One chamber of his pistol was found to have been fired. His assailant was tried for murder. The defense contended that the man had shot himself while trying to draw his pistol, which had become entangled in the lining of the pocket, and that the prisoner's shot had not taken effect. The prosecution contended that such a wound could not have been self inflicted. The defendant's counsel, Clement L. Vallandigham, undertook to demonstrate to the jury just how the dead man's pistol had hung in the pocket and just how possible it was to inflict such a wound. Suddenly there was a loud report, and the lawyer sank to the floor. The ball had entered the back almost in the identical spot where the dead man had been shot. The defendant was acquitted. Mr. Vallandigham died.—Exchange.

Westminster Abbey's Poets' Corner.

Turning from King Henry's chapel, with its wealth of fancy's "fairy frost work," to the poets' corner in Westminster abbey, we are attracted by a spell mightier than that of carven stones in the presence of those "serene creators of immortal things" who have enriched our literature with gifts beyond all price. This "glorious company of paupers," as they have been termed, says a writer in Great Thoughts, have won a fame in the glow of which that of statesmen and warriors wanes and perishes, "touched to death by diviner eyes." Drawn together, as it were, by the spell of Chaucer, "our first warbler," what Spenser calls "black oblivion's rust" has failed to tarnish their golden record. We move entranced amid the memorials of Drayton, Ben Jonson, Spenser, Shakespeare, Beaumont, Milton, Gray, Addison and many more, including the impassioned peasant singer, Robert Burns, and the great Victorians, Robert Browning and Alfred Tennyson.—London Standard.

Encouragement.

"I have a splitting headache," sighs the beautiful young thing.

"Have you ever tried magnetic healing?" asks the obliging young man.

"No. What is it?"

"You rest your head, thus, on my shoulder, and I pass my arm about your waist in this manner. Now be perfectly calm and see if this does not relieve you."

The position is maintained for five or ten minutes, and then the obliging young man asks:

"Does your head ache any more?"

"Yo-o-es."

"Well, I'm sorry I don't seem able to relieve you."

He is about to remove his arm when she looks up at him childingly and says:

"It seems to me that if you have any confidence in your method you would be willing to keep on trying."—Chicago News.

DROPPED THE "TUB."

And Like a Good Girl Pronounced the Word Correctly.

W. S. Gilbert contributed an amusing article on "Actors and Authors" to a program of the London Drury Lane theater. The following extract will be read with appreciation:

The author's greatest difficulty lies in the necessity of directing an actor's attention to an obvious misproununciation—a feat that must be achieved without humiliating the actor in the presence of his professional brethren.

Many years ago I was engaged in rehearsing a burlesque, and a very clever young lady had to sing the couplet:

Indubitably if you do
It will be the worse for you.

The clever young lady, whose pronunciation was not always beyond reproach, delivered the lines thus:

Indubitably if you do
It will be the worse for you.

This, of course, would not do, so I determined to alter the word to "inevitably." The young lady agreed that the alteration greatly improved the verse, but she was not to be deprived of her "tub," so she sang it:

Inevitably if you do
It will be the worse for you.

This was just as bad, so I made it "unquestionably," and, of course, it came out:

Unquestionably if you do
It will be the worse for you.

I could think of no other word that would answer the purpose, so, as a last resource, I said to her:

"Do you think it advisable to give the word its French accent?"

"How do you mean?"

"Why, 'unquestionably'—that's the way it is pronounced in Paris. In addressing an English audience perhaps the simple English version of the word would be better. Try it, at all events, 'unquestionably,' 'n' instead of 'n.' 'Unquestionably' would be all very well for the stalls, but the gallery wouldn't understand it."

"Of course," she said, "the English accent would certainly be more appropriate."

And she sang it "unquestionably" like the good girl that she was.

A TUSK HUNTER'S ESCAPE.

So Close a Call the Native Really Thought Himself Dead.

Hunting elephants for their tusks involves courage, patience and infinite cunning. Frequently the hunter becomes the hunted, and the tables may be turned fatally. A writer in McClure's Magazine tells of an escape, vouched for by "an Indian dealer who never lied about anything and who claims to have seen this deliverance exactly as he reported it."

Some natives were hunting elephants in the neighborhood of Lake Rudolph, and he was with them for the purpose of trading cotton cloth for ivory. Elephants like old bunch grass that has become dry like hay, and a herd of them, attracted by "dry grazing," as it is called, came suddenly within an eighth of a mile of the camp.

One native named Juma, from the coast, an unskilled hunter, observing that the wind was in such a direction that it blew news of the herd to him rather than blowing his whereabouts to the knowledge of the herd, ran out in the open with his rifle and aimed at short range at a powerful creature which was watering a straggling shrub with water he had taken in his trunk from the pond.

Once hit, the elephant was correspondingly furious and rushed at Juma after a deliberate scrutiny of the immediate foreground to discover his whereabouts. Having determined where his assailant stood, he tore along crazy with rage, toward the shaking savage.

Juma, with an oriental's instinct of prostration before such an overwhelming force, merely threw himself flat upon the ground.

The elephant rushed completely over him, but by accident left him safe, although choked and blinded with the disturbed and sandy soil. The great feet cleared him, and the tusks missed him.

Almost twenty-four hours passed before Juma dared believe himself alive and sound, and for the first twelve hours after the excitement he spoke of himself only in the past tense, as of one dead.

The Clothesline Test.

"Let me see her clothes on the line," said an old fashioned woman recently, "and I can tell if she is a good housekeeper." The test lies in the way the garments are hung. If the shirts are scattered around promiscuously the woman lets garbage stand on her kitchen table overnight. The shirts, like we men, should always hang together, shoulder to shoulder, and everything of its kind should hang in a row.—Atchison Globe.

Not Desired.

Having at enormous pains got her length, breadth and thickness about right, the woman heaved a sigh of relief. "No fourth dimension in mine, if you please!" she exclaimed with unmistakable feeling.

Some aver that the feminine mind is not attracted by metaphysics anyway!—Exchange.

Out in the Rain.

It is particularly aggravating when you get caught in the rain with your new hat to see by the official weather report that the precipitation was only six one-hundredths of an inch.—Ohio State Journal.

Idleness makes such slow progress that misery easily catches it at the first turning of the roadway.

The batter made a hit

Could not connect with it.

A Blunt Prince.

William F. Doty, the American consul at Tabriz, told in a recent letter a story about a Persian prince.

A party of English tourists were traveling in Persia, and in Tabriz they invited this prince to dinner. He came splendidly attired in gold and white. But he was taciturn. He seemed disappointed. When the dessert was served he sneered and said:

"I am pleased to see that the Englishmen are now taking a leaf out of the Persian's book."

"How so, Prince Kamil?" said the host's wife, a very tall, lean woman with unusually long teeth.

"They leave all their pretty women at home," said the prince frankly.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

China's Lively Emperor.

P'u I., the infant emperor of China, of course counts for nothing as yet unless the sympathy and love which his pretty babyhood inspires may have an influence upon the trend of events. That he is a healthy young potentate is evidenced by an edict promulgated in his own name and under his own imperial seal which recently convulsed Pekin society. In it he demanded that thirty-five nursing mothers should be immediately found and sent into the palace to minister to his infant needs. —Eleanor Franklin Egan in Everybody's.

She Followed Instructions.

In a certain city, which shall be nameless, a literary man had asked his wife as she was starting downtown to buy a couple of shirts for him. She asked him what kind, and he answered, "Size 15."

"Yes, but"—

"Two dollars."

"But I want to know"—

"Oh, the color? Well, I've plenty of white shirts. Get me something that won't show soot. Now, don't bother me any more, please. I'm at work."

She did not bother him any more. She went away and in the afternoon returned with her purchases.

"Here are your shirts, John," she said, laying them down before him.

"Why, they are coal black, Lucinda!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, that's the only kind that won't show soot. They are just what you told me to buy. Now, don't bother me by talking about them. I have got to go and look after the children."

Being "game," John took his medicine without protest.—Youth's Companion.

A Just Rebuke.

"I am," he said, "deformed. Pads hide it. Still, deformed I am, and I want to know why writers always make deformed persons villains? Take Quasimodo in Victor Hugo's 'Notre Dame.' Why, Quasimodo was little better than a wild gorilla, swinging from the great bell and hurling the priest down from the high tower. Take the housemaid's clubfoot father in Ibsen's 'Ghosts.' There was a nasty old man for you—a nasty, perverse, evil minded old rooster, eh? Take Dick Crookback in the immortal William's play. Take Nosey the Dwarf in Hauff's classic fairy tale. Take the villains in all fairy tales, for that matter. They are a one eyed, lame, hunchbacked, clubfooted lot.

"It makes us deformed folks red hot, this literary imputation of villainy. It causes people to think we really are villains. Where's the child, after a course of fairy tales, that can be persuaded a hunchback's soul doesn't match his body?" — Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Baldwin Apple.

A chance seedling that grew up on a farm near Lowell, Mass., about 1746 became the first Baldwin apple tree, but it was not until 1784 that Colonel Baldwin became interested in the apple, developed it and gave it his name.

Otonabee Council May Take Over Road To Campbelltown

In Order to Make it Fit for Travel by Vehicles—Regular Meeting Held Recently—Accounts Were Passed.

ROUTINE OF BUSINESS

Examiner Special.

At the regular meeting of the Otonabee Council, July 19th, Fred Collins was appointed to look after and collect 8 cents per load for all gravel removed by private individuals from the gravel pit on the south end of the 12th concession line, and to have removed any trees obstructing the pit. W. B. Stewart's ward was granted $45 for 400 yards of crushed stone put on the roads.

In 1903, when the Council agreed to exchange old road to Campbelltown wharf for a new one, it was on condition that Mr. Anderson would make the new road fit for wheeled vehicles. Mr. Anderson reports that he has expended considerable labour on the road, but owing to the fact that a large amount of lumber is hauled over the road each Spring, when it is in a soft condition, it is badly cut up. Messrs. Fife and Stewart were appointed to view the road and see if it is in such condition as would justify the Council in taking it over. The following accounts were passed: For picking stones off roads, Wm. Spiers, $2; Edwin Evans, $3; D. H. Moore, $2; Geo. Fife, $6.90; J. E. Hope, $1.50; for gravel, Harry Evans, $6.65; Jas. # Mayor Rush To The Ratepayers On The By-laws For Thursday

Reasons Why Both the Bridge and Street Extension By-laws Should Be Passed—His Worship Hopes Citizens Will Show Their Approval of Them.

HIS STATEMENTS RE BOTH

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—With reference to the By-laws to be voted upon on Thursday of this week, permit me to say a few words.

The money to be raised for street extensions, all but a small sum, has been spent in former years. In 1904 an expenditure made in opening Barnardo avenue to Water street. In 1905 and 1906 George street was extended south to the boundary. In 1907 Aylmer street was opened from Lake street too the King Edward School, and Hunter street, east, to the Lift Lock. In 1908 Bethune street, at a small expense, was opened to Aberdeen avenue. These extensions cost, up to the end of last year, $20,300.95, against which is to be set $6,000 formerly raised for these purposes, leaving a balance of 14,300.95, and there is provision in the By-law to complete the opening of Aylmer street and to widen Benson avenue to othe Normal School.

The first expenditure on filling in the City's property on the water front was made in 1906, and further amounts each year since that, making a total of $4,972.17.

The sums which have been spent for these two purposes and not provided for amount to $19,273.12. This must be met, either by the passing of the By-laws, or by raising the sum on the rates, which would require over 2¼ mills on the assessment. It is clearly in the interest of the City and of the ratepayers that the By-law should be passed.

Regarding the Smith Street bridge, the Council has not only had the plans prepared carefully by the City Engineer, but also examined and reported upon by Mr. Francis, of Montreal, and owing to the less cost of maintenance and appearance as compared with a bridge with steel superstructure, they both recommend the concrete bridge now proposed. The old wooden bridge must be replaced, as it has only been maintained for some years at considerable expense, and it should be replaced by a bridge that will be permanent, cost little or nothing to maintain and satisfactory in every way. Such a bridge is the one proposed, and I hope the ratepayers will also approve of this By-law.

Yours truly,
H. RUSH, Mayor.

THE METHOD OF DRILLING FOR OIL AND GAS

plained later. The complete outfit does not take up a large plot of ground, everything being compact. A steam engine provides the motive power. The drill itself is a steel rod forty feet in length and weighing 2,500 lbs. The top end is about three inches in diameter and the bottom which has a wedge-like edge is about seven inches in diameter. A clutch is taken in the wire cable and the drill is drawn up and let fall rather rapidly and does not work in a circular manner as might be expected. This operation is separate from that performed by the pulley at the top of the derrick which is used for drawing the drill completely out of the hole and onto the platform. In doing its work the drill is raised about five feet each time and then let fall. This bores or crushes its way through the limestone. The operation is continued until about five feet have been drilled through The belts on the machinery are changed by a simple adjustment and the drill is drawn out and, when free, it extends from the platform to a point within about ten feet from the top of the derrick and is held in that position.

Pumping

The next operation is to pump out the loose limestone which has been pulverized by the action of the drill. This is done by a sand pipe. It is a long hollow steel pipe nearly as long as the drill. At the bottom there is an iron valve opening inwards. The pipe is let down into the well until only a short distance from the bottom. It is drawn up several feet and then let fall. The water and limestone is thus forced into the pump by each stroke. It is drawn up and down a number of times and then raised to the surface. The valve is opened and the water and its grayish mudlike substance is freed. This is repeated a few times until all the loose substance has been taken out, when the drilling is recommenced with the cable a few feet longer.

These are the two operations. Simple they appear to the onlooker and aparently as simply performed by the two men, who alone, are engaged in the work. Edward Brooks is the engineer and John McLister controls the drill. They are both from Petrolea, and are experienced in the work.

Although giving the machinery close attention they found time to explain the method of drilling.

The drill worked its way first through forty feet of earth when Trenton limestone was struck and already sixty feet have been drilled through this form of rock, making altogether one hundred feet. The men make about thirty-five feet a day and this average will likely be continued as limestone is the only rock which is expected to be met with. Mr. Brooks stated that he could not tell whether oil or gas would be struck. It was entirely an experiment. In the Welland district similar rock structure was met with and gas was obtained at a depth of 1,200 feet. Boring would have to be continued here through at least 600 feet before they would expect to find a shoal of oil or any gas. The preliminary work was encouraging, but nothing could be judged from it, as limestone was generally met. The existence of gas or oil would only be discovered by continued work.

Those who have visited the place are inclined to think that the boring may be successful. That part of the township has shown signs of what the farmers thought was oil. A bluish substance on the water in the boggy parts of several of the neighbouring woods semed to indicate oil and the old-timers are beginning to believe that the work will be successful. In the meantime the men will continue the boring and those behind the scheme will await the results with interest.

THE BY-LAWS

On Thursday, July 29th, three by-laws will be submitted to the approval or rejection of the ratepayers. The city authorities have taken the people into their confidence, and described the by-laws and the reasons for their submission, and reasons why they should be passed.

In regard to the by-law to authorize the raising of money for street extension, the question is much simplified. It is admitted that with the growth of the city and its expansion, outward streets must be extended. This seemed to be the inevitable, the work was done and the balance of the expenditure, $14,300.95 must be provided by the issue of debentures or by direct taxation. The money has been spent in necessary extensions which it is safe to say has added and will add largely to the amount of assessible property, which will in one way and to an extent, recoup the expenditure to be provided for. It seems to come to this that this $14,000 must be provided for by debentures whose payment will extend over a long period of years or be added to next year's tax roll, and judging by this year's levy we don't want a much increased rate of taxation.

As to the by-law to authorize the raising of nearly $5,000 for converting a swamp and a menace to health into oa valuable city property worth much more than the cost, and of increasing value, similar conditions exist. In this case again the money must be provided for by the passing of the by-law or the five thousand for filling in the city's water front will have to be added to practically $15,000 for street extension making a total of $20,000 to be added to next year's tax roll.

In regard to the Smith Street bridge by-law, that again seems to be amply justified. The old wooden bridge is dangerous and cannot be permitted to be used in its present condition much longer. The cost of a new concrete bridge is estimated at $32,500 which may be regarded as a final expenditure, for, if any structure can be considered permanent, it is a concrete bridge. The only wear will be upon the roadway. Otherwise concrete becomes harder and more lasting the longer it lasts. The old bridge must be replaced; it is dangerous and costly to maintain.

For the last four or five years the Smith street bridge has cost for repairs, $400 or $500 a year, the interest at 4 per cent. on $10,000 or $12,500. And as time goes on the bridge will become more expensive to maintain. If an ice jam in the spring knocks out the piers, the cost to replace them and put the bridge in shape for traffic would be $1,500 or $2,000. We must have a new bridge. A concrete bridge such as proposed under the by-law is the cheapest in the end, as it will be practically everlasting, and it will be presently more profitable; for it will be constructed almost wholly by local labour and, excepting the cement, with local materials.

The ratepayers should study the by-laws and remember what they call for. It is only by understanding them that an intelligent vote can be polled on July 29th.

THE BY-LAWS.

To Be Voted on Thursday, July 29th.

Why You Should Vote For the Smith Street Bridge By-law.

1. BECAUSE the old bridge is "Condemned".
2. BECAUSE the northern part of the city cannot exist without this means of communication.
3. BECAUSE the loss in assessable values in one year would pay for the new bridge.
4. BECAUSE the proposed concrete bridge is just as cheap to build and far less expensive thereafter than any other sort of bridge. All but the cement is "Local Industry".

Why You Should Vote For the Street Extension and Filling-in By-law.

1. BECAUSE the money for street extension had to be spent and has been spent. Do you want it on the debenture rate or on next year's rate? If on the debenture rate, vote for the By-law.

Why Vote for the Filling-in?

1. BECAUSE this large strip of land along the C. P. R. spur is worth $20,000.00 to Peterborough. We get it for ten thousand. It will be the future market place for the wives of our workers. The present market property is too valuable for merely market purposes.

Mr. Geo. Campbell Banquetted By Barbers Of The City Last Night

A number of the members of the local Barbers' Union gathered at Hooper's Palm Gardens last evening to say farewell to Mr. Geo. A. Campbell, who leaves shortly for Midland. After partaking of an excellent spread Mr. Harry Gainey, who acted as toastmaster, referred to the regret he felt at the departure of Mr. Campbell. Mr. Campbell had always shown a deep interest in the work of the union. He was always present at the meetings and he was sure he would be much missed. He wished him every success in Midland. He asked the members to rise and drink his health. Those present rose and joined heartily in the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. Campbell in rising to respond thanked his fellow tradesmen for the honour they had done him in tendering him such a fine farewell banquet. He always would, he said, take an interest in the Barbers' Union. He expressed his appreciation of the kind words spoken by the chairman.

Others who made short speeches expressive of the regret felt at Mr. Campbell's approaching departure were the president, Mr. Frank Hughes, the secretary, Mr. Geo. Brousseau and Mr. Hall.

Mr. W. R. Trotter, representative of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, spake briefly. He hoped Mr. Campbell would meet with success in his new home and he assured him that he would find plenty to do in awakening an interest among the barbers of Midland in the Trades and Labour Union.

The gathering dispersed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Little Girl Fell Into Lake As She Was About To Board Steamer

Yesterday morning as the ten-year-old daughter of Professor Mackenzie, of Toronto, was about to board the Steamer "Majestic" at Mr. Mackenzie's island, at the head of Clear Lake, she met with an unfortunate accident, which luckily did not end very seriously. As the young girl was about to step on the boat, she slipped and fell into the lake. She struck her head upon a rock, inflicting a cut on her forehead. The water, at the wharf was not above the girl's head, and, with a little assistance, she was soon aboard.

She, with her mother and father, was returning to Toronto, but the accident necessitated a complete change of clothing having to be made before the steamer arrived at Lakefield.

IMPROVEMENTS TO STATION AT HASTINGS

Farmers in Vicinity Delayed by Rain—A Pretty Wedding at the Village.

Examiner Special.

Hastings, July 26.—Reeve Howard has proclaimed Wednesday, August 11th, as Civic Holiday, when the Foresters will run an excursion to Idyl Wyld.

A pretty house wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, the 14th inst., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Richardson, the contracting parties being their daughter, Mabel, and Mr. John Armour, of Percy. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Barrett, of Hastings in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends. The bride's dress consisted of cream silk with overlace and satin ribbon as trimmings. After the customary congratulations, the company repaired to the dining room, where a dainty luncheon was partaken of. The happy couple left on the 4:30 train for a short honeymoon trip, and on their return will reside in Percy. Mr. and Mrs. Armour have a host of friends who join in wishing them "bon voyage" through life.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Barrett on his holidays, union services are being conducted by Rev. Mr. Thomson in the morning in the Presbyterian Church and in the evening in the Methodist church.

Miss Mabel Christie, of Peterborough, is visiting her couson, Miss Mae Beavis.

Messrs. S. Wildman and L. F. Clarry have gone on a trip to Western Ontario.

Mr. Carl Quinn, of Peterborough, has been spending a few days with his uncle, Mr. R. Scott.

A quiet church wedding took place in St. George's Church, the Rev. Mr. Burns, officiating, when Miss Annie Rogers became the bride of Mr. Ernest Saunders, of the shipyard staff of the Randolph Macdonald Co. Only a very few of the most intimate friends witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders left on the evening train for a trip to Western Ontario, followed by the best wishes of their friends.

Mr. W. Smith, of New York, is in town on his annual fishing excursion.

Mrs. J. H. McClelland is visiting her sister, Mrs. Bottum, of Bobcaygeon.

Messrs. Learmouth and Sherwin have accepted the contract of grading the new street and are at work on the job.

Mr. W Wilson, of Warkworth, has been visiting his sister, Miss Annie, of town.

On Monday evening of this week, Mrs. Howard was entertained to a birthday party by Mrs. Watters, of Toledo, Ohio. A very pleasant evening was spent, about thirty being present.

The farmers in this vicinity are being materially delayed in their haying operations by the abundant rains of the past few days.

Miss Anderson, of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Maude Anderson.

Mr. Armstrong and son, of Texas, are visiting at the home of Mr. H. Wilson.

Miss Burnham, of Port Hope, is the guest of Mrs. H. Fowlds.

Mr. Griffith, of Peterborough, has returned to his home, after enjoying a season of fishing with us.

An addition is being made to the freight shed at the G. T. R. station which has been much needed for some time past, as the space for goods shipped in was exceedingly limited.

A new bus has been purchased for the use of the Clarendon House, which is a credit to the town. We understand it was shipped in from Belleville.

A league game of baseball was played last week by the Methodist and Presbyterian teams which resulted in favour of the former.

Mrs. and Miss Baskin, of Toronto, spent Tuesday with Mrs. R. Scott.

Mr. Ben. Oakman is spending a few days with friends in Peterborough.

At the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning the Rev. D. A. Thomson baptized the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stewart, of Toronto. Mr. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Stewart, here.

Part of the day's pleasure is missed if you do not drink "Salada" Tea iced. It satisfies the thirst. Everyone likes it. 63

JUNE RECORD OF COW TESTING WORK

June records furnish some interesting contrasts in milk yield as reported by members of cow testing associations.

For instance, one herd at Hickson, Ont. contains 17 cows each, one of which gave over 35 pounds of butter fat. In another association not fifty miles away where the milk is paid for by fat content, one herd of 15 cows, has only 2 cows that tested three per cent. of fat, all the remaining 13 cows in the herd tested only 2.9 or 2.3, while the average yield was only 22 poounds of butter fat, or thirteen pounds less per cow during the month than the other herd.

In another herd the weight of milk from one cow is given as 14 pounds one morning, only 8 pounds the next evening, but 15 pounds the next morning; many other cows show just as sharp variations. These are quickly noted if the wise dairyman is keeping a daily record of milk, the cause of such sudden drops will be sought for, and measures taken, if possible, to prevent the shrinkage and keep each cow up to her maximum capacity.

Twice a day, rain or shine, the cow has to be milked, why not make each milking time bring in eight or nine cents' profit? How many men milk eight times before they get one cent profit from some cows?

REVIEW OF STOCK MARKET IN STEEL, COPPER AND COTTON

(By Reginald Burton.)

New York, July 27.—Profit-taking, coupled with the fright that Wall Street received during the week by the deadlock on the Congressional Committee of Conference on the tariff bill, started a reactionary movement, led by Steel Common and followed by most of the leaders with losses of over two points. Prior to the break Union Pacific made a new high record by reaching 200; which is the price predicted by Mr. Harriman. The promised demonstration in Steel to welcome Mr. Morgan's home-coming will probably not take place now; at least there is little prospect that the Common will reach 75, the price predicted by his lieutenants. New York Central advanced to 135, and gossip has it that Union Pacific interests have been putting some of the proceeds of the sale of Southern Pacific bonds into the so-called Vanderbilt property and other portions of money into Baltimore, Ohio, to strengthen Union Pacific's position in these properties.

The money market continues strong. The recalled United States deposits had little effect on the banks; and it is not likely that there will be another loss by the banks to the Subtreasury until the end of August, when the balance of the $25,000,000 of the United States deposits, which were called in by the Comptroller of Currency will be due.

Steel Markets Strong.

Although July is a dull month in the buying line, orders for steel continue well above the average. The Steel corporations orders are running over 40,000 tons a day. The corporation is getting more business than the independents, proportionately; due to the fact that it is quoting certain classes of material $1 lower and its increased facilities for handling the products. Several of the independent companies are out of the market for certain classes of material particularly shapes and steel bars. This is due to an oversold condition. A strong feature of the situation is the disposition of consumers to purchase steel on a basis of present prices for delivery into the early part of next year. The Republic Iron and Steel Company awarded the contract for new tube mills to be erected at Haselton, Ohio. This is the company in which John W. Gates, the arch enemy of the Steel Corporation is interested; and this is consiered another aggressive step in considered another aggressive step in his fight on the steel combine.

Copper and Cotton.

The demand for copper has caused the leading selling agencies and producers to advance prices ¼ cent per pound. In some cases they are refusing to sell electrolytic for delivery in the last quarter of the year, below 13¼ cents. Sales were reported by one agency at 13¼ cents; although transactions are said to have been made ¼ cent lower.

The cotton market remains strong because of the influence of firm cables and further buying on the part of speculators. The completed weather map shows a low barometer working in from the Gulf over Southeastern Texas. The National Ginner's Association report shows the condition of the crop at 72 and under, which, it is said, is the lowest condition ever reported at this date. There is considerable selling by bull interests; but offerings are well absorbed and the undertone continues firm.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

"YANKEE" ROGERS' MANAGER IS CO-MANAGER OF COBALT HOTEL

W. B. Naylor, known to the sporting fraternity of Peterborough, as the manager of "Yankee" Rogers and Hassan Abdallah, the Sultan's Favourite, both of whom appeared here on the mat in wrestling bouts not so long ago, has gone into the hotel business in Cobalt, according to the Citizen. The northern paper refers to him as fololws:

Mr. William B. Naylor, the well-known official referee of the American Wrestling Association and who has officiated here at the wrestling and boxing matches which were pulled off under the auspices of the Cobalt Athletic Association, arrived in town yesterday accompanied by Mrs. Naylor.

Mr. Naylor is here to open the large new hotel on Argentite street, and will have Mr. Isaac Bucknall, of Haileybury, associated with him in the venture. The place will be conducted upon new and up-to-date lines and will have 45 nice rooms, dining room, lunch counter and bar. One of the features will be a number of fine bath rooms. Both Mr. Naylor and Mr. Bucknall understand the hotel business thoroughly, Mr. Bucknall only just having sold the Arlington Hotel, Paris, Ontario, three weeks ago, which place he bought from the proceeds of the sale of the Casey Cobalt mine to the English Company.

As far as the wrestling and boxing game is concerned, Mr. Naylor still intends to give it his attention and has only just turned down an offer to go to Seattle exhibition to referee the Gotch-Roller bout.

The Athlete Hotel, for that is the name intended, will open some time during the next two weeks.

First class accommodation for fifty guests is being provided of the best possible kind.

Meals a la carte will be the general run, although a table d'hote dining room will also be used.

Fine bath rooms equipped with hot and cold water for the use of the public will be installed and a thoroughly up-to-date hostelry is to be conducted.

DETROIT OUGHT TO MAINTAIN ITS LEAD IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit is getting a tighter and tighter grip on the American League pennant. The Tigers are now six and one-half full games ahead of the Athletics, seven and one-half games ahead of the Boston Red Sox and eight and one-half games ahead of the Clevelands, their most dangerous foes.

With such a commanding lead, the Jungleites should set the pace in the race to teh wire. From now until October 10th the teams in the American League will be pulling each other down in an effort to get to the top. But the Tigers are out in front going grandly, and are not in any immediate danger of being overhauled.

The Philadelphias and Bostons are clubs composed of too many green players to stand the punishment of a gruelling race. There are two many young, inexperienced players on these teams to withstand the rigors of a hurricane finish.

The Tigers have been through the mill twice before. Hughie Jennings' men are playing to steady and confident a game to yield the leadership to their younger rivals. Until Macks' and Lake's speedy boys have been through at least one more major league campaign they are liable to "blow up" at most inopportune times. They lack the experience and the brains of the seasoned veterans.

But the new blood is beginning to tell Manager Jennings of Detroit, is keeping up with the procession. He has shelved Captain Schaefer for "Red" Killifer, a youngster. He has also benched the veteran O'Leary for Moriarity.

Although Bush is a mere boy he is a tried and true campaigner. After he joined the Tigers last fall his sensational playing won a second flag for Detroit. Killifer was utility man last year. Catcher Stanage is the only Tiger who has not been through at least one major league campaign.

The Detroit pichers may trip up Jennings. "Wild Bill" Donovan has lost his effectiveness. Mullin is just recovering from a losing streak.

The younger twirlers on the staff are causing the Detroit leaders a great deal of worry. But the Tigers are such a hard hitting team that they will pull many a mediocre pitcher out of a hole.

As Lajoie's Naps are nearly 100 points behind the fast-flying Tigers, their chances of "copping" the bunting are not particularly bright. The Clevelands always have been poor finishers. In the race down the home stretch they have always failed to live up to the expectations of the home fans.

Sizing up the whole situation the Tigers are reasonably certain of winning the pennant a third straight time.

The White Sox and St. Louis Browns, two teams which are out of the running, will cause the Eastern clubs a lot of trouble. The veteran players on these clubs are long on baseball brains and will defeat Boston, Philadelphia and New York at least half of the scheduled games from now until the bugle blows its farewell in October.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH MET

In St. Paul's Church This Morning—Call From Omemee to Rev. D. Currie of Barrie.

The Presbytery of Peterborough met in St. Paul's Church this morning Rev. Jas. Skene, Moderator, presided. There were present besides the Moderator, the Rev. Messrs. McDonald, Johnston, MacLennan, Burns, Keith, Stirling, Pogue, Brown, McKenzie, Thomson, and Dr. Marsh.

Mr. Skene reported that he had met with the people of Mill Street Church, Port Hope. A majority decided to retain the services of Rev. W. H. Brokenshire, and a minority opposed this. After parties were heard pro and con, a committee, consisting of Rev. Messrs. Skene, McKenzie, Johnston, and Thomson, to meet with the congregation, considered the entire situation, and report to next meeting of Presbytery.

A unanimous call from Omemee and associated stations was presented by the Rev. R. Pogue, in favour of the Rev. Donald Currie, of Hilladale, in Barrie Presbytery. The call was signed by 146 members and 48 adherents, and accompanied by a guaranteed stipend of $1,000 and manse. The call was sustained, and the Clerk instructed to transmit it with relative documents to the Clerk of Barrie Presbytery.

Provisional arrangements were made for the induction of Mr. Currie at Omemee. Rev. Mr. Skene, moderator to preside, Rev. R. Pogue to preach and narrate the steps towards the call; Rev. Mr. Keith will address the minister, and Rev. Mr. Johnston, the people. Rev. Mr. Pogue and Mr Lamb were appointed to support the call before the Presbytery of Barrie.

The records of Springville, Pontypool, Janetville, and Ballyduff were examined and attested as having been neatly and correctly kept.

Dr. Marsh brought before the Presbytery the need of rearringing certain fields of the Presbytery. After full discussion Rev. Messrs. Pogue, McDonald, and Burns were appointed a permanent committee for the rearrangement of the fields mentioned. The nomination of a professor for Halifax College, and the consideration of the Synod meeting at an earlier or later date were deferred to next meeting.

DARK CHAPTER IN HARRY K. THAW'S HISTORY

Miss Susan Merrill Says He Brought 200 Girls to Her House — Caught Him Several Times Whipping Them on Bare Flesh—Said He Was Hiring Girls for Theatre —Were Not Smart Enough.

White Plains, N.Y., July 28.—Harry K. Thaw sat in the Supreme Court here yesterday and heard a woman's testimony that made his pallid face flush. He saw a pearl-handled dog whip exhibited, and he heard the witness swear that she had seen him wield it on the bare flesh of young girls.

The prisoner's wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, was in court and heard most of the testimony which was of such a nature that Justice Mills preceded his presentation with the warning that "no woman should stay in the court room unless she be willing to hear everything."

The witness was Miss Susan Merrill, a buxom, pink-cheeked woman of about 35 years, and she opened a new chapter in the life of Stanford White's slayer. Her testimony was in marked contrast to that of two alienists who went on the stand and gave Thaw a clean bill of health, declaring that in their opinion he was sane. Summarized, her testimony was that during the three years named, she kept in succession two New York lodging-houses when Thaw rented rooms under assumed names and to which he brought at various times, more than 200 girls. After Thaw's imprisonment, she said she paid these women at least $25,000 as the price of their silence and to "keep them from bothering Thaw's wife or his mother." One of them, who, she said, passed as Thaw's wife, received $7,000. The money came from Thaw.

After the telling of Thaw's engaging the rooms, the mysterious package which was brought to court yesterday by Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's former counsel, was unwrapped and a pearl-handled whip about three feet long was flashed into view. With this before the eyes of the court and spectators, the woman related a series of stories about finding Thaw on several occasions lashing the girls upon their bare arms and bodies. Thaw, she said, had posed as a theatrical agent and had lured the girls to his rooms with promises of engagements. When she remonstrated with him, she testified, his excuse was that the girls "weren't smart enough and could not fill their positions and deserved a beating." She testified further that Thaw had frequently behaved in a violent manner in her presence and that she thought his acts irrational.

District Attorney Wm. Travers Jerome had full charge of the case for the state yesterday and it was he who brought out the damaging testimony against Harry Thaw.

Under cross-examination by Chas. Morschauser, counsel for Thaw, the witness was attacked fiercely. He succeeded in bringing out the fact that she had been recently arrested on a charge of perjury after an unsuccessful attempt to recover $10,000 damages from a man.

Aside from the Merrill woman's testimony the alienists took up the remainder of the proceedings and testified in Thaw's behalf. Dr. Britton D. Evans, who made a report two years ago declaring Thaw insane, said today that he had reversed his opinion, explaining that the report made two years ago was for the private guidance of Thaw's attorneys and had contained only such medical evidence as would tend to support the contentions that Thaw was insane at the time. In other words, he admitted that the report was prepared to bolster Thaw's side of the case when he was seeking to avoid the electric chair.

Harry Thaw may take the stand today.

Child With Matches Burn tTo Death

Mother Left Her Three Year Old Daughter at Home While She Went Shopping.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Cannington, Ont., July 28.—While Mrs. Chas. Hill was out shopping yesterday afternoon her three-year-old daughter, Pearl, got hold of some matches and set fire to her clothing. The neighbours, hearing the child's screams, went to her assistance, but before the fire could be put out the child was badly burned, and died early this morning.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP RESIDENCE OF MINE MANAGER AT GLACE BAY

Glace Bay, July 28.—Shortly after midnight a dastardly attempt was made to blow up the residence of Manager Simpson of the Reserve Mine, about two miles from town. Mr. Simpson and his family were asleep at the time, but escaped uninjured.

The house is a two-storey building with a verandah running across the front and along the eastern side. A quantity of dynamite or other high explosive had been placed on the floor of the verandah opposite the front entrance and exploded with a fuse. All the windows in the front and eastern side both above and below were shattered, the front wall of the house was shaken and parts of the wall inbline inwards and the frame work is so twisted that the door cannot be opened. One of the corner posts on the verandah was blown over thirty feet. One of the upper windows of the house on the next lot, some thirty feet distant, was blown in. The explosion was heard a distance of four miles.

The act was carried out with considerable deliberation. On the opposite side of the street is a large hayfield extending down to the tram lines, beyond which is bush, scrub and wilderness. The pickets were removed from the fence to give a clear run for the man who touched the fuse. By the hole in the fence the grass was beaten as if some persons had lain there some time waiting a favorable opportunity.

It seems peculiar that Mr. Simpson should have been singled out as the object of this outrage as he is a very quiet man and has ever been on good terms with the men and not made himself an object of malice to the strikers.

The general impression is that intimidation not retaliation was the motive of the perpetrators. No clue has yet been found and no arrest made.

More Men at Work.

Halifax, N.S., July 28.—It was just four weeks ago yesterday since the U.M.W. employes of the Dominion Coal Co. were called out demanding recognition. To-day shows a slight improvement for the company.

At No. 3 yesterday 1,600 tons of coal came up and three hundred men were below, a large increase in that mine.

Another steam shovel is to be instituted at the big bank at No. 3, which will largely increase the total shipments. Double shifts will probably be put on at this bank, where there is yet probably over 1,000,000 tons of coal.

Otherwise the strike is still tight, the men are very firm and there are very few disentions from the ranks which are probably balanced by accessions to the U. M. W. There is no talk of yielding of either party, and it looks as yet like a fight to a finish.

Queen Rosie Wept Bitterly Upon The Decision Of Court

Lost First Case—Hearing Extended All Day—Gypsies Toured Ottawa in an Auto After the Trial —Four Charges Yet to be Heard

THE JUDGE'S EXPLANATION

The charge of robbery of $200 from the Ottawa camp, or Bulgarian gypsies, against the Mexican or Hull camp of gypsies, was dismissed by Magistrate O'Keefe in the police court yesterday afternoon, the trial lasting from 10 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. without rising for lunch.

Magistrate O'Keefe in pronouncing sentence said that he could not convict the gypsies on the evidence given, as the Ottawa gypsies swore positively that the Hull gypsies robbed them at 12:30 in the morning and the Hull gypsies brought evidence to show that they had just arrived in their camp a few minutes before that time, and could not get over to Ottawa in less than an hour.

Then too, after the alleged robbery the Ottawa camp did not give the alarm until the morning and did not attempt to follow their assailants. This struck Magistrate O'Keefe as suspicious.

The scene in court after the magistrate made known his decision was an amusing one. One one side of the dock, the Hull camp, almost every member being present were talking loudly and joyously, all in a group and chattering until the court room sounded like a pigeon house.

On the other side were the followers of the Ottawa camp, with Queen Rosie in the middle crying as if her heart would break. Every now and then she looked over at her cousins, the Mexicans, and her eyes shone with fire. Evidently she was aching to tell them what she thought of them.

Were in Lawyer's Office

The magistrate's stand was based on the evidence of Mr. Louis Cousineau, barrister of Hull, who said that all of the accused were at his office at 20 minutes to 12 on the night that the offence was supposed to have taken place, and on Mr. N. Gauthier's of the Imperial Hotel, who said that shortly after that the gypsies left his hotel to go to their camp. They travelled in an automobile belonging to M. Charbonneau and in a cab. Mr. Charbonneau's driver said that it would be close on 12:30 before they reached the camp of the Mexicans.

The accused men, Peter Sterio, Peter Mitchell, Speedo John, Peter John, and Stephen George, went into the box in turn and swore they never left the camp that night after being left there by the cab and automobile. They were most emphatic in their expostulation.

Had Money Enough

Crown Attorney Ritchie said that he thought that the Hull band went to Ottawa alright but not with the intention of robbing as they were already rich, their wealth being beyond $30,000. When they got to the camp, Mr. Ritchie thought, they drew the revolver and tried to frighten the Ottawa band and that was how they got the $200.

It was shown that the Ottawa, or Bulgarian camp were industrious, and had received from the Russell House, $92, and from the Windsor $42 for copper ware that they had sold them. They have on hand a contrast for the House of Commons.

'Phoned for Auto

After the trial the Hull band telephoned to Hull for an automobile and waited on the police court steps until it came. In the meantime a number of the pretty female gypsies did their best to shake hands with the policemen. When the automobile arrived the whole bunch, men, women and children tumbled in and set out on a triumphant tour of the city.

This case was the first of the series of charges in which the gypsies are mixed up, to be completed. A strange coincidence is that nearly all the plaintiffs in the Hull Courts were defendants in the Ottawa Courts. There still remain four charges in the Hull Courts, one of assault against John Stokes, one a charge laid by the wife of Peter Sterio, against John Stokes, one of kidnapping against John and Eli Stokes, and one of trespassing against 12 gypsies of Hull.—Ottawa Free Press.

This letter gives some idea of the confidence placed in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine by people who know by experience of its exceptional merit. Mrs. E. D. ### AN ARMY DEMANDED.

Nothing more strikingly demonstrates the great development of the Canadian West than the annually increasing demand of hands to take care of the increasing acreage of harvest. A few years ago a comparative handful of grain hands going in on a sort of holiday excursion to the West satisfied the demand. This year there is a call for fifty thousand harvesters, the numerical equivalent of a formidable army. This fact shows at once the wonderful development that is going forward and the opportunities that are offered enterprising young men to secure employment, whose remuneration derives or should derive its chief importance, from being considered as means and opportunity of the farm hands themselves becoming settlers, prosperous owners of farms and employers of farm hands. The growth of the West gives an importance to the trade activity, and prosperity of the east, so that in this sense the terms west and east are compounded, and, in effect, indistinguishable. If the harvest of the west, which is estimated at 125,000,000, or 140 millions, only affords eighty million bushels, for export marketing, this at $1.25 a bushel, will mean new wealth to the extent of $100,000,000. A few such crops will pay at this rate for half a dozen transcontinental railways without which such crops and such figures would be impossible.

READY-MADE SAILORS

In the report of the proceedings of the Royal National Mission to Deep Sea (Labrador) fishermen, held in London, England, one of the speakers referred to a subject which has heretofore been mentioned in these columns. He said:

The fishermen themselves, I may remind you, have been happily rather prominently before the public during the last few weeks. They are apt to be overlooked entirely by the ordinary man-in-the-street, but when there happens to be a suggestion of national danger, then somehow our eyes turn instinctively towords them, because these brave hardy sea-dogs really form the backbone of our Naval Reserve—(applause)—and you may have noticed also, during the clamour that has been raised, that the Admiralty have readily turned, not only to the men, but to their boats, and have been buying up four or five steam trawlers to be used as an adjunct to the Navy—and so the public have been thinking a little more about these fishermen, and we are rejoiced at that. It is all to the good.

It is thus seen that when Canada comes to put into practice the resolution of Parliament at its last session to maintain a naval establishment in co-operation with the Mother Country we shall have material ready-made as to sea-faring qualities and hardiness, to man our units of the coming navy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The electricians employed by the Manitoba Government Telephone System have decided to invoke the Lemieux Act to settle the difference between themselves and the Government.

A commission is struggling with the revision of the Ontario statutes, endeavouring to simplify and shorten them. If the mass of crude enactments were deprived of a great deal of their meaningless verbiage, the majority of the volumes might be reduced to the size of a patent medicine almanac.

Government by Commission is beginning to show good results in the administration of the Intercolonial railway. The mouldering branches are being lopped off and business principles being applied to the management of the line. Hon. G. P. Graham seems to be alive to his responsibility as Minister of Railways and Canals.

"Bystander"—Mr. Goldwin Smith—says; Our Provincial Premier (Sir James Whitney) denies that the Cobalt Act was confiscation. The Dominion Minister of Justice says positively that it is. The Provincial Premier says that he did not close the door of justice. A Provincial judge says that he did. This is surely, to say the least, a case not for bravado, but for explanation.

Guelph is agitating for the removal of unsightly electric poles on streets to be paved and wires being placed underground. Perhaps a good way to secure the disappearance of the pole evil from city streets is the gradual way of interring them by degrees. It would be barbarous to bury a live man, but it is the removal of barbarism to bury live wires.

From the latest returns made to the Minister of Finance, it is learned that the total authorized capital of the chartered banks of Canada amounts to $141,488,866, the subscribed capital to $98,269,431 and the paid-up capital to $97,436,434. The demand deposits total $226,480,496, notice deposits amount to $466,176,476, a total of deposits in Canada of $691,656,944. Deposits outside of Canada total $69,249,994.

The present war scare must remind readers of history and fiction, say "Peveril of the Peak" of the Titus Oates plot in English history. For political purposes the "plant" was invented and fostered and largely for political purposes the war scare was exploited. There may have been some foundation for the conditions in both cases, and even these false alarms had their good results in setting people thinking.

In early times, says Goldwin Smith, in the Weekly Sun, those who made the wars had to go to war. Now the sensational and bellicose journalist who helps largely to bring on war, or the intriguing politician who gives the word for it, has not to go to war; he sends the hired soldier to the shambles and dips his own hand into the national pocket. Nor does he see the relics of the battlefield or the contents of the field-hospital.

Much, probably too much, tobacco is consumed in Canada. But we are moderate tobacco users as compared with our neighbours across the line. The consumption in this country is 2.9 pounds per head annually, exactly the same quantity as consumed in Austria-Hungary. In France the consumption is 2.2 pounds; in Italy, 1.1 pounds. But in the United States it is no less than six pounds. That is an average consumption of 17 pounds for every male person in the country over 16 years of age.

INFLUENCES BEHIND GOOD ROADS CLAMOUR

(Weekly Sun.)

So much has been said in Toronto papers during the past week on the question of good roads that it would almost seem as if an organized campaign had been begun on behalf of this cause.

What is the occasion of so much discussion of the question just at the present moment? No good roads convention has been recently held; rural municipal councils have not been giving special attention to the question of late; there has been no unusual debate on the subject along the concession lines for some time past. Why then all this agitation in the city? The explanation seems to be that the automobile season is at present at its height and that auto owners have been urging on city papers to press for an extension ofo the list of highways over which motor parties may speed at pleasure.

It is these same auto drivers who have been most active of late in agitating for goodo roads, who are the principal cause of the slow progress being made in connection with that movement. Farmers have discovered that just as soon as a leading highway is put in first-class condition it is practically monopolized by owners of fast-running machines. The roads are made unsafe for farmers' wives and daughters; the clouds of dust raised in dry weather ruin lawns and make it impossible to leave windows fronting on the roadway open; and in a wet time, such as prevailed last week, one heavy car will do more damage to a road in one day than all the automobile license fees paid into the public treasury in a year will make good.

There is certainly room for road improvement in Ontario, but there will be little progress in this direction until auto owners are prevented from using the roads at all on certain days and until they are subjected to greater restraints at all times than are imposed now.

The Sun may be partially right in attributing the agitation for good roads to the automobile interests. The Examiner has taken every opportunity, this side of boredom, to impress the importance of good roads, not in the interests of the automobilists, but in the interest of the farmers and the general public. Good roads are good in themselves, and the farming community are standing in their own light if they refrain from making good highways because somebody else will get the advantage of the good work. Good roads are in the interests of the farming community in every way. The automobile is something of a new toy but it has evidently come to stay. Some—too many—of those useing them don't deserve any consideration. These persons give no consideration to the rights, convenience, or even safety of others, and they are they who, should be severely disciplined. We must have good roads in spite of the obstacles tha are presented. They are necessary to the highest development of the farming interests and through them of urban commercial interests and conveniences.

Starvation Treatment a Failure

The Sensible Cure for Indigestion is "Little Digesters".

Probably because the taking of food causes such intense discomfort, many dyspeptics think that by abstaining from this and that—practically starving themselves—they can cure the trouble.

Of course, where Indigestion is caused by sheer gluttony, cutting down the food would no doubt do good. But in most cases Indigestion is caused, not by overeating, but by lack of physical exercise, and consequent lack of vigor in the organs of digestion. Partial starvation still further impairs the bodily vigor, and makes the trouble worse.

The dispeptic needs plenty of good, wholesome food. He can eat it, and DIGEST IT, TOO, if he takes a "Little Digester" after each meal. "Little Digesters" help the weakened stomach to do properly that which it cannot do alone—digest and assimilate the food needed to build up the system.

BRITISH COMPLACENCY.

(Ottawa Journal.)

A despatch from London informs us that A. F. Horseley, printer of the Indian Sociologist, and recently arrested on the charge of publishing a seditious newspaper, the avowed object of which was to support the Indian Nationalist movement for the liberation of India, by force, from alien rule, pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to four months imprisonment. It is not difficult to suppose that the sentence properly might have been heavier. The paper is owned and edited by Mr. Krishnavarma, an Indian incendiary, who, after a long period of tolerance in London, has taken refuge in Paris.

The British handling of the Indian problem is characterized by what the New York Times describes as the traditional complacency of the Briton. The Times must have a little joke upon us every once in a while, but its appreciation of British ideals is sane and kindly as a rule. It remarks that this complacency has been singularly illustrated by the events preceding and following the murder of Sir Hugh Curzon Wyllie by an Indian student, Dhinagris, in London. It predicted some days ago that after a strictly legal trial, in which the prisoner's defence that "political assassination is not murder," would be respectfully heard, considered, and rejected, Dhinagri would be convicted and hanged. All of this but the hanging has happened, and the hanging will happen in due course.

But as the Times remarks, there are other Dhinagris believing as he does and ready to do as he did—to carry out the propaganda of Indian Nationaliam by the "removal" of Anglo-Indian officials. The murder did not take the London authorities by surprise. They must have been aware of the fact that for months all London might have read articles printed in The Indian Sociologist, edited at India House, Highgate, by Krishnavarma, and printed by Horseley Bros., of 646 Romford Road, declaring that the assassination of British officials in India was justifiable, and urging all Indian patriots to take a hand in it. The London Press also published communications on similar themes from the same pen, but usually, it must be admitted with wholesome and moral editorial condemnation. But the communications continued to appear and the circulation of The Indian Sociologist continued to increase. Mr. Krishnavarma found that his treason—or patriotism—was profitable. He was taken, as the New York Times says, seriously, respectfully and without resentent.

Krishnavarma was a power in a secret society known as the Destroyers, armed to put his principles in practice. Its minutes were published in the London newspapers. There was no attempt to stamp the society out. No one seemed to imagine that there was anything but talk in the matter. The editorial advice was that the members of the society should remember the beneficence of British rule in India and look to immediate and righteous reforms in the government of India. Then of a sudden Dhingari took the Indian maddener "bhang" and killed Sir Curzon Wyllie and an Indian doctor. The cooler-headed Indian residents of London ran together and forwarded resolutions of protest. Mr. Krishnavarma, on the other hand, by then sitting tight in Paris, said that he saw no crime in the endeavour of Indians to throw off the foreign yoke.

But the hanging of the murderer will be about all for the present. The New York Times says that, viewed in the light of similar so-called political tragedies in other countries, the whole situation seems most amazing, and that complacency is a unique way of dealing with widespread treason. Perhaps the complacency is more apparent than real. But in any event, this is Britain's way, and Britain has won in it oftener than she has lost.

SIXTY YOUNG WOMEN DECIDED TO GIVE THEMSELVES TO SOME DEFINITE MISSIONARY WORK

A Wave of Missionary Enthusiasm Sweeping Over the Dominion—Fourth Annual Summer School at Whitby Most Successful.

PETERBORO' REPRESENTED

At the Fourth Annual Canadian Summer School or conference held in Whitby during the early part of this month there were five young ladies representing Peterborough. They were Miss R. Langford and Miss N. Lee, of St. Andrew's; Miss Kathleen Martin, of Murray St. Baptist, and Miss Lottie Chiles and Miss Ella Warren, of Knox Church. A reference to the conference is contained in the following:

There is certainly a wave of missionary enthusiasm sweeping over Canada. This is shown in the splendid interest taken by the mature men of the churches in the policy and plans of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, adopted at the recent Missionary Congress held in Toronto.

One of the active agencies helping to make possible the realization of the ideal, "The Evangelization of the world in this generation," is the Young People's Missionary Movement of the United States and Canada, with its propaganda in the interest of missionary education.

In addition to providing Mission Text-books and other facilities for use in educating Sunday School scholars and young people regarding the missionary enterprise, the movement conducts Summer Schools and Institutes for the purpose of training leaders to promote this work.

The Fourth Annual Canadian Summer School or Conference was held at Whitby, Ont., July 2nd to 9th, 1909, and was more largely attended and more successful than any that have preceded it. The registered attendance this year was 253, including leaders, speakers, missionaries on furlough, and other delegates. There were eight different denominations represented in this delegation, and the closest possible fellowship in thought and effort prevailed.

The movement under whose auspices the conference was held is distinctly interdenominational as well as international, and seeks to serve the interests of each and all of the denominations in its work. Accommodation was provided for the conference in the splendidly adapted buildings and grounds of the Ontario Ladies' College.

Every day was a busy one from the time of the rising-bell at 6:30 in the morning, till 10 o'clock at night. The forenoon of each day was given up to hard work, the afternoons being religiously reserved for recreation, while the evenings were taken up with twilight talks on the problem of Life Work, out on the lawn and platform meetings in the Assembly Hall. During the first hour of each day the conference was engaged in devotional Bible Study under the direction of one of the leaders. Eight Mission Study classes were conducted each morning, six different courses of study being presented. Practical methods of carrying on missionary work in connection with the Sunday School and Young People's Organizations were discussed in the hours devoted to open conferences. At the Platform Meeting each forenoon messages were received from those engaged in Home and Foreign Mission work, while at the evening meetings a series of popular lectures was given on the leading Non-Christian Religions of the World.

This week of work served not only to be the opportunity for training to a large number of young leaders in missionary work at home, but it helped to prepare a splendid force of young lives for personal service abroad. At the closing meeting, 60 of those who were present rose in response to the question as to how many had decided to give themselves to definite missionary service, and 20 of these declared that they had been helped to reach that decision at the conference. Fourteen missionaries at home on furlough were a source of inspiration to the gathering, as were also seven young men and women who are under appointment to sail for the Foreign Mission Field this fall.

Rev. W. J. Creighton Of Lakefield Resigns From St. John's Church

Special to The Examiner.

Lakefield, July 27th—Rev. W. J. Creighton, who has been rector of St. John's Baptist Church for the past two and a half years, has resigned his charge and leaves at the end of this month to act as assistant to Rev. W. J. Hart, rector of St. Mary's church, Dovercourt, Toronto. During his incumbency Mr. Creighton has been very popular amongst his parishioners and members of the other denominations in the village, and there will be general regret at his departure from Lakefield to take up his new work.

After service on Sunday evening the members of the choir adjourned to the vestry and presented Mr. Creighton a silk umbrella and the following address:

Dear Mr. Creighton,—On this the last occasion on which we shall have the pleasure of meeting you as our pastor, we feel that we cannot allow it to pass without evincing in a tangible form, slight though it be, our appreciation of the work which you have accomplished and of the kindly words and actions which have rendered your presence so generally acceptable during your short stay in Lakefield.

Rest assured that in accepting this small token of our regard you take also with it our best wishes for a prosperous and happy future. We shall remember you always with affection as a kind counsellor and faithful friend.

Signed on behalf of the choir.

K. S. ATWOOD.
